

B. RESPONSE TO OPPOSER'S "SUMMARY OF UNDISPUTED FACTS"

2. In its brief in support of the Motion, Opposer sets out at page 3 what it contends to be "undisputed facts." As set forth below, Bunch disputes that the parties' goods are used together and are thus related and complementary. Bunch also disputes that there is an inherent relatedness of the parties' goods.

C. SUMMARY OF UNDISPUTED FACTS

3. Bunch submits that it is undisputed that Opposer does not produce prerecorded music and in fact on its web site offers, for demonstration purposes only, prerecorded music produced by third parties. (Perkins Declaration, ¶ 5.) Furthermore, Opposer has submitted no evidence that it intends to produce prerecorded music in the future. It is also undisputed that Bunch's product—prerecorded music—is found in channels of commerce different from those of Opposer, since prerecorded music is found primarily in stores that specialize in this type of product and other retail outlets.

4. Bunch has sought to register the mark SUPERSCOPE RECORDS on the principal register for "vinyl phonograph records and compact discs containing prerecorded musical performances" and does not seek to register the mark in International Class 9 (Opposer's registration class), which covers radio tuners, amplifiers, preamplifiers, receivers, loudspeakers, and headphones. It is also undisputed that the United States Patent and Trademark Office has allowed the registration of the mark SUPERSCOPE in International Class 9 (which is the same class as some of Opposer's marks) for GW Instruments, Inc. ("GW"), a company that is not affiliated with Opposer, under registration number 1,616,530. GW's goods and services are computer programs. (Perkins Declaration, ¶ 3, Exhibit 1.) It is also undisputed that GW's application was filed substantially after those of Opposer, and registration was granted.

D. SUMMARY OF OPPOSER'S ARGUMENT

5. Opposer contends that it is entitled to summary judgment and that confusion is likely as a matter of law between Bunch's mark and Opposer's mark on the basis of only two of the DuPont factors: (i) the marks are similar; and (ii) the goods of Bunch—records and compact discs—are inherently related to the equipment sold by Opposer, meaning that the goods are similar. In re E.I. DuPont DeNemours & Co., 476 F.2d 1357, 1361 (C.C.P.A. 1973).

E. SUMMARY OF BUNCH'S RESPONSE

6. Opposer has not provided evidence on, or even addressed, any of the 11 other DuPont factors. DuPont, 476 F.2d at 1361. In the context of a motion for summary judgment, Opposer has essentially conceded that it has no evidence on the other factors and that, to the extent the other DuPont factors are relevant, the evidence favors Bunch.<sup>1</sup>

7. The court in DuPont did not list the evidentiary elements in an order of merit, and the DuPont court specifically stated that each may from case to case play a dominant role. DuPont, 476 F.2d at 1361-62. When deciding to refuse to register a mark based on the likelihood of confusion, each case should be decided on its own facts. In re Mars, Inc., 741 F.2d 395, 396 (Fed. Cir. 1984) (reversal of Trademark Trial and Appeal Board rejection of application to register the mark CANYON FOR CANDYBARS based on a likelihood of confusion with the registered mark CANYON FOR FRESH CITRUS FRUITS). Bunch asserts that the DuPont factors ignored by

<sup>1</sup> Opposer is not permitted to raise new legal issues in any reply to Bunch's response to Opposer's Motion for Summary Judgment. See Lexicon Inc. v. Lexicon Music, Inc., 225 U.S.P.Q. 201 n.2 (T.T.A.B. 1985) (grounds not the subject of any evidence or discussed in opposer's brief deemed abandoned).

Opposer are significantly more relevant than the ones asserted by Opposer; specifically, the sophistication of the consumers and the difference in trade channels. Bunch also asserts that Opposer's failure to police its market by allowing use by other third parties constitutes waiver and is indicative of a lack of confusion. Moreover, Opposer's reliance on one of the DuPont factors—the relatedness of the goods—is simply misplaced.

II. ARGUMENT

A. SUMMARY JUDGMENT STANDARD

8. On a motion for summary judgment, the Board must determine whether there is a genuine issue of material fact about the likelihood of confusion. Lloyd's Food Prods., Inc. v. Eli's Inc., 987 F.2d 766, 767 (Fed. Cir. 1993). There is a genuine dispute when there is sufficient evidence for the fact-finder to decide the question in favor of the nonmovant. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248 (1986). The evidence must be viewed in the light most favorable to the nonmovant, and all justifiable inferences are to be drawn in the nonmovant's favor. Id. at 255. In order to prevail, the party opposing a motion for summary judgment must simply point to an evidentiary conflict created on the record. Octocom Sys., Inc. v. Houston Computer Servs., Inc., 918 F.2d 937, 940 (Fed. Cir. 1990).

B. CONSUMERS WILL NOT BE MISLED

9. The critical issue to be determined by the Board is whether the public will be misled to believe that the recorded product of Bunch originated from Opposer. In re Mack, 197 U.S.P.Q. 755, 756 (T.T.A.B. 1977). The opinion of Sunenblick v. Harrell, 895 F. Supp. 616 (S.D.N.Y. 1995), is dispositive on this issue.<sup>2</sup> In Harrell, an independent jazz record company that used the mark UPTOWN RECORDS as a label brought a trademark infringement action against a rap artist and competitor who used the exact same mark for his label which produced rap recordings. The court in Harrell ruled that the plaintiff failed to establish a likelihood of confusion even though both companies used the exact same mark, for the exact same type of product (prerecorded music), and were found in the identical channels of commerce. The court's opinion stressed that the buyers of musical recordings are relatively sophisticated consumers whose purchasing decisions are driven by recognition of, and search for, a particular artist or composition. The consumer's awareness of any given record label, if such awareness even exists, is at best a tangentially related concern; the purchasing decision of the consumer is based on the contents of the recording. Customers do not enter record stores seeking record company catalogues; rather, they are searching for a style of music and the name of a performer or the title of a piece of music which they wish to purchase. Harrell, 895 F. Supp. at 634.

10. Moreover, a review of Opposer's web site shows that the consumers of its products are a specific market of consumers; its products are designed for use as a rehearsal and performance tool for music educators, musicians, dancers, and others in the performing arts. (Perkins Declaration, ¶ 5.) It is very telling that in the Motion, Opposer never discusses the identity of the consumers of its products; this is because they are highly specialized, sophisticated, and not susceptible to confusion. Coupling the sophistication of Bunch's consumers with the fact that Opposer's products are specialized and used by highly sophisticated professionals, it is extremely unlikely that there will be any confusion. The parties' marks are also both stylized in distinctly different manners.<sup>3</sup> (See Perkins Declaration, Exhibits 5, 7.) A consumer who is familiar with Opposer's products will not be confused by seeing an album of music with the label of Bunch's SUPERSCOPE RECORDS and think that there is some connection with Opposer's company. See Modular Cinemas of Am., Inc. v. Mini Cinemas Corp., 348 F. Supp. 578, 583 (S.D.N.Y. 1972) ("moviegoers are relatively sophisticated purchasers whose decision to patronize a particular place of business is based substantially upon the feature offered rather than the name of a particular theater"). This is particularly true given the fact that it is undisputed that Opposer does not produce prerecorded music.

C. THE MARKS WILL BE IN ENTIRELY DIFFERENT CHANNELS OF COMMERCE

11. The lack of potential confusion between the parties' marks is further enforced by the fact that Bunch's products will be in entirely different channels of commerce, in stores that specialize in prerecorded music and general retail outlets. Attached to the Perkins Declaration are pages from the web sites of Tower Records (Exhibit 2) and Barnes & Noble (Exhibit 2) which show the availability of the Mike Martt compact disc TOMORROW SHINES BRIGHT on Superscope Records (as well as the absence of Opposer's products). A search under Sam Goody (Exhibit 3), Warehouse Music (Exhibit 3), and Best Buy (Exhibit 3), while not yet carrying Bunch's product, revealed a compact disc released by an Australian band called "Superscope." Circuit City and Walmart carried neither of the parties' products. Importantly, the products of Opposer are not to be found at the national chains that sell compact discs: Circuit City (Exhibit 3), Best Buy (Exhibit 3), Tower Records, Walmart, Sam Goody, or Barnes & Noble. (Perkins Declaration, ¶ 4.)

12. A search at Amazon.com revealed that Bunch's product could be found under the category of "Music." (Perkins Declaration, ¶ 4, Exhibit 4.) However, Opposer's products could not be found in a search result under either "Music" or "Electronics" but instead were found under "Industrial Supplies." (Perkins Declaration, ¶ 4, Exhibit 4.) This evidence further reinforces the point that Opposer's products are highly specialized and not used by the average consumer, rather more so in a professional context.

13. Opposer's attempt to compare itself to Sony Music, a publicly traded company with a market capitalization in excess of $32 billion that is ubiquitous in the marketplace in that it sells both electronics and prerecorded music, is particularly disingenuous. It is clear, based on a review of the channels of commerce and Opposer's own web site, that Opposer's products are used by highly sophisticated end-users and under specialized conditions. It is extremely unlikely that a consumer in search of a record sold by Bunch would be confused in any way, or that such a consumer would think that the source of a record released by Superscope Records would be Opposer.

D. THE PRODUCTS OF THE PARTIES ARE NOT RELATED

14. Opposer has stated that the products of the parties are so related that there is a likelihood of confusion. However, Opposer distorts the facts and the law to achieve its own ends. As set out above, the typical consumer of prerecorded music placing a compact disc in a playing device is unlikely to be familiar with Opposer's products. In addition, the concept of "related goods" is applied by the Board under Section 2(d) of the Lanham Act in passing upon registration to determine if "buyers are likely to think that the applicant's goods or services come from the same source, or are affiliated with, connected with, or sponsored by, the owner of the previously registered or used mark or name.” Schwab v. Hibernia Bank, 665 F. Supp. 800, 804 n.5 (N.D. La. 1987) (quoting 2 MCCARTHY, § 24:12, at p. 211). Opposer has submitted no evidence, other than the similarity of the marks, to support its theory that consumers will be misled. The “related goods” test is a facet of the ultimate and final test of likelihood of confusion. The fact that one of Bunch’s compact discs could be put into one of Opposer’s machines and played does not make these two goods related. Such a simplistic argument flies in the face of well established trademark law. What is needed is some compelling argument or evidence that explains the basis for consumer confusion. Given the sophistication of the consumers in this case, coupled with the dissimilarity of trade channels, Opposer cannot articulate any likely confusion.

15. There is also no per se rule that all goods and services in the music industry are related. On the contrary, the music industry is so huge and broad that consumers do not associate all goods and services in this field. It is well established that all music-related goods and services are not necessarily related. See, e.g., Berliner v. Record Kraft Sales Corp., 1 U.S.P.Q.2d 2060, 2064 (S.D.N.Y. 1987) (HALL OF FAME for record label not confusingly similar to Hall of Fame Music Company for music-publishing services, since “there is no meaningful resemblance between the services the plaintiff furnishes and the product defendants produce”). See, also, Warner Bros. Seven Arts, Inc. v. Haralson, 165 U.S.P.Q. 618 (T.T.A.B. 1970) (ROADRUNNER for sound recording is not likely to be confused with ROADRUNNER for entertainment services and other goods).

16. The facts before the Board in this case are a classic example which proves the foregoing proposition: The average consumer who purchases records and compact discs for personal enjoyment is unlikely even to be aware of the existence of Opposer’s products, and the average consumer purchasing a compact disc issued by Bunch's company will see no relationship between that and the product produced by Opposer.

E. OPPOSER HAS WAIVED ITS RIGHT TO OPPOSE BUNCH

17. As set out above, Opposer allowed the registration in Class 9 of SUPERSCOPE for an unaffiliated third party, GW. (Perkins Declaration, ¶ 3, Exhibit 1.) In addition, since at least 1996, an Australian music group named "Superscope" has been selling its compact discs in the United States without objection from Opposer. (Perkins Declaration, ¶ 4, Exhibit 3.) Furthermore, a company by the name of Franklin Technologies utilizes the mark SUPERSCOPE for one of its cleaning products. (Perkins Declaration, ¶ 6, Exhibit 6.) Opposer has waived its right to oppose Bunch's application. Moreover, Opposer's failure to object to the foregoing uses belies any risk of possible confusion.

III. CONCLUSION

18. At a minimum, the evidence presented by Bunch herein creates a fact issue as to whether confusion exists. Bunch's evidence establishes several of the DuPont factors; specifically, the conditions under which sales are made to buyers (i.e., sophisticated purchasers of both parties' products), the dissimilarity of established and likely-to-continue trade channels (Opposer's products are not found in the same channels of commerce as Bunch's products), the extent of potential confusion, laches, and estoppel attributable to the owner of Opposer (Opposer has allowed another registration in the same international class where its products are found and allowed other uses), there is clearly a fact issue as to whether confusion will exist. The party opposing summary judgment must point to evidentiary conflict created by a counterstatement of facts detailed in an affidavit, and the record must be viewed in the light most favorable to the party opposing the motion.

Barmag Barmer Maschinenfabrik AG v. Murata Machinery Ltd., 731 F.2d 831, 836 (Fed. Cir. 1984).

THEREFORE, Applicant, Tom Bunch, requests that the Motion for Summary Judgment of Opposer, Superscope Technologies, Inc., be in all things denied, that judgment be entered denying Opposer's opposition to Applicant's mark, that Applicant's application for the mark SUPERSCOPE RECORDS be granted and the mark placed on the principal register, and that Applicant be granted such other and further relief to which Applicant may be justly entitled.

2. I am an attorney duly licensed to practice in the State of Texas and have been continuously since 1986. I am a partner in the law firm of Fritz, Byrne, Head & Harrison, LLP, which represents Tom Bunch (“Bunch”), Applicant. I make this declaration in support of Applicant’s Memorandum of Law in Opposition to the Motion for Summary Judgment of Opposer, Superscope Technologies, Inc.
3. On December 31, 2003, I performed a search on the Trademark Applications and Registrations Retrieval (“TARR”) system of the United States Patent and Trademark Office and found that there is another registration for the mark SUPERSCOPE which is used in relation to computer programs. Attached hereto as Exhibit 1 are true and correct copies of pages downloaded from the TARR system on December 31, 2003. Exhibit 1 reflects the subsisting registration, issued on July 17, 1990, on the basis of use in commerce, of the mark SUPERSCOPE (serial number 73/839,558) for computer programs for use in data acquisition, input/output, and display tasks.
4. On December 31, 2003, I also searched for “SUPERSCOPE” on the Internet sites for Circuit City, Best Buy, Tower Records, Walmart, Barnes & Noble, Wherehouse Music, Sam Goody, and Amazon.com under the categories of “Music,” “Electronics,” and “Industrial Supplies.” Attached hereto as Exhibit 2 are pages from Tower Records and Barnes & Noble which show Bunch’s product for sale, and no results for Opposer’s product. Attached hereto as Exhibit 3 are results from searches at the web sites of Circuit City, Best Buy, Walmart, Wherehouse Music, and Sam Goody. These searches revealed that these companies sell compact discs but do not carry Opposer’s product. While these retailers did not carry Bunch’s product, Best Buy and Wherehouse Music carried recordings by a musical group named “Superscope.” At Amazon.com, Bunch’s product could be found under the “Music” category. However, Opposer’s products were found under the “Industrial Supplies” category and were not found in either the “Music” or the “Electronics” category. The results of the web search at Amazon.com are attached hereto as Exhibit 4.
5. On December 31, 2003, I accessed Opposer’s web site, and attached hereto as Exhibit 5 are pages from its web site. These excerpts show that Opposer offers for demonstration purposes prerecorded music produced by third parties. Moreover, Opposer markets its products to music educators, musicians, dancers, and others in the performing arts.

6. On December 31, 2003, in reviewing the Internet for uses of "SUPERSCOPE," I discovered that a company named Franklin Technologies uses the mark SUPERSCOPE for one of its products. Attached as Exhibit 6 is a copy of a picture of this product.
7. Attached hereto as Exhibit 7 is a copy of the artwork for Bunch's product showing the use of the SUPERSCOPE mark.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct.

Integrated Production Audio System

Wired & Tested

- ✓ Professional Production Mixer
- ✓ Professional CD Player
- ✓ Professional Cassette Recorder
- ✓ 110 Watt per Channel Amplifier
- ✓ Rack Mountable, 4 Rack Units High (7")

Mixer, Amplifier, CD Player, Cassette Recorder...
ALL IN ONE!

The Superscope PAC770 and PAC750 (pre-amplifier only) provide a remarkably easy to use, feature rich, and cost-effective installation solution for applications requiring music and public address. In one durable, commercial-grade product (taking up just 4U of rack space) the PAC770 combines four quality system components. This one unit offers a CD player with music playback features specially designed for the performing arts, a full-featured cassette recorder, an elegant mixer that any novice can handle with ease, and a powerful and reliable amplifier.

INTEGRATED MIXER

No stand alone mixer is as simple to operate for LPFM broadcast applications as the PAC770. You don't need to be a skilled "board op" to make your station sound million bucks! Features include:

- MULTIPLE INPUTS - Simultaneous independent control of 4 XLR mic/line inputs, tape, CD, and stereo aux input
- GAIN CONTROL - The amount of signal each input sends to the mixer can be easily adjusted using each input's gain control knob. Easier still, the auto gain 1 will set an optimal level for the mic/line inputs.
- FINAL OUTPUT CONTROL - Master output volume, EQ, and balance are simply controlled from the front panel, while individual mic/line EQ, panning, phantom power, and input attenuation are designed to be "set-once" on the back panel
- EFFECT LOOP - Parametric EQ and speaker processing can be looped through the unit
- VOICE REDUCTION - A voice reduction circuit can reduce the lead vocals in most music from the CD, tape, and aux sources.
- SIMPLE AUTO DUCKING - Perfect for disc jockey and talent interruption, the unit can be set to automatically duck music when any mic/line input is active, with eliminating levels or reducing them by -15 dB
- AMPLIFIER OUTPUT - the PAC770 includes a 110W RMS per channel output for local speaker output for remote productions. This can be bridged for mono applications and has full overload protection.

CD PLAYER

Includes a built in CD player for your music and spot sources. Specifically designed for audio production, it includes the following features:

- PLAYS CD-RW - Fully compatible with finalized CD-RW discs. This permits you to utilize your own recorded CD's for your sources
- TEMPO CONTROL - Playing speed can be adjusted from -33% to +50% without changing the key
- KEY CONTROL - The key of the CD can be altered by ±1 octave, in 1/16th note increments, without changing tempo
- A-B LOOP - Audio loops can be defined within a CD track utilizing the A-B button
- PROGRAM PLAY - A selection of tracks or a single track can be programmed for custom playback
- SINGLE TRACK PLAY - Automatically cues tracks to audio and after play, cues up the next track

CASSETTE RECORDER

The built in Cassette Recorder provides exceptional versatility along with reliable operation specifically for your broadcast requirements. Not just a consumer grade cassette recorder, it includes

- QUICK AUTO REVERSE - Optical sensing the leader tape will reverse the direction of tape transport, to provide seamless double-sided recording
- PITCH CONTROL - Playback pitch (tempo + key) can be adjusted from -12% to +12%
- AUTO RECORD LEVEL CONTROL - The unit can automatically set the optimal record level for worry-free recording

Make It Road Worthy!

The PAC770 is ideal for live remotes. Protect your investment, and make it quick and easy to setup. Our BFC6 rack mount road case is the answer! Molded high impact construction, this case is 6 standard rack units high. After installing the PAC770, this leaves you two additional rack units for other equipment or cable storage.

Picture shown also includes our PX1 35 Watt FM Stereo Transmitter, as part of our "Radio Station In A Box" on page 6

PAC750	Professional Production Audio System, with Line Output Only	$10

Company

About Superscope Technologies

Superscope has been a recognizable brand name for more than four decades. Today, Superscope's line of music practice tools are developed, marketed and distributed worldwide by Superscope Technologies, Inc., a privately held company founded in 1993. (See Superscope History)

Our products are rapidly becoming favorite rehearsal and performance tools for music educators, musicians, dancers, and others in the performing arts. That's because Superscope products feature innovative technology for manipulating prerecorded music in real time, without the need for special software or computers.

Applications and User Stories

Music Play Along CDs

Music play-along CDs packages, such as those published by DOWANI, Music Minus One, Jamie Aebersold, and Homespun, can enhance the effectiveness of Superscope's music practice tools.

www.jazzbooks.comwww.dowani.comwww.musicminusone.comwww.homespuntapes.com

Featured Product

DOWANI 3 Tempi Play Along CDs are high-quality classical recordings made by some of the finest professional musicians in Europe.

In addition to providing sheet music and the concert version of each practice piece, Dowani CDs feature each piece recorded with only the backing instrument accompaniment, at three different speeds. That means you can listen to the concert version as an example of how to play the piece, and then play your part while listening to an accompaniment track at a tempo of your choosing.

Here are samples of Dowani CD sound files "Telemann: Viola concerto" (DOWANI recording)

1. Original Version
2. Slow Version with Piano Accompaniment
3. Medium Version with Piano Accompaniment (file: .... track 3 medium.mp3)
4. Fast Version (file: ..... track 3 fast.mp3)
5. Viola Sheet Music

By playing these CDs using a Superscope PSD230 portable CD player, you can use the tempo controls to further adjust tempo. If the slowest tempo of the Dowani CD is still too fast, you can slow it down even more without changing the key, or gradually increase the tempo as you improve. You can experiment by transposing the key of the music using the PSD230's Key controls on any of the Dowani tracks. In addition, it is easy to isolate especially challenging parts using Superscope's A-to-B-point button, so that a segment of music you select will continuously repeat -- truly a perfect tool for mastering stumbling blocks! Dowani CD titles are categorized from Very Easy, through Intermediate, to Advanced, making it easy to find accompaniment tailored to your current level of playing.

Use the Superscope PSD300 with DOWANI 3 tempi play-along editions to make your own live recordings combined with excellent orchestras. Simply plug in a microphone or use the internal mic, play along, and record both the CD and your live playing. When you play your recording back, you'll hear how you sound blended with other musicians.

Superscope portable CD players and the PSD300 CD Recording System when paired with accompaniment CDs are powerful tools for music students, teachers, and professionals. For further information on DOWANI products please visit www.dowani.com
