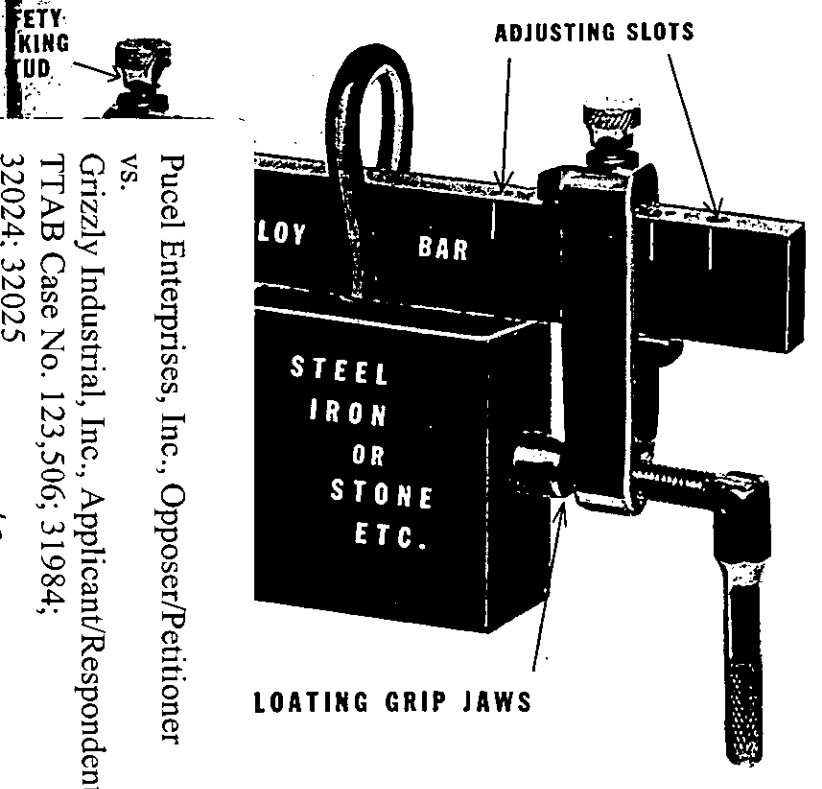
Ponser Grizzly LIFTERS

*T. M. *T. M.

With The

XCLUSIVE · POSITIVE · BULLDOG GRIP

Shock and Vibration Proof



Pucel Enterprises, Inc., Opposer/Petitioner vs.
Grizzly Industrial, Inc., Applicant/Respondent
TTAB Case No. 123,506; 31984;
32024; 32025
PUCEL'S Exhibit No. 40

OPERATION

- Adjust and Tighten to any piece of Steel, Iron, Stone or other material suitable for handling. Then Lift, Move and Lower to desired position.
- No Chains, Slings, Ropes or Pinch Bars necessary.
- Operated from any Lifting Device—Derricks, Hoists, Fork Trucks, etc.
- Capacity up to 4000 lbs. Spans from One to Sixty Inches.
- Saves time and money—Speeds Production.
- Developed by practical mechanics for practical use in Industrial Plants.
- Laboratory Tested.
- No case of failure or slipping has been recorded in many years of use by any plants.

CL 5-24-06

Why this lifter has a positive "Bulldog Grip" action

7000080

The Bar is heat-treated Alloy Steel and when the lifting action is applied at the center, it deflects in proportion to the load, clamping the Grip Jaws to the material. With this action, the jaws have been tightened firmly so that double safety is assured. Repeated pounding by sledge hammers or subjection to vibration only tends to tighten the grip. Laboratory tests show that THREE TIMES the RATED LOAD can be applied without slipping or failure.

sufficient and eliminate this level.

—ANSI X12 identification number The vendor should have a unique X12 number which spokes must know in order to send and receive transmissions.

—Vendor database identifier The vendor should have some system—in the case of Control Data, it is our database—that specifies what transactions are to be sent and received between trading partners. If another company tries to send a transaction that has not been agreed to by the trading partners, the VAN should reject it. This keeps unwanted documents from being transmitted, provides security and reduces costs.

—Vendor internal security Every vendor's processing center should have its own internal security system to insure the integrity of customer data.

Implementing EDI on a large scale can be accomplished efficiently if planning and cooperation exist between the hub company and its vendor. Certainly, vendor participation is critical to the process, and hub companies should choose a vendor that will work with them on a continuing basis.

EDI programs are constantly evolving. With the right vendor, even the largest implementation can go smoothly, and the program will continue to offer time, productivity and cost advantages to the hub company and its trading partners. ▼ line inside and out—they know where their products are being used and they know what works well and what doesn't. Take something as simple as actuators—for example, the actuators we use to pull a squeegee up off the floor, or to open and close the hopper door, or to move our side brush in or out. There are more actuator combinations and applications than you can imagine. The people that we get them from really know that stuff and they really know our particular applications.

We are also not afraid to take a machine and send it out to a supplier location. In our first book, Quest For Quality, we told the story of how we wanted to get better performance on the hydraulic hoses and fittings we were using—we use a lot of them. We still would have leaks occasionally, and there's nothing worse than being on a gymnasium floor or out on a airport concourse or a shopping mall somewhere, and the machine is making the floor look slick as the dickens, only we're trailing a line of hydraulic fluid. It looks pretty bad.

Now we're not experts in hydraulic hoses and fittings—we're pretty good at it, but we're not going to be as good at it as the people who manufacture them. What we've done is taken machines and sent them out to suppliers of hoses and fittings to literally re-plumb the machine. Of course, they can usually eliminate a number of parts and they can devise different routings, which lowers the chance for leaks. We give them some of the performance characteristics and rather than us trying to figure out all the details of what will work best for our application at our own facility, sometimes it's better to just let these folks work through it at their place.

Plastics is another good example. We don't make plastics internally, and there are a lot of neat things happening in the plastics world today like rotationally-molded parts and vacuum-formed parts. We now use plastic tanks on our machines. Number one, they don't rust when you put the detergent and water in them. Number two, you can use rotational molding to make a one-piece part that serves as both the tank on the inside and the finish on the outside of the machine. That part is much lighter than steel, which means less horsepower from the motor—or a smaller battery—so the customer gets more value out of the product.

We need help on that. We'll work hand-in-hand with the supplier. Not only with the people that do the rotational molding, but also with the people that do the tooling. We have a couple of people that are currently working at one of our rotational molding supplier's plants. They're helping them understand our products, and helping them understand how they can test what they're making. That way, they're doing the same testing that we would do and not waiting for us to do it and possibly give the part back to them. We provide that kind of training, really getting involved in their manufacturing processes.

The final step that you listed was working together to solve problems. You then go beyond that and say that the ultimate goal is to have the processes in place to actually prevent problems. How do you get to that point?

That's an area that we're getting better at. We're not interested in designing a product and doing all this other stuff with the supplier, and then not getting involved in their processes—just hoping that they get the product right. We are

In re: GRIZZLY; Docket 6494

Dear Mr. Le Stourgeon:

We represent Pucel Enterprises, Inc. of 1440 East 36 Street, Cleveland, Ohio 44114 which is the owner of the trademark GRIZZLY and a number of trademark registrations thereon. We enclose five such registrations specifically nos. 704,589; 704,588; 704,631; 704,529; and 704,530.

It has come to our attention through your telephone conversations with Mr. Anthony Mlakar that your company is using the name GRIZZLY as a trade name as well as a trademark and service mark in your business relating to material handling equipment.

In our opinion this is clearly an infringement of our client's trademark rights and and on behalf of our client, we must demand that you cease further infringement.

Our client has advised us that their purpose in advising you of your infringement and demanding that you cease and desist is merely to protect their valuable rights in their trademark and is not to cause you serious inconvenience. Our client therefore offers to permit you a reasonable period of time to use up your existing materials that carry the trademark GRIZZLY and to otherwise cease using the mark. In our request that your company cease further infringement it is our intention that your company refrain from the use of the word GRIZZLY as well as any representations of the animal that is described by this word.

Our client invites you to let us know, assuming you are agreeable to the above proposal, what period of time you would need in order to comply with our suggestion for amicably settling this matter. We look forward to your prompt reply.

RE: Pucel Enterprises

Dear Mr. Rust:

I am responding to your letter dated December 18, 1985 concerning the trademark of Pucel Enterprises.

Please be advised that I am making all of the necessary arrangements for the changing of our name.

I anticipate that we will have this project completed within 60 days of this letter; with all advertisement ending by January 1987. This lengthy period of time is due to ads that were already in production.

Please be advised that I will try my best to have all details completed in the stated time frame.

Sincerely,

Kevin C. Le Stourgeon

In re: Grizzly; Docket 6494

Dear Mr. Le Stourgeon:

As you know from our previous correspondence, we represent Pucel Enterprises, Inc. of Cleveland, Ohio. To remind you of our previous correspondence, we enclose a copy of our letter to you dated December 18, 1985 and a copy of your letter to us dated January 23, 1986.

The reason for writing you is because our client has received an undated letter from Bear Industrial Equipment along with a financial statement dated January 1, 1987 with the identification Bear Industrial Equipment, a division of Grizzly Industries (copies enclosed). The address on the so-called financial statement is the same address to which we directed our letter of December 18, 1985.

Assuming that you are associated with and that Grizzly Industries is in privity with Grizzly Material Handling Company, it would seem clear that you have not undertaken to fulfill the arrangements set forth in your letter of January 23, 1986 to delete all reference to the name GRIZZLY and to cease using any representations of the animal that is described by this word.

We would appreciate your immediate response to our letter because our client is very concerned about protecting its rights in its registered trademarks which were enumerated in our December 18, 1985 letter.

Very truly yours,

WOODLING, KROST AND RUST

Dear Mr. Rust,

In reference to your letter (attached) of March 23, 1987. Please accept our apologies for the confusion. We purchased the business around the first of the year and changed the name to Bear Industrial Equipment.

There were thousands of sheets of old letterhead left from the old business which we decided to use as scrap paper. However it seems some was used by mistake when copying our financial statements. Please note that our letterhead used in the introduction letter had only our new name and our new address. In fact we have changed our name again as where we live the county is spelled "Bexar" and pronounced as "bear" which has caused some confusion. Our new name is Baker Distributing.

I am sorry that this has caused your client worry. Please assure him that it was not meant to happen. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Ken E. Baker

Re: Pucel Enterprises, Inc. - Grizzly Trademark and Trade Name

Gentlemen:

We are writing on behalf of Pucel Enterprises, Inc. ("Pucel") which, since 1956, has had a federally registered trademark for the use of "Grizzly®" with respect to shop and material handling equipment. We are further advised that you have, for a number of years, been a distributor of equipment manufactured by Pucel under the Grizzly® trademark and are, therefore, well aware of Pucel's interest in the Grizzly® mark.

It has been brought to our attention that you recently attempted through your agent, Meldrum & Fewsmith Communications, to secure yellow page listings for Robert M. Slife & Associates for the distribution of material handling equipment in conjunction with the Grizzly® trademark, which nearly caused Pucel to lose its own yellow page advertisement with the Grizzly® trademark. Please be advised that Pucel takes very seriously any violation of its ownership rights in the Grizzly® mark and demands that you immediately cease and desist from any further use of the Grizzly® mark, except in the case of the sale of Pucel-manufactured products.

Should Pucel determine that you have and are continuing to violate its rights in the Grizzly® mark, it will take such immediate action as may be necessary to restrain further violations, to recover damages, and to secure any other relief to which it may be entitled.

Very truly yours,

Z000034

Re: Pucel Enterprises, Inc. - GRIZZLY® Trademark and Trade Name

Dear Dan:

I have been advised that another conflict has arisen involving Pucel Enterprises, Inc. in connection with its effort to insert a "Grizzly Equipment" ad in the Industrial Equipment & Supplies section of the Northeast Ohio "Business-to-Business" yellow pages for the 1999-2000 edition which will be available in May 1999.

When Pucel Enterprises submitted its proposed ad, it was advised that Pucel Enterprises was again preempted from listing its own registered trademark by an ad ordered on your behalf through the Wolf Group.

Enclosed is a copy of Page 326 of the current book with Material Handling Equipment listings which shows the form of "Grizzly Equipment" listing which Pucel Enterprises proposes to use in both the Industrial Equipment & Supplies and Material Handling Equipment sections. Pucel Enterprises would welcome your being included as a distributor under these ads.

Also enclosed is a copy of Page 248 of the current book on which your company is listed as a dealer under the "Grizzly Metal Equipment" designation. Apparently, the Wolf Group has ordered a renewal of this ad which is precluding Pucel Enterprises from inserting its proposed listing.

ULMER & BERNE LLP

We would appreciate your immediately communicating with Brian Thomas at the Wolf Group with instructions to delete your proposed Grizzly listing so that the Pucel Enterprises ad can be included in its stead. We would also suggest that you or Mr. Thomas communicate with Tony Mlakar, President of Pucel Enterprises, to coordinate the inclusion of your listing as a distributor as part of Pucel Enterprises Grizzly listings.

We also request that you clarify this matter with your national media firm in order to assure that this conflict will not arise again in the future.

Looking forward to your cooperation in this matter, I am

Sincerely,

Harold E. Friedman

We deliver more SERVICE.

What does "more service" mean for you?

Great in-stock selection. There's product in stock, and then there's product selection in stock. We pride ourselves on offering a depth and breadth of product that you won't find anywhere else. So you know you'll get exactly what you want, when you want it.

Delivery anywhere in the U.S., three days or less. Our five strategically located distribution centers give us the ability to ship any order anywhere in the U.S. in three days or less without additional fees. Need it faster? Just ask about our free priority service.

Guaranteed delivery date. Our service doesn't end after your order leaves the warehouse. Place an order, and we'll quote you the specific day it's going to land on your receiving dock. Not the date of shipping or an estimated delivery date. And if for any reason we miss the quoted date, we pay your freight charges.

Custom orders. The product you order should fit your application — not the other way around. We offer complete custom order assistance. Whether it's our product manager coordinating with a manufacturer or our internal technical design team generating the schematics, we're ready to help you find a solution.

YOUR C&H SERVICE EXPERTS

"We have a goal of getting product anywhere in the continental U.S. in three days or less, standard delivery. So we've set up distribution centers in strategic locations that let us reach most of our customers in as little as one to two days. We also created an internal processing system that lets us get any order placed before 6 p.m. Central Standard Time out the same day.

"We've even partnered with 8–10 freight carriers who've not only stepped up their service, but given us deep discounts that we pass on to customers.

"The end benefit for our customers is they don't pay a premium to get quality products delivered fast."
