Description

The official Volvo On Call app allows you to access your vehicle from your iPhone. This requires a vehicle from model year 2012 (North America requires model year 2015.5) that is equipped with a Volvo on Call Telematics unit. If your vehicle fulfills these requirements you will, depending on your model, be able to:

- Check vehicle dashboard status, such as fuel or battery level, trip meters, and more
- Control your fuel fired parking heater, if the vehicle is equipped with a fuel fired parking heater.
- Control your cabin climate, if the vehicle is a plug-in hybrid.
- Locate your vehicle on a map or use the vehicle signal horn and blink indicators.
- Check the current status of doors, windows and locks for your vehicle.
- Lock and unlock the vehicle remotely.
- Request roadside assistance from within the app.
- Edit your driving journal, categorize trips as business or private, merge trips, rename and send to an email contact.
- Analyze your trips route with map view and statistics such as fuel and/or battery consumption, as well as speed.
- Even though you do not currently own a Volvo fulfilling the Volvo On Call requirements above, you can still install the App and try the demo mode.

Description

With the Volvo Wheels app, you will see what a difference a new set of Volvo wheel rims could make on your car. Here you'll find a selection of all the Volvo rims to choose from - and there is always another rim for your model.

Simply photograph your Volvo with the built-in camera. Then select your car model and drag-and-drop the available rims into place. In an instant, you've got a great picture of what another set of rims would do for your very own Volvo.

OK, you love your "new rims", but what do your friends say? Share your new Volvo with your friends on Facebook and get their opinion.

To explore Volvo's different rims, products, offers and more, visit www.volvocars.com

Fleet Management

Fleet Management is a service that helps you keep track of the performance of your entire fleet.

Fuel consumption, emissions, driving profile, events and positioning are the basic functions. Within each of these you'll find detailed information and reports, giving you a comprehensive picture of how each bus is being driven.

This information serves as a basis for planning and actions in order to reduce fuel consumption, wear and tear, and emissions, and also to increase passenger comfort.

Traffic Management

Knowing if your operations are running according to plan is critical in today's public transport.

Furthermore, your passengers not just expect the bus to be on time but they want accurate real-time information along their journey.

Traffic Management provides the tools on board the bus, in the control centre and at stops for keeping your passengers informed and your operation under control.

Proper maintenance is the key to optimised productivity and uptime. We set up a maintenance plan for each individual bus, and by downloading captured data this plan is updated to meet actual needs.

This service – Adaptive Maintenance Planning – will give reminders, assist in booking service for the bus, and list the parts needed as well as the time required in the workshop.

Volvo Buses invites customers to play new game

Volvo Buses launches a unique digital customer game with the purpose to help customers develop operations and improve profitability.

The customer game was developed in response to the challenges and issues that impact the bus operator's everyday situation, such as fuel consumption, high vehicle reliability, high passenger satisfaction and so on. The arena is an iPad and there is one version for city bus customers and another for customers in the tourist coach segment.

The aim of the game is to have a dialogue with customers in a fresh new way, using the game as the starting-point for discussing how the customer's operation can be developed.

"Dialogue with the customer is central to our partnership and the game is a fun new way to engage in this dialogue. We want to help both the customer and ourselves to gain new insights," says Marie Carlsson, Director Business Solutions at Volvo Buses.

The game is played with contestants throwing the dice and responding to various events that occur and impact the company's economy – events for which the participants have to find solutions. The game can be played individually or in teams, and the idea is that the contestants should exchange experiences with one another and gain new insights. The winner is the person who over a five-year period succeeds in earning most money and scores highest in passenger satisfaction.

The new game was launched in connection with the IAA trade show in Hannover recently. It is played on an iPad in dialogue between a Volvo Bus representative and the Bus customer.

Extranet connect service

The Extranet Connect Service is a general tool for external users who need secure communication to appointed Volvo applications. ECS gives a user access to exactly those applications that he/she is authorized to use. It also secures the data traffic during the transport over a public network, like the Internet.

ECS consists of two parts, one client software (hereafter called the ECS-client) and one central VPN-gateway (hereafter called the ECS-gateway). The ECS-client is used to encrypt/decrypt the traffic to and from the ECS-gateway. The ECS client can be installed on a PC with Microsoft Windows operating systems.

Besides to encrypt/decrypt the traffic to and from an ECS-client, the ECS-gateway forces the user to authenticate before the communication can start. It also decides which applications a user have access to on the Volvo network.

Product Summary

- ECS gives external users possibility to access appointed Volvo Applications in a secure way.
- ECS adds user authentication and protection of the communication between client and the Volvo gateway.
- ECS uses VPN, Virtual Private Network technology, which makes it possible to run securely over a public network.
- ECS supports both Internet and private network connections as a transportation layer to the Volvo Extranet.
- ECS supports both dial-up and LAN attached users.
- ECS has local access (split-tunneling) by default.
- ECS demands a software installation on the client.

Secure Connect Services

The SCS service provides a secure client VPN access to a company intranet over an unsecure network like e.g. Internet. This makes it possible to work from home or connect to internal resource while on the road.

The service gives an in office like experience with the exception that the performance depends on latency and bandwidth of the Internet connection.

While connected, all communication will be done via the VPN access and no local access is allowed. To be able to verify the user credentials when connecting an authentication server is needed. This is not included in SCS but can be offered.

SCS consists of two parts, one client software (hereafter called the SCS-client) and one central VPN-gateway (hereafter called the SCS-gateway). The SCS-client is used to encrypt/decrypt the traffic to and from the SCS-gateway. The SCS client can be installed on a PC with Microsoft Windows operating systems.

Besides to encrypt/decrypt the traffic to and from an SCS-client, the SCS-gateway forces the user to authenticate with a one-time password before the communication can start.

Product Summary

- The SCS service provides a secure client VPN access to a company intranet over an unsecure network like e.g. Internet
- SCS adds user authentication and protection of the communication between client and the gateway.
