REQUEST FOR RECONSIDERATION DENIED

ISSUE/MAILING DATE: 5/16/2016

The trademark examining attorney has carefully reviewed applicant's request for reconsideration and is denying the request for the reasons stated below. See 37 C.F.R. §2.63(b)(3); TMEP §§715.03(a)(ii)(B), 715.04(a). The following refusal made final in the Office action dated October 15, 2015 is maintained and continues to be final: Refusal under Trademark Act Section 23(c). See TMEP §§715.03(a)(ii)(B), 715.04(a).

In the present case, applicant's request has not resolved all the outstanding issue(s), nor does it raise a new issue or provide any new or compelling evidence with regard to the outstanding issue(s) in the final Office action. In addition, applicant's analysis and arguments are not persuasive nor do they shed new light on the issues. Accordingly, the request is denied.

Registration is refused on the Supplemental Register because the applied-for mark is generic and thus incapable of distinguishing applicant's goods. Trademark Act Section 23(c), 15 U.S.C. §1091(c); see TMEP §§1209.01(c) et seq.

Applicant continues to argue that the proposed mark is not generic under Section 23(c) of the Trademark Act because the wording "COFFEE FLOUR" is not the "apt name for flour made of the skins, pulp, and pectin of the coffee cherry." Applicant contends that the generic name for the identified goods is instead, "coffee cherry skin, pulp, and pectin flour" or "coffee husks and skins."

As evidence to support this argument, the applicant provides screenshots from the Foreign Trade Division Schedule B and U.S. Harmonized code showing the tariff designation of applicant's goods to be "coffee husks and skins." The applicant has also provided articles and press releases showing use of other terms to refer to the applicant's identified goods. These arguments and evidence are not persuasive because there can be more than one apt name for the applicant's identified goods. The wording "coffee flour" is but one of various generic designations for the applicant's goods. Moreover, the fact that an applicant may be the first or only user of a generic designation is not dispositive on the issue of genericness where, as here, the evidence shows that the word or term is generic. See In re Greenliant Sys. Ltd., 97 USPQ2d 1078, 1083 (TTAB 2010); In re Nat'l Shooting Sports Found., Inc., 219 USPQ 1018, 1020 (TTAB 1983); TMEP §1209.03(c).

The identification of goods and materials on record describing the applicant's goods clearly indicate that the product at issue is flour made from the fruit of the coffee plant. The words "COFFEE" and "FLOUR" retain their generic significance when combined and considered in the context of the applicant's identification of goods.

The evidence of record demonstrates that "flour" is a generic term for any substance or powder made from ground or milled seeds or plant parts. The applicant's flour is just one of several types of flours used to make food products and whose common commercial names consist of the name of the plant of which the bean, seed, or nut is milled, paired with the wording "FLOUR". Other types of milled flours include almond flour, apple flour, arrowroot flour, barley flour, bean flour, brown rice flour, buckwheat flour, butternut squash flour, chestnut flour, chia seed flour, coconut flour, corn flour, dal flour, flax seed flour, garbanzo bean flour, hazelnut flour, hemp flour, lupin flour, malt flour, millet flour, nut flours, oat flour, potato flour, quinoa flour, rice flour, rye flour, sorghum flour, soy flour, sweet potato flour, tapioca flour, taro flour, teff flour, and yam flour. Attached are additional website screenshots similar to the evidence already made of record, which show further examples of flours made of milled seeds and plants.

The wording “COFFEE FLOUR” is shorthand for flour made of coffee cherry skins, pulp, and pectin. As such, consumers will not perceive the proposed mark as an indicator of source, but rather, as the common commercial or generic name for the goods. The final refusal under Section 23(c) of the Trademark Act is maintained.

If applicant has already filed a timely notice of appeal with the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board, the Board will be notified to resume the appeal. See TMEP §715.04(a).

If no appeal has been filed and time remains in the six-month response period to the final Office action, applicant has the remainder of the response period to (1) comply with and/or overcome any outstanding final requirement(s) and/or refusal(s), and/or (2) file a notice of appeal to the Board. TMEP §715.03(a)(ii)(B); see 37 C.F.R. §2.63(b)(1)-(3). The filing of a request for reconsideration does not stay or extend the time for filing an appeal. 37 C.F.R. §2.63(b)(3); see TMEP §§715.03, 715.03(a)(ii)(B), (c).
