Jyll S. Taylor, Administrative Trademark Judge:

Applicant's motion for involuntary dismissal (filed October 24, 2006) is noted. However, it is further noted that it was not served on opposer's correspondence address of record. Accordingly, consideration thereof is deferred until proper service has been made. See Trademark Rule 2.119.

Additionally, it is noted that opposer's copies of proceeding correspondence were returned to the Board as undeliverable. In this regard, it is the responsibility of a party to keep the Office informed of its current representation, or lack thereof, and current correspondence address. If a party fails to do so, the Board will continue to send correspondence relating to the opposition to the party's last-known address.
