RESPONSE

Acquired Distinctiveness

Although the Applicant maintains that ICE is not merely descriptive or deceptive with respect to the identified goods, the Applicant alternatively seeks registration under the provisions of §2(f) of the Trademark Act of 1946, as amended, because ICE has become a distinctive source-identifier of the subject goods as a result of significant unsolicited third-party media coverage, sophisticated efforts on the part of the Applicant to promote the brand in the United States, and a large volume of sales in high profile urban centers. Applicant submits a declaration of its former Legal Counsel, Alissia Shchichka, with supporting documentation herewith attesting to the Applicant's continuous use of ICE for at least the past five years and the fact that customers strongly associate ICE with the Applicant. (Ex. A.)

Disclaimer Response

The Examining Attorney has requested a disclaimer of ICE in the subject application on the grounds that ICE merely describes the Applicant's identified goods. The Applicant respectfully traverses this disclaimer request.

To be characterized as "descriptive" a mark must directly give some reasonably accurate or distinct knowledge of the characteristics of the services for which it is used. In determining whether a mark crosses the fine line from suggestive to descriptive, the question is whether the mark conveys “an immediate idea of the ingredients, qualities, or characteristics of the [services].” Abercrombie & Fitch Co. v. Hunting World, Inc., 537 F.2d 4, 11 (2d Cir. 1976); see also MCCARTHY § 11:67 (“If the mental leap between the word and the product’s attributes is not almost instantaneous, this strongly indicates suggestiveness.”). The immediate idea must be conveyed with a “degree of particularity.” In re TMS Corporation of the Americas, 200 USPQ 57, 59 (TTAB 1978).

As shown by an exhibit in Applicant’s previous response, ICE can be used as an aspirational term that suggests success, “coolness” (being hip), and other status-oriented meanings. This is also demonstrated in the materials submitted in support of Applicant’s declaration that the mark has acquired distinctiveness through clever marketing strategies that focus on exclusive retail outlets in upscale locations, celebrity endorsements, and sponsorship of the high-profile Ice Theatre of New York. Applicant’s declaration also points out that it has focused advertisements at large urban populations known for starting trends and serving as taste-makers for the rest of the country, such as New York, Miami, and Los Angeles. The Applicant’s declaration and supporting materials show that, at least, the subject mark has acquired distinctiveness as a result of the Applicant’s marketing and sales efforts.

Deceptiveness

The Examining Attorney has refused registration of the subject mark for the identified goods under the Trademark Act § 2(a) on the grounds that ICE is deceptive for those goods because it indicates that such goods contain diamonds. This refusal is respectfully traversed.

As discussed in the Applicant’s previous response, the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board has held that the mark WOOLRICH alongside the design of a sheep was not a deceptive mark for clothing that was not made of wool. In re Woolrich Woolen Mills Inc., 13 USPQ2d 1235, 1235 (TTAB 1989). In that opinion, the Board noted that applicants may present evidence of a similar nature to what is often submitted for acquired distinctiveness as rebuttal evidence to the prima facie case in an effort to overcome one or all of the prongs of the §2(a) test for deceptiveness. Id. at 1238.

In this case, Applicant has submitted a wide variety of materials supporting the declaration for acquired distinctiveness. Included is a large volume of representative third-party media coverage of the subject goods. Notably, although this third-party media coverage frequently describes Applicant's identified goods and their various attributes, none of the publications thought it was necessary to warn their readers that the Applicant's goods do not include diamonds. This omission in a large number of unrelated media outlets speaks volumes about how consumers view the term ICE as used for the subject goods. If major media companies that must understand their targeted demographics to survive do not think it bears mentioning that Applicant's identified goods do not include diamonds, the subject mark should not be viewed as deceptive for the subject goods merely because recent pop culture references have used the term in an aspirational sense.

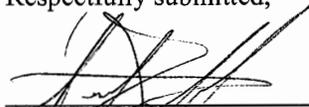

Many of the references cited in the refusal of this application describe ICE as a hip-hop slang term referring to diamonds (apparently, ICE in the rap name Vanilla Ice refers to a dance move called The Ice). (Ex. B.) But just as consumers understand that hip-hop artists do not own the fleets of expensive cars, yachts, and tanks that they sing about and which appear in their music videos, consumers of the Applicant's goods understand that the term ICE is an aspirational symbol hinting at prestige. The Applicant's marketing strategies have reinforced this understanding by focusing on upscale retail outlets in targeted locations and obtaining celebrity endorsements. If a significant portion of consumers were not deceived by WOOLRICH next to the design of a sheep for clothing that was not made of wool, consumers who have been conditioned to view a slang term like ICE as aspirational in nature would not expect the identified goods to contain diamonds.

REMARKS

The Applicant acknowledges the office action that issued on October 1, 2014 in the subject application. The Applicant has submitted a declaration in support of its claim, in the alternative, that ICE is not merely descriptive of the identified goods. The Applicant has also submitted arguments that the term ICE is not deceptive for the identified goods. In view of the foregoing, it is respectfully requested that the examining attorney withdraw the refusal to register and find that the application is in condition for publication. Favorable action is hereby solicited. To preserve its rights, Applicant is also filing a Notice of Appeal in addition to this response.

Respectfully submitted,

DECLARATION OF ALISSIA SHCHICHKA UNDER § 2(f) OF THE LANHAM ACT

I, the undersigned, being hereby warned that willful false statements and the like so made are punishable by fine or imprisonment, or both, under 18 U.S.C. §1001, and that such willful false statements and the like may jeopardize the validity of the application or any resulting registration, hereby declare that:

1. I am the Legal Counsel at ICE IP S.A. (the "Applicant"). I make this Declaration in connection with the above-identified trademark application.

2. I have firsthand knowledge of how the Applicant has marketed and sold its goods under ICE in the United States, and I have reviewed records kept by the Applicant in the ordinary course of business.

3. The goods for which ICE has been used are the same as those recited in the subject application.

4. The Applicant's website, ice-watch.com, makes prominent use of ICE and lists at least twenty-three (23) retail stores in the United States that carry the Applicant's goods under ICE. These retail locations are in high-profile and upscale locations such as Miami Beach and Honolulu. Representative images of the Applicant's retail presence are included for stores in Sunrise, Florida, Miami, Florida, and Las Vegas, Nevada. Not only does the Applicant sell a collection of watches under ICE, it sells at least twenty-nine

(29) other collections of watches that are based on its core ICE brand, such as ICE-CANVAS and ICE-CHECKS. This stable of ICE brands has led consumers in the United States to closely associate ICE with the Applicant for the goods identified in the subject application.

5. During at least the past five (5) years, a wide range of unsolicited media attention has been given to the Applicant's association with ICE. A small sampling of the extensive unsolicited third-party media attention given to ICE in 2011 alone is attached. This sampling includes mentions in more than fifteen (15) magazines, including Women's Health, Max Sports and Fitness, Bop Tiger Beat, and Liquid Living. In June of this year, the Applicant's ICE watch appeared in the magazine Shape. This sampling also includes at least twenty-five (25) write ups of the Applicant's goods on third-party blogs from 2011 alone, including OK!, the Miami Herald's blog, the Sierra Club's blog, and BostonMagazine.com. The Applicant's goods have also been written about in the Sun Post! and the Miami Herald. In 2011, the Applicant's goods were also featured on a variety of broadcast television shows, including Chelsea Lately, NBC Philadelphia, and Good Day Orlando.

6. Although the media coverage discussed in the preceding paragraph was taken from 2011, the Applicant has enjoyed and continues to enjoy a similarly high level of praise in national media outlets every year. This is evidenced by the sampling of magazines that have discussed the Applicant's ICE branded watches in 2009, 2010, and 2012, which are included with this declaration.

7. Applicant also frequently markets its goods through product placement in various forms. The Applicant's goods were the exclusive fashion accessory of the Chelsea Lately television show green room in 2011. They were also featured in the feature film Step Up 4, which debuted in 2012. The Applicant's goods were also worn by models in the Mercedes-Benz Fashion Week Swim 2012 show and appeared on The Celebrity Apprentice on NBC.

8. In 2011, Chelsea Lately publically gave the Applicant's ICE branded goods to at least fourteen (14) celebrities that have appeared on her late night television show, which averaged almost one million (1,000,000) viewers per episode in 2011 according to Wikipedia.

9. The Applicant's goods are worn publically by more than one hundred (100) well-known celebrities who have increased the Applicant's profile in the United States and made its ICE brand even more sought after. Such public displays are the subject of coverage by many media outlets covering the fashion of celebrities having substantial readership and viewership.

10. As stated in the subject application, the Applicant has used the above-captioned trademark in interstate commerce in the United States since at least as early as March 14, 2009.

11. A representative sampling of invoices for ICE branded goods sold in the United States, which are attached, show that the Applicant sold at least one hundred and sixty thousand (160,000) ICE branded watches in the United States from 2010 to 2014. This estimate is low because it is based on a sampling of invoices to the Applicant's most recent distributor in the United States. The Applicant's previous distributor is hardly included.

12. In addition to product placement and marketing activities throughout the United States, the Applicant has sponsored the Ice Theatre of New York, which is the nation's premier ice dance company. Founded in 1984, the Ice Theatre is the nation's first non-profit ice dancing ensemble to be awarded grants by the National Endowment for the Arts, the New York State Council on the Arts, and the New York City Department of Cultural Affairs. The Ice Theatre receives a significant amount of media attention and performs throughout the country. Specifically, the Applicant sponsored the Ice Theatre's 2013 Season and the 2013 Benefit Gala. During the 2013 Season, an advertisement for the Applicant's goods appeared on page 19 of the playbill as well as the coveted back cover of the playbill. During the 2013 Benefit Gala, which garnered letters of praise from Governor Cuomo and Mayor Bloomberg as well as attention from the New York Times, the back of the playbill featured a full color advertisement for the Applicant. In 2014, the Applicant again sponsored the Ice Theatre, which expanded its tour to major cities on the West Coast. A large billboard on the Chelsea Piers in Manhattan also prominently displayed the Applicant's ICE mark in connection with its sponsorship of the Ice Theatre.

13. The Applicant also advertises through more traditional means throughout the United States and especially in urban centers. In 2012, the Applicant partnered with Macy's for a marketing campaign during the holiday season as shown in the attached marketing images. In New York, the Applicant advertised on buses, subways, and in Time Square. In another high-profile location, Miami, the Applicant advertised on buses, taxis, and at information kiosks. The Applicant also purchased billboards in Los Angeles to promote its marketing campaign with Macy's. Other representative national advertising campaigns are shown in the attached documents, including advertisements on the well-known streaming music website Pandora.com, on the fashion blog refinery29.com, and through a variety of advertisements on mobile devices.

I declare under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct.

SPORT

With the advent of smart watches, the line between sports and smart watches is becoming increasingly blurred. The smart watch is a multi-functional device that can track your health, fitness, and even your location. It can also serve as a communication device, allowing you to receive text messages and make calls. ## Photo Shoot: Fun Fashion for Summer

Another one of my new faves is definitely Ice Watches. These fabulous watches have been around for a while now, but they've really started to get some love lately. I have an amazing collection of watches for both men and women. They come in just about every color imaginable with different face designs. I have some that have been around for a while, but they are seriously the most colorful Ice watches ever. The best one is a gold one, and they are seriously classy and stylish. I love the high-end design. (Ice Watches) They come in all sizes!

On Fashion Monday, we highlight a hip, green fashion item. Get a stylish eco-friendly product to recommend? Tell us about it, and look for it in an upcoming blog post.

Want some great art that says it's time to save the Earth? Consider the Acne Sports t-shirt, named as its website says, for the company's concern "about unsustainable clothing." Buy it in "50 shades" for attention-grabbing style; someone's sure to comment on it, which is when you can tell them that the proceeds from your sale went to Acne Sports, a nonprofit that works to relieve Ethiopia; each purchase represents 100 trees planted. The Acne Sports t-shirt comes in a whimsical Lego-shaped case that can be reused as a piggy bank. And here's one more factoid to up the coolness factor: Ice-Watch is featured in the Acne Sports t-shirt.

Metro Man: April Fashion

By Bonnie Kimberly Taylor

Stylish hat? Check. Outstanding, custom fit J. Hilburn shirt? Check. Flashing a Casio Baby G. or Ice Watch on wrist? Check. Gentlemen, it looks like you're ready for spring.

Don't forget to don a spectacular watch on your wrist this spring. These two should do the trick: the shock-resistant Casio G-Shock GIEZ series is a solar atomic watch from Tokyo that offers endurance and sophistication and is environmentally friendly to boot. It has a countdown timer and self-adjusts to different time zones, and can be found at <http://www.gshock.com>. The Ice-Watch is a celeb favorite and offers 10 styles and collections. It's also water resistant up to 5ATM, has luminous hands and a comfortable silicone band, and is popular in more than 80 countries across the globe. Visit <http://us.ice-watch.com> and select the one you like the most; this watch line is both affordable and luxurious.

Make the most of spring with your sartorial style.

Love, Italian Style

These five fabulous Italian escapes make us swoon. By Jason Oliver Nixon

1 LAKE COMO: Situated along the shores of glorious Lake Como, Casta Diva Resort combines historic architecture with unparalleled vistas. Book the Villa Anima, where you can enjoy sweeping views from the bathtub, or the tower in Villa Roccabruna for a private waterfront terrace. At dinner, ask the maître d' to dish about the love story that inspired the hotel's name. castadivaresort.com

2 ROME: A short taxi drive from the city center, the Rome Cavalieri sits within a transporting, parklike setting. The hotel's architecture, art collection and design are stunners, rich with color and detail, and the service is impeccable. Equally impressive are the views of St. Peter's Cathedral and Mediterranean Park. Relax in your marble tub with a glass of Prosecco and embrace the luxe. romecavalieri.com

3 CAPRI: The 44-room Hotel Punta Tragara perches high above the isle of Capri and pairs couture-styled service with visual spectacle. Splurge on a Double Prestige Sea View Room, where you can sit on your private terrace and soak in the views of Marina Piccola bay and the hotel's cerulean swimming pool. hoteltragara.com

4 MILAN: Luxury has a name, and it goes by Hotel Principe di Savoia. Hit Milan's fashion houses for a day of haute couture acquisitions, then head straight to the hotel spa for a hot oil and salt massage to work out the kinks. As night falls, slip into the hotel's swank bar in your chic new Armani frock and order the Milanese Caipirinha cocktail. hotelprincipedisavoia.com

5 SORRENTO: Built on ancient Roman walls, the cliff-top Villa La Terrazza is known to locals as the "house of love," so be prepared to fall head over heels for breathtaking views of the Amalfi Coast. Sleep in the Il Falto Suite and enjoy breakfast on the terrace overlooking the Mediterranean Sea. villalatterazza.com

On Our Radar //

Weights & Measures

One travel essential that should go everywhere is L.L. Bean's dual-function Travel Scale and Alarm ($29.95). The device keeps luggage within the weight limit, and it also serves as an alarm clock. Plus, the gadget has a flashlight! lbean.com

The Perfect Fit

We are constantly on the prowl for the ultimate carry-on tote, a bag that can accommodate a stash of magazines as well as our iPad and other sundries. Enter Filson's Zippered Tote Bag in tan ($135), which keeps us organized in style. filson.com

One to Watch

Add some extra flair to your wrist when you travel with the unisex Ice-Watch, a silicon creation that comes in an array of rainbow hues. We're especially fond of the Technicolor Sili Collection ($110). ice-watch.com

Soundtrack: Las Vegas

What happens in Vegas might stay in Vegas, but why not bring some Sin City sounds home? Noah Tepperberg, one-half of the high-flying duo behind The Palazzo

Hotel's celeb favorite Lavo restaurant (as well as the just-opened Lavo NYC and Manhattan nightclub Marquee), gives up his playlist:

Name	Artist
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> "Airplanes"	B.o.B. feat. Hayley Williams and Eminem
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> "Blow the Whistle"	Too Short
<input checked="" type="checkbox"/> "All the Way Turnt Up"	Roscoe Dash

Hot for the Holidays: Hot Gifts for Him

02:40

▶ PLAY | ◀

CLOSED CAPTION | [CC]

Posted: 11/21/11

OK ladies, does finding that perfect gift for the man in your life bog down your holiday shopping? No worries. It's sure to be a snap this year as Louis Aguire breaks down what's Hot for Him this year. WSVN — It's not very often your guy actually encourages you to shop. But when it comes to finding holiday gifts for us, we say, take your time and go crazy.

Greg Melvin, Babalu: "I think shopping local is fabulous."

The big trend this year: Shop Local. At Babalu on Lincoln Road, locally-made products are big sellers, like these art deco/SoBe-styled cuff links.

Greg Melvin: "They've been designed and manufactured locally, dedicated to the resort glamour of the 1930s."

Cuff links should reflect your man's personality. Got that ladies? Complete the look with a fabulous shirt and tie. You can pick up both together at TJ Maxx and Marshalls.

Greg Melvin: "Plaids, gingham, we're finding great combinations of shirts and ties together."

Another stylish choice for that GQ guy: Put the shirt and tie under a great sweater.

Greg Melvin: "You can go with cardigan sweaters, V-neck sweaters. This zip-front version."

Just make sure to pick a lightweight knit. Not much need for heavy wools in SoFla. This isn't the North Pole, but he'll still look cool.

Now, some of us guys just aren't the button-down sweater-wearing type. You can never go wrong with a team shirt. Just make sure it's the right team and right sport.

Alison Deyette, Style Expert: "If your guy is not really into fashion you can find some great other ideas like fabulous tools things for the car electronics."

Wrenches, razors, flash lights and iPod docking stations, oh my! You know we love our gadgets. But you know what they say, The quickest way to our heart this season: Through our stomachs!

Alison Deyette: "If you've got a guy who likes to say he's the chef of the family, pastas, o's, vinegars, spices. I actually come here and pick up a lot of my favorite spices."

Or if you have a wine lover on your list, there won't be any whining when he opens this.

Alison Deyette: "He can uncork the wine. He can save it for later. He can serve up great drinks."

Speaking of serving, let him hit the beach with this great gift.

Greg Melvin: "It's handmade. They're laminated like surfboards. Recycled wood."

Beach tennis has never looked so good. And sporting equipment is always tops on a guy's wish list. We'll never be late for a workout or a dinner date with you if you give us a rocking watch. OK, maybe a little fashionably late.

Greg Melvin: "The trend in watches is oversized and chunky. Ice watch is another brand favorite of ours. It's comfortable, great for the beach. It's a super fashion watch."

And nothing is more fashionable at the beach than a great pair of shades. Raybans are back, so think retro.

Greg Melvin: "The Steve McQueen style of the Persols is very popular."

And here's a gift you will love as much as we do. A shoe that looks good and you can throw into the wash.

Greg Melvin: "It's out of Norway and they are these are recycled rubber."

Louis Aguire: "Ladies, if you're still unsure what to buy your guy, Babalu has a great gift-giving blog on their website with ideas for every guy on your list."

penny-covered floor. But Revolver, a Noblesville original, isn't aiming for gimmicks. The men's and women's sneakers here aren't the kind you'll find in department stores, but rather limited editions from Nike, Adidas, Puma, New Balance, and Reebok. Guys can finish the look with Pop Art-inspired Kid Robot tees and a Swiss-made Luminox watch, the brand strapped to the wrists of Navy Seal divers. Hamilton Town Center, Noblesville, 776-7667

Rusted Moon Outfitters

>> More than just a glorified gear shop, Rusted Moon is as heavy on knowledge and experience as it is on inventory. So while you can expect to find Smartwool's comfy base layers, Patagonia fleece pull-overs in every hue, and sleeping bags to suit every climate, you'll also get expert recommendations on where to paddle, hike, and ski; what to pack for your weeklong camping trip; and how to keep your Vasque boots in tip-top shape. Rusted Moon's annual kayak sale draws paddling enthusiasts and their dogs, which are always welcome in the Monon Trail-adjacent store. 6410 Cornell Ave., 253-4453

KIDS

Ballerinas and Bruisers

>> Proprietor Steve Schwartz is like that cool, spoil-you-rotten "uncle" who wasn't really a relative. While he keeps your little ones entertained with handmade wool puppets from Nepal, it's your chance to browse his plucked-from-the-Hamptons shop for safari-animal baby rompers, striped shirtdresses, and Hawaiian button-downs for boys. Nearly all of Schwartz's hip finds are things you won't see many other places, like the handmade Deglingos shoes—soft-soled kicks with a patchwork of fabric animals. 180 S. Main St., Zionsville, 733-3400

Bebe Gate

>> Little girls can't help but twirl in front of the mirrors after they've donned ballerina-worthy pettiskirts, a top seller. Bebe Gate stocks the hippest girly accessories, like nontoxic Piggy Paint nail polish and Parisian-themed necklaces, but classic smocked dresses are also back in a big way. For boys, check out the Monster Republic tees, and stop here for bamboo-fiber swaddle blankets. 920 Broad Ripple Ave., 255-2323

Jack & Jill's Children's Shoppe

>> Family-portrait time? Check this adorable Zionsville cottage for special-occasion outfits, including three-piece suits and lace-trimmed dresses. There's even a room with christening gowns and communion dresses. In playwear, polka-dot leggings and fireman-style wellies are highlights. Don't worry if your child can't live without the noisy Wee Squeak shoes, returning to the store in the fall—the squeaky part is removable. 33 E. Pine St., Zionsville, 873-9100

Keen Children's Shoes

>> The majority of toddlers need wide or extra-wide shoes—who knew? The footwear experts at Keen, that's who. Since 1961, parents have trusted the staff to find the proper fit for little feet, lacing them up in a new pair of kicks from pediatrician-approved lines and kid favorites like Stride Rite, Robeez, New Balance, Keen, Pediped, Teva, Saucony, and Uggs. The store is also an exclusive retailer of a line of wooden Amish toys. 20 Executive Dr., Carmel, 580-9830

Night Owl Baby

>> Pop on over to this Broad Ripple boutique, housed in a turquoise cottage by the Monon, Friday through Sunday for personalized cards, size newborn to 6, and accessories you won't find anywhere else, like bowties and belts sporting robots, bunnies, and skulls. A true herself, owner Mandy Selke also owns Just Pop In with her sister) understands the need for personalized style. Ordering a tee from the "I Am Hoo I Am" twins-themed line is easy: Pick a size, a monogram material, and an embroidery color; wait about a week; and voila! No more mix-ups about who's who. 6406 Cornell Ave., 257-9338

Nurture

>> The family-photo-ready offerings at Nurture are classics with modern sensibility, and the store has quite a few organic-cotton lines, too. Don't miss the locally made pennants, perfect for parties or a circus-themed room; baby bonnets and wrap dresses made in Ohio; and Giddy Giddy hairclips, handmade by a family in the Philippines. The store carries sizes infant to 6, but if your 8-year-old just has to have that plum-colored dress with ruffled sleeves for school-picture day, owner Kristen Kohn will special-order a larger size. 433 Massachusetts Ave., 423-1234

Janelle Ortiz: I Wish Ali Played Sports!

Janelle Ortiz stops by the Ice-Watch booth during Kari Feinstein's Academy Awards Style Lounge held at Montage Beverly Hills on Friday afternoon (February 25).

The 17-year-old Prom actress (wearing a Te Amo skirt and XOXO top) walked around the suite with JJJ and stopped by the Silpada, C & C California, Ice Watch and Silpada booths, among many others.

Janelle recently chatted with Savvy mag about her character in her upcoming movie, Prom and dished that she wished she played sports. "I was originally an athlete. I played softball since age 8 and was on track to attend college on an athletic scholarship. During the most important part of the recruiting process, I got injured and wasn't able to play. When it was taken away, I began acting and wound up falling in love with it," Janelle shared.

When the title of this year's Asutil conference was announced, I must admit, I did some head scratching.

Latin America: Neither hell nor paradise. I even emailed the organization and asked if there was a message, perhaps lost in translation, which I wasn't picking up on. Just what kind of message were they trying to send?

I was assured by all, there was no mistake. I then looked back at what was happening in the region this year, and the message began to sink in. Not necessarily by the events themselves, but by the way the Latins respond to both hell and paradise. They believe in neither.

When a crisis hits in the region, be it a financial crisis, or an overnight crisis from volcanic ash, a labour dispute or yet another tightening on the sale of duty free products, the Latins don't panic. They continue on with a

Ice Watch popularity continues to heat up

By Wendy Gallagher

The Ice Watch popularity continues to grow around the world and Latin America is no exception.

Launched three years ago in Belgium, the “affordable luxury” watch is described as comfortable and fun, company president Christian Jamin tells The Latin America Report.

In fact, a visit to the company website will lead you to pages devoted entirely to photos of celebrities from around the world wearing the watches.

Strong marketing of the product has been the key to the company’s success, says Jamin. Ice Watches are given to high profile people at events ranging from the Oscars to the Golden Globes. The company even entered into a partnership with the band Black Eyed Peas where a white Ice Watch can be seen in one of the band’s music videos.

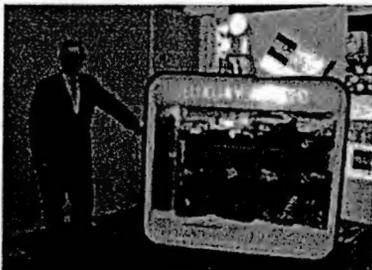

In its first year of business, the company sold product in 700 stores in the U.S. Less than three years later, Ice Watch can be purchased in more than 90 countries. With 100,000 Facebook friends, Jamin says there is much room for growth, particularly in the higher-end watch segment.

The Ice Watch is sold at duty free stores throughout Latin America, with Latins preferring brighter colours and larger watch faces, says Jamin. Ice Watches retail between US$85 and US$250.

Bijoux expands line, premiers moving cart

Gabriel Bottazzi, CEO, Bijoux Ternier

By Wendy Gallagher

Bijoux Ternier is on the move, in more than one way.

Not only has it added new brands to its collection at higher price points, it has designed a moving shop cart to be situated at airport gates.

Gabriel Bottazzi, Bijoux Ternier CEO and President, tells The Latin America Report the suitcase-shaped gondola will feature various products and will move throughout the airport to different gates. Bottazzi says he is currently in negotiations with various airports to get final approval on the concept.

Meanwhile, Bottazzi says sales in Lima’s airport experienced triple-digit growth last year. “We continue to follow the trends of high-end designers, whether the trend is big buckles on belts or small buckles. We don’t chase products, we chase trends.” He says many customers enter the store with no intention of buying. “We are a beautiful accident,” he smiles, stating most don’t leave the store without a purchase in their hand.

Customers always ask the same three questions. “How much is this? How much is this? How much is this?” says Bottazzi.

While the answer was always $10, that will soon change, as Bijoux Ternier launches two new collections, one at the $19.99 price point and the other at $29.99. “We’ve gone to a new place, but our core is the same. We offer shocking value for the price.”

Luv that vodka

The three words on Mark Holmes’ business card speaks volumes about his product and his passion: Friendship Love & Pleasure.

Promoting his U’Luvka Vodka, he calls the brand all encompassing, in that it not only is a superior vodka, but comes in a beautiful bottle. “Everyone wants to touch it,” he says. “It’s a clean bottle. It’s female friendly because it’s easy to hold the bottle and pour.”

Mark Holmes, U’Luvka Vodka

Holmes says worldwide, women drink twice as much vodka as men.

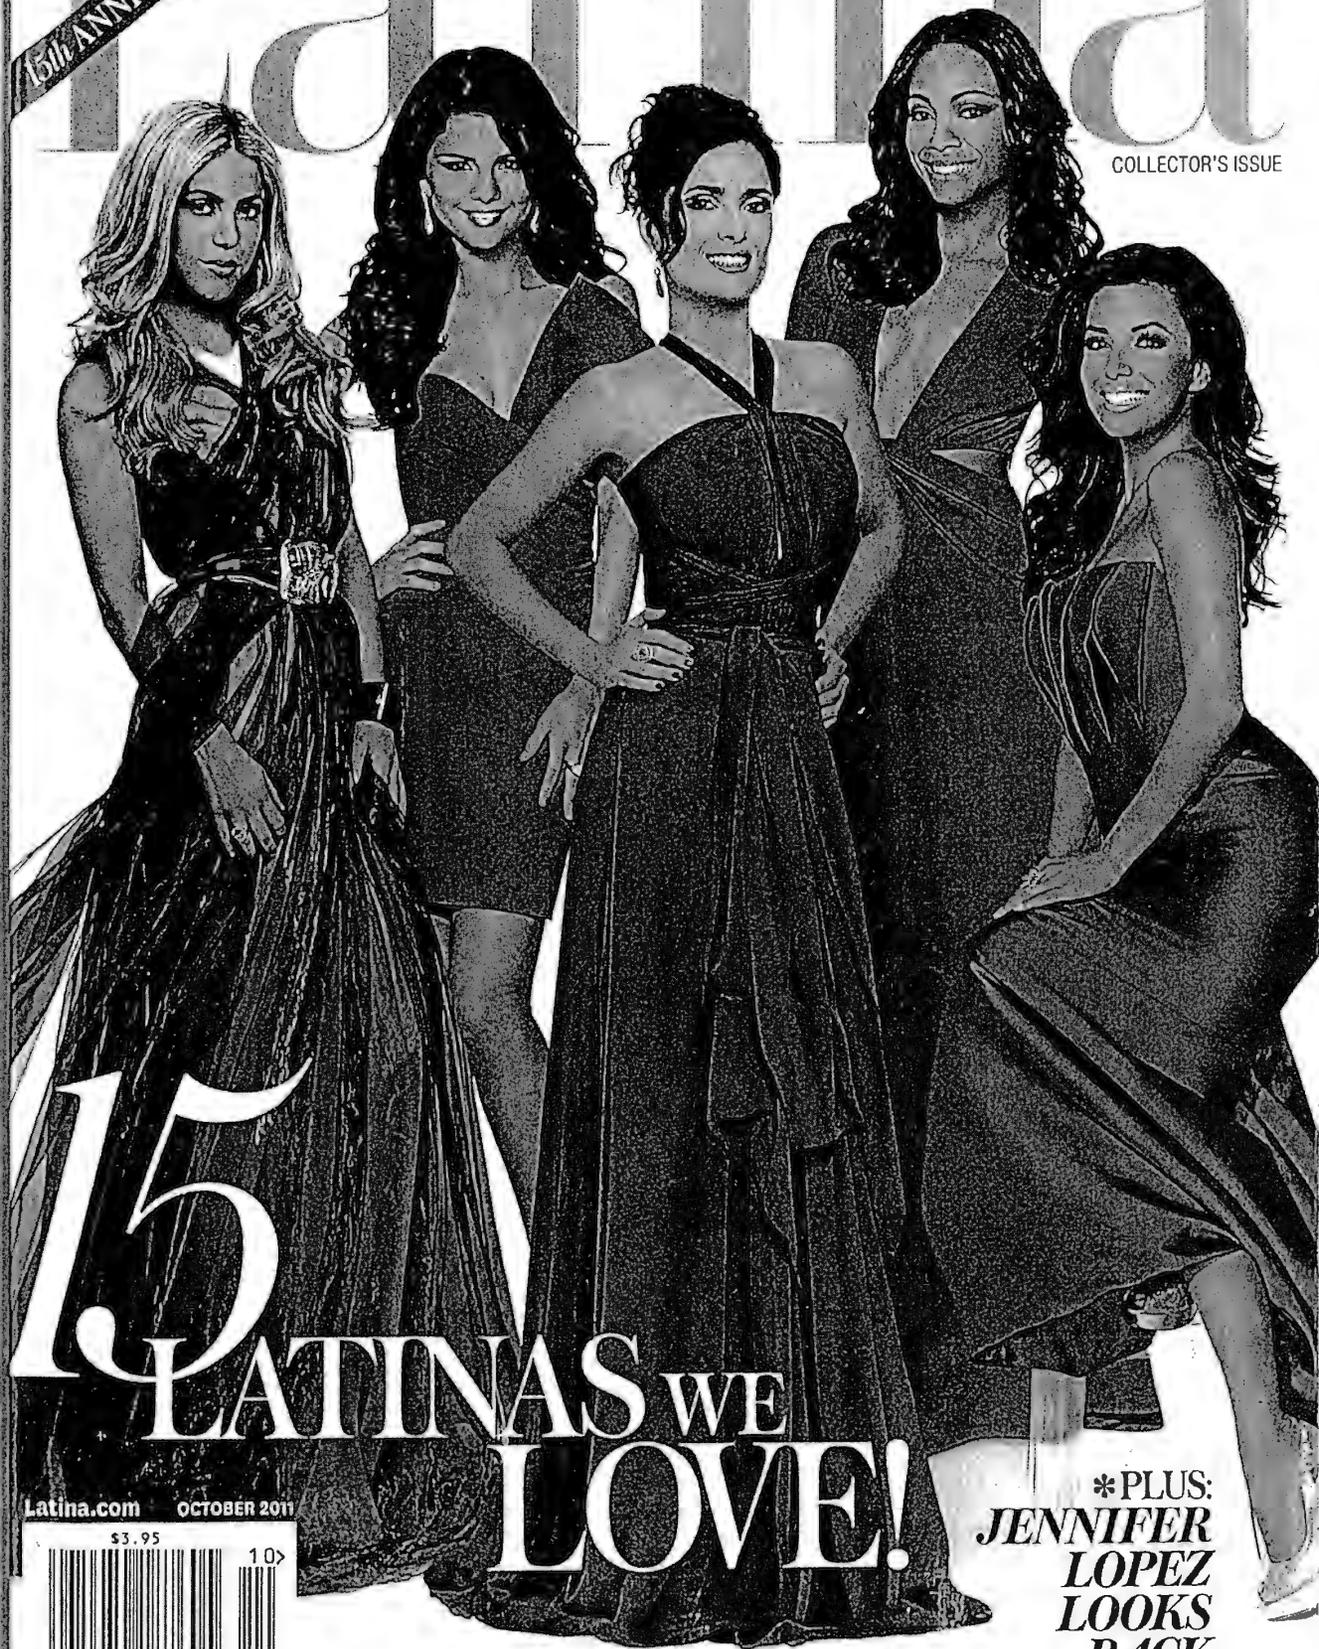

U’Luvka Vodka sales are growing in the UK, says Holmes, and the Latin market is one he’s “enormously” interested in because Latins appreciate the artistic nature of the bottle. “It’s beautiful to look at. It’s beautiful to taste.”

U’Luvka Vodka comes in many different gift packs and bottle sizes. Packed boxes, which contain two vodka drinking glasses, range in price from US$50 to US$100.

Celebrity gifting suites are becoming less exclusive and just as common during awards season as the fashion on the red carpet or the non-stop party scene. I was lucky enough to secure my MIAMI-based client (Ice-Watch www.ice-watch.com) one of the last spots in the Kari Feinstein Pre-Academy Award Celebrity Style lounge at the Montage Hotel in Beverly Hills. The two day event took place last Thursday and Friday on the beautiful terrace and was fully stocked with trend-setting clothing and accessories, luxury skin care products, high-end jewelry, electronics and other fun swag for celebs, producers, stylists and members of the press.

Each booth was equipped with a unique creative product display and brand reps on site to give celebs the lowdown on their product. Basically what happened was the celebrity picked a watch (some more indecisive than others) and in doing so they have to pose for a photo with your product.

A background on Ice-Watch: fun, fashion-forward, affordable luxury, bold and colorful. A few words used to sum up the brand. If I had to predict the new "it" colors for spring and summer based on the watches celebrities like Jennifer Love Hewitt, Cheryl Hines or Eliza Dushku picked, I would have to say turquoise, coral and yellow are the front runners. Hot pink was a big hit for some dudes like Balthazar Getty from Brothers & Sisters. Another guy favorite was the black and rose gold watches, Jesse Metcalfe's girlfriend was eyeing the Ice-Love collection but he snatched up the Rose Gold Chrono Ice-Watch for himself. A "Spring Bling" obsession was in full effect with starlets like bachelorette turned bride-to-be Ali Fedotowsky picking up the Rose Gold Stone Sili watch. Following in her footsteps was former Dancing with the Stars host Samantha Harris, only she chose the Silver Stone Sili version.

Some other notable quotes from the Keri Feinstein Pre-Academy Awards Style Lounge:

Lindsay Lohan- As soon as the starlet stepped into the style lounge she was overwhelmed with photographers. She chose to quietly exit-but not before demanding her publicist Tommy Alastra to score her the blue Sili Ice-watch. According to Tommy-she only came in to get the watch!

Jennifer Love Hewitt – She screamed at the booth "It has my name on it and it's a heart – Oh my god. I love it" regarding the Ice-Watch Love Collection. She tried on the red watch but then chose a black featuring black Swarovski Crystal heart one to take with her.

OUTWIT YOUR BODY'S
DRIVE TO RETAIN FAT

BEFORE YOU launch into yet another New Year's slim-down plan, beware: Your workouts may be working against you. In a study from the United Kingdom, some new exercisers compensated for their workouts by eating as much as 270 extra calories a day—negating more than half of the calories they burned. This self-sabotage has a ripple effect. As the number on the scale inches down at a painfully slow pace, many women give up altogether.

Don't be too hard on yourself, though—it's not entirely your fault. Women's bodies are designed to stubbornly hang on to fat, possibly to maintain their ability to reproduce. A study in the journal Appetite found that for every pound of fat that women lost while dieting, their desire to eat increased about 2%. Exercise may trigger other defense mechanisms. When sedentary overweight women exercised for over an hour 4 days in a row, levels of appetite hormones changed in ways that are likely to stimulate eating (the opposite was found in men), according to a University of Massachusetts study. And these studies don't take into account psychological saboteurs, like rewarding yourself with dessert after a tough workout.

But here's the good news: You're not destined to succumb to your body's stay-fat traps. While half of new exercisers in the UK study ate more, the rest showed no signs of feeling hungrier, ate 130 fewer calories a day, and lost more than 4 times as much weight during the 12-week study. The first step is to know what you're up against—working out doesn't entitle you to eat whatever you want. Next, you need a smart exercise plan that curbs your hunger, coupled with an eating plan (p. 70) that fuels your workouts, not your appetite, so you don't take in calories you just burned off.

Easy-Does-It Exercise

When it comes to workouts that fight hunger, less may be better—at least in the beginning. In a Louisiana State University study, researchers discovered that overweight women who did an average of 60 minutes of easy exercise 3 times a week

Anyone familiar with Miami Beach will tell you it is known for the hot steamy summer nights, beautiful women and bikinis! On Monday night July 18th the amazing swimwear designer Nicole Di Rocco was in the Cabana Grande tent at Mercedes Benz Swim fashion week preparing to put on a very sexy, very sultry show that would leave the crowd begging for more!

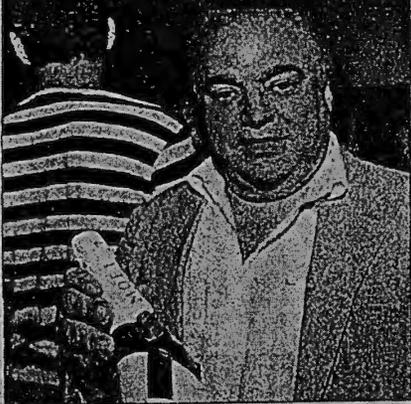

The line is called Nicolita and it takes its inspiration from the alluring 1940's Cuba era's styling blending vintage glamour with modern day silhouettes. The signature fit of 'Cuban-style' bottoms are designed for the curvaceous Latina figure. With more coverage on the hips, a heart-shaped backside and 'no-pinch' fit elastic the designs attract a broad range of fans and celebrities worldwide.

More Wine & Food Fest Fun and WMC

By Mary Jo Almeida-Shore
maryjoshore@sunpostweekly.com

While we are still in recovery from the Bacchanal otherwise known as the South Beach Wine and Food Festival, and as we prepare for the wild antics of Winter Music Conference this weekend, we would be remiss if we failed to share more photos of the spectacular tenth anniversary of SBWFF. So please enjoy some of the great photos we simply didn't have space for last week.

This week, eating takes a back burner to dancing, as DJs from all over the globe descend on the South Beach sand to spin and make us spin. In addition to WMC this year, Miami Music Week, which includes the Ultra Music Festival (3/25 - 3/27) will be held from March 22-27, so expect even more great music events in the weeks to come.

While giving you an entire line-up is next to impossible, here's a short list of places you can go to find out where to wear out your dancing shoes.

The official website and registration information for WMC can be found at: wintermusicconference.com.

WALL Miami's line-up includes European DJs/producers Yves Larock and Wally Lopez on Friday, March 11 and the exclusive Sleaze Records Miamiation Party on March 12, which will feature the crème de la crème of WMC's DJs such as Miami's own Cedric Gervais, MYA performing "Love is the Answer" live, Kùrd Maverick and Sùllan. Visit wallmiami.com for more information.

The 4AM New York City DJs will be at Soho Beach House on Thursday, March 10. RSVP to info@4am.tv or visit www.4am.tv for more information.

Shazam will be at Mansion on Friday and Paul Van Dyk will be there on Saturday. Visit www.thecapnangroup.com for details.

LLV and Arkadia at the Fontainebleau are hosting a slew of musical performances. For information, visit lvarkadia.com. For all of the great events at the Lords Hotel, visit: Lordsouthbeach.com

CELEBRITY SIGHTINGS:

Cuba Gooding Jr. and Jerry Bruechheimer were seen at the W. South Beach Hotel and Residences last week.

Pitbull, Thalia, Pharrell and, of course, Gloria Estefan were in attendance at Emilio Estefan's birthday bash at Bongo's Cuban Cafe at the Seminole Hard Rock on Friday night. The Estefans' daughter, Emily, stole the show when she played her electric guitar while her band performed at the party.

Oscar-winning actress Marlee Matlin (who most recently appears on Celebrity Apprentice) attended the Winter Party VIP cocktail at the Bass Museum on Saturday night.

Miami based brand Ice-Watch was exclusively invited to Los Angeles during this year's Oscars weekend, for which they created a pop-up display showcasing their latest collections at the Oscars Style Villa at the Kari Feinstein Oscars Style Lounge in the Montage Hotel in Beverly Hills. Celebs couldn't keep their hands off the cool accessories, choosing from an array of colors and styles. Some of the lucky guests to receive an Ice-Watch included: Lindsay Lohan, Jennifer-Love Hewitt (The Ghost Whisperer), Aly Fedowski (The Bachelorette), Jesse Metcalfe (Desperate Housewives), Laura Prepon (E!), Eliza Dushku (Buffy the Vampire Slayer), Sarah Rue (That 70's Show), Candace Cameron-Bure, Balthazar Getty (Brothers and Sisters), Sharon Leal (Hell Cats), Tom Arnold, Nolan Gould and Ariel Winter (Modern Family), and Richard Kind (Curb Your Enthusiasm).

The suite life

A look at the weekend's gifting suites

By JENNY PETERS

ALIVE! EXPO GREEN PAVILION & MIX MEDIA LUXURY LOUNGE

When: Today and Saturday

Where: London Hotel

Posh perks: Mixing a message about ecological responsibility along with a gifting suite is a no-brainer for Kim Shimmel and Patrycja Towns, who will once again be offering up organic spa treatments, a "super-sized Eco-Luxe gift bag," diamonds, cupcakes and live music from Koffehouse and Travis Marsh. The duo have their own charity, Project Green, and will donate a portion of the proceeds from the lounge to its main mission, creating sustainable summer camps for underserved children.

KARI FEINSTEIN'S ACADEMY AWARDS STYLE LOUNGE

When: Thursday and today

Where: Montage Hotel

Posh perks: "We're gifting top talent items that really stand out," says host Kari Feinstein. "From trips to Cabo to hotel stays at the Montage to Tacori diamond jewelry, all the way to Apple iPads and laptops. Basically, we have to make sure that we have products that people think of as worth coming for." Also on her must-have list: clothes by laundry by Shelli Segal, timepieces by Ice Watch and even men's underwear by 2xist.

STREET

Pros No matter where you live, there are a plethora of roads to explore right outside your door. Asphalt is easier on the body than concrete, and although there may be some stop and go, you can generally get into a continuous tempo.

Cons Many streets are cambered to drain water, and running on uneven surfaces can create muscular imbalances. Distracted drivers also spell serious safety issues, so be sure to run against traffic to see and be seen.

PAVED BIKE PATH

Pros These trails are the little black dress of running surfaces. The terrain offers the stability of an evenly-graded sidewalk, the forgiveness of an asphalt road and the car-free perks of your local track. Many of these paths (often converted railroad lines) are flat and marked by mileage signs.

Cons Although beautiful, most bike trails run through secluded areas and are frequented by zipping cyclists. Always run with a buddy, stay aware of your surroundings, keep your ears open for recreational traffic and don't leave home without your phone and ID.

CRUSHED LIMESTONE PATH

Pros Boasting one of the best terrains for running, limestone paths are flat or slightly rolling. The soft surface means less impact on your body and more efficient recovery. Often found in nature preserves, these paths offer a tranquil environment, complete with distance markers, public restrooms and water fountains.

Cons Limestone paths are best suited for longer training runs or weekend excursions as they can be tricky to find and typically require a drive.

SINGLE-TRACK TRAIL

Pros Narrow dirt trails run through the hearts of forests and undulate with the terrain. Running over rocks and across streams demands focused attention, making for a Zen-like running experience. Trail running develops strength while decreasing the risk of overuse injuries.

Cons When running off the beaten path, you may have to contend with wild animals, bugs and adverse weather. Technical trail running is energy demanding, and it requires practice and patience. ■

ETHICS UPGRADE: An effort to rein in unethical behavior in the City of Miami is to be discussed at the city commission's first regular meeting today (12/10) after the shakeup amidst allegations of unethical behavior that ousted two commissioners from office. If the initiative becomes law, all elected and appointed city officials - including department heads - and lobbyists wishing to do business with the city will have to complete an ethics course designed by the Miami-Dade Commission of Ethics and Public Trust and Florida International University's Metropolitan Center. The course is to teach "real-life scenarios of unacceptable behavior" and emphasize avoiding "even the appearance of impropriety," according to a news release.

PAY UP: The City of Miami may enter into conflict resolution with Miami-Dade County a required precursor to legal action for parking-surcharges fees the city says the county owes. The county operates parking facilities within city limits that are subject to a city-levied parking surcharge. The county has failed to pay some of this debt to the city, according to the upcoming city commission meeting's agenda, so commissioners are to decide at today's (12/10) meeting if they want the city attorney to pursue the matter.

CROSSING THE LINE: Miami-Dade County will continue appealing a state ruling that it crossed the line in approving a project over its Urban Development Boundary, though Commissioner Katy Sorenson tried again Tuesday to stop the appeal. She from the get-go opposed allowing a Lowe's to be built over the line meant to prevent sprawl and protect undeveloped land. The state has said the county erred in agreeing to the project, and Miami-Dade has been fighting back. Ms. Sorenson at a committee meeting Tuesday proposed halting the appeal and complying with the state's call. But commissioners killed the legislation. The appeal process is to continue.

when it comes to rock mining at the former Ops-Locke West General Aviation Airport. Commissioner Katy Sorenson is asking for a "post-rock mining plan." The county's Airport and Seaport Committee signed off on her proposal last week. It asks the administration to "implement a post-rock mining plan so that the Aviation Department's rock mining activities provide the county's airport system with the maximum amount of revenue while remaining consistent with a post-rock mining use of the site that meets reasonable environmental goals, standards of the county's Park and Recreation Department and acceptable post-mining public uses of the site."

At airport, costs soar higher yet

By RISA POLANSKY

The complex bag-handling system for Miami International Airport's new north terminal is to cost up to $46 million more than recently planned, bringing its total price to nearly twice the original budget: $201.6 million, up from $104.7 million.

Federal requirements and needed tweaks and upgrades may actually add as much as $63 million, but a $17 million allowance built into the project contract covers part of the increase.

The rest is to come from airport revenue bonds.

County commissioners OK'd the hike without a word at a special meeting Tuesday.

Only after a unanimous vote did they invite Aviation Director José Abreu to speak.

The $46 million comes in over budget, he acknowledged.

But he doesn't consider it technically a cost overrun because the changes add value to the system, a "less than desirable design" the county inherited.

The overdue, over-budget terminal revamp began in the '90s under American Airlines.

Miami-Dade took over in 2005 and has wrestled to right the massive project since.

The bag system work is to delay terminal completion about five months, until September 2011, though only international arrivals will feel the effects.

The added $46 million doesn't necessarily mean borrowing that much extra via bonding next year, Mr. Abreu said in an interview.

"We don't expect that all $46 million would have to be borrowed above the current borrowing cap because we have had other savings in the program we could apply."

He estimated going over the cap by about $30 million but doesn't expect to exceed the total amount authorized for the whole capital program's bonding.

The full commission is to vote on the added costs Dec. 15.

Baptist Health hunts in vain for Brickell site

By YUDISLAIDY FERNANDEZ

Despite vast Brickell office space vacancies, a hospital seeking a site to run an urgent care center there is hunting in vain.

Baptist Health South Florida is looking for 6,000 square feet for an urgent care facility or 12,000 up for both a medical facility and diagnostics center to serve workers and residents, said Ana Lopez-Blazquez, chief strategic officer and CEO of Baptist Health Enterprises, Baptist's real estate division.

Vacant space isn't the issue. Brickell's class A and B office vacancy hit almost 16% in the third quarter, totaling 827,000 square feet empty, according to brokerage Jones Lang LaSalle. Plus, 1.8 million square feet of office space is under construction in the area, with two more towers due by mid-2010. And lease rates have fallen.

But finding a prime Brickell location is about more than just getting the right price, Ms. Lopez-Blazquez says: the hospital needs visibility, accessibility and plenty of parking.

It's a daunting task, says Jack Lowell, vice president of Flagler Real Estate Services, who has assisted Baptist in its Brickell search. He says office and condo owners usually don't want a medical user because patient traffic, operating hours and parking needs can conflict with other building users.

"The class A buildings usually don't allow that use," said Mr. Lowell, leasing agent for Met 2 Financial Center, an office tower to open next year just north of Brickell. "Generally, they don't want that kind of activity."

That's why care facilities generally go into medical buildings, he says.

The hospital has eyed Brickell for years, Ms. Lopez-Blazquez said, but after the real estate market tanked it put the search on hold as owners of new condo and office towers dealt with more pressing issues.

"But recently, we have seen more activity in that area," she says. "We do have people who want Baptist closer to where they work and live, so we are looking in that area but have not made any decision."

Brickell already has one urgent care center, MediGo, at 900 SW Second Ave., which is affiliated with Mercy Hospital and offers medical services seven days a week.

Baptist's concept for a support center was born more than a decade ago when its emergency room was clogging and the hospital saw a need for facilities more accessible throughout Miami-Dade, Ms. Lopez-Blazquez explained.

Baptist began setting up urgent care centers in areas such as Westchester, West Kendall and Doral, staffed with doctors and nurses who treat ailments such as flu, simple fractures and allergic reactions. Today, its nine centers serve more than 125,000 patients a year, she said.

"What's been happening is that since it's met the needs of the community and has been successful, we have looked at other areas where we perceive to be a need," she said.

The urban core is a definite target, but it would be a first for Baptist in a bustling corridor. Most of its centers are in shopping centers in residential neighborhoods.

The search, she acknowledges, is going to take time. "It's a whole new market and approach being more of an urban location."

Targeted marketing, word-of-mouth crucial in tough times

By MARIYAN BOWDEN

Smart marketing, in tough times or good, involves matching products to demand and good customer service as much as targeting the right consumers through advertising, say luxury gift sellers.

"We're lucky to have very good, loyal clients," said Josie Esquijarosa, owner of The Rose Tree Cottage, located at 388 Miracle Mile for the past 15 years.

"Especially now, I depend a lot on my regulars coming in, because although the theory is that these are the times when you should advertise, with this economy finding the money to do that extensively is very difficult."

She said exclusive product lines help attract customers.

"We are the only ones locally who carry The Thymes collection of bath, body and home products," Ms. Esquijarosa said. "The same with Seda France, a candle and fragrance line."

"During this time of year we do magnificently with Mark Roberts Fairies, which are little pose-able elves that can be hung on lamps and so on. There's a tremendous number of people who collect them, and they come here specifically for that."

Offering items in a variety of price ranges rather than exclusively high-end also brings in more customers, she said, "and if we don't have what someone wants we will try to find it for them. For small businesses, service is key."

Carlos Miele, a women's apparel store in Village of Merrick Park, has adjusted its lines to Josie Esquijarosa, owner of The Rose Tree Cottage, enjoys a very loyal clientele, which has been crucial to meet local demand, said Owner Alex Berger.

"When we opened we concentrated mostly on evening gowns," he said. "However, we noticed since last Christmas that people are looking for more casual items, and that many events that used to be black-tie are not anymore. They are changing their formats so women don't have to spend as much on clothing."

"Some women are now recycling gowns and wearing them more than once, which didn't happen until a few months ago. And they will settle for the $1,000 dress rather than the $5,000 one."

Carlos Miele, a Brazilian designer, creates many lines, from jeans wear to gowns, Mr. Berger said, "so in our store we're changing the mix and incorporating more custom tops and jeans, as well as long dresses that are less couture, bringing the cost down. We've seen good results with this."

In talking to other retailers, he said, "I'm finding they're not carrying as much luxury as before. We are all starting to understand the new reality of the market, where buying on credit is not so easy and buying habits are changing."

Mr. Berger said he still relies on traditional print advertising in magazines and newspapers, but also uses Internet-based

"I march to my own drummer and for six years I have been very successful with word-of-mouth and referrals."

Bonnie Koch

campaigns.

"We advertised our last sale on Facebook," he said. "We do e-mail blasts to a lot of customers, with their consent, instead of the traditional direct-mail pieces, and also sometimes text-messages."

Sara Colombo, owner of Nest, a European home furnishings and gift shop at 1020 Lincoln Road, said she brought the store some timely publicity by teaming up with a gallery based in Florence, Italy, to sponsor an event showing some works during Art Basel.

Jewelry designer Bonnie Koch, whose private line of one-of-a-kind, handmade jewelry, Bonnie's Vintage Rocks, has sold mostly by word of mouth, said she is expanding her business via Internet marketing this year.

Her creations, which combine vintage pieces, semi-precious stones and beads, used to be mostly "house-party driven."

"I march to my own drummer," she said, "and for six years I have been very successful with word-of-mouth and referrals."

Because each piece is unique, Ms. Koch said, she was dubious at first about Internet sales, but with a little back-and-forth about availability her new Web site is working well.

"It's opened up a whole new market for me," she said, "from Seattle to Texas to the Northeast."

In addition to what she calls her "loyal cult following," Ms. Koch said she markets her jewelry in a few salons in Broward. During the holiday season, she says, "I also do trunk shows in different locations -- clothing showrooms and boutiques."

Unique, 'affordable' luxury gifts the season's most popular

By MARIYAN BOWDEN

Retailers report luxury-grade candles, watches and jewelry continue to sell well among early shoppers this holiday season.

Nest, 1020 Lincoln Road, has been seeing a lot of shoppers searching for one-of-a-kind gifts, says owner Sara Colombo. The store carries high-end European home furnishing and gifts, with a focus on goods from Italy.

"We carry a line of candles priced from $30-$500 and have sold them very well for Christmas presents or hostess gifts over the holidays," she said, "as well as a lot of high-end accessories."

These include a horn and brass jewelry box priced at $1,200, some unusual men's watch winders that retail at around $5,000, stingray ashtrays ($250) and cashmere throws priced anywhere from $450-$1,800, she said.

Internet marketing has brought Nest customers from New York, California and other US markets, Ms. Colombo said -- and also a number of Italians with second homes in South Florida.

Watches that sell for $85-$200 -- a price point referred to as "affordable luxury" -- are hot this year, said Roy Goldwasser, national sales manager for Kronos America, a Miami-based distributor of timepieces whose products are sold to retailers in local malls. "Where retailers are saying they are seeing a decline," he said, "is in the $500-$1,000 range."

The Ice-Watch, a water-resistant, lightweight line acquired by Kronos and just recently released in the US, is turning out to be a seasonal hit, he said.

Ice-Watches are a hot item this holiday season as they are at an affordable price point while being trendy in both color and large size.

"It's doing fantastic in this very tough economy," Mr. Goldwasser said. "We think it's because of the price, styles and marketing concept."

The packaging, he said, helps sell the watches, which begin at $85. "Each watch comes in its own collectible and reusable 'Beebie' that matches the color, feel and finish of the watch," he said, "and also doubles as a coin bank."

"In addition, the boxes stack up well, so it's good for merchandising as well."

Generally, watches selling this season are big and colorful, Mr. Goldwasser said. Ice-Watch is available in 10 colors, and "in the Miami market especially," he said, "large-face watches are the buzz."

Francesca's Collections, a boutique in The Falls, is selling a lot of jewelry, said Manager Kristin C. Knight -- particularly sets of unusual earrings, necklaces and bracelets.

"We're also moving a lot of scented candles and tea and coffee mugs," she said. "People are looking for gifts that are unique and eclectic, and there are more people looking for bargains than a few years ago."

Francesca's Collections prepares for this, Ms. Knight said, by maintaining sales on many items.

"We were kind of nervous at first," she said, "but now we're anticipating a very good season"

FASHIONABLY LATE NO LONGER:

Hollywood Stars Flock To Ice-Watch® During The 2010 Golden Globe Awards Style Lounge

Miami-based Kronos America, LLC, the official distributors of Ice-Watch® in the United States, proudly represented South Florida on January 14th and 15th as they launched their timepiece brand on the West Coast during the 67th Annual Golden Globe Awards. Ice-Watch® joined forces with Kari Feinstein to showcase their product at Feinstein's annual Style Lounge at Zune L.A., during an invitation-only star-studded event.

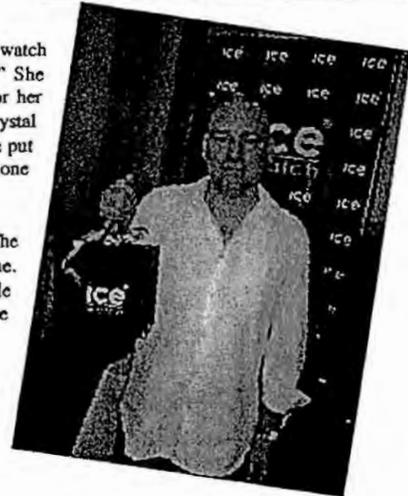

DUO magazine has the inside scoop to deliver to our celebrity fans and fashion enthusiasts. Read on for the "tell-all" from what celebrities said to what watches they selected.

According to Christian Jamin, CEO of Kronos America, LLC more than 150 celebrities flocked to the colorful Ice-Watch® booth over the course of two days. Noticeably a favorite of the two-floor style lounge, the fashionable accessories created with a spectrum of bright hues and "of-the-now" pop colors of yellow, orange, blue, red, white, black, green, and purple. Favorite celebrity-collections included the Classic, Sili, 1844 and Stone, which features a Swarovski crystal dial.

Socialite Paris Hilton who selected a Big Pink Sili watch for herself exclaimed, "It matches my pink Bentley." She also asked for the black and rose gold 1844 watch for her boyfriend along with two additional Swarovski crystal watches from the Stone Collection – one in which she put on and wore the rest of the day after asking "which one matches my outfit better?"

Bridget Marquardt, ex-girlfriend to Hugh Hefner and playmate from E!'s "The Girls Next Door", joked "Of course you picked the pink one for me" when shown the line. However, she must be putting her pink bunny days to rest as she not only left with the Purple Sili, but "shopped" the villa alongside her new beau Nick Carpenter. A diamond "N" necklace adorning her neck crediting her new fling, could not be missed.

Ice-Watch is available at select Dillard's locations nationwide and locally at Time Station, Tick Tock, World Time USA and Watch Time. For more information about the brand or to get the celebrity look, please visit www.ice-watch.com -DUO

Frederick's of Hollywood launched "Hollywood Sizzle: Pool Party Swim", a new line of women's swimwear at REHAB at the Hard Rock Hotel & Casino Las Vegas on Memorial Day weekend. The 2010 REHAB Model Search, co-sponsored by Frederick's of Hollywood, kicked off the same time.

Finalists will vie for the grand prize in a sneak peek of a rock 'n roll inspired studded swimsuit from the 2011 collection worthy of the hottest "daylife" experience in Las Vegas.

Five sultry styles are available for limited edition purchase this summer at Las Vegas retailers including Love Jones at the Hard Rock and Frederick's of Hollywood retail locations. Retailing between $88-$108, the bathing suit styles take inspiration from sexy lingerie looks that made the Frederick's of Hollywood brand iconic.

The "Hollywood Sizzle: Pool Party Suit" collection offers pieces from a "Tinsel Town" bikini embellished with gold sequins to a one-of-a kind "I Do" bridal bikini and matching train sarong so brides-to-be can flaunt their status poolside from their bachelorette to honeymoon.

look stylish when someone asks ... What time is it?

With daylight saving time around the corner, it's time to strap on a hot new timepiece to keep you up-to-the minute. Watches are the fourth strongest-selling accessory. "They've become a fashion statement," says Robert Goodman of Goodman Jewelers. Retailers are delivering options — from watches that show your allegiance to your favorite team (Colts, anyone?) to wrist candy in an array of delicious colors.

COLTS FAN — ALL THE TIME!

Show your dedication to your favorite team by wrapping one of these new Colts "Go Blue" watches around your wrist. Offered by Reis-Nichols Jewelers, the stainless watches feature a white arabic/index date dial with red and blue accents and blue bezel. Each retails for $249.

Tommy Bahama styles epitomize laid-back island life. They also remind us to take it easy like with this men's Pelican Bay Watch and the women's Reef Diver Watch. The pieces, which each bear the message "Relax," retail for $125 and $135, respectively. Available at Tommy Bahama/The Fashion Mall at Keystone.

LOVE THAT GATOR!

That iconic image of the Lacoste alligator is making a resurgence — giving us that wide-mouthed grin on a number of stylish watches. Prices range from $95 to $195. Available at Macy's and Nordstrom.

CAN'T GET HOTTER THAN ICE HOT

Goodman Jewelers in Zionsville was the first retailer in the Indianapolis area to carry the yummy Ice-Watch. The Belgium-designed piece is leading the way in the demand for plastic watches: They're selling at a rate of 250,000 a month worldwide. Retailers for about $85 to $150.

As watch brands this year take a more introspective look at their brand DNA, Raymond Weil is no exception. Last year, the company took over its U.S. distribution in an effort to re-establish the brand's "personal and family commitment" to its largest market and to reinvigorate its image. Its introductions at Basel World this year echoed that theme, including several new women's timepieces. The Geneva-based brand stresses three attitudes in its women's timepieces: audacity, modernity and refinement. That's exactly the concept behind the Freelancer Summertime, a new watch that blends traditional Swiss mechanical movement with the "zest of panache." Available in natural as well as citrus-like brights, the Freelancer straddles the line between classic and fashion-forward. ■■

Boarded-up businesses and abandoned restaurants give parts of Ciudad Juarez a ghostly look as organized crime strangles economic activity.

THE ECONOMY

A big push for the other tax breaks

Outside of the limelight of the Bush-era tax cuts, students, teachers and businesses will likely benefit from a lesser-known set of breaks.

BY DAVID LIGHTMAN
McClatchy News Service

WASHINGTON — Dozens of tax breaks designed to help a wide variety of interests — students, teachers, energy companies and lots of others — are due to expire at the end of the year, and most of them have been tacked on to the White House-Republican tax-cut deal to help it get through Congress.

The Senate is scheduled to take its first test vote on the package Monday, and now that the package has ballooned to include these breaks, it's expected to pass.

Inclusion of the breaks is either traditional Washington capitulation to special interests or vital help for industries and consumers who badly need it — depending on one's point of view.

"People who benefit from these smaller items put on a big push. It's worth a lot of money to them, and they can hire the lobbyists to help. There's really nobody on the other side arguing against this," said Robertson Williams, a senior fellow at the Tax Policy Center, a nonpartisan research group.

WEAR

DC Life presents its Please Stand By Holiday 2010 collection, a set of themed sneakers that seem more thoughtful than footwear that makes you run faster and jump higher. The special edition Admiral SE ($100) and Sector 7 SE ($90) explore the evolution of communication and technology — our grandfather read the newspaper, our dad watched the news, and we surf the Internet. Analog is dead. They feature familiar vintage TV aesthetics, from the Please Stand By TV console to the underlay made of a jacquard Snow Screen to the lining with retro analog TV color. Shoe Gallery, 244 NE First Ave., Miami.

BUY

How do celebrities know the hour? They look at their cellphones. Just joking. Some of 'em actually have watches. Only the coolest, of course. Take for example the Ice Watch, which was just featured in the Black Eyed Peas new video for the song The Time. Paris Hilton's been snapped sporting it as has Wendy Williams and Audrina Patridge. From $110 at The Shop (121 Washington Ave., Miami Beach), Rhythm Couture at Sawgrass Mills in Sunrise. www.ice-watch.com.

Tokens of Love

Send heart-felt messages that celebrate and inspire life's little treasures.

This mini treasure chest ($14) is a small (it can be held in the palm of your hand), red paper box from Nepal filled with nine gold-colored ceramic coins, or tokens, that share words of inspiration: relish, dance, romp, enjoy, frolic, savor, revel, sing and cavort. As you lift up the gold latch with the word "Celebrate" written across it, you'll find a message of love underneath the lid that reads: "Each day awake and celebrate—a word inspires your heart's desire." ### CALLING ALL POOCHES AND PEEPS

Pawpurrazzi 2010, an event to benefit the Greater Miami Adopt-A-Pet, is scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 23, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Jungle Island Convention Center. The event features a parade of fun, food, fashion and music. All four-legged guests will enjoy a doggie makeover, an ice cream bar and a doggie fashion show. A highlight of the event is sure to be the "Great Pets Who Can Walk the Runway" show where select guests and their furry friends will walk the "catwalk." Our favorites from past years: Renee Zellweger's adorable pup, Dexter Rosenblatt, in matching outfits and Celine Dion's Fannie Dascal of South Motors with celebrity spoils-dog Louisa. This year, the University of Miami Theatre Arts Department will treat guests to a special performance of... you guessed it: CATS! Ironical but true! Ticket prices go for $350, $500, $750 or $1,000 per person. For additional information contact Laurie Hoffman at 305-749-1815 or email her at laurie@humansocietymiami.org.

Also on Friday night, the South Beach Comedy Festival will host a red carpet VIP event sponsored by Grey Goose vodka at Plunge at the Gansevoort from 10 p.m.-1 a.m. Guests will have a chance to meet their favorite comedians from this year's festival, including Aziz Ansari, Mike Birbiglia, Kevin Hart, Gabriel Iglesias, Brian Regan, Joe Rogan, Rory Albanese, John Oliver and Rob Riggle.

Florida Room's John Lermayer will be the top mixologist for the ultimate Agave event in Miami Beach. Guests will enjoy a four-course dinner created by Robert Mignola and Michelle Bernstein, a DJ set by DJ Dax and Jacques Beauderhout. Tickets are $125. For more information, contact Laura Cullen: Laurac@clarkesmi.com.

CELEBRITY SIGHTINGS

John Legend celebrated his 28th birthday with friends and family at the Miami Heat superbar, who helped raise $100,000 for earthquake victims in Haiti, sipped cocktails and danced to the reggaeton music of Daddy Yankee and jammed to music by his favorite DJ and close friends, including hip-hop producers Cool and Dre along with his teammates. Hip-hop producers Cool and Dre along with his teammates, including rapper Jay-Z and his wife Beyonce, were on hand to help Wade celebrate. Other guests included Howard Stern and his wife Diane at Blue Sea at Delano last Friday night.

Stolone Walker attended the Ocean Drive/Green Room Society party on Tuesday.

BRING OUT YOUR

If classic lit scared you before, these books should give you chills

By GREG MORAGO
FOOD EDITOR

OH, the horror! Literary purists may be aching to take a Texas chain saw to the monster mash-up genre that has been racing through the publishing industry like a raging virus.

Never heard of monster lit? It pretty much began early last year with the publication of Pride and Prejudice and Zombies, which married zombie fiction elements to the Jane Austen novel. Since then, other classic titles have risen from the dead in new monster forms. Last year saw the publication of Adventures of Huckleberry Finn and Zombie Jim, Mansfield Park and Mummies and Sense and Sensibility and Sea Monsters.

Already this year we have Queen Victoria: Demon Hunter and Abraham Lincoln: Vampire Hunter, which currently is on the New York Times best-seller list. Waiting in the wings: Wuthering Bites, Little Women and Werewolves and (in a March sisters bonanza) Little Vampire Women.

Like the undead, monster lit doesn't show any signs of going away. Fanboys out there who are well versed in vampires, aliens, mummies, werewolves and zombies could easily tap into this genre. All you need is a demon and a dream. Think about some classic titles that just beg for tweaking (The Call of the Wild, The Brothers Karamazov, The Picture of Dorian Gray), and others that seem already sufficiently primed as dead and bloody (Slaughterhouse-Five, The Naked and the Dead).

So, my brothers grim, get busy: You could have the next monster mash hit on your hands.

Here are some titles we're toying with:

1 THE GREAT ZOMBIE GATSBY: The story of the 1920s era of moral decay is set against actual decay as West Egg residents develop a flesh-rotting sickness that turns them into ragged monsters on the hunt for fresh,

Colombia se viste de Esteban Cortázar,
la nueva estrella entre sus diseñadores

Esteban Cortázar ha colocado a Colombia en el mapa internacional de la moda con toda justicia. Su alianza con los almacenes Éxito llevan a la mujer colombiana las tendencias de las pasarelas internacionales. Esa es la inspiración del creador traducida en intercambiables piezas "todoterrreno", adaptables a la diversidad climática del país, y que apuestan por una elegancia sofisticada, urbana y nunca pretenciosa. Faldas, chaquetas, camisetas, blusas, abrigos, vestidos, pantalones y shorts se presentan en cortes clásicos y en una sobria paleta de colores enteros que estilizan la silueta latina. La propuesta la complementan accesorios en colores neutros, rosas y azules.

For those who haven't purchased one in awhile, you'd be surprised at the functions that even the most basic of watches come with today. From helping your golf swing to telling the time while under water, we share some of our favorite watches that accomplish some impressive feats without compromising style or function.

"I'm usually running around with my boys, and layering is key for me. My go-to outfit is jeans, a knit jacket and flats. I love thin turtlenecks under everything, and a printed scarf is the perfect accessory."

intense brows

HOW YOU'LL SEE IT WORN
Highly defined, shaded-in, full and arched—that's the name of the game in the brow department this fall.

HOW YOU CAN WEAR IT

You'll risk looking like Groucho Marx if you try it at work, the one place where you're trying to avoid extreme anything, and drawing on a strong shape can actually make you look angry or mean. "That's the last thing you want your patients to think!" says Barose. So forget about perfecting your shape and focus on tinting and darkening instead. This offers definition and a nice frame for your eyes without any overt attention that shouts "BROWS!"

*white eye pencilHOW YOU'LL SEE IT WORN

Noticeably shimmery-white shadow and liner are being swept along the lower lash line and into the inner corner of lids for a super-pale effect that pops against dark mascara.

HOW YOU CAN WEAR IT

Skip the shimmer and stick with a matte white eye pencil—a product that can become your best friend after a long night at work, explains Linter, who recommends buying one in a soft texture for easy application. For an instant wake-up call, apply the pencil to your lower water line (that's the reddish, inner line at the base of your lashes) and watch how the fatigued look seems to disappear. A dab of white on the inner corner of the eye, where dark shadows tend to be most noticeable, will also help perk you up.

*dramatic lashesHOW YOU'LL SEE IT WORN

False lashes and salon extensions are bigger (literally) than ever. Combined with smoky liner, they make your lashes and lids look like one big, alluring feature—you don't know where one stops and the other starts.

HOW YOU CAN WEAR IT

Accentuating lashes is a terrific way to mask fatigue and give the eyes some attention without resorting to intensely colored shadow or liner. We're not suggesting nurses wear actual falsies though! Stick to one of the hot new false-lash mascaras that do the job in a more covert fashion. They coat, lengthen and define each strand without creating that dreaded spider effect.

Watch Report

Growth is the watch word

Opportunities are increasing in the Americas watch market, but so is the competition

Swatch is introducing three golden additions to The Chrono collection

BY JAMES ROSS

It seems that the time is now for the watch business in Americas travel retail. Both retailers and suppliers have been aware of a growing interest in timepieces from consumers due to the fact that more players have been entering the field and creating choice – mostly at the lower end of the market – and because right through the financial downturn the high end market has held up well.

Exports of watches and movements from the Swiss Watch Federation (see table below) show that the Americas is second only to Asian demand. In the 11 months to November export sales to the Americas grew by +16.1%, to CHF 2,372.3 million (US$2,593.1 million) compared to the same period in the year before, whereas Asia's growth was 25.5%.

The figures also show a general trend to upscaling in North America which is a mature market for watches. Here unit exports grew by 11.6% but value exports were up by 18.0% showing that average prices are increasing. In Latin America the exact opposite is true: unit exports increased by 12.5% ahead of the 10.3% seen in value sales indicating that strong emerging markets and their populations are still buying watches for their functionality rather than status or craftsmanship. Demand is therefore biggest at lower price points and the pressure on retailers is to offer brands like Timex rather than Tiffany and Misaki instead of Montblanc.

According to Swatch Group in the US, demand for quality Swiss watches "grew in 2010 despite two years of global financial uncertainty" and it claims its brands gained market share in all segments thanks to a strong focus on distribution, retail expansion and novel marketing. For example Breguet, at its top end, has sponsored the New York Philharmonic's opening night while Omega is still reaping the rewards of being the timekeeper at the Winter Olympics in Vancouver that year.

What does all this mean for the duty free channel? Both northern and southern sides of the Americas are developing at different paces, in price terms, due to the different maturities of their respective traveling consumers but, in both cases, sales are rising in the relevant segments that attract these travelers, not least from Brazil. So while the high-end business has scope for further development in North America, the opportunity across the region as a whole is at price positions below that – and this is where most newcomers are coming in.

The Swiss watch figures also indicate that while Latin markets are growing fast in general, in the watch business the region only produces one third of the sales of its northern counterpart which means there are opportunities to take advantage of this developing consumer market.

One newcomer to travel retail is Ice-Watch which has made good headway. Its colorful watches make an immediate statement and their pricing is accessible. At Kronos America, the brand's exclusive distributor in the US and all Americas duty free markets including the Caribbean, President Christian Jamin says: "The watch category has continued to grow significantly throughout the Americas. The Caribbean remains very strong for recognized,

All of Fossil's brands performed well but some of the highlights included Michael Kors, Diesel and, of course, Fossil watches international brands because it is a destination for international tourists. Brazil enjoyed substantial business due to its favorable exchange rate which has increased purchasing power and drawn domestic consumers into duty free shops. Neighbouring Paraguay also experienced positive growth due to Brazilian consumers."

Border duty-free retailer, Shopping China, which has four locations on Brazil's borders, says that Tommy watches, made by Movado Group, have been among its biggest sellers across all departments. Other fashion

When will Tech-Airport enter the US?

Tech-Airport, the retail division of Swatch formed in 2004, has yet to enter the Americas market under its Hour Passion multi-brand fascia – which might seem surprising given that the region includes one of the fastest developing emerging duty free markets in the world (Brazil), and one of the top three global markets in the channel (the US). The company also has subsidiaries in Brazil, Canada, Mexico, Panama and the US so it is not short on local expertise.

Swatch says it does not comment on its regional development plans but it is likely that the company is biding its time for the right locations in the Americas. So far Hour Passion has opened in eight European airports in France, Switzerland, Ireland and Germany, with a total of 19 global locations up to the end of last year. Tech-Airport, which also operates mono-branded Swatch and Omega stores at airports, says it will have a network of 40 sales outlets by the end of 2012 which should mean the possibility of some non-European western hemisphere airport expansion.

The hold up may be the airports themselves. Nayla Hayek, the Chair of Swatch Group has referred to Tech-Airport's expansion within "worldclass airports" which might suggest slow progress in the Americas where the words world-class and airports are rarely heard in the same sentence. By Skytrax's star rankings just two airports make its 3-star list; Atlanta and Houston George Bush, both of which have low international passenger traffic. And even airport group ACI's last published ASQ awards did not give any big Americas international airports recognition except Vancouver in Canada.

designer watches such as Guess, made by Callanen International, a subsidiary of Timex, and ck Calvin Klein, made by Swatch Group, all have potential in duty free in Latin markets where international fashion brands have strong appeal.

Fossil, too, has made some strong gains in its watch business which includes a number of licensed brands. Fossil Inc Travel Retail Division Director Diane Harrington says: "We had a very strong watch year in travel retail. All of our brands performed well but some of the highlights included Michael Kors, Diesel and, of course, Fossil watches. Although we experienced much growth overall, our biggest increases were in Latin America and the Caribbean."

UK-based Scorpio Distributors is now developing the Americas duty free market having seen its Aviator and Avalanche brands do well globally; the Middle East and Europe both showed the best growth year-on-year, with Asia close behind. Aviator offers value by mixing good design with a high specification for the price while Avalanche fills the current demand for inexpensive colorful, trendy watches.

Director of Travel Retail Sales Garry Stoner says: "The Americas is a development region for these brands; over the past 12 to 18 months we have started to introduce them into the market and, after some successful initial trials, we are using this year's IAADFS to launch both brands to all markets in the region, supported by new point of sale merchandising units and many new styles."

Supplier views on what's driving purchasing naturally vary, but one thing they agree on is brand. Harrington says: "The customer is looking for what's new and exciting. It's all about the brand and the styling." Kronos' Jamin adds: "In today's smart phone, digital age, watches are no longer needed for checking the time. They are fashion accessories of self expression, and status symbols so, more than ever, brands are focusing on bright colors, materials and designs."

He argues this is the reason sales of fashion watches, specifically reasonably-priced brands below US$300, are driving today's market. "For example, the Sili Collection from Ice-Watch in a multitude of different colors and priced at US$110 continues to be our best selling collection," Jamin says.

Despite travel retail's reputation as a high-end channel, value certainly sells. Scorpio's Aviator for example, is exclusive to duty free which means shoppers are picking it out based on the value for money they get on its design and specification in relation to branded competitors. Its Avalanche lines are often accompanied by a GWP – another carrot that the company seems to dangle with success.

Looking ahead, there seems little that can interrupt the growth of the watch market. Individual segments may suffer if the pressure on price does not ease up and if more brands continue to enter the channel, but the category's overall sales are set to rise. Stoner points out that in some cases "stores are becoming over ranged, which looks messy and confusing and could turn potential buyers off making a purchase", while the economy of the US has also made other suppliers twitchy. On the whole, however, they are positive and optimistic that watch brands have a good time coming to them. □

Perhaps even more than they embrace celebrities and idols, Americans triumphantly celebrate the downfall of their heroes. Whether rejoicing in lurid details of sex scandals and drug addictions, or mocking the inability to adjust to rapidly changing times, there is great self righteous glee that props up the Surreal Lives and the Dr. Drews of the world. But while Americans snicker at fallen icons, every once in a while, the punchline is behind the curtain laughing right alongside the audience.

Enter Vanilla Ice, the early 90's symbol of hip hop's mainstream acceptance, with his Billboard-topping single and worldwide fame confirming to tentative white people that yes, it's okay to like rap music. But with his fall from grace seeming to start as suddenly as his meteoric rise, the words "Ice Ice Baby" soon became something of a punchline for talking head pop culture shows and kids who were in diapers at the time of rap's first great white hope.

But if America is the land of second acts and second chances, the truth is that Vanilla Ice, real name Robert Van Winkle, never saw the curtain go down in the first place. And as the nation struggles in the doldrums of the economic recession, perhaps it's this once-16-year old rapping prodigy that can, in his own little way, lift American spirits once again.

Here's the pitch:

"I've had a great success in real estate, that's how I've made my investments, how I've held on to my money, that's how I didn't end up like MC Hammer," Vanilla Ice told The Huffington Post. And it's true.

A long time carpenter and real estate investor, Vanilla Ice hosts a home renovation show, "The Vanilla Ice Project," on the DIY Network (and is hosting a contest, appropriately titled

"Ice My House," to renovate a fan's room (DIYNetwork.com/VanillaIce). Starting with a gigantic, gutted foreclosed home, Ice renovates a room in each episode, showing his audience how to work their tools and plan their dream homes in the process. And it's all real, he says; the passion started long ago, as he was shifting from rock star to actual human being.

Seeking to convert his 15000 square foot mansion, which was more bachelor pad/nightclub hybrid than actual home, Ice said that he decided to do it the old fashioned way, throwing out interior decorator designs for his own handiwork.

"Instead of hiring a bunch of decorators to come in, I just looked at a bunch of pictures and stuff and said, well hell, I'm just gonna do this myself," he told HuffPost. "So I did it myself, I stepped back at the end and I was really proud of it. I turned everything into earth tone colors; I made everything, instead of feeling like a nightclub, feel like a home, a nice warm cozy home, so when I came home I felt good."

He went ahead and sold a number of other mansions he had acquired and never used, and when he still made money off of them, he decided that real estate was his next venture. So he studied up, learning about demographics and infrastructure and even the relative value that southern exposures can add to a house. To hear him talk now, you'd think he was on CNBC, not destroying a set on MTV as he once did so famously.

"Now that the market has flipped upside down and the prices of homes have come down and everything, it's even better for investment," Vanilla Ice excitedly preaches, like he's so desperately trying to get the information out to a downtrodden public. "Most people know the common terms, short sells and foreclosures, but there's even better ways of buying homes that you can learn about, like tax liens, auctions, you can go in and if you know the process, really invest properly and get these houses for pennies on the dollar."

He can rattle off stats about how the areas hardest hit by foreclosures so often are the first to bounce back, with their ready infrastructure and schools and rock bottom prices. If he can capitalize off it, he seems to be saying, anyone can.

In fact, the pitchman voice suits him so well, he's making a real go of it, starting his own investment courses (<http://www.vanillaiceestate.com>). Yes, in a housing market so depressed, he's been crushed with requests for investment advice and television appearances. Welcome to 21st century America. But, Vanilla Ice assures viewers and potential students, this is all real; he's largely kept his success private, sheltering his family and his investments and handiwork. Both the pitch for the show and investment courses emphasize that point.

"This is real. This is no reality show. This is real, it's got content, it's not just some celebrities acting like jackasses in a house, it's real, it's informative," he says (he should know, having spent a season on that disaster known as "The Surreal Life"). "It's entertaining and it's a good family, mainstream thing that also shows people that, you know what, there is hope out there. Look at this, it's not all bad news. You change the channel, it's all the housing market's dropped again, people aren't paying their mortgage, the economy's dropping, the US dollar is dropping, where is this going, nobody has any direction. Well let me show you something: here we are, still Americans and we can still do it like this. This gives people hope."

As if to prove his good intentions, Vanilla Ice and the DIY Network are asking viewers around the country (<http://www.diynetwork.com/vanillaice>) to send in video of a room in their home that they want renovated for their "Ice My House" contest. Armed with $30,000, he and his crew will come in breathe new life into it -- and feature the results in a special season premiere of his show in 2012. It's open to entries until June 27th.

It's an amazing story for a man who still creates nu metal-hip hop hybrid music -- he's slated to drop a new album later in the year, which he promises will have no curses and a bit of a Lady Gaga-inspired techno dance sound -- and has permanent derma-evidence of what he calls his "weekend that lasted a few years," which included use of ecstasy, heroin and cocaine. But no matter, he says. He's clean now, and in truth, his voice is sober, focused and intensely excited about his next venture: saving the American housing crisis.

But can a nation seriously take investment advice from a man named Vanilla Ice? He's positive on this question, too, insisting that he embraces his name, so seared into the American public's psyche as it is. But he admits, he didn't always much enjoy it.

"I didn't even like the name Vanilla Ice. It was because I had a breakdancing crew and they labeled me that and I kept telling them stop calling me that! I don't like it. Why are you calling me that, because I'm the only white guy here? Well F you guy!" he remembers back with a laugh. "And then they were my friends, and when your friends see you don't like something, it sticks even more. So they were like 'Oh, he hates it,' so they were like 'Vanilla Vanilla Vanilla.'"

Eventually, he said, Vanilla got put together with the name of his dance move, the Ice, creating the name that stuck. And he's okay with that, okay with his legacy, optimistic about the future.

"So obviously now, I love it. It's been braided, it's been stuck in there, and I embrace it. We are who we are because of who we were."
