1. The Applicant acknowledges said statement.
2. The Applicant disagrees with said claim.

First, the USPTO trademark database shows that the Opposers do not own or control any "LIVE" trademarks consisting of the words "L'OREAL PARIS".

Second, trademarks must be considered in their entirety and not as dissected items. The Opposer other marks do not consist of the words "L'OREAL PARIS".

Third, the fundamental concept of a trade-mark being granted in relation to certain wares would be rendered meaningless if the wares were not taken into account. The Opposer's wares are not even remotely similar to the Applicant's sole remaining ware.

Consequently, the Applicant thereby concludes that the Opposers' rights do not predate those of the Applicant.

246
- 247 26. The question is irrelevant and immaterial in that it does not deal with the subject
248 matter at hand. That is because what is important and cardinal in these 249 opposition proceedings is not whether the Applicant's other applications should
250 or should not be allowed but whether or not the Applicant's mark "L'OREAL
251 PARIS" should or should not be allowed. Superfluous references to unrelated and 252 independent trade-marks applications which have no bearing on this case serve
253 only to cloud the important issues which are truly relevant. Consequently, such 254 questions being irrelevant and immaterial need not be answered.

326
- 327 35. The question is irrelevant and immaterial in that it does not deal with the subject
328 matter at hand. That is because what is important and cardinal in these
329 opposition proceedings is not whether the Applicant's other applications should
330 or should not be allowed but whether or not the Applicant's mark "L'OREAL
331 PARIS" should or should not be allowed. Superfluous references to unrelated and
332 independent trade-marks applications which have no bearing on this case serve

333 only to cloud the important issues which are truly relevant. Consequently, such 334 questions being irrelevant and immaterial need not be answered.

335

336 36. The question is irrelevant and immaterial in that it does not deal with the subject
337 matter at hand. That is because what is important and cardinal in these
338 opposition proceedings is not whether the Applicant's other applications should
339 or should not be allowed but whether or not the Applicant's mark "L'OREAL
340 PARIS" should or should not be allowed. Superfluous references to unrelated and
341 independent trade-marks applications which have no bearing on this case serve
342 only to cloud the important issues which are truly relevant. Such questions being 343 irrelevant and immaterial need not be answered.

344

345 In regards to the Applicant's application for the mark "L'OREAL PARIS" the 346 Applicant disagrees with the Opposers. Moreover, the Opposers do not own or 347 control any "LIVE" trademarks consisting of the words "L'OREAL PARIS" according 348 to the USPTO database.

350 37. The Applicant disagrees with the Opposers. The Applicant has always had a
351 bona fide intent to use the mark "L'OREAL PARIS" in commerce.

352

353 As for the Applicant's other applications -- the question is irrelevant and 354 immaterial in that it does not deal with the subject matter at hand. That is
355 because what is important and cardinal in these opposition proceedings is not
356 whether the Applicant's other applications should or should not be allowed but
357 whether or not the Applicant's mark "L'OREAL PARIS" should or should not be
358 allowed. Superfluous references to unrelated and independent trade-marks
359 applications which have no bearing on this case serve only to cloud the important
360 issues which are truly relevant. Consequently, such questions being irrelevant
361 and immaterial need not be answered.

363 38. The Applicant disagrees with the Opposers. The Applicant has always had a
364 bona fide intent to use the mark "L'OREAL PARIS" in commerce.

365

366 As for the Applicant's other applications -- the question is irrelevant and
367 immaterial in that it does not deal with the subject matter at hand. That is
368 because what is important and cardinal in these opposition proceedings is not
369 whether the Applicant's other applications should or should not be allowed but
370 whether or not the Applicant's mark "L'OREAL PARIS" should or should not be
371 allowed. Superfluous references to unrelated and independent trade-marks
372 applications which have no bearing on this case serve only to cloud the important
373 issues which are truly relevant. Consequently, such questions being irrelevant
374 and immaterial need not be answered.

375
376 39. The Applicant disagrees with the Opposers. The Applicant has always had a
377 bona fide intent to use the mark "L'OREAL PARIS" in commerce and not to make 378 a philosophical point about trademark protection.

379
380 As for the Applicant's other applications -- the question is irrelevant and 381 immaterial in that it does not deal with the subject matter at hand. That is
382 because what is important and cardinal in these opposition proceedings is not
383 whether the Applicant's other applications should or should not be allowed but
384 whether or not the Applicant's mark "L'OREAL PARIS" should or should not be
385 allowed. Superfluous references to unrelated and independent trade-marks
386 applications which have no bearing on this case serve only to cloud the important
387 issues which are truly relevant. Consequently, such questions being irrelevant
388 and immaterial need not be answered.

389
390 40. The Applicant acknowledges said statement.

391
392 41. The Applicant acknowledges the wares so named therein.

393
394 The Applicant, however, disagrees with the Opposers in that the Applicant did
395 not believe that confusion would occur between the Applicant's mark "L'OREAL
396 PARIS" and those of the Opposers since the USPTO trademark database had not
397 revealed any conflicting wares with the Applicant's mark "L'OREAL PARIS".
398

399 In addition, according to the USPTO database the Opposers do not own or control
400 any "LIVE" trademarks consisting of the words "L'OREAL PARIS".

401

402 42. The Applicant acknowledges said statement.

403

404 43. The Applicant, however, disagrees with the Opposers in that the Applicant did
405 not believe that confusion would occur between the Applicant's mark "L'OREAL
406 PARIS" and those of the Opposers since the USPTO trademark database had not
407 revealed any conflicting wares with the Applicant's mark "L'OREAL PARIS".

408

409 Second, according to the USPTO database the Opposers do not own or control any
410 "LIVE" trademarks consisting of the words "L'OREAL PARIS".

411

412 Third, it should be realized that when determining prospective confusion between 413 trademarks the trademarks must be considered in their entirety and not as
414 dissected items. The Opposers' marks do not consist solely of the words
415 "L'OREAL PARIS" and the Opposers' marks "L'OREAL" do not include the word
416 "PARIS" in their constituencies.

418 Fourth, the fundamental concept of a trademark being granted in relation to 419 certain wares would be rendered meaningless if the nature of wares were not
420 taken into account. This concept is born out by the very fact that the USPTO
421 trademark database contains many identical trademarks that have been and
422 continue to be allowed because they list wares sufficiently different to overt
423 confusion. The Applicant's "L'OREAL PARIS" mark would be no different.

425 Fifth, the purpose of the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office, as well as any other 426 similar office, is to safeguard existing trademarks. As such, all applications are 427 thoroughly examined and reviewed for that purpose. Thus, if an application is 428 flawed or the applicant erred, in any manner, those errors will be corrected 429 accordingly in a manner specified by the rules and regulation currently existing.
430 No trademark application will be permitted to be approved if it has not met all the 431 legal requirements stipulated in law.

432 Thus, the Applicant, in prosecuting his application, has deleted or otherwise 433 removed all wares but one. That one remaining ware is "aloe vera drinks". Thus,
434 what is truly in dispute is not the Applicant deleted wares but is sole remaining 435 wares or "aloe vera drinks". With this in mind, the Applicant suggest that the 436 Opposers' Attorney focus on said remaining ware and not upon wares long since 437 cancelled.

438

439 44. The Applicant acknowledges said statement.

440

441 45. The Applicant acknowledges said statement.

442

443 46. The Applicant disagrees with the Opposers. The Applicant has always had a
444 bona fide intent to use the mark "L'OREAL PARIS" in commerce. In todays 445 business world the capacity to manufacture, distribute and sell does not always 446 rest on a persons actual physical facilities. Such things can be rented, joint 447 ventured or procured via outsourcing. Moreover, licensing is also a practical 448 means of business and just as viable a means of business as creating such 449 companies from scratch.

450

451 47. Applicant disagrees with the Opposers' statement. The Opposers' marks have 452 never been associated, even remotely, with "aloe vera drinks".

453

454 48. Applicant disagrees with the Opposers' statement.

455

456 Second, according to the USPTO database the Opposers do not own or control any
457 "LIVE" trademarks consisting of the words "L'OREAL PARIS".

458

459 Third, it should be realized that when determining prospective confusion between 460 trademarks the trademarks must be considered in their entirety and not as
461 dissected items. The Opposers' marks do not consist solely of the words
462 "L'OREAL PARIS" and the Opposers' marks "L'OREAL" do not include the word
463 "PARIS" in their constituencies.

464

465 Fourth, the fundamental concept of a trademark being granted in relation to
466 certain wares would be rendered meaningless if the nature of wares were not
467 taken into account. This concept is born out by the very fact that the USPTO
468 trademark database contains many identical trademarks that have been and
469 continue to be allowed because they list wares sufficiently different to overt
470 confusion. The Applicant's mark "L'OREAL PARIS" would be no different.

471
472 49. The Applicant acknowledges said statement. However, the Opposers, while they 473 may present wares whose compositions contain aloe vera, such examples would 474 be very poor at best for the simple reason that any mark is only associated with 475 the final product itself and not the individual ingredients or constituents that 476 make up those products. After all, products such as milk may contain vitamin D, 477 orange juice may be supplemented with calcium, and cereal fortified with 478 multiple vitamins. Many other unrelated products also employ vitamins, minerals
479 and even herbs but it would be clearly unreasonable to conclude that L'OREAL
480 would also be associated with milk, juice, cereal or even herbs just because some 481 of their cosmetics, skin creams or lotions contained traces of milk, vitamins,
482 minerals or herbs. After all, a person seeking hair dye, cosmetics or skin cream
483 does not contemplate nor go looking for aloe vera drinks (and vice versa). This 484 same analogy also applies to all of the wares evidenced in these opposition
485 proceedings be they the Opposers' or that of others. That is, the final wares
486 themselves are what may or may not be found confusing and not the individual 487 ingredients composing or constituting those wares.

488
489 50. Applicant disagrees with the Opposers' statement. In today's business
490 environment beverages containing aloe vera are not uncommon. As to which is 491 the dominant sector, the Applicant is without knowledge or information sufficient
492 to form a belief as to the validity of the Opposers' statement.

493
494 51. Applicant acknowledges the Opposers' statement as it regards the Opposers'
495 "L'OREAL" marks only.

496
497 52. Applicant acknowledges the Opposers' statement.

- 498 53. Applicant acknowledges the Opposers' statement.
499
- 500 54. Applicant acknowledges the Opposers' statement.
501
- 502 55. The Applicant is without knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief as 503 to the validity of the Opposers' statement.
504
- 505 56. The term "often" is open ended. As far as the Applicant is aware personal care 506 products such as hair dye, cosmetics, and skin creams are not sold through 507 restaurants, clubs, and bars thereby demonstrating that the channels of trade of 508 different. As such, the Applicant is without knowledge or information sufficient
509 to form a belief as to the validity of the Opposers' statement in regards to all
510 channels of trade.
511
- 512 57. The only remaining ware left to the Applicant is "Aloe Vera Drinks". The 513 Applicant is aware of such products being sold in some establishments that also 514 sell wares under the Opposers' marks and some establishments like restaurants,
515 clubs, and bars that do not. However, the Opposers, while they may present
516 wares whose compositions contain aloe vera, such examples would be very poor 517 at best for the simple reason that any mark is only associated with the final 518 product itself and not the individual ingredients or constituents that make up
519 those products. After all, products such as milk may contain vitamin D, orange 520 juice may be supplemented with calcium, and cereal fortified with multiple 521 vitamins. Many other unrelated products also employ vitamins, minerals and 522 even herbs but it would be clearly unreasonable to conclude that L'OREAL would 523 also be associated with milk, juice, cereal or even herbs just because some of their 524 cosmetics, skin creams or lotions contained traces of milk, vitamins, minerals or 525 herbs. After all, a person seeking hair dye, cosmetics or skin cream does not 526 contemplate nor go looking for aloe vera drinks (and vice versa). This same
527 analogy also applies to all of the wares evidenced in these opposition proceedings
528 be they the Opposers' or that of others. That is, the final wares themselves are 529 what may or may not be found confusing and not the individual ingredients
530 composing or constituting those wares.

531 Moreover, it is not an unusual situation for drug stores, supermarkets, and large 532 big box stores to sell tens of thousands of different products from a multitude of 533 different companies some of which employ identical marks for similar wares.

542

543 62. Applicant disagrees with said statement because the Opposers do not own or 544 control any live marks consisting of the words "L'OREAL PARIS" according to the 545 USPTO trademark database.

547 63. The Applicant acknowledges said statement. However, the Applicant has 548 provide further information in regards to the name "L'Oreal" in his "NOTICE OF 549 RELIANCE (APPLICANT'S EVIDENCE)" also submitted herein. Second, a better
550 result would have been garnered if something like "LEXIS NEXIS" were used.

558 to the validity of the Opposers' statement.

559

560 66. The Applicant acknowledges said statement.

561

562 67. The Applicant disagrees with said statement in that the name "L'Oreal" and 563 "Oreal" mean the same thing. That is, in the French language L'Oreal means "The 564 Oreal" and "Oreal" remains "Oreal". As such, if one considers this fact then the 565 name "Oreal" is more common (see Applicant "NOTICE OF RELIANCE

566 (APPLICANT'S EVIDENCE)" submitted herein).

583

584 73. The Applicant acknowledges said statement.

585

586 74. The Applicant disagrees with said statement in that the name "Paris" is not only 587 considered to be a geographical reference but a proper name and a surname as 588 well. In this respect any mark containing the word "PARIS" would, in the 589 Attorney's view, always be considered as geographically misdescriptive if not 590 from that local. The Applicant believes this not to be the case.

591

593

Opposer's First Set of Interrogatories (1-13)

594

595 1. The Opposers' question is irrelevant and immaterial in that it does not deal with
596 the subject matter at hand, namely, whether or not the Applicant's mark is

597 registrable. Superfluous questions regarding trademark origins or genesis are
598 questions non-critical to the outcome of the present case and serve only to cloud
599 the important issues which are truly relevant.

600
601 Applicant maintains that questions important to the outcome of this case can be 602 summed up in the following five points. They are:

- 603
- 604 (a) the inherent distinctiveness of the trade-names and the extent to which
 - 605 they have become known;
 - 606 (b) the length of time the trade-marks or trade-names have been in use;
 - 607 (c) the nature of the wares, services or business;
 - 608 (d) the nature of the trade; and
 - 609 (e) the degree of resemblance between the trade-marks or trade-names in
 - 610 appearance or sound or in the ideas suggested by them.

611
612 These five questions, the Applicant believes, determine whether the Applicant's
613 mark would be found confusing with the Opposers' marks. Questions unrelated
614 to these fundamental principles are unwarranted and thus need not be answered.

615
616 2. The Opposers' question is irrelevant and immaterial in that it does not deal with
617 the subject matter at hand, namely, whether or not the Applicant's mark is 618 registrable. Superfluous questions regarding trademark origins or genesis are
619 questions non-critical to the outcome of the present case and serve only to cloud
620 the important issues which are truly relevant.

621
622 Applicant maintains that questions important to the outcome of this case can be 623 summed up in the following five points. They are:

- 624
- 625 (a) the inherent distinctiveness of the trade-names and the extent to which
 - 626 they have become known;
 - 627 (b) the length of time the trade-marks or trade-names have been in use;
 - 628 (c) the nature of the wares, services or business;
 - 629 (d) the nature of the trade; and

630 (e) the degree of resemblance between the trade-marks or trade-names in 631 appearance or sound or in the ideas suggested by them.

632
633 These five questions, the Applicant believes, determine whether the Applicant's
634 mark would be found confusing with the Opposers' marks. Questions unrelated
635 to these fundamental principles are unwarranted and thus need not be answered.

636
637 3. The question is undefined in that the question asks for information extraterritorial
638 to the U.S.A. and is thus not within the scope or mandate of these opposition
639 proceedings. In regards to the U.S.A. -- the Applicant has not conducted,
640 received nor seen any investigations, surveys, research, polls, focus groups, or 641 opinions concerning confusion or the likelihood of confusion between the 642 Applicant's mark and/or wares and those belonging to the Opposers.

643
644 4. The question is undefined in that the question asks for information extraterritorial
645 to the U.S.A. and is thus not within the scope or mandate of these opposition
646 proceedings. In regards to the U.S.A. -- the Applicant has not conducted,
647 received nor seen any investigations, surveys, research, polls, focus groups, or
648 opinions concerning the availability for use and/or registration of Applicant's mark
649 or variations thereof.

650
651 5. The Applicant has always had a bona fide intent to use the mark "L'OREAL
652 PARIS" in commerce.

653
654 In today's business world the capacity to manufacture, distribute and sell does not 655 always rest on a person's actual physical facilities. Such things can be rented,
656 joint ventured or procured via outsourcing. Moreover, licensing is also a practical
657 means of business and just as viable a means of business as creating such 658 companies from scratch. Thus, upon allowance of the Applicant's mark the 659 Applicant will adjudicate and review prevailing market conditions and finally 660 pursue one or more of options stated above as is his right. Thus, by the 661 Applicant's reasoning, the Applicant has shown bona fide intent as the business
662 methods herein stated offer viable options regarding commercial implementation.

663 Moreover, the Applicant wishes to inquire as to the definition of "bona fide intent"
664 for many successful people have made fortunes in businesses begun from humble
665 beginnings or were contrary to expert opinion. Microsoft, Dell, and Federal 666 Express were all such companies yet against all odds not only prevailed but 667 triumphed. In this same light the Applicant, for example, has successfully filed,
668 prosecuted, and appealed his mark in the U.S.A., and is now currently engaged
669 in these opposition proceedings without the obvious benefits and insight afforded 670 by a seasoned trademark attorney. Thus, is this not a reasonable example of 671 "bona fide intent." for if it is not the Applicant has truly squandered many years
672 foolishly. The Applicant believes that he genuinely possesses "bona fide intent" 673 and will employ this same zeal in his efforts to successfully commercialized his 674 trademark and product once approved.

675

676 6. The Applicant's application for the mark "L'OREAL PARIS" was submitted to the 677 USPTO for the United States of America. In this regards there has been no "date
678 of first use" in the U.S.A.. Since the Applicant's mark regards an "intent to use
679 mark" the Applicant believes he has met the letter of the law as the law does not 680 require a "first use" before a trademark application can be made. Questions
681 regarding countries other than the U.S.A. are not within the scope or mandate of 682 these opposition proceedings and thus need not be answered.

683

684 7. The type of purchasers that the Applicant intends to market aloe vera drinks
685 includes both male and female encompassing all age groups. The Applicant
686 envisions the product to be a competitor to other beverages such as orange juice,
687 apple juice, lemonade, coffee, tea and other such products.

688

689 8. The Applicant intends to market aloe vera drinks primarily to restaurants, clubs
690 and bars and secondarily to grocery stores and other such outlets.

691

692 9. In regards to said question -- the Applicant does not know of any such company
693 that markets wares similar to those of the Opposer and also sells aloe vera drinks.
694 In the prosecution of this application even the Examiner could not find any such 695 companies. However, even if such companies could be found it does not set a

696 precedent for the USPTO trademark roster currently lists many companies 697 utilizing identical marks while selling similar wares without confusion.

698
699 10. The Applicant is the only person most familiar with the Applicant's mark, the 700 person most familiar with the Applicant's aloe vera products, the person most 701 familiar with the Applicant's actual or intended advertising, promotion, and 702 marketing of aloe vera drinks in connections with the Applicant's mark, and the 703 person most familiar with the Applicant's actual or intended channels of trade and 704 class of consumers for aloe vera drinks.

705
706 However, the Applicant contends that such questions are all irrelevant. That is,
707 the questions are not directed at finding out whether or not the Applicant's mark
708 is confusing with those of the Opposers but rather is directing a gathering
709 extraneous information from the Applicant. Moreover, the questions are also
710 undefined in that the questions asks for information extraterritorial to the U.S.A.
711 and is thus not within the scope or mandate of these opposition proceedings. As 712 such, they need not be answered.

713
714 11. The questions are not directed at finding out whether or not the Applicant's mark
715 is confusing with those of the Opposers but rather is directing a gathering
716 extraneous information from the Applicant. Moreover, the questions are also
717 undefined in that the questions asks for information extraterritorial to the U.S.A.
718 and is thus not within the scope or mandate of these opposition proceedings. As 719 such, they need not be answered.

720
721 12. The questions are not directed at finding out whether or not the Applicant's mark
722 is confusing with those of the Opposers but rather is directing a gathering
723 extraneous information from the Applicant. Moreover, the questions are also
724 undefined in that the questions asks for information extraterritorial to the U.S.A.
725 and is thus not within the scope or mandate of these opposition proceedings. As 726 such, they need not be answered.

The answering party may assert lack of knowledge or information as a reason for failing to admit or deny only if the party states that it has made reasonable inquiry and that the information it knows or can readily obtain is insufficient to enable it to admit or deny.

20. Elision (French)

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

In French, elision refers to the suppression of a final unstressed vowel (usually [ə]) immediately before another word beginning with a vowel. The term also refers to the orthographic convention by which the deletion of a vowel is reflected in writing, and indicated with an apostrophe.

In written French, elision (both phonetic and orthographic) is obligatory for the following words:

- the definite articles le and la
 - le garçon ("the boy"), la fille ("the girl")
 - le + arbre → *l'*arbre ("the tree"), la + église → *l'*église ("the church")
- the subject pronouns je and ce (when they occur before the verb)
 - Je dors. ("I sleep") Ce serait génial. ("That would be great.")
 - *J'*ai dormi. ("I slept.") *C'*était génial. ("It was great.")
 - but: Ai-je imaginé? ("Did I imagine?"), Est-ce utile? ("Is that useful?")
- the object pronouns me, te, se, le, and la (when they occur before the verb)
 - Jean se rase, la voit, me téléphone. ("Jean shaves himself, sees her, phones me.")
 - *Jean s'*est rasé, *l'*a vue, *m'*a téléphoné. ("Jean shaved himself, saw her, phoned me.")
 - but: Regarde-le encore une fois. ("Look at him one more time.")
 - (rare case of elision after the verb): *Sortez-l'*en. ("Take it out of there.")
- the negative marker ne
 - Elle ne parle plus. ("She isn't talking anymore.")
 - *Elle n'*arrête pas de parler. ("She won't stop talking.")
- the preposition de
 - Le père de Jean vient de partir. ("Jean's father just left.")
 - Le père d'Albert vient d'arriver. ("Albert's father just arrived.")
- que (which has many different functions)
 - Que dis-tu ? Que Jean ne fait que manger. ("What are you saying? That Jean does nothing but eat.")
 - *Qu'*as-tu dit ? *Qu'*il ne nous restait plus qu'une semaine. ("What did you say? That we only had one more week left.")

Elision is indicated in the spelling of some compound words: *presqu'*île (peninsula), *aujourd'*hui (today).

An article is a word that is placed before a noun or adjective to indicate the type of reference being made to the noun or adjective. Articles can be definite (showing a reference to a specific person or thing) or indefinite (showing reference to any one person, place or thing out of a general group).

The definite article in English is made up of one word – 'the' – but in French, this is complicated by the fact that it must change form to agree with the gender and number of the noun to which it refers:

Masculine	Le
Feminine	La
Plural	Les (the '-s' is silent; pronounced like the 'le-' sound in 'let')

Thankfully, there is only one plural article for both masculine and feminine nouns – Les.

Note: This plural form of the definite article is particularly handy, since the French plural in nouns is regularly indicated by the addition of an -s, as in English, but in French the -s is silent in speech – and therefore, without the distinctive plural article, it would be impossible to know (in speech, but not in writing) whether the noun was singular or plural.

Thus, for the feminine, we have:

- The apple = La pomme
- The apples = Les pommes

(with pomme pronounced identically in the singular and plural)

And for the masculine:

- The cat = Le chat
- The cats = Les chats

(with chat pronounced identically in the singular and plural)

The Definite Article Elided

Before a vowel or a silent 'h', the French definite article is elided (meaning a vowel is removed from the end of the word) to l', for le and la alike:

- Le homme = L'homme = The man

(With homme pronounced 'om' due to the silent 'h')

- La aubergine = L'aubergine = The aubergine

It is thought that this feature of French exists largely for reasons of pronunciation, as putting two vowels together (and if the initial 'h' of a word is silent, the first thing to be pronounced is the vowel that follows) becomes linguistically awkward and inelegant with the French set of vowel sounds.

Note: An alternative device with the same purpose as the French elision in the use of the definite article, the addition of a consonant between the two vowels instead of the removal of one of them, is found in English instead of the elision (although to a lesser extent), for example when the indefinite article 'a' becomes 'an' before a noun beginning with a vowel – i.e. 'an apple' instead of 'a apple'.

Interestingly, in French the plural form of the definite article, Les, is not elided when determining a noun beginning with a vowel or silent 'h', but remains intact:

- Les hommes = The men
- Les aubergines = The aubergines

Instead of removing a vowel, the -s simply ceases to be silent: in front of a noun beginning with a vowel or silent 'h', Les is pronounced 'Lez', thus again avoiding the awkward clash of adjacent vowels and providing a smooth vocal liaison between the article and the noun or adjective.

Silent H and H Aspirate

However, the argument for smooth pronunciation above is somewhat undermined by a whole class of words beginning with a silent 'h' that do not take elided articles.

Technically, these words do not begin with a silent 'h' ('h' muet) but an 'h' aspirate ('h' aspiré), which is very misleading as there is no such thing as an 'h' sound in French, and these words are pronounced in the same manner as those beginning with a silent 'h' – the first sound to be pronounced is the first vowel.

- Le hibou (and not l'hibou) = The owl
- La haine (and not l'haine) = Hate
- Le héros (and not l'héro) = The hero

There is no easy way to distinguish between adjectives and nouns beginning with an aspirate 'h' and a silent 'h' – each case must be learned. For example, héros does not allow contraction (elision) of the article, but héroïsme and héroïne do:

- Le héros = The hero
- L'héroïne = The heroine
- L'héroïsme = Heroism

Encyclopedia > Elision (French)

In French, elision (from elide, to leave out or omit) refers to the practise of combining two logically separate words into one for the convenience of pronunciation in live conversation. In the French language, this process is sometimes explicit as in

- je aime → j'aime
- entre acte → entr'acte (something done in a theatre production "between acts" while scene changes, etc are made).

However, most cases of elision involve the two articles la and le, and the short pronouns je, me, te, and se when followed by another word beginning with a vowel.

The term properly applied refers only to changes reflected in the written language. In the case of longer words ending in "e" followed by another word beginning with a vowel, the same phenomenon may happen in the spoken language only, and in that case it is known as liaison (linking), and also involves the pronunciation of the otherwise silent final consonant cluster of the first word. For instance in the example given above, entre (between) and acte (act) combine into the established noun entr'acte, a case of elision, but the common phrase entre amis (between friends), is classified as both elision (since the final "e" is ignored) and liaison (since the effective pronunciation is the same as if the words were spelled en tramis).

It might be further noted that this separation of single syllables into more than one logical word is artificial and does not necessarily reflect the real language. The Académie française preserves and controls the French language to a degree that does not always match the convenience of speakers of the French language, especially those outside Paris. It not uncommon for French speakers, when communicating informally, such as over an instant messaging service, to use the written word cés even when c'est or sés, which have identical sounds but different meanings, are intended, and to make even more drastic spelling adjustments. For instance, in Montréal, a Francophone might tell his/her buddy "chu malade", the actual local idiomatic pronunciation of "je suis malade" (I'm sick), even if they're quite familiar with the forms approved by Académie but take more characters and cost money for space-confined SMS messages on GSM mobile phones

In a reverse instance of the latter, the common form qu'on, formed by elision from que (that) and on ("one", or "it") is sometimes avoided because the identically sounding con, has an obscene meaning.

Became Ivan Koloff in 1967 and the next year defeated Johnny Rougeau for the International title in Montreal. Initially billed as the nephew of Dan Koloff, a wrestler from the 1920s and 30s, just as Ivan would later be billed as the uncle of Nikita Koloff. Made his Maple Leaf Gardens debut in June 1968 and was wrestling main events three months later. Challenged Dory Funk Jr. for the NWA title in a Toronto main event in 1969. Went to the WWF in 1970 and wrestled Sammartino for the title at Madison Square Garden. Won the belt the following year. Repeatedly challenged Verne Gagne for the AWA title in 1972. Had additional MSG main event matches against Sammartino in 1975.

Held the Indianapolis-based WWA world title in 1977 and won the Florida tag title four times that year, including one reign with Pat Patterson. Came back to main event at Madison Square Garden against Bob Backlund in 1978.

After a successful stay in Georgia, wrestled for Jim Crockett's Mid-Atlantic promotion, winning the NWA World tag belts with Ray Stevens (1981), Don Kernodle (1984), and Nikita Koloff (1985). He was also announced as Rick Rude's replacement as Manny Fernandez's partner when Rude & Fernandez held the NWA tag title in 1987, but that was abandoned when Fernandez left the promotion.

Won the Toronto-based Canadian title in a 1984 tournament and dropped the belt a few weeks later in his final match at Maple Leaf Gardens.

Continued to wrestle for Crockett and WCW through the 1980s. Wrestled on independent shows into the 2000s. Lives in North Carolina.

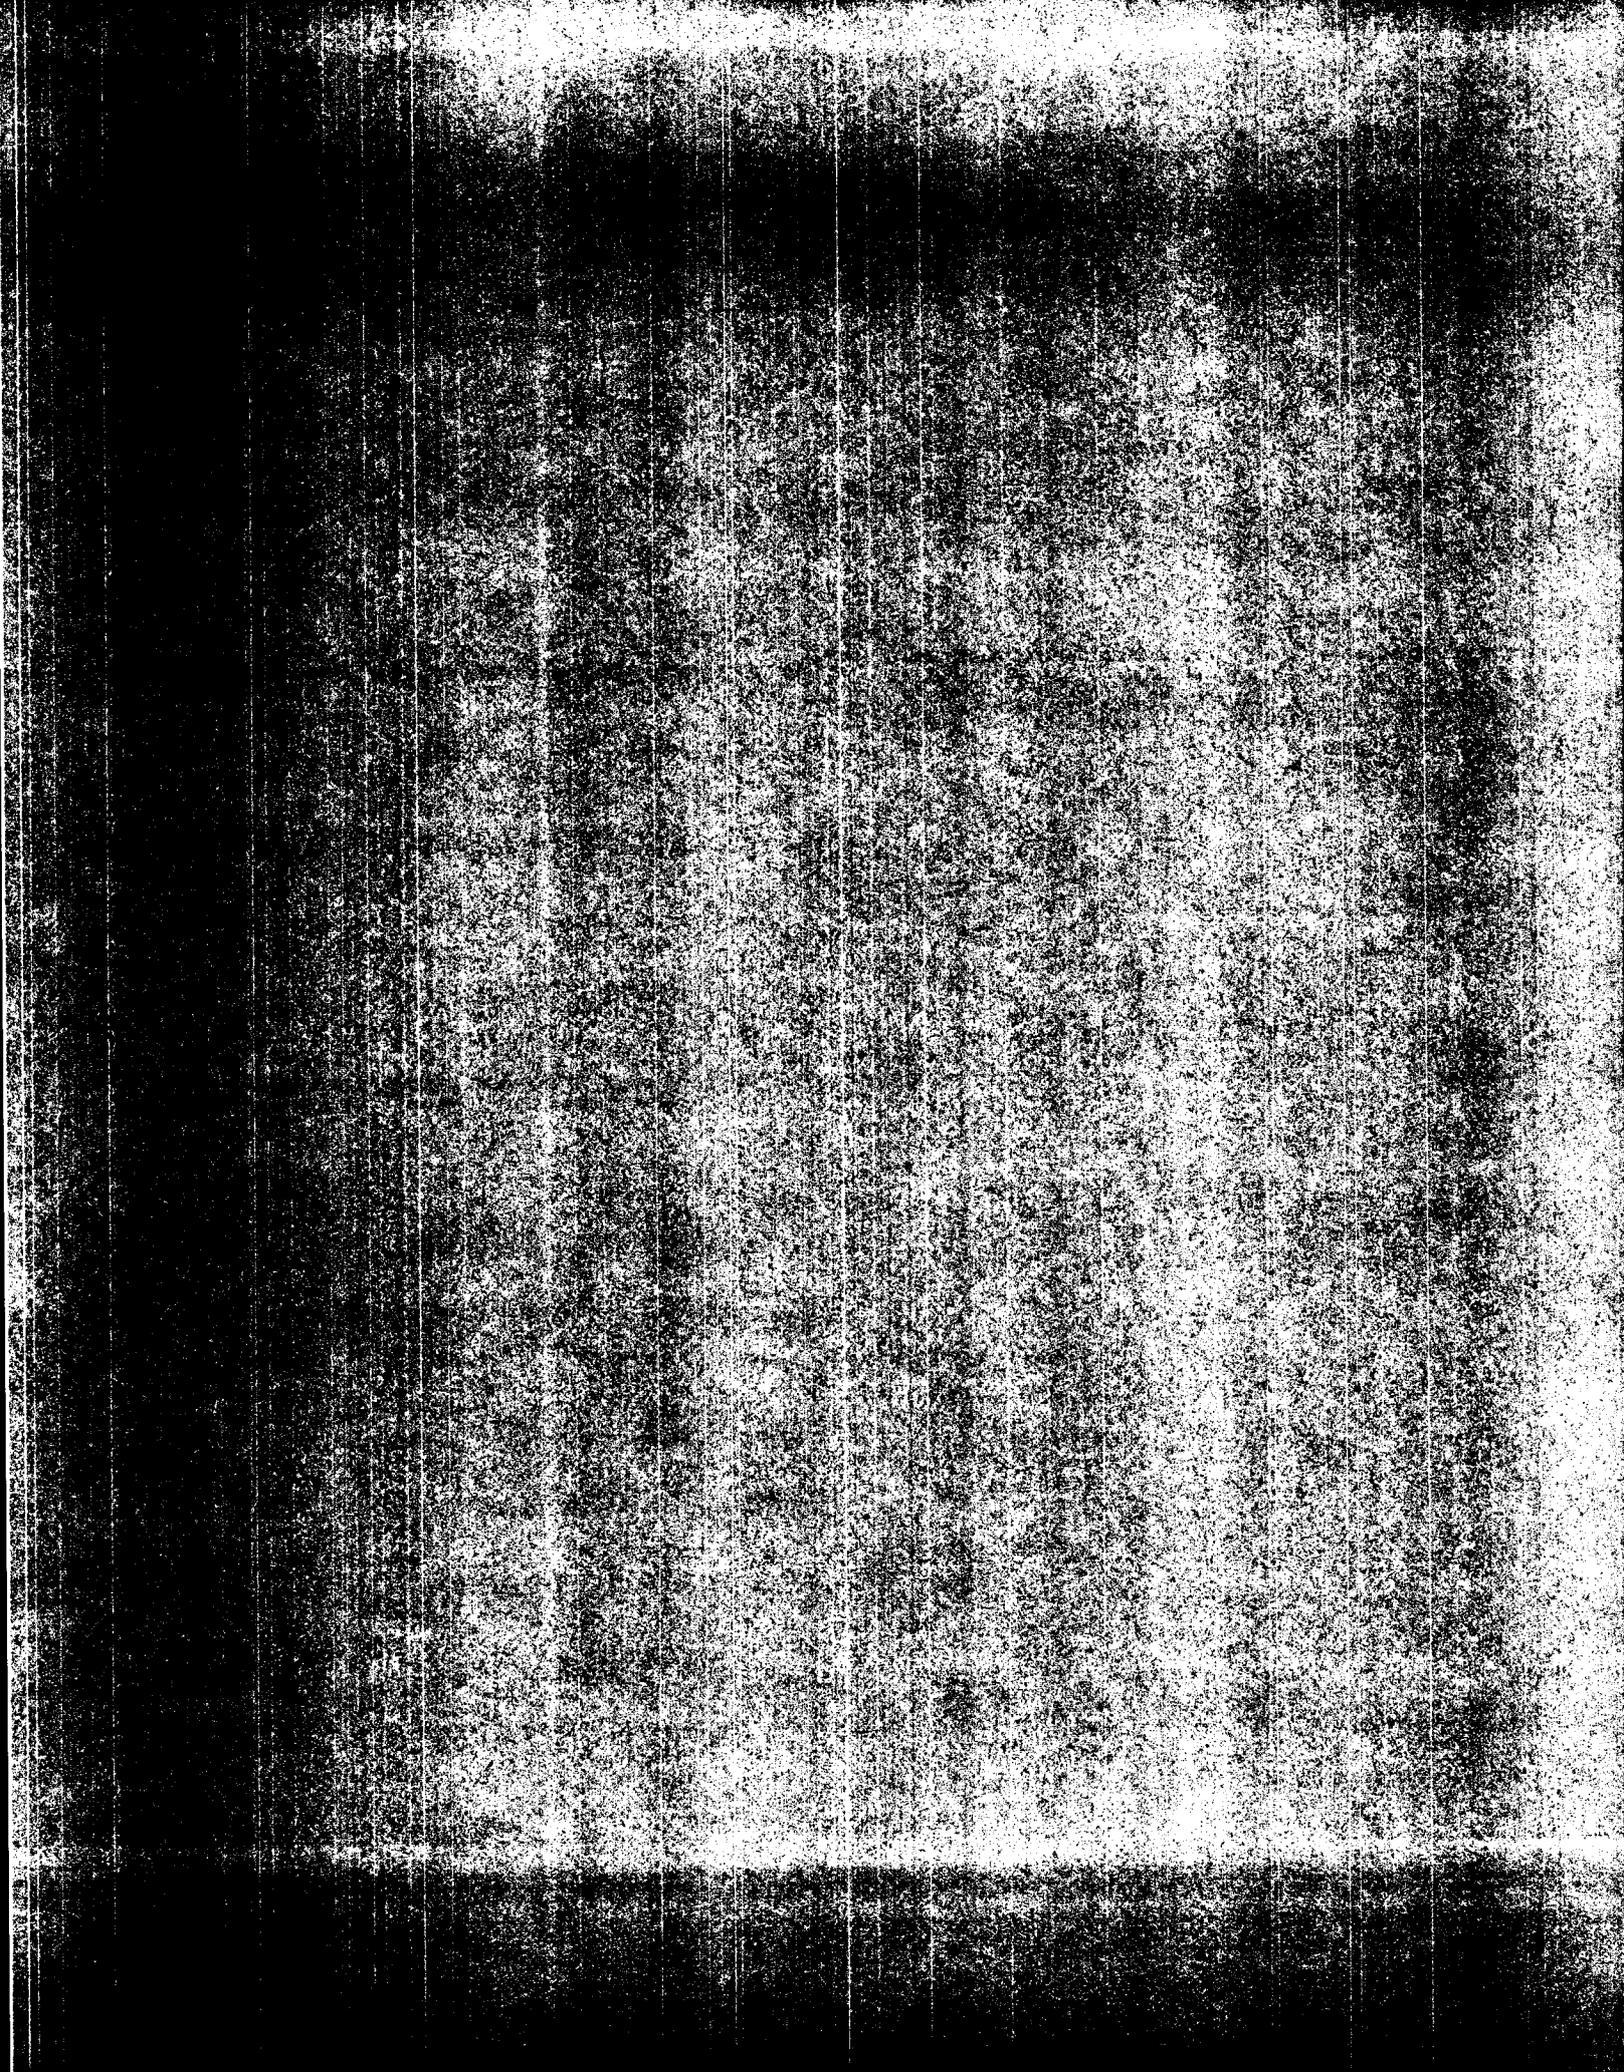

"Koloff, a 6-1, 298 pounder, pinned the 265 pound Sammartino in mid-ring, to leave no doubt regarding his achievement. Referee Dick Kroll, a former NYU matman, counted out the victimized champion. The time was 14 minutes, 55 seconds. The end came with startling suddenness as Koloff hurdled off the top rope and hit Sammartino full force in the neck area. The defeat came amid Sammartino's 111th title defence in a Madison Square Garden ring. (From Scranton, PA newspaper, Jan. 19, 1971)

"Morales, although 47 pounds lighter at 241, pinned Ivan Koloff, 288, Russia, in midring in 23 minutes and 18 seconds, Monday night to end the shortest reign of any titleholder in history, 21 days since Koloff surprised by conquering seven-year champion Bruno Sammartino in the same Madison Square Garden ring. The all-time record gathering of 21,812 paid $86,885." (From Scranton, PA newspaper, Feb. 9, 1971)
