BRIEF ON APPEAL

Introduction

This Appeal is from the final refusal mailed February 18, 2009. A notice of appeal was filed on August 14, 2009.

Description of the Record

The application is a section 1(b) application seeking registration of the mark EPIC for personal headlamps. The mark is in standard characters.

Registration was refused on July 17, 2008 under section 2(d), on the ground that the mark "so resembles" the mark in Registration 3107315 "that it is likely that a potential customer would be confused or mistaken or deceived as to the source of the goods and/or services of the applicant and registrant."

Registration 3107315, owned by Burton Medical Products, is for the mark EPIC, for "electric lighting fixtures." A copy of the Examining attorney's print of the data on the cited registration is attached as Exhibit 1. ¹

¹Although all of the exhibits are of record, a complete set of Exhibits, numbered 1-10, is included to avoid confusion that might result from the use of the exhibits in the file, which have duplicated exhibit letters.

The Examining Attorney, noting that the marks are identical, held that the goods, "personal headlamps" and "electric lighting fixtures" are related (Exhibit 2, page 2), asserting that their primary purpose is "to emit and to provide light," and that the term "fixtures" is broad enough to encompass the applicant's goods. In support of the latter assertion, the Examining attorney cited a definition from dictionary.com, in which "lighting fixture" is defined as "a fixture providing artificial light". (See Exhibit 3, page 1). In addition, the Examining Attorney cited a number of registrations listing "headlamps" and "lighting fixtures," (Exhibit 4), and a number of web pages that were asserted to support the proposition that "headlamps and lighting fixtures are sold in the same channels of trade (Exhibit 5).

Applicant mailed a response (Exhibit 6) to the initial refusal on January 16, 2009 including a certificate of mailing.

The Examining Attorney issued a final refusal on February 18, 2009, citing:

the same dictionary.com definition of "lighting fixture" (Exhibit 7), an Encarta definition of "fixture" as "an object with a fixed position and function" (Exhibit 8), several on-line dictionary definitions of "headlamp" (Exhibit 9)

the same third party registrations as cited previously (Exhibit 4) web pages that are in part the same as, and in part different from, those cited in the first Official action (Exhibit 10)

Statement of Issue

The issue in this appeal is whether or not the Applicant's mark so resembles the cited registered mark as to be likely, when used on or in connection with the goods of the applicant, to cause confusion, or to cause mistake, or to deceive.

Summary of Argument

It is Applicant's position that the evidence of record fails to show that the respective goods, personal headlamps and electric lighting fixtures, are so related that the use of the mark EPIC on or in connection with both categories of goods is likely to cause confusion or mistake, or to deceive. In particular, the Examining Attorney has adopted a definition of the term "fixture" that departs from common usage and is unsupported by the evidence. Moreover, the evidence cited by the Examining attorney, for various reasons, fails to support the Examiner's assertion that personal headlamps and lighting fixtures are related and sold in the same channels of trade.

Applicable law

It is established that a search report listing registrations does not constitute evidence of the use of a mark. National Football League v. Jasper Alliance Corp., 16 USPQ2d 1212, 1215 n.5 (TTAB 1990), Riceland Foods, Inc. v. Pacific Eastern Trading Corp., 26 USPQ2d 1883, 1885 (TTAB 1993), St. Louis Janitor Supply Co. v. Abso-Clean Chemical Co., 196 USPQ 778, 781 (TTAB 1977). It undoubtedly for this reason that the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board and the Trademark Manual of Examining Procedure are equivocal about the probative value of third party registrations in establishing a relationship between goods. "Third party registrations that cover a number of different goods or services have some probative value to the extent that they may serve to suggest that goods or services are of a type that may emanate from a single source, if the registrations are based on use in commerce." TMEP §1207.01(d)(iii). (Emphasis supplied) ". . . Third party registrations which individually cover a number of different items and which are based on use in commerce may have some probative value. . . ." In re Albert Trostel & Sons Co., 29 USPQ2d 1783 (TTAB 1993) (Emphasis supplied).

The fact that products are sold by the same establishment does not necessarily mean that they are "related," especially where the establishment offers a wide variety of products. Hi Country Foods Corp. v. Hi Country Beef Jerky, 4 USPQ2d 1169 (TTAB 1987).

Argument

First, although the applicant's mark and the cited mark, EPIC, are identical, the goods are distinctly different and not shown to be closely related. Applicant's goods are personal headlamps, whereas the goods identified in the cited registration of Burton Medical Products are "electrical lighting fixtures."

The Examining Attorney has pointed to a definition of "lighting fixture" as "a fixture providing artificial light," and has concluded from the definition that the applicant's goods, personal headlamps, are within the definition. It is true that the applicant's goods emit artificial light. However, the approach taken by the Examining Attorney overlooks the implication of the term "fixture," which is defined in Websters New World Dictionary (3rd College Edition) as "1. anything firmly in place 2. any of the fittings for furniture of a house, store, etc. attached to the building and, ordinarily, considered legally a part of it [bathroom fixtures] 3. any person or thing that has remained in a situation or place so long as to seem fixed there 4. [Chiefly Brit.] a well established, regularly occurring sports or social event." Simply put, a personal headlamp, which is worn on an individual's head, is not "fixed," and is therefore, not a "fixture" in the usual sense of the term. It is distinguishable from lighting fixtures for the same reason: lighting fixtures normally remain in a predetermined location, being secured to real estate, usually a building or grounds.

Personal headlamps and lighting fixtures also have different properties, and are generally sold in different channels of trade. A personal headlamp is typically powered by one or more electrochemical cells (e.g. 1.5 volt DC batteries), whereas a lighting fixture is usually powered either by 120 volt AC line current, or by a low voltage AC current derived from the 120 volt AC line by means of a step-down transformer. A personal headlamp is typically utilized by individuals for exploring caves and the like, for bicycling at night, for illumination while camping, and for similar, mostly sporting, purposes, and as such are sold in sporting goods stores such as REI, Cabela's, etc. Although the applicant's personal headlamps are primarily for sporting purposes, personal headlamps are also for industrial purposes, such as in mining. In any case, one would not expect to find a personal headlamp in a store specializing in lighting fixtures.

The evidence provided by the Examining Attorney falls short of establishing a relationship between personal headlamps and electric lighting fixtures sufficient to demonstrate a likelihood of confusion, at least when a relatively weak mark such as "EPIC" is used on both. The following observations can be made concerning the registrations cited by the Examining Attorney and compiled as Princeton Tectonics Exhibit 4.

The headlamps identified in Neonlite's CLUSTERLITE registration are qualified as "high-beam" headlamps, implying that they are automotive rather than personal headlamps. Similarly, the headlamps identified in the CAT'S EYE MEGAMAN registration, also owned by Neonlite, are qualified as "head lamps in the nature of headlights for vehicles." It does not follow that, because vehicular headlamps and lighting fixtures are made or sold by the same entity, that personal headlamps and lighting fixtures would also be expected to be made or sold by the same entity.

The PANASONIC registration recites "headlamps" among other things, without qualification. Without qualification, we submit that the term "headlamps" would normally be taken to imply an automotive application. But, even if that is not so, Panasonic is known for such a broad range of goods, that its registration is of doubtful evidentiary value on the issue of whether or not personal headlamps and electric lighting fixtures are related goods.

As in the case of CLUSTERLITE and CAT'S EYE MEGAMAN, the headlamps in Rosstech Signals' registration on ANTHELION are qualified as "automotive and nautical" headlamps.

The headlights in Vidin SA's registration on SAN-SON are also described as "headlights for vehicles." Moreover the lengthy identification of goods is so comprehensive as to be of very questionable evidentiary value. To say that Vidin's registration shows that personal headlamps and electric lighting fixtures are related is almost tantamount to saying that coffee and shoes are related because they can both be purchased at Nordstrom's.

Sunlux's registration on SEL also qualifies "headlamps" as "automotive headlamps."

Aside from the above-noted deficiencies in the registrations cited, it should be noted that they are relatively few in number (6), and the Examining Attorney has offered no evidence showing the proportional relationship between registrations covering both headlamps and lighting fixtures and registrations covering one such article but not the other. Thus, even if there were more than just the one cited registration (PANASONIC) whose identification of goods is broad enough to encompass personal headlamps, it would not be possible to draw a meaningful conclusion concerning the relationship between personal headlamps and lighting fixtures.

In summary, the registrations cited by the Examining attorney do not make out a convincing case that personal headlamps and lighting fixtures are sufficiently related that the use of a trademark such as EPIC on both is likely to cause confusion.

The evidence concerning channels of trade also falls short of establishing a sufficient relationship between personal headlamps and electric lighting fixtures. Esources (Exhibit 5) is a wholesaler and importer, whose website lists a broad variety of goods from "apparel and clothing" to "travel and outdoors" products, and from "art supplies wholesale," to "watches and clocks." Alibaba.com similarly offers a vast variety of goods ranging, for example from "agricultural products" to "transportation." Both Esources and Alibaba.com (Exhibit 5) are so broad as to be of little evidentiary value for the same reasons as advanced above in connection with Panasonic and Vidin.

Both the Tootoomart and Thestar.com websites (Exhibit 10), newly cited in the final Office action, appear to be on-line department stores. Because a department store by its nature offers a broad variety of goods, it is not possible to conclude that two particular items are related from the fact that they are offered for sale by the same store. Hi Country Foods Corp. v. Hi Country Beef Jerky, 4 USPQ2d 1169 (TTAB 1987).

THELEDLIGHT.COM (Exhibits 5 and 10) is an LED specialty source offering LED headlamps and LED lighting fixtures. The LED headlamps (Exhibit 5, item 17 of the THELEDLIGHT.COM list are apparently personal headlamps, but this is the only one of the citations that tends to show a connection between lighting fixtures and personal headlamps. We submit that this lone citation is insufficient to demonstrate that lighting fixtures and personal headlamps are sufficiently related that purchasers, seeing the mark EPIC on one of the two kinds of products would mistakenly believe that it is made or sold by, sponsored by, or otherwise connected with, the source of the other product.

In summary, it is clear that a personal headlamp is not an electric lighting fixture. Secondly, although third party registrations which individually cover a number of different items and which are based on use in commerce may have some probative value as explained in TMEP §1207.01(d)(iii), the converse is also necessarily true; some such registrations may not have probative value. The six registrations cited by the Examining attorney are examples of the latter. Finally, the various on-line catalogs in Exhibits 5 and 10 are for the most part in the nature of on-line department stores whose line of goods, like those listed in the SAN-SON registration (Exhibit 4), are so varied that no valid conclusion can be drawn.

Conclusion

The Applicant respectfully submits that EPIC electric lighting fixtures and EPIC personal headlamps can coexist without a likelihood of confusion and that the Examining Attorney's refusal of registration should be reversed.

TO AVOID ABANDONMENT, THE OFFICE MUST RECEIVE A PROPER RESPONSE TO THIS OFFICE ACTION WITHIN 6 MONTHS OF THE ISSUE/MAILING DATE.

ISSUE/MAILING DATE:

The referenced application has been reviewed by the assigned trademark examining attorney. Applicant must respond timely and completely to the issue(s) below. 15 U.S.C. §1062(b); 37 C.F.R. §§2.62, 2.65(a); TMEP §§711, 718.03.

Section 2(d) – Likelihood of Confusion Refusal

Registration of the applied-for mark is refused because of a likelihood of confusion with the mark in U.S. Registration No. 3107315. Trademark Act Section 2(d), 15 U.S.C. §1052(d); see TMEP §§1207.01 et seq. See the enclosed registration.

Trademark Act Section 2(d) bars registration of an applied-for mark that so resembles a registered mark that it is likely that a potential consumer would be confused or mistaken or deceived as to the source of the goods and/or services of the applicant and registrant. See 15 U.S.C. §1052(d). The court in In re E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., 476 F.2d 1357, 177 USPQ 563 (C.C.P.A. 1973) listed the principal factors to be considered when determining whether there is a likelihood of confusion under Section 2(d). See TMEP §1207.01. However, not all of the factors are necessarily relevant or of equal weight, and any one factor may be dominant in a given case, depending upon the evidence of record. In re Majestic Distilling Co., 315 F.3d 1311, 1315, 65 USPQ2d 1201, 1204 (Fed. Cir. 2003); see In re E. I. du Pont, 476 F.2d at 1361-62, 177 USPQ at 567.

In this case, the following factors are the most relevant: similarity of the marks, similarity of the goods and/or services, and similarity of trade channels of the goods and/or services. See In re Opus One, Inc., 60 USPQ2d 1812 (TTAB 2001); In re Dakin's Miniatures Inc., 59 USPQ2d 1593 (TTAB 1999); In re Azteca Rest. Enters., Inc., 50 USPQ2d 1209 (TTAB 1999); TMEP §§1207.01 et seq.

Taking into account the relevant du Pont factors, a likelihood of confusion determination in this case involves a two-part analysis. The marks are compared for similarities in their appearance, sound, connotation and commercial impression. TMEP §§1207.01, 1207.01(b). The goods and/or services are compared to determine whether they are similar or commercially related or travel in the same trade channels. See Herbko Int'l, Inc. v. Kappa Books, Inc., 308 F.3d 1156, 1164-65, 64 USPQ2d 1375, 1380 (Fed. Cir. 2002); Han Beauty, Inc. v. Alberto-Culver Co., 236 F.3d 1333, 1336, 57 USPQ2d 1557, 1559 (Fed. Cir. 2001); TMEP §§1207.01, 1207.01(a)(vi).

Comparison of Marks

In a likelihood of confusion determination, the marks are compared for similarities in their appearance, sound, meaning or connotation and commercial impression. In re E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., 476 F.2d 1357, 1361, 177 USPQ 563, 567 (C.C.P.A. 1973); TMEP §1207.01(b). Similarity in any one of these elements may be sufficient to find a likelihood of confusion. In re White Swan Ltd., 8 USPQ2d 1534, 1535 (TTAB 1988); In re Lamson Oil Co., 6 USPQ2d 1041, 1043 (TTAB 1987); see TMEP §1207.01(b).

Applicant's mark, EPIC, is identical to the registered mark, EPIC. Accordingly, applicant's mark and the registered mark are similar in sound, appearance, and meaning.

Comparison of Goods

Applicant's goods, "personal headlamps," are related to registrant's goods, "electric lighting fixtures."

The primary purpose of both applicant's and registrant's goods is to emit and to provide light. Furthermore, registrant's "fixtures" is broad enough to encompass applicant's goods. "Lighting fixtures" is defined as "a fixture providing artificial light." See Exhibit A.

Attached are copies of printouts from the USPTO X-Search database, which show third-party registrations of marks used in connection with the same or similar goods and/or services as those of applicant and registrant in this case. These printouts have probative value to the extent that they serve to suggest that the goods and/or services listed therein, namely, headlamps and lighting fixtures, are of a kind that may emanate from a single source. In re Infinity Broad. Corp., 60 USPQ2d 1214, 1217-18 (TTAB 2001); In re Albert Trostel & Sons Co., 29 USPQ2d 1783, 1785-86 (TTAB 1993); In re Mucky Duck Mustard Co., 6 USPQ2d 1467, 1470 n.6 (TTAB 1988); TMEP §1207.01(d)(iii). Additionally, please see the attached evidence that demonstrates that headlamps and lighting fixtures are sold in the same channels of trade.

If the marks of the respective parties are identical (as is the case here), the relationship between the goods and/or services of the respective parties need not be as close to support a finding of likelihood of confusion as might apply where differences exist between the marks. In re Opus One

Inc., 60 USPQ2d 1812, 1815 (TTAB 2001); Amtcor, Inc. v. Amtcor Indus., Inc., 210 USPQ 70, 78 (TTAB 1981); TMEP §1207.01(a).

Therefore, consumers are likely to believe that applicant's goods and registrant's goods originate from the same source.

The goods and/or services of the parties need not be identical or directly competitive to find a likelihood of confusion. See Safety-Kleen Corp. v. Dresser Indus., Inc., 518 F.2d 1399, 1404, 186 USPQ 476, 480 (C.C.P.A. 1975); TMEP §1207.01(a)(i). Rather, they need only be related in some manner, or the conditions surrounding their marketing are such that they would be encountered by the same purchasers under circumstances that would give rise to the mistaken belief that the goods and/or services come from a common source. In re Total Quality Group, Inc., 51 USPQ2d 1474, 1476 (TTAB 1999); TMEP §1207.01(a)(i); see, e.g., On-line Careline Inc. v. Am. Online Inc., 229 F.3d 1080, 1086-87, 56 USPQ2d 1471, 1475-76 (Fed. Cir. 2000); In re Martin's Famous Pastry Shoppe, Inc., 748 F.2d 1565, 1566-68, 223 USPQ 1289, 1290 (Fed. Cir. 1984).

In conclusion, applicant's mark, EPIC, is refused because of its likelihood of confusion with the above-cited mark due to the similarity of the marks and the relatedness of the goods.

Although applicant's mark has been refused registration, applicant may respond to the refusal(s) by submitting evidence and arguments in support of registration.

If applicant has questions about its application or needs assistance in responding to this Office action, please telephone the assigned trademark examining attorney.

RESPONSE TO OFFICE ACTION

Commissioner for Trademarks
P. O. Box 1451
Alexandria, VA 22313-1451

Sir:

This is in response to the Official action of July 17, 2008.

Reconsideration and withdrawal of the refusal to register the applicant's mark are requested for the following reasons.

First, although the applicant's mark and the cited mark, EPIC, are identical, the goods are distinctly different and not shown to be closely related. Applicant's goods are personal headlamps, whereas the goods identified in the cited registration of Burton Medical Products are "electrical lighting fixtures."

The Examining Attorney has pointed to a definition of "lighting fixture" as "a fixture providing artificial light," and has concluded from the definition that the applicant's goods, personal headlamps, are within the definition. It is true that the applicant's goods emit artificial light. However, the approach taken by the Examining Attorney overlooks the implication of the term "fixture," which is defined in Websters New World Dictionary (3rd College Edition) as "1. anything firmly in place 2. any of the fittings for furniture of a house, store, etc. attached to the building and, ordinarily, considered legally a part of it [bathroom fixtures] 3. any person or thing that has remained in a situation or place so long as to seem fixed there 4. [Chiefly Brit.] a well established, regularly occurring sports or social event." Simply put, a personal headlamp, which is worn on an individual's head, is not "fixed" and is therefore, not a "fixture" in the usual sense of the term. It is distinguishable from lighting fixtures for the same reason: lighting fixtures normally remain in a predetermined location, being secured to real estate, usually a building or grounds.

Personal headlamps and lighting fixtures also have different properties, and are generally sold in different channels of trade. A personal headlamp is typically powered by one or more electrochemical cells (e.g. 1.5 volt DC batteries), whereas a lighting fixture is usually powered either by 120 volt AC line current, or by a low voltage AC current derived from the 120 volt AC line by means of a step-down transformer. A personal headlamp is typically utilized by individuals for exploring caves and the like, for bicycling at night, for illumination while camping, and for similar, mostly sporting, purposes, and as such are sold in sporting goods stores such as REI, Cabela's, etc. One would not expect to find a personal headlamp in a store specializing in lighting fixtures.

The evidence provided by the Examining Attorney falls short of establishing a relationship between personal headlamps and electric lighting fixtures sufficient to demonstrate a likelihood of confusion, at least when a relatively weak mark such as "EPIC" is used on both.

The headlamps identified in Neonlite's CLUSTERLITE registration, for example, are qualified as "high-beam" headlamps, implying that they are automotive rather than personal headlamps. Similarly, the headlamps identified in the CAT'S EYE MEGAMAN registration, also owned by Neonlite, are qualified as "head lamps in the nature of headlights for vehicles." It does not follow that, because vehicular headlamps and lighting fixtures are made or sold by the same entity, that personal headlamps and lighting fixtures would also be expected to be made or sold by the same entity.

The PANASONIC registration recites "headlamps" among other things, without qualification. Without qualification, we submit that the term "headlamps" would normally be taken to imply an automotive application. But, even if that is not so, Panasonic is known for such a broad range of goods, that its registration is of doubtful evidentiary value on the issue of whether or not personal headlamps and electric lighting fixtures are related goods.

As in the case of CLUSTERLITE and CAT'S EYE MEGAMAN, the headlamps in Rosstech Signals' registration on ANTHELION are qualified as "automotive and nautical" headlamps.

The headlights in Vidin SA's registration on SAN-SON are also described as "headlights for vehicles." Moreover the lengthy identification of goods is so comprehensive as to be of very questionable evidentiary value. To say that Vidin's registration shows that personal headlamps and electric lighting fixtures are related is almost tantamount to saying that coffee and shoes are related because they can both be purchased at Nordstrom's.

Sunlux's registration on SEL also qualifies "headlamps" as "automotive headlamps."

The evidence concerning channels of trade also falls short of establishing a sufficient relationship between personal headlamps and electric lighting fixtures. Esources is a wholesaler and importer, whose website lists a broad variety of goods from "apparel and clothing" to "travel and outdoors" products, and from "art supplies wholesale," to "watches and clocks." Alibaba.com similarly offers a vast variety of goods ranging, for example from "agricultural products" to "transportation." Both Esources and Alibaba.com are so broad as to be of little evidentiary value for the same reasons as advanced above in connection with Panasonic and Vidin.

THELEDLIGHT.COM is an LED specialty source offering LED headlamps and LED lighting fixtures. The LED headlamps are probably personal headlamps, but this is the only one of the citations that tends to show a connection between lighting fixtures and personal headlamps. We submit that this lone citation is insufficient to demonstrate that lighting fixtures and personal headlamps are sufficiently related that purchasers, seeing the mark EPIC on one of the two kinds of products would mistakenly believe that it is made or sold by, sponsored by, or otherwise connected with, the source of the other product.

In summary, we respectfully submit that electric lighting fixtures and personal headlamps are entirely different kinds of goods, sold generally in different channels of trade, and that the mark EPIC is a weak mark, i.e. one not so highly distinctive that its use on both products would be likely to cause confusion. We respectfully request withdrawal of the refusal of registration and approval fo the mark for publication.

Respectfully submitted
