Non-aromatic Latakia Blends:

S: Country Constable: A hearty English blend combining Smyrna, Lemon Virginia, and Oriental grades - high in Latakia content.

S: Gaffer's Leaf: A Danish version of a traditional English blend, but it is mild and doesn't bite. A very easy to smoke English.

L: John's Mix: Light and cool. Burley-based, with just a touch of Latakia for a bright flavor - for those who don't enjoy Virginias.

Lighters

A pipe lighter has a directed flame.

Pipe lighters come in a variety of designs. Some have built-in tapers. Most have the flame oriented to fire sideways from the lighter for directional control. The Tobacco Leaf carries a full complement of the premier pipe lighter, the Corona Old Boy.

A cigar lighter has a fatter flame width.

Some cigar smokers prefer using matches. It's a personal choice that works either way. The tobacco Leaf carries a variety of torch lighters with high-intensity flames, ideal for toasting a fine cigar quickly.

This enables the cigar smoker to light the cigar more evenly. The nice thing about using a lighter is that you're able to hold the cigar in one hand and the lighter in the other.

as it is, the menthol plays a big part in this, it's very moderately used in this snuff, so it's not overshadowing the cherry flavour. It's a rather sweet one, not especially natural, but highly appealing. Yes, this could be called a candy kind of snuff. But it's the best one I've come across, so far, and the only one I can agree with. Easy in all regards. Courtesy of Snuff Reviews: Red Star
