Oakland, California Lawyers

Gwilliam, Ivary, Chiosso, Cavalli & Brewer

Oakland, California

Gwilliam, Ivary, Chiosso, Cavalli & Brewer is a Bay Area law firm dedicated exclusively to representing people with serious and complex personal injury, wrongful death, employment and consumer law cases. For over 30 years, our mission has been clear: obtain the best possible result for each of our clients and, in so doing, help to create a safer and more just community.

We take only those cases we truly believe in. We have demonstrated time and again, our willingness to take a case all the way to trial if that is what it takes to obtain the best possible result for our client. We have obtained outstanding results for clients who had been turned away by other firms — for some of whom we were able to obtain multi-million dollar verdicts or settlements.

The courage of the people we represent is our inspiration and we respect that courage by striving to be equally courageous in our approach to the practice of law. In that spirit, our approach is much more than just getting clients the "most money". We view our clients as individuals and fellow human beings. We endeavor to empathize with our clients and understand the effects that an injury or death has on the client and their families. We try to help our clients in ways that sometimes have little or nothing to do with their immediate legal needs, such as referring them to medical professionals or grief counselors. Ultimately, we seek justice for our clients so that we can improve the quality of their lives.

- Wrongful Death
- Police Misconduct

Business Law

- Business Fraud/Disputes
- Intellectual Property and Trade Disputes

Employment Law

- Wrongful Termination
- Discrimination/Retaliation

In medicine, this is known as the "holistic" approach. In the practice of law, it has just as much value. Our results and the fact that the majority of our cases are referred to us by other attorneys in California and throughout the U.S. indicate that this holistic approach works.

ABSTRACT PAINTINGS by Mirko Cavalli.

The last idea of space is the highest effort of our throught.Painting, with its constant research, is now arrived to the last idea of space the abstract. Mirko Cavalli has a particular vision of art: he makes of it a narration of is nature, using an irresistible creative impetuosity, his great and personal use of colour enables him to realize phantasmagoric compositions.The dynamism of his art forces the onlooker to involve himself in abstract paintings.Mirko Cavalli's art is also the result of his spiritual maturation.His contacts with eastern philosophies and eastern cultures have increased his desire to communicate with the use of colours.Here in Italy, on the tranquillity of his land, he is now trying to find the way to eo on with his personal research.What memory has in common with art is the opportunity of choice and the taste of peculiarity.The truthfulness of art lies in the sum of every part of it,and this truthfulness has its peak on an exact and complete vision, the only one that can satisfy our desires.

Short Research Description: Axonal Transport, Injury Signaling and Nerve Regeneration

Research Abstract:
My laboratory's research is focused on understanding the molecular mechanisms orchestrating the response of neurons to axonal injury in the mouse model system. Most parts of the adult CNS cannot regenerate axons following damage, resulting in the devastating conditions of paralysis following spinal-cord injury. Despite the identification of numerous molecules that influence regeneration, the mechanisms underlying axonal growth following injury are still poorly understood. Currently, two main areas are under investigation. First, we are focusing on understanding how information from the site of injury in the axon is communicated to the cell body. We reported previously that the kinesin binding protein Sunday Driver, in collaboration with the stress-activated protein kinase JNK and the molecular motor system establishes a vesicular axonal damage signaling system. To better understand Sunday Driver function in injury signaling, we have developed a biochemical approach to purify Sunday Driver vesicles. Mass spectrometry analyses allowed us to identify proteins residing on these vesicles. We will further investigate the role of these proteins in injury signaling by a combination of biochemistry, cell biology, molecular biology and in vivo imaging. Second, we are dissecting the role of anterograde axonal transport and membrane trafficking in axonal growth during development and regeneration. We have identified another population of small axonal vesicles with which Sunday Driver is associated. Theses vesicles are found at the synaptic terminal but are morphologically and functionally distinct from synaptic vesicles. In vivo imaging and genetic approaches will be used in addition to cell biology and biochemistry to study the role of candidate proteins in axonal elongation. The long-term goal of our research is to provide a better understanding of the molecular determinants leading to successful axonal regeneration, which will be a key step towards improving our ability to restore nerve function following damage.
