RESPONSE

This is in response to the Office Action of April 19, 2005 in regard to the above-identified trademark.

Please amend the identification of goods as follows:

-- Paints; coatings in the nature of paint for marine and yacht vessels; coatings in the nature of paint for industrial applications; epoxy coatings; polyurethane coatings; acrylic coatings; waterborne coatings; solvent borne coatings; fire-resistant coatings; anti-fouling coatings; anti-corrosive coatings; preservatives against rust and the deterioration of wood in the form of coatings; isocyanate-free coatings; and paint thinners., in Intl. Cl. 002--

CERTIFICATE OF MAILING

I hereby certify that this correspondence is being deposited with the US Postal Service as First Class Mail in an envelope addressed to the Commissioner for Trademarks, P.O. Box 1451, Alexandria, VA 22313-1451 on:

October 19, 2005
Date

The Identification of Goods is amended again, in response to the request in the Office Action. However, it is not amended to the extent requested. Applicant respectfully traverses the requirement to further amend the goods which have not been amended herein (such goods identified in the Office Action as being subject to amendment, but not amended herein, being referred to as "goods at issue").

The goods at issue were presented by amendment in response to the Office Action of September 14, 2004. That Action requested the goods be identified by their common commercial names (p. 1). The goods were identified by their common commercial names, and now the present Action finds these names to be too broad.

It is submitted that the common commercial names should be acceptable in accordance with TMEP 1402.01 (attached hereto is evidence supporting the fact that common commercial names have been set forth, as described below).

Further, it is not understood how the contention "too broad" pertains to the present case. According to the TMEP, a goods ID is "too broad" when the goods could also be covered by another class and are not clear from the class identified, or if it is contended that the applicant is not using the mark in connection with a sufficient number of related goods which can be indicated by the language used in the identification (TMEP 1402.01(b) and 1402.03). Neither of these situations apply to the instant case.

Attached hereto are copies of GOOGLE TM web searches conducted on October 18, 2005, which indicate that the terms "epoxy coatings", "polyurethane coatings", "acrylic coatings", "waterborne coatings", "solvent borne coatings", "fire-resistant coatings", "anti-fouling coatings", "anti-corrosive coatings", and "isocyanate-free coatings" are common commercial names of such goods.

Additionally, attached are copies of portions of the Trademark Acceptable Identification of Goods & Services Manual, printed out from the USPTO website on October 18, 2005, which indicate that the terms "preservatives against rust and the deterioration of wood in the form of coatings", "coating compositions in the nature of paint for industrial applications", and "coatings in the nature of paint for marine and yacht vessels" are acceptable terms in a goods ID.

In accordance with the above discussion and evidence submitted herewith, the goods ID is considered to be acceptable.

For the record, the undersigned does not understand the requirement of the first page of the Action "to describe the product and its intended uses", in the absence of a common commercial name. The TMEP does not require a description of intended uses. Instead, it requires that "products or services that do not have common names" be described or explained in "clear and succinct language", and admonishes that "[t]echnical or esoteric language and lengthy descriptions of characteristics or uses are not appropriate." TMEP 1402.01.

It is believed that Applicant has addressed all the issues raised in the outstanding Office Action and that the mark of the application is therefore in condition for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
