have no choice but to match the bike's style otherwise you'll be disappointed. The style can be categorized as either being traditional vintage style, or a more modern look, even though there are other styles in between.

* Studded bags: Most studded bags are for those who want a more aggressive vintage look. This is just a general rule that does not apply to everyone, who loves Honda motorcycles. If you decide to pick studded bags, ensure that the metal used for the studs is made of durable material such as stainless steel, gold, or chrome plated. Rust doesn't look good on saddlebags.
* Buckle: For some Honda owners, any metal will add an unwanted shine on their motorcycles. Most of those who don't want the extra shine include the Honda Shadow. A buckle less is preferred by many, who consider the extra shine to be undesirable.
* Custom Shock Cut: The saddlebags can be made to fit the bike's rear and curve through the fender. This enhances the bikes look and is mainly chosen for its aesthetics.
* Leather: To most people, leather looks better than other saddlebags made from Fiberglass. However, fiberglass is sometimes considered to be a better option, because it is waterproof. This is also determined by what your needs are and how you use your bike.

Capacity

How much luggage will you be carrying often? Are you going on a long trip? Or do you often need it to go for errands? These are just some of the important questions; you need to ask yourself before you buy a saddlebag.

Lockable Bags

- Harley Saddlebags (2)
- Honda Saddlebags (27)
- Motorcycle Apparel (4)
- Motorcycle Jackets (1)
- Motorcycle Luggage (42)
- Motorcycle Saddlebags (44)
- Suzuki Saddlebags (1)
- Uncategorized (2)

This is important for security and depends on the places you often frequent. A locking system is important, if you go for errands frequently and you have to leave the bags and the bike parked in a place with questionable security.

Mounting Onto the Bike

You may choose to have the bags locked in permanently onto the bike. This can be good for security purposes. It all depends on what your needs are.

For Honda bags, there are 3 main ways to mount them on the motorcycle.

- Quick Disconnect System: This is important, if you need to remove the bag and take it indoors often. If you constantly need to remove the luggage for security reasons, then this is the best choice for you.
- Throw Over: This is an option that has always been common and is easy to mount and remove. It may take more time to un-mount compared to QDS, but it is certainly a good option for someone looking for a saddlebag to use for a short period of time.
- Permanent Mount: This Locks the bag permanently onto the bike. It is not easy to detach, therefore it is not going to be stolen easily.

The type of Honda Saddlebags you choose will ultimately be determined by personal tastes and how you use your bike. Once you determine this, it will be easy to choose one with some of the tips given here.

Motorcycle Bags and the Other Tips for a Motorcycle Journey

March 6th, 2014 | Author: jakemiller

Motorcycle bags are the most helpful accessory for a biker. A carefree ride without worrying about the luggage security is the best thing that can happen to a rider. Next gratification comes from the empty highways. Speed, fun, and excitement outline your enthusiasm. However, the thrill comes with some inherent spoilers, like injuries, luggage spilling, weather issues, machine failure, etc. The trick here is to be particular about some things like choosing the right motorcycle bags to keep your journey largely smooth. Here are a few tips.

* Wear a Proper Helmet: When you are talking about safety, you are talking of an 'effective' helmet. Forget your wallet while purchasing and go for a high quality one for extra protection. Check the fastener and the fittings. The tighter the helmet, the better it is. Half helmets might look cool but are less protective. Ideally, go for a full face or modular ones. Check the vision through the glass after wearing it, before you pay the final bucks.

* Buy Motorcycle Bags: Purchase suitable motorcycle bags that can fit everything you need during the ride, like food, gadgets, clothes, etc. Saddlebags are good options and so are the tank bags, which you can directly put on the top of the fuel tank. You may also go for the tail bags for bigger storage space. While hard bags are sturdy, they are usually permanently mounted. You can use soft leather bags as throw over or mount them permanently.

* Get your Bike Serviced Well: Before your journey, get your motorbike serviced in an authorized service center. Check thoroughly the brakes, accelerators, clutch, suspension, tires, etc. Fill up your fuel tank fully and ensure you have all the tools you will need.

* Do Some Shopping: Buy 'quality' jackets, riding boots, riding gloves, knee guards, etc. Definitely check for the CE approval of the safety wear and the comfortable clothes like T-shirts or cotton full sleeve formals. You may also buy motorcycle vest armors for that extra protection during the ride.

* Keep the Basics in Mind: Always keep basics of riding motorcycles in mind and Do not overstuff your motorcycle bags. Keep the speed within limits. Take regular breaks during the ride to keep your focus while driving. Eat and drink properly. Set out early to reach the destination preferably before the dusk. Of course, alcohol is a big no-no during the journey. Keep your helmet and armors on when it's a speedy or a bumpy ride. Make sure the weight of your motorcycle bags balance right.

Tips for Maintaining Leather Saddlebags

February 21st, 2014 | Author: jakemiller

Leather saddlebags are must have accessory for a biker, especially a passionate one mostly traveling on different roads and terrains. Because of the daily wear & tear, the motorcycle bags require regular care. Like intense care! So, breathe new life into your leather saddlebags with the below given 4-steps regime:

Step 1- Clean:

Step 1- Clean:

Objective: Prevent dirt accumulation

Clean your leather saddlebags frequently. Use a high quality leather cleaning solution like Pinnacle Leather & Vinyl Cleaner for your saddlebags. A low quality solution can damage the leather color, so avoid them. With the help of a clean cloth/wipe apply the solution on the bags and clean. You may need to use water for diluting a highly concentrated solution. Clean the bags in a ventilated area, since the cleaning solutions have strong chemicals, which you should not inhale.

Step 2- Conditioning

Objective: Moisturizing the leather to prevent its dryness & cracking and to retain the leather color

You can condition occasionally if you do not ride much. However, the hardcore bikers need to condition their bags frequently. First, dry your bags properly. Now, apply a thin coat of buffalo butter or leather conditioner on the external surface of your motorcycle bags. Pinnacle Leather Conditioner, Conolly Hide Care, Leatherique, and 303 Aerospace Protectant are some reputed leather conditioners. Many people apply oil, especially mink oil as conditioner. This clogs the leather pores and dries them over time. So, avoid oil.

Step 3- Polishing:

Objective: Making it all shine

It's polishing, be careful not to clog the pores of your leather saddlebags. Too much of

While polishing, be careful not to clog the pores of your leather saddlebags. Too much of polishing or polishing in an uneven pattern can clog the leather pores. This damage cannot be undone and the clogged leather dries out over time. Kiwi Boot Polish is good for polishing your bags.

Step 4- Moisture Protection:

Objective: Protect against moisture damage

Since, leather saddlebags usually are not 100% waterproof. Now, while dryness is not a good thing for leather health, water is equally damaging. Therefore, provide moisture protection to the bags with the help of water repellant or desiccant. Dry Cargo Pak is an effective desiccant brand.

Wipes: With so much cleaning, conditioning, and polishing involved for your leather saddlebags, it's a good idea to keep enough packs of some high quality wipes. Meguiars Gold Class Rich Leather Wipes and Gold Class Protectant Wipes are easy to store safely and are known over the years for spotlessly cleaning the leather saddlebags.
