APPLICANT'S OPPOSITION TO OPPOSER'S PETITION FOR RECONSIDERATION

Opposers filed, on April 7, 2005, a petition for reconsideration of the Board's March 24, 2005 decision granting Applicant's motion to suspend the above-identified opposition proceeding. Applicant at this time believes the decision of the Board to suspend the present proceeding pending the outcome of Opposition No. 91125739 to be warranted as detailed in Applicant's March 21, 2005 reply to Opposer's opposition to the motion for suspension of the proceedings. A copy of Applicant's March 21, 2005 reply is attached. The conclusions reached by the Board in the '739 Opposition may have a bearing upon the present opposition. Accordingly, the suspension entered by the Board's March 24, 2005 order should be sustained.

Dated this 27th day of April, 2005.

Consolidated Opposition No.

APPLICANT'S REPLY TO OPPOSER'S OPPOSITION TO MOTION FOR SUSPENSION OF THE PROCEEDINGS

10 Applicant's motion for suspension of the present proceeding (Opposition No.
11 91162422) was opposed by Opposers in their responsive brief filed March 1, 2005. Applicant
12 respectfully submits that suspension of the present opposition is warranted and justified.

13 Opposers' filed the present opposition based on the mark, SO SEXY, as allegedly used
14 by Opposers in connection with hair care products. In seeking to move forward without 15 delay, Opposers claim the interests of justice and fairness, yet neither may be achieved if the 16 present opposition proceeds without the benefit of a final decision being made in Opposition
17 No. 91125739 ("the '739 Opposition").

18 In the '739 Opposition, Sexy Hair Concepts, LLC opposed V Secret Catalogue, Inc.'s
19 application on the basis that Opposers' mark SO SEXY is confusingly similar to Sexy Hair
20 Concept's SEXY HAIR name and mark and its family of SEXY trademarks. The reality is 21 that the '739 Opposition is near the end. The 15-day period for rebuttal testimony for the 22 party in the position of plaintiff is about to close, after which the briefs at final hearing
23 become due and a final decision will be made. See Foley Declaration, ¶ 4, Exhibit 3 to 24 Applicant's original motion to suspend.

25 Reality also is that the Board may in fact determine there is a likelihood of confusion
26 of Opposers' mark with those marks of Sexy Hair Concepts, and sustain the opposition. In 27 that case, Opposers V Secret Catalogue, Inc. and Intimate Beauty Corporation not only lose the priority of their application No. 78/094,035, they also will have a finding of likelihood of

2 confusion on record that may be given substantial weight in a subsequent civil action for
3 trademark infringement. This will likely have a significant impact on Opposers' interest in
4 continuing to use their mark. The injustice for Applicant would be for the present opposition
5 to move forward into discovery, only for Opposers to discontinue use of the mark a few
6 months from now in the face of a finding of likelihood of confusion in the '739 Opposition.

7 For the reasons explained above, Applicant submits that the conclusions reached by 8 the Board in the '739 Opposition may have a bearing upon the present Opposition
9 No. 91162422. It is warranted and indeed justified for the Board to invoke Trademark Rule
10 2.117(a) and suspend the present opposition until the '739 Opposition is concluded.

11 Dated this 21st day of March, 2005.
