FINAL OFFICE ACTION

RESPONSE TIME LIMIT: TO AVOID ABANDONMENT, THE OFFICE MUST RECEIVE A PROPER RESPONSE TO THIS OFFICE ACTION WITHIN 6 MONTHS OF THE MAILING OR E-MAILING DATE.

Serial Number 78/548071

This letter is written in response to the applicant's communication dated November 15, 2005, in which the applicant 1) amended the identification of goods and services; and 2) submitted a disclaimer.

The disclaimer is acceptable, however, the identification of goods in International Class 030 is unacceptable for the reasons set forth below. The requirement for an acceptable and definite identification of goods is continued and made FINAL.

IDENTIFICATION OF GOODS

The wording "salads" in the identification of goods is unacceptable as indefinite. The applicant must amend the identification to specify the nature/main ingredient of the salad. For example, "fruit salads" and "garden salads" are in International Class 029, "pasta salad" and "macaroni salads" are in International Class 030. TMEP §1402.01. Applicant must limit the identification to the two classes paid for, or submit additional fees to prosecute this as a combined multiple class application.

Where possible, the examining attorney has provided guidelines to assist the applicant in amending the existing identification of goods and services. The applicant may wish to consult the on-line identification manual on the USPTO homepage for acceptable common names of goods and services; and classification therefor. http://tess2.uspto.gov/netahtml/tidm.html.

Please note that, while the identification of goods may be amended to clarify or limit the goods, adding to the goods or broadening the scope of the goods is not permitted. 37 C.F.R. §2.71(a); TMEP §1402.06. Therefore, applicant may not amend the identification to include goods that are not within the scope of the goods set forth in the present identification.

REQUIREMENTS FOR A COMBINED APPLICATION

If applicant prosecutes this application as a combined, or multiple-class application, then applicant must comply with each of the following for those goods based on an intent to use the mark in commerce under Trademark Act Section 1(b):

1. Applicant must list the goods by international class with the classes listed in ascending numerical order. TMEP § 1403.01; and

OFFICE ACTION

RESPONSE TIME LIMIT: TO AVOID ABANDONMENT, THE OFFICE MUST RECEIVE A PROPER RESPONSE TO THIS OFFICE ACTION WITHIN 6 MONTHS OF THE MAILING OR E-MAILING DATE.

Serial Number 78/548071

The assigned trademark examining attorney has reviewed the referenced application filed on January 14, 2005, and has determined the following.

SEARCH RESULTS

The examining attorney has searched the Office records and has found no similar registered or pending mark which would bar registration under Trademark Act Section 2(d), 15 U.S.C. §1052(d). TMEP §704.02.

DISCLAIMER OF DESCRIPTIVE WORDING

The applicant must insert a disclaimer of "NEAPOLITAN PIZZA" in the application. "NEAPOLITAN PIZZA" is a certain type of pizza, therefore, the wording "NEAPOLITAN PIZZA" is descriptive of applicant's goods and services. Trademark Act Section 6, 15 U.S.C. Section 1056; TMEP Sections 1213 and 1213.03(a).

The computerized printing format for the Office's Trademark Official Gazette requires a standardized format for a disclaimer. TMEP §1213.08(a)(i). The following is the standard format used by the Office:

> No claim is made to the exclusive right to use "NEAPOLITAN PIZZA" apart from the mark as shown.

See In re Owatonna Tool Co., 231 USPQ 493 (Comm'r Pats. 1983).

IDENTIFICATION OF GOODS

The identification of goods in International Class 029 is unacceptable as indefinite. The applicant must amend the identification to specify the common commercial name of the goods. TMEP §1402.01. Applicant may amend to adopt the following if accurate:

"Prepared foods, namely, pizza, for consumption on and off the premises." International Class 030

Where possible, the examining attorney has provided guidelines to assist the applicant in amending the existing identification of goods and services. The applicant may wish to consult the on-line identification manual on the USPTO homepage for acceptable common names of goods and services; and classification therefor. http://tess2.uspto.gov/netahtml/tidm.html.

Please note that, while the identification of goods may be amended to clarify or limit the goods, adding to the goods or broadening the scope of the goods is not permitted. 37 C.F.R. §2.71(a); TMEP §1402.06. Therefore, applicant may not amend the identification to include goods that are not within the scope of the goods set forth in the present identification.

Huh? You say. That's advertising hype. Nope. Of course, it's only if you like pizza and salad, which we THINK much of the world does. Picture a little cute 8" totally gourmet mini pizza. With only the stuff on it that you love. Even if all you love is pepperoni. Or totally if you get jazzed by stuff like fresh mozzarella and stone oven roasted portabello mushrooms. Or the 25 other freshly roasted ingredients and hand grated cheeses you won't find in any other pizza place. You tell us what you want on your pizza (we figure over 650 combinations, there should be one for everyone) and which of our 4 delicious salads (Caesar, Greek, 3-Color Chopped or Spinach) will be just the perfect accompaniment. Then we'll bring it to you on REAL china (because you and the environment are worth it). We call it our Pizza Mia. It's only $7.95, and we hope we get to make your perfect Pizza Mia really soon!

FINAL OFFICE ACTION

RESPONSE TIME LIMIT: TO AVOID ABANDONMENT, THE OFFICE MUST RECEIVE A PROPER RESPONSE TO THIS OFFICE ACTION WITHIN 6 MONTHS OF THE MAILING OR E-MAILING DATE.

Serial Number 78/547987

This letter is written in response to the applicant's communication dated November 15, 2005, in which the applicant 1) amended the identification of goods and services; and 2) submitted a disclaimer.

The disclaimer is acceptable, however, the identification of goods in International Class 030 is unacceptable for the reasons set forth below. The requirement for an acceptable and definite identification of goods is continued and made FINAL.

IDENTIFICATION OF GOODS

The wording "salads" in the identification of goods is unacceptable as indefinite. The applicant must amend the identification to specify the nature/main ingredient of the salad. For example, "fruit salads" and "garden salads" are in International Class 029, "pasta salad" and "macaroni salads" are in International Class 030. TMEP §1402.01. Applicant must limit the identification to the two classes paid for, or submit additional fees to prosecute this as a combined multiple class application.

Where possible, the examining attorney has provided guidelines to assist the applicant in amending the existing identification of goods and services. The applicant may wish to consult the on-line identification manual on the USPTO homepage for acceptable common names of goods and services; and classification therefor. http://tess2.uspto.gov/netahtml/tidm.html.

Please note that, while the identification of goods may be amended to clarify or limit the goods, adding to the goods or broadening the scope of the goods is not permitted. 37 C.F.R. §2.71(a); TMEP §1402.06. Therefore, applicant may not amend the identification to include goods that are not within the scope of the goods set forth in the present identification.

REQUIREMENTS FOR A COMBINED APPLICATION

If applicant prosecutes this application as a combined, or multiple-class application, then applicant must comply with each of the following for those goods based on an intent to use the mark in commerce under Trademark Act Section 1(b):

1. Applicant must list the goods by international class with the classes listed in ascending numerical order. TMEP § 1403.01; and

2. Applicant must submit a filing fee for each international class of goods not covered by the fee already paid (current fee information should be confirmed at http://www.uspto.gov). 37 C.F.R. §2.86(a)(2); TMEP §§810 and 1403.01.

RESPONSE TO A FINAL ACTION

If applicant fails to respond to this final action within six months of the mailing date, the application will be abandoned. 15 U.S.C. §1062(b); 37 C.F.R. §2.65(a). Applicant may respond to this final action by:

(1) submitting a response that fully satisfies all outstanding requirements, if feasible (37 C.F.R. §2.64(a)); and/or

(2) filing an appeal to the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board, with an appeal fee of $100 per class (37 C.F.R. §§2.6(a)(18) and 2.64(a); TMEP §§715.01 and 1501 et seq.; TBMP Chapter 1200).

In certain circumstances, a petition to the Director may be filed to review a final action that is limited to procedural issues, pursuant to 37 C.F.R. §2.63(b)(2). 37 C.F.R. §2.64(a). See 37 C.F.R. §2.146(b), TMEP §1704, and TBMP Chapter 1201.05 for an explanation of petitionable matters. The petition fee is $100. 37 C.F.R. §2.6(a)(15).

PARTIAL ABANDONMENT - ADVISORY

If applicant should fail to respond to this Office action within the six month time limit, then the following goods will be deleted from the application: "salads."

The application will then proceed forward for the following goods and/or services only: "Prepared foods for consumption on and off the premises, namely, pizza, panini, and gelato." International Class 030, and "restaurant services and restaurant carry-out services." International Class 043 37 C.F.R. §2.65(a).

OFFICE ACTION

RESPONSE TIME LIMIT: TO AVOID ABANDONMENT, THE OFFICE MUST RECEIVE A PROPER RESPONSE TO THIS OFFICE ACTION WITHIN 6 MONTHS OF THE MAILING OR E-MAILING DATE.

Serial Number 78/547987

The assigned trademark examining attorney has reviewed the referenced application filed on January 14, 2005, and has determined the following.

SEARCH RESULTS

The examining attorney has searched the Office records and has found no similar registered or pending mark which would bar registration under Trademark Act Section 2(d), 15 U.S.C. §1052(d). TMEP §704.02.

DISCLAIMER OF DESCRIPTIVE WORDING

The applicant must insert a disclaimer of "NEAPOLITAN PIZZA" in the application. "NEAPOLITAN PIZZA" is a certain type of pizza, therefore, the wording "NEAPOLITAN PIZZA" is descriptive of applicant's goods and services. Trademark Act Section 6, 15 U.S.C. Section 1056; TMEP Sections 1213 and 1213.03(a).

The computerized printing format for the Office's Trademark Official Gazette requires a standardized format for a disclaimer. TMEP §1213.08(a)(i). The following is the standard format used by the Office:

> No claim is made to the exclusive right to use "NEAPOLITAN PIZZA" apart from the mark as shown.

See In re Owatonna Tool Co., 231 USPQ 493 (Comm'r Pats. 1983).

IDENTIFICATION OF GOODS

The identification of goods in International Class 029 is unacceptable as indefinite. The applicant must amend the identification to specify the common commercial name of the goods. TMEP §1402.01. Applicant may amend to adopt the following if accurate:

"Prepared foods, namely, pizza, for consumption on and off the premises." International Class 030

Where possible, the examining attorney has provided guidelines to assist the applicant in amending the existing identification of goods and services. The applicant may wish to consult the on-line identification manual on the USPTO homepage for acceptable common names of goods and services; and classification therefor. http://tess2.uspto.gov/netahtml/tidm.html.

AMENDMENT AND RESPONSE TO OFFICE ACTION

This is in response to the Office Action dated October 30, 2006.

Amendment

Please enter the following claim of ownership:

- - Applicant is the owner of U.S. Registration Nos. 3,163,808 and 3,172,270.- -

Remarks

As requested, Applicant has entered a claim of ownership of U.S. Registration Nos. 3,163,808 and 3,172,270, both for the mark SPIN! NEOPOLITAN PIZZA and Design.

Registration has been refused on the basis of a likelihood of confusion with two registered marks, namely SPIN, Reg. No. 2,942,183, for "coffee-based beverages; espresso-based beverages"; and SPIN CAFFE, Reg. No. 3,137,891, for "coffee house; coffee shop". Based on the following comments, Applicant respectfully traverses these rejections, and requests that they be withdrawn.

While the cited marks and the mark of the present application include the term "spin" in common, this term, and variations thereof, are widely used in a number of marks, even in the food and beverage industries, and thus is not as strong with respect to goods or services in or related to these industries. When, as with the present situation, the common marks are considered "weak", the likelihood of confusion is diminished. McCarthy, Thomas J., McCarthy on Trademarks and Unfair Competition, § 23:48 (4th Ed. 2004), citing Gruner + Jahr USA Publishing v. Meredith Corp., 26 U.S.Q.P.2d 1583 (2d Cir. 1993)(Confusion not likely between PARENTS and PARENTS DIGEST for magazines due to extreme weakness of "parents" portion), Nestle's Milk Products, Inc. V. Baker Importing Co., 86 U.S.P.Q. 80 (C.C.P.A. 1950) (HYCAFE versus NESCAFE); and Smith v. Tobacco By-Products & Chemical Corp., 113 U.S.P.Q. 339 (C.C.P.A. 1958) (GREEN LEAF versus BLACK LEAF for plant sprays).

Also, Applicant's mark has a distinctive presentation not found in either of the cited marks, namely the exclamation point following the word "Spin". This distinctive feature is likewise found in Applicant's prior registrations for SPIN! NEOPOLITAN PIZZA and Design, as noted above.

In addition to comparing the marks, the similarity of the goods or services associated with the marks must also be assessed. While the goods connected with the cited marks and the services associated with the mark of the present application are both in the field of food and beverages, they are still very different goods and services. Indeed, one of the cited marks is registered for a coffee-based or espresso-based beverage, while the other mark is for a coffee house and coffee shop. The goods and services of these co-existing registrations are much more highly related to each other than either one of them is to Applicant's pizza restaurant. According to the reasoning in the Action, "numerous establishments ... provide gelato and coffee and pizza and coffee, which demonstrates that these two products are sold within similar channels of trade." In support of this position, attached to the Action were internet printouts advertising restaurants or coffee houses which sell combinations of these items. However, advertisements from the internet are not persuasive evidence that the goods are currently being sold, or that the public is familiar with these establishments.

Although the evidence submitted with the Action shows that combinations of these food and beverage items are advertised together, there are, contrastedly, numerous examples of food or beverage registrations co-existing on the Trademark Register with registrations for other food or beverage items, as well as for restaurant services. As stated above, the best example of this is the coexistence of the two cited registrations, one for the term "SPIN" alone, and the other for the mark "SPIN CAFFE", for coffee-based beverages and for a coffee shop, respectively. It would be hard to imagine a coffee shop not selling coffee-based beverages. However, the SPIN CAFFE registration issued even in view of the prior registration for the single-word mark, SPIN. If these two registrations have been allowed to co-exist, it is believed that applicant's SPIN! mark for its restaurant selling pizza, panini and gelato items should similarly be allowed to register for these goods and services.

In addition, a review of Registrant Tully's Coffee Corporation's website shows another of its in-store menu items is "Bellaccino", Reg. No. 2,369,199, which is registered for coffee based beverages. A copy of this registration is attached as Exhibit A. Directly on point, Tully's "Bellaccino" registration for this in-store menu item was allowed to register even in view of a prior registration for the nearly identical mark "BELLACINO'S" for "restaurant and carry out services", Reg. No. 2,044,832. A copy of this registration is attached as Exhibit B. Further, another of Tully's menu items, TULLY'S TANGO, was registered as Reg. No. 2,841,455 for fruit and blended fruit beverages, even in view of the prior registrations for BRITVIC TANGO, Reg. No. 2,635,543, for carbonated soft drinks, CAFÉ TU TU TANGO, Reg. No. 2,504,612 for restaurant services, and ISLAND TANGO, Reg. No. 2,776,119 for fruit drinks. Copies of these registrations are attached hereto as Exhibits C-F. Finally, Tully's TULLY mark was registered as a single word both for beverages, coffee, and retail coffee store and cafe services, Reg. No. 2,918,290, among others, and co-exists with registrations for various "TULLY" marks, including "TULLY'S GOOD TIMES", Reg. No. 2,886,025, for restaurant services and menu items, among others. Copies of these registrations are attached hereto as Exhibits G and H, respectively. This co-existence clearly demonstrates the allowable co-registration of nearly identical marks for retail coffee store and café services, and for restaurant services, as well as for menu drinks and for restaurant services. Based on the fanciful nature of these marks, and in particular the "BELLACINO" and "TULLY" marks, there can be no argument that they would be seen as more highly similar to each other, from a likelihood of confusion standpoint, than are the cited marks to Applicant's marks. Clearly, though, the cited "coffee beverage" and "coffee house" goods and services are not so similar as to require a likelihood of confusion finding with Applicant's recited goods and services.

Another example of marks allowed to co-exist on the Trademark Register are the identical marks REVOLVER, which is registered for a "coffee beverage," Reg. No. 3,058,630, and will be published for opposition on May 1, 2007 for "cocktail lounges; cocktail bar services," Ser. No. 78/658,958. Copies of this registration and Notice of Publication are attached as Exhibits I and J, respectively. Other examples of similar co-existence of related food, beverage and restaurant services include the term "domino", for sugar and for restaurants, namely, DOMINO'S for retail pizza store services, and the nearly identical mark "DOMINO" for sugar items and non-dairy creamer. Copies of these registrations are attached hereto as Exhibits K and L. Another example is the term "McCormick", which is registered as "MCCORMICK'S" for restaurant services and as "MCCORMICK" for whiskey, gin, vodka and grain alcohol. Copies of these registrations are attached as Exhibits M and N.

Comparing a specific coffee drink on a menu to a restaurant selling pizza, panini and gelato, as well as comparing a coffee house to such a restaurant, is an oversimplification, similar to comparing sugar or a non-dairy creamer with a restaurant, or to comparing a brand of liquor with a restaurant. While restaurants typically sell coffee drinks, or typically have available sugar or non-dairy creamer, or more likely will also sell alcoholic beverages, this does not make these goods and services confusingly similar. These pairs of goods and services may reach the same consumers, possibly even through the same channels, and importantly could reach these customers at the same time; however, they have consistently been found not to automatically create a likelihood of confusion as to the source of such goods and services.

Once again, the two cited marks create the strongest example of allowable co-existence, that of a one word mark, "SPIN", and a combination "SPIN" mark, one for a coffee beverage sold as an in-store menu item at a specific coffee house, and the other for a coffee house or coffee shop, respectively, and thus these items will almost certainly be encountered by the same type of customers through the same channels of trade. Tully Coffee's "SPIN" menu item will, however, not be encountered by customers dining at Applicant's restaurant. Nor would customers of SPIN CAFFE's coffee house services be likely to confuse it with Applicant's pizza, panini and gelato restaurant. While both cited marks and Applicant's mark are related to food and beverages, there simply is no feasible opportunity for customers to encounter both marks in a situation where any confusion could result. These readily apparent differences in the cited goods and services, and in Applicant's goods and services are sufficient to eliminate any likelihood of confusion between the marks.

Further, it is not irrelevant that Applicant is also the owner of U.S. Registration Nos. 3,163,808 and 3,172,270, both for the marks SPIN! NEOPOLITAN PIZZA and Design. These marks were clearly deemed registrable on the Trademark Register, even in view of the currently cited marks, and their identical and distinctive presentation of the term "Spin" with the exclamation point, namely SPIN!, should be more than sufficient to differentiate it from the cited marks, and establish the registrability of the present SPIN! mark.

Clearly, while Applicant's services and the goods and services associated with the cited marks are somewhat related, as they both pertain in the very broadest sense to the fields of food and beverages, they are still very different goods and services. A case which is on point to the present matter is In re American Olean Tile Co., 1 U.S.P.Q.2d 1823 (TTAB 1986), where the Board found that there is no broad per se rule that the use of identical marks on building construction goods is likely to cause confusion. The Board held that MILANO for ceramic tile, and MILANO for exterior and interior wood doors, were not likely to be confused by the "sophisticated" professional home-builders and tile contractors who are the usual purchasers of tile. The Board found no support for the position that consumers would be confused by the use of the same mark on "products so different in composition, process of manufacture and purpose."

Furthermore, the term "spin" is a commonly used term and, as such, not granted a broad scope of protection. Applicant notes that an in-house search of the Patent and Trademark Office records conducted in April of 2007 for marks including the term "spin" or variations thereof for any related goods or services found over 3000 records, with over 1400 of those for active registrations or pending applications. Copies of these search results listing, at least partially, those records are attached hereto as Exhibits O and P, respectively. A more narrow search for marks which include the term "spin" or variations thereof for related goods or services found over 90 records, with 40 of those for active registrations or pending applications. Copies of these search results listing, at least partially, those records are attached hereto as Exhibits Q and R, respectively. The more relevant of these marks are listed below, with copies of the registrations taken from the Patent and Trademark Office electronic records attached hereto as Exhibits S-Y, respectively:

Trademark	Goods/Services
NIC SPIN OLI and Design Reg. No.: 1,798,021	Hot baked food item consisting of a blend of cheeses, a blend of spices, a clear sauce and spinach rolled inside of a pizza dough shell to be consumed on or off the premises
SPIN Reg. No.: 2,888,205	Carbonated beverages, namely carbonated soft drinks
SPINACI'S Reg. No.: 2,481,595	Restaurant services
SPINELLI COFFEE COMPANY SAN FRANCISCO and Design Reg. No.: 2,119,772	Coffee bar services
SPINNAKER'S Reg. No.: 1,205,013	Restaurant services
SPINNER'S PIZZA Reg. No.: 1,413,794	Restaurant services for ready to eat foods for consumption on or off the premises
TWIN SPIN Reg. No.: 1,442,538	Restaurant and carryout services

As is evident, the goods and services associated with the two cited marks, as well as the marks in the above chart, are much more highly related to each other than the cited mark are to Applicant's food items and restaurant services. As these marks and the cited mark have all been allowed to co-exist with each other on the Trademark Register, it is believed that Applicant's SPIN! mark should similarly be found to be registrable.

Where a mark has been extensively used, the Board has found no likelihood of confusion even where the identical mark is used on related goods. In re Dayco Products-Eaglemotive Inc., 9 U.S.P.Q.2d 1910 (TTAB 1988) (no likelihood of confusion between IMPERIAL for automobiles and structural parts, and IMPERIAL for automotive products). Unlike the automotive products of the IMPERIAL marks discussed in In re Dayco, the only connection between Applicant's goods and services and the goods and services associated with the cited marks is the general relationship that they are all in the broad field of food and beverages, which is an insufficient basis upon which to establish that the goods and services are related for the purposes of a likelihood of confusion analysis.

Given the significant differences in the nature of the goods and services, and in particular the crowded field of related marks for related goods and services, it is believed that there is no likelihood of confusion between the mark of the present application and the mark of the cited registration. It is, therefore, respectfully requested that the refusal to register be withdrawn.

In view of the above claim of ownership and accompanying remarks, it is believed that this application is now in condition for passing to publication. Accordingly, such favorable action is requested when this case is next reached for attention.

Respectfully submitted,

In response to the substantive refusal(s), please note the following:

AMENDMENT AND RESPONSE TO OFFICE ACTION

This is in response to the Office Action dated October 30, 2006.

Amendment

Please enter the following claim of ownership:

- - Applicant is the owner of U.S. Registration Nos. 3,163,808 and 3,172,270.- -

Remarks

As requested, Applicant has entered a claim of ownership of U.S. Registration Nos. 3,163,808 and 3,172,270, both for the mark SPIN! NEOPOLITAN PIZZA and Design.

Registration has been refused on the basis of a likelihood of confusion with two registered marks, namely SPIN, Reg. No. 2,942,183, for "coffee-based beverages; espresso-based beverages"; and SPIN CAFFE, Reg. No. 3,137,891, for "coffee house; coffee shop". Based on the following comments, Applicant respectfully traverses these rejections, and requests that they be withdrawn.

While the cited marks and the mark of the present application include the term "spin" in common, this term, and variations thereof, are widely used in a number of marks, even in the food and beverage industries, and thus is not as strong with respect to goods or services in or related to these industries. When, as with the present situation, the common marks are considered "weak", the likelihood of confusion is diminished. McCarthy, Thomas J., McCarthy on Trademarks and Unfair Competition, § 23:48 (4th Ed. 2004), citing Gruner + Jahr USA Publishing v. Meredith Corp., 26 U.S.Q.P.2d 1583 (2d Cir. 1993)(Confusion not likely between PARENTS and PARENTS DIGEST for magazines due to extreme weakness of "parents" portion), Nestle's Milk Products, Inc. V. Baker Importing Co., 86 U.S.P.Q. 80 (C.C.P.A. 1950) (HYCAFE versus NESCAFE); and Smith v. Tobacco By-Products & Chemical Corp., 113 U.S.P.Q. 339 (C.C.P.A. 1958) (GREEN LEAF versus BLACK LEAF for plant sprays).

Also, Applicant's mark has a distinctive presentation not found in either of the cited marks, namely the exclamation point following the word "Spin". This distinctive feature is likewise found in Applicant's prior registrations for SPIN! NEOPOLITAN PIZZA and Design, as noted above.

In addition to comparing the marks, the similarity of the goods or services associated with the marks must also be assessed. While the goods connected with the cited marks and the services associated with the mark of the present application are both in the field of food and beverages, they are still very different goods and services. Indeed, one of the cited marks is registered for a coffee-based or espresso-based beverage, while the other mark is for a coffee house and coffee shop. The goods and services of these co-existing registrations are much more highly related to each other than either one of them is to Applicant's pizza restaurant. According to the reasoning in the Action, "numerous establishments ... provide gelato and coffee and pizza and coffee, which demonstrates that these two products are sold within similar channels of trade." In support of this position, attached to the Action were internet printouts advertising restaurants or coffee houses which sell combinations of these items. However, advertisements from the internet are not persuasive evidence that the goods are currently being sold, or that the public is familiar with these establishments.

Although the evidence submitted with the Action shows that combinations of these food and beverage items are advertised together, there are, contrastedly, numerous examples of food or beverage registrations co-existing on the Trademark Register with registrations for other food or beverage items, as well as for restaurant services. As stated above, the best example of this is the coexistence of the two cited registrations, one for the term "SPIN" alone, and the other for the mark "SPIN CAFFE", for coffee-based beverages and for a coffee shop, respectively. It would be hard to imagine a coffee shop not selling coffee-based beverages. However, the SPIN CAFFE registration issued even in view of the prior registration for the single-word mark, SPIN. If these two registrations have been allowed to co-exist, it is believed that applicant's SPIN! mark for its restaurant selling pizza, panini and gelato items should similarly be allowed to register for these goods and services.

In addition, a review of Registrant Tully's Coffee Corporation's website shows another of its in-store menu items is "Bellaccino", Reg. No. 2,369,199, which is registered for coffee based beverages. A copy of this registration is attached as Exhibit A. Directly on point, Tully's "Bellaccino" registration for this in-store menu item was allowed to register even in view of a prior registration for the nearly identical mark "BELLACINO'S" for "restaurant and carry out services", Reg. No. 2,044,832. A copy of this registration is attached as Exhibit B. Further, another of Tully's menu items, TULLY'S TANGO, was registered as Reg. No. 2,841,455 for fruit and blended fruit beverages, even in view of the prior registrations for BRITVIC TANGO, Reg. No. 2,635,543, for carbonated soft drinks, CAFÉ TU TU TANGO, Reg. No. 2,504,612 for restaurant services, and ISLAND TANGO, Reg. No. 2,776,119 for fruit drinks. Copies of these registrations are attached hereto as Exhibits C-F. Finally, Tully's TULLY mark was registered as a single word both for beverages, coffee, and retail coffee store and cafe services, Reg. No. 2,918,290, among others, and co-exists with registrations for various "TULLY" marks, including "TULLY'S GOOD TIMES", Reg. No. 2,886,025, for restaurant services and menu items, among others.

Copies of these registrations are attached hereto as Exhibits G and H, respectively. This co-existence clearly demonstrates the allowable co-registration of nearly identical marks for retail coffee store and café services, and for restaurant services, as well as for menu drinks and for restaurant services. Based on the fanciful nature of these marks, and in particular the "BELLACINO" and "TULLY" marks, there can be no argument that they would be seen as more highly similar to each other, from a likelihood of confusion standpoint, than are the cited marks to Applicant's marks. Clearly, though, the cited "coffee beverage" and "coffee house" goods and services are not so similar as to require a likelihood of confusion finding with Applicant's recited goods and services.

Another example of marks allowed to co-exist on the Trademark Register are the identical marks REVOLVER, which is registered for a "coffee beverage," Reg. No. 3,058,630, and will be published for opposition on May 1, 2007 for "cocktail lounges; cocktail bar services," Ser. No. 78/658,958. Copies of this registration and Notice of Publication are attached as Exhibits I and J, respectively. Other examples of similar co-existence of related food, beverage and restaurant services include the term "domino", for sugar and for restaurants, namely, DOMINO'S for retail pizza store services, and the nearly identical mark "DOMINO" for sugar items and non-dairy creamer. Copies of these registrations are attached hereto as Exhibits K and L. Another example is the term "McCormick", which is registered as "MCCORMICK'S" for restaurant services and as "MCCORMICK" for whiskey, gin, vodka and grain alcohol. Copies of these registrations are attached as Exhibits M and N.

Comparing a specific coffee drink on a menu to a restaurant selling pizza, panini and gelato, as well as comparing a coffee house to such a restaurant, is an oversimplification, similar to comparing sugar or a non-dairy creamer with a restaurant, or to comparing a brand of liquor with a restaurant. While restaurants typically sell coffee drinks, or typically have available sugar or non-dairy creamer, or more likely will also sell alcoholic beverages, this does not make these goods and services confusingly similar. These pairs of goods and services may reach the same consumers, possibly even through the same channels, and importantly could reach these customers at the same time; however, they have consistently been found not to automatically create a likelihood of confusion as to the source of such goods and services.

Once again, the two cited marks create the strongest example of allowable co-existence, that of a one word mark, "SPIN", and a combination "SPIN" mark, one for a coffee beverage sold as an in-store menu item at a specific coffee house, and the other for a coffee house or coffee shop, respectively, and thus these items will almost certainly be encountered by the same type of customers through the same channels of trade. Tully Coffee's "SPIN" menu item will, however, not be encountered by customers dining at Applicant's restaurant. Nor would customers of SPIN CAFFE's coffee house services be likely to confuse it with Applicant's pizza, panini and gelato restaurant. While both cited marks and Applicant's mark are related to food and beverages, there simply is no feasible opportunity for customers to encounter both marks in a situation where any confusion could result. These readily apparent differences in the cited goods and services, and in Applicant's goods and services are sufficient to eliminate any likelihood of confusion between the marks.

Further, it is not irrelevant that Applicant is also the owner of U.S. Registration Nos. 3,163,808 and 3,172,270, both for the marks SPIN! NEOPOLITAN PIZZA and Design. These marks were clearly deemed registrable on the Trademark Register, even in view of the currently cited marks, and their identical and distinctive presentation of the term "Spin" with the exclamation point, namely SPIN!, should be more than sufficient to differentiate it from the cited marks, and establish the registrability of the present SPIN! mark.

Clearly, while Applicant's services and the goods and services associated with the cited marks are somewhat related, as they both pertain in the very broadest sense to the fields of food and beverages, they are still very different goods and services. A case which is on point to the present matter is In re American Olean Tile Co., 1 U.S.P.Q.2d 1823 (TTAB 1986), where the Board found that there is no broad per se rule that the use of identical marks on building construction goods is likely to cause confusion. The Board held that MILANO for ceramic tile, and MILANO for exterior and interior wood doors, were not likely to be confused by the "sophisticated" professional home-builders and tile contractors who are the usual purchasers of tile. The Board found no support for the position that consumers would be confused by the use of the same mark on "products so different in composition, process of manufacture and purpose."

Furthermore, the term "spin" is a commonly used term and, as such, not granted a broad scope of protection. Applicant notes that an in-house search of the Patent and Trademark Office records conducted in April of 2007 for marks including the term "spin" or variations thereof for any related goods or services found over 3000 records, with over 1400 of those for active registrations or pending applications. Copies of these search results listing, at least partially, those records are attached hereto as Exhibits O and P, respectively. A more narrow search for marks which include the term "spin" or variations thereof for related goods or services found over 90 records, with 40 of those for active registrations or pending applications. Copies of these search results listing, at least partially, those records are attached hereto as Exhibits Q and R, respectively. The more relevant of these marks are listed below, with copies of the registrations taken from the Patent and Trademark Office electronic records attached hereto as Exhibits S-Y, respectively:

Trademark	Goods/Services
NIC SPIN OLI and Design Reg. No.: 1,798,021	Hot baked food item consisting of a blend of cheeses, a blend of spices, a clear sauce and spinach rolled inside of a pizza dough shell to be consumed on or off the premises
SPIN Reg. No.: 2,888,205	Carbonated beverages, namely carbonated soft drinks
SPINACI'S Reg. No.: 2,481,595	Restaurant services
SPINELLI COFFEE COMPANY SAN FRANCISCO and Design Reg. No.: 2,119,772	Coffee bar services

SPINNER'S PIZZA Reg. No.: 1,413,794	Restaurant services for ready to eat foods for consumption on or off the premises
TWIN SPIN Reg. No.: 1,442,538	Restaurant and carryout services

As is evident, the goods and services associated with the two cited marks, as well as the marks in the above chart, are much more highly related to each other than the cited mark are to Applicant's food items and restaurant services. As these marks and the cited mark have all been allowed to co-exist with each other on the Trademark Register, it is believed that Applicant's SPIN! mark should similarly be found to be registrable.

Where a mark has been extensively used, the Board has found no likelihood of confusion even where the identical mark is used on related goods. In re Dayco Products-Eaglemotive Inc., 9 U.S.P.Q.2d 1910 (TTAB 1988) (no likelihood of confusion between IMPERIAL for automobiles and structural parts, and IMPERIAL for automotive products). Unlike the automotive products of the IMPERIAL marks discussed in In re Dayco, the only connection between Applicant's goods and services and the goods and services associated with the cited marks is the general relationship that they are all in the broad field of food and beverages, which is an insufficient basis upon which to establish that the goods and services are related for the purposes of a likelihood of confusion analysis.

Given the significant differences in the nature of the goods and services, and in particular the crowded field of related marks for related goods and services, it is believed that there is no likelihood of confusion between the mark of the present application and the mark of the cited registration. It is, therefore, respectfully requested that the refusal to register be withdrawn.
In view of the above claim of ownership and accompanying remarks, it is believed that this application is now in condition for passing to publication. Accordingly, such favorable action is requested when this case is next reached for attention.
Respectfully submitted,
Joan Optican Herman

OFFICE ACTION

RESPONSE TIME LIMIT: TO AVOID ABANDONMENT, THE OFFICE MUST RECEIVE A PROPER RESPONSE TO THIS OFFICE ACTION WITHIN 6 MONTHS OF THE MAILING OR E-MAILING DATE.

MAILING/E-MAILING DATE INFORMATION: If the mailing or e-mailing date of this Office action does not appear above, this information can be obtained by visiting the USPTO website at http://tarr.uspto.gov/, inserting the application serial number, and viewing the prosecution history for the mailing date of the most recently issued Office communication.

Serial Number 78/891702

The assigned examining attorney has reviewed the referenced application and determines as follows:

Section 2(d) - Likelihood of Confusion Refusal

Registration of the proposed mark is refused because of a likelihood of confusion with the mark in U.S. Registration Nos. 2942183 and 3137891. Trademark Act Section 2(d), 15 U.S.C. §1052(d); TMEP §§1207.01 et seq. See the enclosed registrations.

Comparison of the Marks

The examining attorney must analyze each case in two steps to determine whether there is a likelihood of confusion. First, the examining attorney must look at the marks themselves for similarities in appearance, sound, connotation and commercial impression. In re E. I. DuPont de Nemours & Co., 476 F.2d 1357, 177 USPQ 563 (C.C.P.A. 1973). Second, the examining attorney must compare the goods or services to determine if they are related or if the activities surrounding their marketing are such that confusion as to origin is likely. In re August Storck KG, 218 USPQ 823 (TTAB 1983); In re International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., 197 USPQ 910 (TTAB 1978); Guardian Products Co., v. Scott Paper Co., 200 USPQ 738 (TTAB 1978). TMEP §§1207.01 et seq.

Here, the applicant's mark is "Spin!" Registrants' own the marks, "Spin" and "Spin Caffe," respectively. The marks all share the common term – Spin. The marks differ based upon an exclamation point, which does not add to the commercial impression of the applicant's mark and the word "Caffe," which has been disclaimed.

Disclaimed wording has less trademark significance. Disclaimed matter is typically less significant or less dominant when comparing marks. Although a disclaimed portion of a mark certainly cannot be ignored, and the marks must be compared in their entireties, one feature of a mark may be more significant in creating a commercial impression. In re Dixie Restaurants Inc., 105 F.3d 1405, 41 USPQ2d 1531 (Fed. Cir. 1997); In re National Data Corporation, 753 F.2d 1056, 224 USPQ 749 (Fed. Cir. 1985); and In re Appetito Provisions Co. Inc., 3 USPQ2d 1553 (TTAB 1987). See also Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Packard Press Inc., 281 F.3d 1261, 62 USPQ 2d 1001 (Fed. Cir. 2002); Tektronix, Inc. v. Daktronics, Inc., 534 F.2d 915, 189 USPQ 693 (C.C.P.A. 1976); In re El Torito Rests. Inc., 9 USPQ2d 2002 (TTAB 1988); In re Equitable Bancorporation, 229 USPQ 709 (TTAB 1986). As a result, the relevant portion of the second registrant's mark, will also be Spin.

Comparison of Goods/services

The goods and/or services of the parties need not be identical or directly competitive to find a likelihood of confusion. Instead, they need only be related in some manner, or the conditions surrounding their marketing be such that they could be encountered by the same purchasers under circumstances that could give rise to the mistaken belief that the goods and/or services come from a common source. On-line Careline Inc. v. America Online Inc., 229 F.3d 1080, 56 USPQ2d 1471 (Fed. Cir. 2000); In re Martin's Famous Pastry Shoppe, Inc., 748 F.2d 1565, 223 USPQ 1289 (Fed. Cir. 1984); In re Melville Corp., 18 USPQ2d 1386, 1388 (TTAB 1991); In re Corning Glass Works, 229 USPQ 65 (TTAB 1985); In re Rexel Inc., 223 USPQ 830 (TTAB 1984); Guardian Prods. Co., Inc. v. Scott Paper Co., 200 USPQ 738 (TTAB 1978); In re Int'l Tel. & Tel. Corp ., 197 USPQ 910 (TTAB 1978); TMEP §1207.01(a)(i).

In the instant case, the applicant's goods include pizza, panini, and gelato and restaurant services. Registrants' goods and services concern "coffee-based beverages; espresso-based beverages" and coffee house/shops. There are numerous establishments that provide gelato and coffee and pizza and coffee, which demonstrate that these two products are sold within similar channels of trade. In addition, applicant's proposed services for restaurant services also fall within similar channels of trade as coffee shops. See the attached evidence that shows the goods/services are sold within similar channels of trade.

Any doubt regarding a likelihood of confusion is resolved in favor of the prior registrant. Hewlett-Packard Co. v. Packard Press Inc., 281 F.3d 1261, 62 USPQ2d 1001, 1004 (Fed. Cir. 2002); In re Hyper Shoppes (Ohio), Inc., 837 F.2d 463, 6 USPQ2d 1025 (Fed. Cir. 1988); TMEP §§1207.01(d)(i).

Although the trademark-examining attorney has refused registration, applicant may respond to the refusal to register by submitting evidence and arguments in support of registration.

Informalities

If applicant elects to respond to the refusal above, applicant must also respond to the issue(s) as follows.

Claim of Ownership

While applicant has claimed ownership of two prior pending applications, only ownership of registered marks may be claimed and therefore the claimed ownership will not be printed. However, if applicant is the owner of U.S. Registration No. 3163808, then applicant must submit a claim of ownership. 37 C.F.R. §2.36; TMEP §812. The following standard format is suggested:

Applicant is the owner of U.S. Registration No. 3163808.

Gelato and coffee bar will be Portland's Irvington Corner's first

Daily Journal of Commerce (Portland, OR) Feb 10, 2005 by Michelle Madison

Mio Gelato, a locally owned Italian cafe and coffee shop with a space in the Pearl District, has signed a lease to become Irvington Corner's first tenant.

The shop will open in May in an 1,800-square-foot space at 1517 N.E. Brazee St. in Northeast Portland's Irvington neighborhood.

The Irvington Corner project is a mix of retail and office space being developed by Venerable Properties, which specializes in restoring historic buildings. The company is adding 18-foot windows, a new multi-color stucco facade, custom exterior lights and tweed canvas awnings to the building.

Wooden accordion-style fold doors with glass transoms will open onto the sidewalk as well.

The building had been a market of one kind or another since it was built in 1916, although it was remodeled in the 1950s, said Venerable's marketing assistant, Carolyn Pantier.

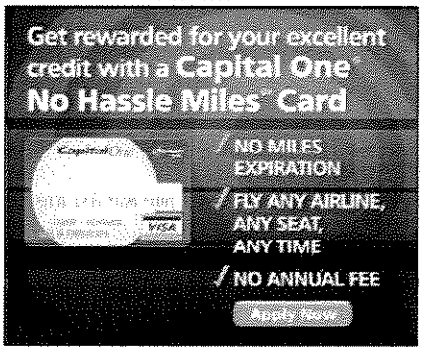
It looked very '50s, she explained. We're trying to make it resemble what it looked like in 1916. It's kind of an Italian Renaissance revival.



Pantier said Venerable spent $750,000 on the remodel, which will be completed next week.

The property will have space for four tenants, although Mio Gelato is the only one that has signed a lease so far.

This was a major deal because it's essentially a brand-new building, said Bob Lightman, who owns Mio Gelato with Denise Barnes.

The two opened the first Mio Gelato location at 25 N.W. 11th Ave. in July 2003. The cafe serves homemade gelato, grilled Panini sandwiches, soups, Illy coffee and Italian hot chocolate.

Lightman said he picked Irvington Corner for the second location because it was near like-minded businesses and because it was big enough to accommodate most of the business' production. The Pearl location is about 1,200 square feet.

Our current location is a great space, but it only has one door and no parking, he said.

Craig Kelly, vice president at Venerable, said the company plans to make a big marketing push when the building opens later this month.

We're actively seeking other neighborhood services that would be good for both the company and the area, and we feel that Mio Gelato fits the bill very nicely, he said. Ideally, we'd love to see retailers that can take advantage of the building services we're offering.

That includes a spacious outdoor seating area that Kelly said would be ideal for a restaurant or wine bar.

Dan Galloway Construction is the general contractor on the project, and Emerick Architects is in charge of design work.

Best Place to take the Kids for Dinner
T-Rex Café

We love T-Rex Café for its surreal and fun atmosphere—let's face it, you can act like a kid here, too. Time-travel back millions of years ago with your kids—and eat dinner surrounded by pre-historic creatures from dinosaurs to mammoths. After dinner, visit the Build-A-Dino workshop or Paleo Zone. It's loud, but your kids will love you for it.

Best House-Made Ketchup
Martin City Brewing Co.

Right now, you might want to pay attention to this local joint with a delicious twist. Any bar that delivers a custom kraut, spicy aioli, a mean silky hummus and their own brand of flag-waving gourmet ketchup is, in our book, total genius.

Pizza SPIN!

Hands down the best Neapolitan pizza around, we give this pie a blue ribbon. Now with five locations around Kansas City, this homegrown restaurant serves authentic, hand-tossed, swoony pizza, along with salads and gelato. We love SPIN! too, for its community karma—weekly bike rides, live music during the summer on their patios, even a fund-raising event where you can dine with your pooch. Mmm ... but it's the pizza that keeps us coming back.

This is the thing about the salsa at Cactus Grill: it's not too hot, not too mild and not too sweet. It's so right that we could drink it straight from the bowl, but we bow to convention and dip chips and douse entrees with the stuff. Olé!

Oklahoma Joe's Barbecue

In a city where barbecue is often regarded as sacred as Grandma's Sunday pot roast and sauces are as heatedly debated as some political issues, Oklahoma Joe's gets a lot of love. And with the new location at 119th and Roe, along with the Olathe store and original gas station joint on 47th St., we can have our Z-Man, fries and beans most anytime we want—except on Sundays, when OJ's rests and refuels the smoker.

What's in a name? For businesses, just about everything

JOYCE SMITH
The Kansas City Star

A Kansas City coffee and sandwich shop named after a Native American word and a New Orleans street?

What was the owner thinking?

Most Kansas Citians didn't know what to make of Tchoupitoulas, much less how to say it (chop-a-TOO-lus) or spell it so they could look it up.

The business didn't last two years at its Crossroads Arts District spot, now filled by the transparently named Tannin Wine Bar & Kitchen.

What's in a name? When it comes to a business it better be a whole lot more than something that smoothly rolls off your tongue. A name is not only what the company says it is, it's what the customer thinks it is, branding experts say.

"Your brand name is your permanent media," said David Placek , president and founder of Lexicon Branding Inc. of Sausalito, Calif., which created some of the country's hottest brand names, including BlackBerry, Pentium, Swiffer and OnStar. "It's intellectual property, and you want to protect it just like we protect our homes."

The right stuff

Ideally, a business moniker should be memorable and distinctive enough to set it apart from its competitors. It should say something about the company's product or service, should simplify the shopper's selection process, and perhaps even engage them emotionally, branding experts say.

Business names also should be easy to spell — especially in this day of Google searches — and easy to trademark, and work well in the company's logo, signs and letterhead.

"They should be distinctive, relevant in the category but unexpected," Placek said. "Small businesses make an effort to be clever, but it's all about starting a conversation. The name is the first line of a story. It doesn't have to be creative or clever, but it has to be interesting."

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

Branding experts tend to start by identifying the business.

What do you do you offer that your competitors don't? What do you do better than your competitors, and how might you express that? Why would consumers want to do business with you? What words would you use to describe the product or service? What's the company's personality? Who are your potential customers?

Then they look at competitors' names and try for something that will set the new company apart.

"You need a clear understanding of what your brand is. Get it down to a small list," said Kristin Wing , principal with AccelerAction, an Overland Park company that focuses on marketing, brand development and public relations for professional services firms. "If you can zero in on the keywords that describe how your business is different, they can be clues to coming up with a name."

Is there a story behind the name you've chosen? The name AccelerAction conveys "accelerate" business by "action" strategies, Wing said.

"When we introduce the firm name, we are then asked, 'What? What do you do?' which is terrific because it gives us the opportunity to explain in further detail," Wing said.

Professional services firms — law firms, doctor's offices and the like — tend to have the partners' names in the title. Not New Horizons LLC . The Kansas City environmental engineering and remediation firm picked the name when it opened in mid-2007 partly because the owners wanted a new start for themselves and their clients.

"We were stuck in our careers and we needed something new, and our clients needed something new," said Stephanie Isaacson , president. "We can also tell our story. When someone says, 'What is New Horizons?' I say: 'It's 360 degrees of new environmental solutions. You don't have to call several companies. You can just call one.' "

The owners of the new Coal Vines restaurant on the Country Club Plaza licensed the name from its creator — "coal" for the wood-fired pizza and "vines" for the wine list.

"I don't find it clever or cute, but it's memorable. 'What's going on here?' It's not how most restaurants sound or look," said Placek of Lexicon Branding.

Nationally, the Gap got its moniker in 1969 when the founders opened their first store in San Francisco and played off the "generation gap" separating parents and their teenage children. Sister company Banana Republic's founders searched the world for travel clothing before opening their first shop.

In recent years local entrepreneurs also have tried out such titles as Gawdawfull! Productions , Don't Tell Anybody, Church Clothes, Goin' Postal, Heads Will Roll Sound, Partners in Grime, Handy Woman Not Handyman, Honey Do Handyman Service, Wunda Dog, Here's to Your Success, Sweet Savour Bar-B-Q, A Silk Purse, and Flip Ya Wig Records — with varying levels of success.

One-person brands

The ups and downs of identifying with one person were shown by Martha Stewart . Her name was enough to send the company stock soaring during an initial public offering, then sinking when she was sentenced to prison in an insider-trading case, then back up again once she was back in the boardroom.

In Kansas City, Michael Smith's investors pushed him to put his name in the title of his restaurant — maybe Michael's or Smith's or Michael Smith's. The upscale restaurant opened in the Crossroads in 2007 as Michael Smith .

"It wasn't my first choice, but they said they were investing in me so they wanted at least part of my name in the title," said Smith, a winner of the James Beard Award. "But there are inherent issues; certainly it looks of egotism."

When the owner's name is over the door, customers also expect him to be around and available at all times, so delegating jobs or even taking a night off isn't easy. Smith took a different tack with his second restaurant, next door to Michael Smith . He chewed on such hearty and saucy names as Robusto and Sugo before selecting Extra Virgin, a name he thought would work with a hip Crossroads crowd. And more conservative customers would simply be reminded of top-grade olive oil.

A family name also can succeed, as Tivol has in the local jewelry business since 1910 — especially if the family has a personable spokesman and builds a reputation for quality.

Not too exotic

When Maggie Goldsborough wanted to take her Mairead Design home-based business into a retail location she planned to keep Mairead (Gaelic for Margaret) in the title. But she reconsidered after talking with retail consultant Lori Scott Pemberton , owner of Square Foot Retail Consulting in Overland Park. "Mairead" wouldn't mean much to potential customers driving by. Goldsborough also considered Regrets Only, but nixed it because it sounded too negative.

"I needed a name that signified what I did. 'Salutations' can cover a broad spectrum of things," said Goldsborough, who opened Salutations by Mairead Design in Briarcliff Village in late 2009, keeping the Mairead for her shift from home-based to retail. The shop sells fine stationery, invitations, boxed note cards and gifts.

"I think it's a very positive name, an upscale name that tells people exactly the type of store it is going to be before they walk in," Scott Pemberton said. "The name doesn't have to be literal but set the tone of what the business is."

If the name has less specific meaning, operators also can add a tagline to sum up the brand or product, such as Brookside's new Element — Wellness Spa Studio.

Grab the map

But some entrepreneurs simply pull out an atlas when naming their operations.

In Kansas City you can eat at Texas Roadhouse (which originally opened in Clarksville, Ind.), California Pizza Kitchen (which sells flavors from Thai to Jamaican jerk), Oklahoma Joe's Barbecue (actually founded in Stillwell, Okla.), and Kentucky Fried Chicken (or the more svelte sounding KFC).

You can also shop at California Closets, New York & Co. or Nebraska Furniture Mart, and get a pedicure at California Nails.

"Jayhawk" works well for Lawrence-based businesses, as does "Tiger" for those Columbia, Mo., operations. But what if those companies later want to expand into opposing team markets?

"Work local but think global, think about where you want to be," said Jon Stephens , president of Rockhill Strategic LLC , a Kansas City branding and communications consulting firm. "If that is eventually going online, going outside the city or even neighborhood, does that make sense?"

Easy does it

When it comes to company names, don't make your customers work too hard, branding experts advise.

But even they may overestimate the public.

Kansas Citians sometimes confuse Fritz's Railroad Restaurants (the ones with food coming on little train tracks) with Fritz's Chili (famous for, what else, chili).

Some people referred to the former Venue restaurant as "Vanew" and stumbled over the spelling of Raoul in Raoul's Velvet Room in Overland Park. Some Salutations by Mairead Design customers are stumped spelling Salutations before they even try to take on Mairead.

Ruth's Chris Steak House can be more of a mouthful than a bite of its thick steaks. When Ruth Fertel bought New Orleans' Chris Steak House in 1965 she agreed she wouldn't relocate it under the same name. That wasn't a problem until the original location burned down. Fertel moved the restaurant a few blocks and put her name in front of Chris. Now customers across the country just call it Ruth's Chris.

Adams Dairy Bank in Blue Springs sometimes has to explain to callers that it isn't a dairy, just on the site of a former dairy, said David Chinnery , bank president and chief executive. But the cow image is now a big part of its brand — from the cowbell by the front door to its "News and Udder Things" newsletter to its "Who's your cash cow?" billboards to its debit cards with a photo of an old dairy barn.

"We love it. It kind of differentiates us from other banks," Chinnery said. "Three words tell it all: Our location — they know we are not in One Kansas City Place. And what we are about — a country bank that happens to be located in Blue Springs."

Check it out

Once owners zone in on a name, they need to make sure it's available.

Short of hiring an attorney or a branding firm they can do a Google search and check the U.S. Patent Trademark Office website at www.uspto.govIf the name is similar to one in the same industry they probably won't be able to get a trademark. Register.com will show which Internet domain names are available.

Attorneys can do a more extensive search. Spending a little on the front end is much more cost-effective then fighting a later lawsuit.

"We like to get them at the beginning. But sometimes they are already married to a particular name," said Greg Kratofil Jr. , who specializes in intellectual property for Polsinelli Shughart PC .

Sprinkles Cupcakes of Beverly Hills, Calif., has fought the Sprinkles Yogurt chain in Philadelphia, which argued that the name Sprinkles was too generic to be trademarked. McDonald's has waged many wars to protect its name, including trying to stop an Indian restaurant from calling itself McCurry.

Attorneys also can help make sure the business isn't a victim of "typosquatting," also called URL hijacking. It takes advantage of input errors by Internet users, leading them to alternative websites owned by a competitor or charging a fee to direct them to the correct website.

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

It cost one local company about $5,000 to get control of 10 wrong spellings of its names, Kratofil said. He would have locked those domain names up in advance for just a few dollars a year, along with three or four similar domain names.

Companies considering a global marketplace also might want to make sure the name translates into other cultures.

"If you're releasing a name on a global scale and wonder what the name of the business might translate to in other languages, ask a translation expert. Better yet, find a native speaker who not only understands how to translate the word, but also knows the social context in which a word is used," said Wing of AccelerAction. "And remember that some words, especially in Spanish, have different connotations and meaning depending upon which Spanish-speaking country you are in."

Stephens also recommends checking the secretary of state's office for both the corporate name and DBA (doing business as) names. In the metro area, businesses might want to check with both the Kansas and Missouri secretaries of state.

"Branding firms can help select the name and then develop the complete brand around it, keeping the company's vision at the core," Stephens said. "All fonts, logos, colors and interiors should reinforce and reflect the brand promise and not be at odds."

Some of Stephens' favorite local DBAs: Spin! Neapolitan Pizza (simple, clean and easily shortened to just Spin), the Country Club Plaza (iconic heritage brand that has grown and evolved), Populous (formerly HOK, a unique name for a unique sports architecture company), The Roasterie (immediately says coffee but in a savvy way that also implies fresh), and Sprint (clean name that conveys speed and efficiency).

Wing loves the story of Three Dog Bakery, where the founders set out to create not a business but a healthy treat for their three dogs.

"What a great way to talk about your passion for your business," Wing said.

And she noted that Story, a restaurant opening soon in Prairie Village, "linked its brand with something we can identify with: Most of the precious moments in our lives revolve around a meal."

Neapolitan Pizza chain to spin out west

JOYCE SMITH
The Kansas City Star

Kansas City's Spin Neapolitan Pizza will soon be available on the West Coast.

Craig Hofman will be Spin's first franchisee and plans to develop 35 restaurants in southern California. Hofman also has 15 Lucille's Smokehouse BBQ locations in California, Arizona and Nevada.

"Concepts usually come out of California or New York, so it's kind of interesting to pull something out of Kansas City and have it go west," Hofman said. "It's a great concept, great pizzas and salads and a fast-casual approach."

Hofman was looking to expand and heard about Spin about a year ago when it was featured as an "up-and-coming" restaurant concept in a trade magazine, Nation's Restaurant News .

Gail and Richard Lozoff , and Edwin Brownell , opened their first Spin in Overland Park in 2005 and now have locations in Lee's Summit, Olathe, Overland Park and south of the Country Club Plaza . A Lenexa location is to open in May, and another is planned for Prairie Village in late 2012 or early 2013. The partners also are looking for other franchisees.

"We felt like we were ready to go out of the market and look for a partner we felt like we could trust," said Gail Lozoff . "We're just really impressed by the quality of (Hofman's) operations and culture — employee-oriented, guest-oriented, relationship-oriented. And the quality of his service and attention to detail is very similar to how we like to run our restaurants."

James Beard Award-winning chef Michael Smith collaborated on the Spin menu. Items include traditional thin crust, whole wheat and gluten-free stone-fired pizzas, with traditional and gourmet toppings: caramelized onions, artichokes, chicken sausage, pancetta and hand-grated cheese.

The restaurants also serve appetizers, soups, salads, panini, Italian deli sandwiches and gelato. Spin's soups, salad dressings, pizza toppings and pizza dough are prepared fresh daily.

New franchisee Hofman said he will open two Spin operations in the next 11/2 years in the Orange County/Los Angeles County area.

Another P&L venue

The Power & Light District continues to develop its second-floor spaces, mostly recently opening Hotel Nightclub on the "KC Live" block and now adding a private event space above the Bristol Seafood Grill .

The Gallery, a 9,000-square-foot space, will seat up to 600 people, or it can sectioned off for smaller groups by using a retractable wall. The space has floor-to-ceiling windows on the north side, and a balcony overlooking 14th Street, between Main and Walnut streets, with a view of the downtown skyline. When it opens in July, it also will have a stage, dance floor and projection screen. Bookings will include rehearsal dinners, post-event cocktails, corporate events and meetings, social functions and weddings.

The event space is owned by ECI Inc. , which is affiliated with The Cordish Cos ., the district's developers. It also will have its own sales director and manager.

Orvis to open this fall

Orvis, a family-owned mail-order and retail business founded in 1856, this fall will return to the Kansas City area.

The Vermont-based company plans a fall opening for its store in One Nineteen, 4357 W. 119th St., Leawood. The company specializes in high-end fly fishing, hunting and sporting goods equipment. It has 53 stores in the United States and 23 in the United Kingdom.

The company had opened a store in Leawood's Town Center Plaza in 1996 but closed it in 2001.

Country Club Plaza hotel does $3.5M renovation; Milio's Sandwiches eyes Kansas City

Brenna Hawley

A Country Club Plaza hotel has finished a multimillion-dollar renovation, and a sandwich chain is expanding into the Kansas City area.

Those are some highlights of this week's restaurant and retail roundup:

• The Holiday Inn Country Club Plaza has completed a $3.5 million renovation.

The money was spread out among new beds, carpeting, fabrics, a heating and cooling system, and other projects.

"As Kansas City is becoming recognized internationally as a center for both business and culture, it was our hotel's turn to contribute to that level of sophistication," Stephanie Porter, the hotel's sales director, said in a written release. "Now, when guests walk in, they are immediately drawn to all the changes we've made, and we know that all the work and planning was worth it."

More than $1 million went toward a new cooling and heating system. The hotel replaced furniture in the lobby and updated workspaces in the business center with Wi-Fi. The hotel put down about 150,000 square feet of new carpeting and bought hundreds of new mattress and bed frames.

The hotel is at 1 E. 45th St. in Kansas City near the Country Club Plaza.

• The namesake of Jimmy John's sandwich company has a cousin, and he's into sandwiches, too: Mike Liautaud, founder of Milio's Sandwiches, plans to open 12 locations in the Kansas City area during the next five years.

Liautaud opened a sub shop in Madison, Wis., in 1989. Today, his sandwich chain has grown to almost 50 locations in Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Nebraska.

"It's a natural expansion for us," Liautaud said in a written statement. "We are thrilled to be spreading our concept throughout the Midwest."

He hopes to sell 200 franchises in states where he already has locations, as well as in Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Ohio.

• Kansas City continues to land on national rankings for its new venues. Midwest Living lauded Kansas City for both the Kauffman Center for the Performing Arts and Livestrong Sporting Park.

The buildings were on the magazine's 2012 list of best new Midwest attractions, restaurants and hotels.

Midwest Living complimented the Kauffman Center's grand opening program, which was full of stars such as Placido Domingo.

The magazine enjoyed Livestrong Sporting Park's architecture, as well as its charitable tie to Livestrong.

• SPIN! Neapolitan Pizza has landed tasty recognition: Its margherita pizza has been named as one of the country's best dishes by Restaurant Business magazine.

A panel of food experts selected the pie as one of its 2011 Clean Plate Award-winners.

"We are truly honored to have our pizza included among the nation's best restaurant dishes," Gail Lozoff, co-owner of SPIN! Neapolitan Pizza, said in a written release. "There are many notable dining establishments on the list, and we are humbled to be included alongside them."

SPIN! has four locations in the metro area: Overland Park, Olathe, Lee's Summit and Kansas City. It plans to open a fifth in Lenexa in March.

Chamber honors Leawood fertilizer company SFP as Small Business of the Year

JOYCE SMITH
The Kansas City Star

Growing up on his family's farm, Larry Sanders was frustrated when costly fertilizer didn't do much good.

As an adult he set out to change that.

His Leawood-based SFP LLC has done so well in overcoming fertilizer inefficiencies it now has international clients. On Wednesday, the Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce recognized its success by naming SFP as its 2011 Small Business of the Year.

The company also received the Mr. K Award at the chamber's 25th annual award celebration at the Muehlebach Tower. The award is named after the late Ewing Marion Kauffman , founder of Marion Laboratories and former owner of the Kansas City Royals . About 500 people attended the event.

The chamber also recognized its Top 10 Small Businesses of the Year. Criteria for the awards include growth, sustainability, community service and employee relations.

In accepting the award, Sanders said he could hardly believe the company won the top honor, and he praised the other nine businesses for their growth and impact on the community.

Tony Hsieh , entrepreneur and chief executive officer of Zappos.com, was the keynote speaker at the dinner.

Sanders grew up on a beef cattle and hay farm on the Texas-Louisiana border. After earning a doctorate in soil chemistry and plant nutrition, Sanders founded SFP (for specialty fertilizer products) in 1998.

He then spent several years on research and development before launching his first two products: Avail and Nutrisphere-N.

There was no money for marketing so he gave away a lot of product to universities and farmers.

He asserted that they could use less fertilizer and still increase their crop yields by as much as 15 percent, and he said once farmers got the results themselves, sales increased dramatically.

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

In 2010, SFP's revenues grew by nearly 22 percent, and the number of employees grew by 24 percent to about 40. Its products are now sold internationally, including in the United Kingdom, the Netherlands, Zambia, Australia and Peru.

Sanders said Kansas City is emerging from the Midwest as a technological hotbed and offers easy access to farmers, as well as being centrally located for customers across the country. He also wants to increase global food production while preserving the environment, and plans to branch out into non-agricultural applications.

The company offers employees a wide range of benefits including health and dental insurance, profit sharing programs, tuition reimbursement, and health club memberships.

Sanders said he hired the "brightest and the best" and then trusted their instinct and knowledge.

Other winners Also honored were the nine other businesses that, along with SFP, made up the Top 10 Small Businesses of the Year:

•AOS (Alexander Open Systems)

•Brookside Barkery & Bath

•Concrete & Masonry Restoration Co.

•EMR Inc.

•Gragg Advertising

•James Engle Custom Homes LLC

•McAnany Van Cleave & Phillips, Attorneys at Law

Greater KC Chamber names SFP as small business of the year

The Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce picked fertilizer company SFP as its Small Business of the Year.

The Leawood-based company, whose name stands for Specialty Fertilizer Products, stood out among a crop of more than 1,000 nominees, according to the chamber. The company received the "Mr. K" Award at a Wednesday evening event.

The company was founded in 1998 by Larry Sanders, who grew up on a farm and earned a doctorate degree, then put his mind to developing products that would help farmers bring in better yields while preserving the environment. SFP has about 100 patents.

The company spent several years doing research before launching AVAIL and Nutrisphere-N. It gave samples to universities and farmers because SFP lacked money for marketing. The products increase crop yields by as much as 15 percent, and sales began to take off after people tried the product.

The company's revenue grew by almost 22 percent and its employee count increased by 24 percent. Clients are in the United States, United Kingdom, Netherlands, Zambia, Australia and Peru.

"Kansas City is emerging from the Midwest as a technological hotbed," Sanders said. "Kansas City not only offers easy access to those who benefit most from our products — the American farmer — but being centrally-located provides easy transportation to other parts of the country."

He wants to use his products to help address possible food shortages globally.

The chamber also recognized nine other businesses that rounded out the top 10: AOS (Alexander Open Systems), Brookside Barkery & Bath, Concrete & Masonry Restoration, EMR Inc., Gragg Advertising, James Engle Custom Homes, McAnany Van Cleave & Phillips, Mile Rail LLC and Spin! Neapolitan Pizza.

SFP was one of the Kansas City Business Journal'sChampions of Businessin 2009, based on its financial performance, innovation and community service.

Nominees for Small Business of the Year talk about their success

JOYCE SMITH
The Kansas City Star

How do you go from a small business to a Top 10 Small Business of the Year?

Nominees for the Greater Kansas City Chamber of Commerce's annual awards shared how they did it during the Top 10 Breakfast on Tuesday. About 300 people attended the event at the Hyatt Regency Crown Center hotel.

The Top 10 honorees are diverse — from pet food to railcar services to pizzas — but some of their tips span the marketplace, especially in customer service.

"You get two grades in business, an A or an F. If you can't get an A, you're going to get an F," said Greg Gragg , chief executive officer of Gragg Advertising in Kansas City.

Bill Thomas , president of Concrete & Masonry Restoration Co. Inc. , a Kansas City specialist in restoration, preservation and maintenance of concrete and masonry structures, tries to exceed his customers' expectations to the best of the company's ability.

"It's real simple to say, but following through is a challenge," Thomas said. So he conducts customer surveys and gets in the habit of asking customers what they like the least , a tip he learned from Kansas City businessman Barnett Helzberg.

The other Top 10 small businesses:

Alexander Open Systems Inc. , Overland Park; Brookside Barkery & Bath; Kansas City; EMR Inc. , Lawrence; James Engle Custom Homes, Olathe; McAnany Van Cleave & Phillips, Kansas City, Kan.; SFP LLC , of Leawood; Spin Neapolitan Pizza, Kansas City; and Mile Rail LLC , Kansas City.

DIANE STAFFORD CAREERS - CAREERS: A new spin on finding workers

DIANE STAFFORD CAREERS

In the highly competitive search for good workers, one Kansas City area restaurant company has turned to its loyal patrons for help.

Spin Neapolitan Pizza last week sent about 6,000 e-mail notices to members of its loyalty rewards dining program.

The message from owner Gail Lozoff:

"We are proud of our service and our staff, and hope that you might spread the word to anyone that you think might enjoy working in our environment as a server...

"If you do know anyone who might be interested, please have them come to the store to fill out an application or send us an e-mail online from the jobs page on our website."

(That's spinpizza.com for those who like job opportunities handed to them on a serving platter!)

The Overland Park restaurant, looking to open another dining spot in Lee's Summit later this year, used the technique once before.

"We did it last spring and it seemed to work," Lozoff said. "We mostly heard from people whose kids were looking for summer jobs. I think we got more response than if we'd just counted on people looking in the want ads."

It's a maxim in hiring that some of the best employees come through referrals from employees who already work there. It's a reasonable corollary that loyal customers are a next best source.

Any employer needs to offer competitive pay and a safe and satisfying work environment to attract and keep workers. But there's a lot of competition out there. And there's a lot of turnover, especially in the restaurant industry.

That leads to one possible drawback in the Spin prospecting plan: Employers need workers who take initiative. When job opportunities are dropped in someone's lap -- no personal search effort required -- it may give some entry-level workers a false impression about how competitive the job market is.

That said, applicants still have to ace the interview on their own. And then follow through with good job performance.

Blue Grotto's wood-fired pizzas are deliciously authentic

LAUREN CHAPIN, The Kansas City Star

Wood-fired pizzas are hot -- and we're not just talking about the blistering temperatures that bake pies within minutes.

Faster than you can import a stone oven from Italy, several restaurants have begun specializing in authentic, Italian-style pizzas. Spin! Neapolitan Pizza opened at 119th and Glenwood in early 2005, using imported Italian Caputo 00 (fine-grained) flour for the crust.

But when Rob Dalzell opened Pizzabella in the Crossroads last year, it seemed a new game was on -- one all about imported Italian flours and wood ovens, hands-on training from Italian pizza masters and certifications from the Associazione Verace Pizza Napoletana in Naples, Italy.

The newest entrant in the pizza smack-down is Blue Grotto, a big-city chic pizzeria in Brookside. Owners John and Michelle Grier fell in love with the pies when they traveled to Italy for their honeymoon. And even though they had no prior restaurant experience, they decided to introduce a wood-fired pizza place to their neighborhood.

They hired forward-thinking 360 Architecture to gut the 1920s space, one that had most recently served as a sock and underwear store. They also brought in partner/chef/neighbor Chris Graham, who developed their specialty pizzas.

Sit at one of the second-floor tables, and you can look directly down onto the pizza makers below -- each of whom spent 10 days training with the American-born pizza geek who installed the massive two-story oven that anchors the open kitchen. The bar is just inside the front door; most of the seating is on the second floor, although a few booths line the back wall of the lower level. If noise bothers you, ask to be seated down there.

Ahhh, but it's hard to be distracted by the noise when the pizzas are so lovely.

The 12-inch pizzas are as thin as window glass, their puffy crusts glazed with extra-virgin olive oil after they're pulled from the 900-degree oven stoked by oak or hickory. As Graham likes to say, even though it takes just under two minutes to bake one, this isn't fast food.

Made with hand-crushed, canned San Marzano tomatoes grown on the foothills of Mount Vesuvius, the sauce is seasoned with just a bit of sea salt. Purists will swoon over the margherita dotted with pillowy slices of fresh mozzarella and ribbons of fresh, hand torn basil, or the Four Seasons, a heady medley of roasted crimini mushrooms, black olives, roasted peppers, marinated artichoke hearts and Pecorino cheese.

My favorites:

 Porri: Chewy cubes of prosciutto lardons hiding beneath a frizzled topping of thin-sliced onions and leeks. The proscuitto gave the pizza lovely, smoky-salt undertones accentuated by the sweetness of the onions, although the leeks would have been less chewy if they'd been caramelized a bit before being baked.

 Salsiccia: Finely crumbled fennel sausage made in-house, rose-petal pink champagne-marinated onions and roasted red peppers -- a close second.

 Bianco: A roasted garlic and fresh thyme beauty sprinkled with meaty, roasted crimini mushrooms, supple fontina cheese and handfuls of arugula thrown on top of the pizza after it is pulled from the oven. The arugula, not listed as an ingredient on the menu, was a bit of a surprise, although I liked the peppery bite.

The menu is short: four appetizers, three salads and just nine pizzas, no substitutions allowed.

The starters include a marinated artichoke dip that was more like a coarse, cold tapenade than an oozy, cheesy, hot artichoke spread. The antipasti platter, available in two sizes, was a savory, bountiful spread of cheeses, three kinds of cured meats, pickled and roasted vegetables (red peppers, artichoke hearts, baby mushrooms, caper berries, olives and two kinds of pickled onions) and rosemary-seasoned flatbreads.

The salads were made with whole-leaf romaine -- a pretty presentation but a little unwieldy to eat. My favorite was the Grotto Azurra, topped with straw-cut apples, red onions, blue cheese crumbles and candied nuts, and dressed with a perky lemon Dijon vinaigrette.

The Greek salad was a close second, with crumbled feta, cucumbers and red onions tossed with a zippy Greek vinaigrette, and served with a pecan-encrusted goat cheese pillow.

The Caesar, though, was mixed: During the first visit, the dressing sang with garlic and anchovy, but some of the leaves were brown. The second time, the lettuce was crispy-crunchy, but the dressing was watery and bland.

Right now, Blue Grotto serves just two desserts: s'mores and Nutella spread on pizza dough. Both were kid-friendly but not as elegant and refined as the appetizers and pizzas. Here's a thought: Foo's Fabulous Frozen Custard is just a block away.

Meanwhile Graham and Grier have changes in store. The s'mores will stay, but the Nutella bites will become a special, and Graham is refining a pound cake waffle topped with fruit compote.

They've also added sandwiches to the lunch menu to supplement an abbreviated menu of 9-inch pizzas. They plan to add weekly pizza specials and outdoor seating at the rear of the building.

Open since early June, Blue Grotto is already a neighborhood favorite, adding fuel to the great Italian pizza war.

the wine list

This is a wine list driven by value. Glasses start at $5; bottles start at $20.

The Cristalino Brut Cava from Spain is a bright, citrusy cava that got on well with the antipasti platter. And its quiet creaminess and toastiness made it a terrific companion to the pizzas. The Donnafugata Sedara Nero D'Avola, with lots of woodsy, leathery fruit and soft, gentle tannins, was a mellow companion to the fennel sausage on the salsiccia and the mushrooms on the bianco.

There were lots of other enticing selections: the Crios Torrontes from Argentina, the Laurenz und Sophie Gruner Veltliner from Austria, the Castle Rock Pinot Noir from California and the Villa Maria Sauvignon Blanc from New Zealand.

turning up the heat

For years, Il Trullo at 90th and Metcalf was one of the few restaurants that used wood to bake thin-crust pies.

Then Teller's in Lawrence and Shiraz on Southwest Boulevard began baking pizzas over wood. Jake Imperiali started fashioning Neapolitan pies at La Cucina di Mamma after taking pizza lessons in Naples.

Hillsdale Bank BBQ even has a wood-fired pizza on its 'que menu.

And yet another wood-fired crust to chew on: Genovese in Lawrence, owned by the same guys who own La Parilla and Zen Zero.

Monday night bike rides have community feel

JEFF STRAIT, Special to The Star

Professional cyclist JP Shores of Olathe was eating with his family at a Spin! Neapolitan Pizza in Overland Park last year when he got an idea.

Though it was his first time in the restaurant, it wasn't too hard to pick up on the cycling motif -- from the logo that incorporates bike wheels to a mural of shadowy cyclist silhouettes on a patio wall. But it was a picture of two-time Tour de France winner Fausto Coppi that really caught his attention.

Coppi is an Italian cycling legend, but someone whom the average American has probably never heard of. These people must know at least a little something about cycling, he thought.

It turns out they did.

Spin! owners Gail and Richard Lozoff and Ed Brownell, if not professional cyclists, were people who at least knew their way around a bike. The Lozoffs had biked in Italy, where they got the inspiration for the restaurant, which Shores found out when he asked the owners if they'd be interested in sponsoring his GP VeloTek bicycle racing team.

Long story short, they were.

The sponsorship led to the customary business name on the team's jerseys but also some cycling events that fit both the restaurant's and bike team's philosophies of community involvement, like the family bike rides Spin! now hosts on Monday nights.

The rides start at 6:15 at the restaurant's Overland Park location at 6541 W. 119th St. They are led by VeloTek members and are open to riders of any skill level. The rides emphasize safety with no racing or competing allowed, which Shores says sets them apart from others he's been to that are billed as "family-friendly."

"A lot of people go to group rides that are not as they appear," said Shores, who has been a team member for two years since reconnecting with team coach and old college buddy Jim Whittaker of Lawrence, who started the team four years ago.

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

"You get there and it's just like a race, and although we're a racing team we wanted to support the community from the other side of things and introduce people to more than just racing."

The ride consists of two loops, a short one of about 11 miles or a round-trip of close to 20. Gail Lozoff said it's a great opportunity for families or novices who are looking for a safe environment to learn the ins and outs of riding on roads or in a group. There are enough VeloTek cyclists that no one ever has to worry about being left behind.

"All south Johnson County has a little hill to it, but people can quit after the first loop if they get tired," she said. "It's just a nice ride."

A little after 6 p.m. on a recent Monday, Debra Box of Prairie Village was unloading a bike out of her minivan. Though she said she might bike 50 to 60 miles a week, it was the easygoing pace of the ride that appealed to her most.

"I like the fact that it sounds family-friendly," she said. "I'm not as fast as I used to be."

A few minutes later Jane Allen of Overland Park stood beside her bike behind the restaurant, looking forward to her first Spin! ride experience. She said she saw the ride as a good opportunity to get back into some easy cycling after injuring her leg in a bike accident several months ago.

"I like being outside and exercising, and I like being able to move faster than you can when you're walking," she said. "You get to see lots more scenery."

Of the handful of kids and teenagers who were gearing up for the Monday night ride, about half were sporting VeloTek jerseys. Whittaker said that junior rider development was one of the most important aspects of the team. The rides provide a chance for them to get more practice or pass on what they know to riders who might be several years older.

A number of junior team members have even had success on the national level, including John "Jack" Funk, 14, who made the ride from his home in Topeka since taking two first-place finishes in a junior national race earlier this month.

"It was a really close race," said Funk, who said he was surprised when he saw he'd finished first in the 11-kilometer Junior National Time Trial and Criterium held in Orange County, Calif., and also finished 10th in the road race. Monday was his first time back on a bike since then, he said -- a good way to break in his muscles for the next round of training.

Lozoff said the highlight for many who show up on Monday nights might not only be the ride but what's waiting for them when they get back. Live music on the patio adds to the festive atmosphere, and a 10-percent discount on food after the ride doesn't hurt either.

"It feels a lot like a piazza out there," Lozoff said. "It's kind of chaotic and casual and fun."

If you go

Spin! Neapolitan Pizza's Monday night bike rides start at 6:15 p.m. from the Overland Park restaurant, 6541 W. 119th St.

The rides will continue on Monday nights through Sept. 29.

Monday night bike rides have community feel

JEFF STRAIT, Special to The Star

Professional cyclist JP Shores was eating with his family at a Spin! Neapolitan Pizza in Overland Park last year when he got an idea.

Though it was his first time in the restaurant, it wasn't too hard to pick up on the cycling motif -- from the logo that incorporates bike wheels to a mural of shadowy cyclist silhouettes on a patio wall. But it was a picture of two-time Tour de France winner Fausto Coppi that really caught his attention.

Coppi is an Italian cycling legend, but someone whom the average American has probably never heard of. These people must know at least a little something about cycling, he thought.

It turns out they did.

Spin! owners Gail and Richard Lozoff and Ed Brownell, if not professional cyclists, were people who at least knew their way around a bike. The Lozoffs had biked in Italy, where they got the inspiration for the restaurant, which Shores found out when he asked the owners if they'd be interested in sponsoring his GP VeloTek bicycle racing team.

Long story short, they were.

The sponsorship led to the customary business name on the team's jerseys but also some cycling events that fit both the restaurant's and bike team's philosophies of community involvement, like the family bike rides Spin! now hosts on Monday nights.

The rides start at 6:15 at the restaurant's Overland Park location at 6541 W. 119th St. They are led by VeloTek members and are open to riders of any skill level. The rides emphasize safety with no racing or competing allowed, which Shores says sets them apart from others he's been to that are billed as "family-friendly."

"A lot of people go to group rides that are not as they appear," said Shores, of Olathe, who has been a team member for two years since reconnecting with team coach and old college buddy Jim Whittaker of Lawrence, who started the team four years ago.

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

"You get there and it's just like a race, and although we're a racing team we wanted to support the community from the other side of things and introduce people to more than just racing."

The ride consists of two loops, a short one of about 11 miles or a round-trip of close to 20. Gail Lozoff said it's a great opportunity for families or novices who are looking for a safe environment to learn the ins and outs of riding on roads or in a group. There are enough VeloTek cyclists that no one ever has to worry about being left behind.

"All south Johnson County has a little hill to it, but people can quit after the first loop if they get tired," she said. "It's just a nice ride."

A little after 6 p.m. Monday, Debra Box of Prairie Village was unloading a bike out of her minivan. Though she said she might bike 50 to 60 miles a week, it was the easygoing pace of the ride that appealed to her most.

"I like the fact that it sounds family-friendly," she said. "I'm not as fast as I used to be."

A few minutes later Jane Allen of Overland Park stood beside her bike behind the restaurant, looking forward to her first Spin! ride experience. She said she saw the ride as a good opportunity to get back into some easy cycling after injuring her leg in a bike accident several months ago.

"I like being outside and exercising, and I like being able to move faster than you can when you're walking," she said. "You get to see lots more scenery."

Of the handful of kids and teenagers who were gearing up for the Monday night ride, about half were sporting VeloTek jerseys. Whittaker said that junior rider development was one of the most important aspects of the team. The rides provide a chance for them to get more practice or pass on what they know to riders who might be several years older.

A number of junior team members have even had success on the national level, including John "Jack" Funk, 14, who made the ride from his home in Topeka since taking two first-place finishes in a junior national race earlier this month.

"It was a really close race," said Funk, who said he was surprised when he saw he'd finished first in the 11-kilometer Junior National Time Trial and Criterium held in Orange County, Calif., and also finished 10th in the road race. Monday was his first time back on a bike since then, he said -- a good way to break in his muscles for the next round of training.

Lozoff said the highlight for many who show up on Monday nights might not only be the ride but what's waiting for them when they get back. Live music on the patio adds to the festive atmosphere, and a 10-percent discount on food after the ride doesn't hurt either.

"It feels a lot like a piazza out there," Lozoff said. "It's kind of chaotic and casual and fun."

If you go

Spin! Neapolitan Pizza's Monday night bike rides start at 6:15 p.m. from the Overland Park restaurant, 6541 W. 119th St.

The rides will continue on Monday nights through Sept. 29.

Our restaurant critic searches for the best pizza in KC

LAUREN CHAPIN, The Kansas City Star

Pizza preferences are personal, as personal as boxers or briefs, Pepsi or Coke, MU or KU.

In Kansas City we are blessed with an abundance of pizzerias serving all sorts of pies: thin-crust, thick crust, gluten-free or cheese stuffed.

We have the major styles covered, including several sources of original Neapolitan. And we span the country, too: from New York to Chicago, from St. Louis to California. And, of course, it wouldn't be Kansas City if we didn't dish up a few barbecue pizzas.

In honor of National Pizza Month, The Star checked out a few beloved pizzerias, compiled a list of even more favorites and set up a "Best of" list on our Web site at KansasCity.com, where you can vote for your favorite.

 Spin! Neapolitan Pizza: 6541 W. 119th St., Overland Park 913-451-7746 (SPIN). www.spinpizza .com.

Richard Lozoff fell in love with authentic pizzas when traveling through Italy in the 1970s, and Spin! is the result. The staff uses a real Italian flour for the pizzas, which bake in the 600-degree oven. Choose from two basic styles: the pizza Rossa (crushed tomato sauce with a blend of cheeses) or Bianca (olive oil and Italian cheeses). Mix and match your own toppings or choose from the creative list of Spin pizzas.

I preferred the Cipolla e Chevre (roasted and caramelized onions with goat cheese) with fig jam and fresh mozzarella instead of the Polpette -- caramelized onions and roasted crimini mushrooms. The crusts were thin and chewy and folded easily in half. And the kitchen was generous with the toppings. But they tasted even better the next morning.

Other highlights: carafes of fruity white sangria that paired really well with the earthiness of the pizza toppings and inventive house salads. One disappointment: The gelatos, imported from a small company in Michigan, were sticky, as if they hadn't been transported and stored properly.

(Spin! has other locations at 1808 D N.W. Chipman Road in Lee's Summit and at 14230 W. 119th St. in Olathe.)

 D'Bronx: 2450 Grand in Crown Center, 816-842-2211.

It seems the bloom is off D'Bronx since Robert and Janet Bloom sold it. I tried slices of cheese, pepperoni and the specialty pizza, loaded with all sorts of meat and vegetables.

They were all lovely hot. The cheese stretched from slice to mouth like a telephone wire, the pepperoni had a nice bite and the toppings on the meaty slice were a nice amalgam of tastes and textures.

But they lost their appeal as they cooled off on the plate. Then the flavors seemed to disappear -- like early morning fog under a rising summer sun.

The flavors revved up, at least a little bit, when slowly reheated the next day. But still, the slice wasn't what I remembered.

(D'Bronx has other locations at 3904 Bell and at 105th and Metcalf.)

 Grinders: 417 E. 18th St., 816-472-5454. www.grinderspizza .com.

Grinders is the pizza joint equivalent of a mosh pit -- loud, ramped-up and not for the faint-of-heart.

If you want to impress your 'tweens and teens, take them to Grinders. The place is a designer-worthy showcase for the reduce/reuse/recycle mantra: There's lots of art cobbled together from salvage, covering the walls, dangling from the ceiling, adorning the back patio.

The kids making the pizzas sport more ink than the Sunday comics and more pins, needles and piercings than a dressmaker's mannequin. The tunes are cutting-edge. The beer list, big and lusty.

Grinders does some dandy, sloppy appetizers, including Death Wings in three levels of spice: Wimpy, Molten and Absolutely Insane. Go for the Molten; even the waitress dissed the Insane as truly too insanely spicy to eat.

Pizzas come in two sizes, 10-inch and 18-inch, or made-to-order slices. The crust was thin as a cracker, speckled brown from its short time in the pizza oven. It had a nice, wheaty toast flavor and a pleasantly chewy texture. The sauce glazing the surface had a subtle oregano kiss.

They didn't skimp on the cheese or pepperoni, but the Margherita was disappointing primarily because the sliced-too-thick Romas were as flavorless as winter-hard tomatoes. Ick. It was better to just pick them off.

As for the cold pizza test? Thumbs-up.

La Cucina di Mamma: 6227 Brookside Blvd., 816-444-1138.

Jake Imperiale, a second generation Neapolitan, went to his mother's birthplace to learn how to make his pizzas.

His pies are soft and pillowy, with just a gilding of sauce covering the crust. But he generously dots them with fresh mozzarella and piles on the toppings. His Margherita has just a blush of marinara, sprinkles of fresh basil chiffonade and melted discs of fresh mozzarella. The Pugliese is heartier: a bit more sauce, lots of sweet caramelized onion, puddles of melted mozzarella and shimmery pools of pepper oil with a hint of heat.

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

Wash them down with glasses of Sant' Agata Ruche from Piedmonte -- made from the ruche grape, an ancient grape with a pedigree as colorful as Neapolitan pizzas themselves.

 Pizza 51: 5060 Oak St., 816-531-1151.

Pizza 51, just across the street from UMKC, still feels a bit like the garage/gas station it once was. It has a great vibe, an outdoor patio that's a people-watchers' paradise and enormous slices of thin-crust pizza.

The Veggie Delight is heaping with lots of green stuff: broccoli, green peppers and spinach plus mushroom, black olives and onions.

Pizza 51 does zippy house salads, too, heaped with more veggies and served with tarragon-flecked house vinaigrette that doesn't play second fiddle to the pizzas.

Customers order at the counter just inside the door; slices (and pies, too) are delivered to tables. Other pluses: $3 cheese slices, sandwiches, breadsticks and calzones and a decent beer selection.

the history of pizza

Pizza has come a long way, baby.

During its roughly 200-year history, it has evolved from a dietary staple of Neapolitan peasants to standard-issue fare in American school cafeterias.

Modern pizza was created in 1889 when tavern owner Don Raffaele Esposito was asked to create a special dish for Queen Margherita Teresa Giovanni, the queen of Italy. Esposito baked a pizza with tomatoes, mozzarella and basil -- the colors of the Italian flag.

In 1905 Gennaro Lombardi opened the first American pizzeria, Lombardi's Pizzeria Napoletana in New York City. But it wasn't until after World War II, when American servicemen returned home, opened their own pizza joints and spread the gospel of pizza, that the business really took off.

Today pizza is a $35 billion -- yep, billion with a "b" -- business. We're talking fresh-baked, real pizzeria stuff, not the frozen pies sold in grocery stores.

Two Italian pastimes spin together on Saturdays

MINDY KINNAMAN, The Kansas City Star

SPIN! Neapolitan Pizza wants to bring a touch of the Italian lifestyle to Lee's Summit, but not just with its food.

The restaurant, at 1808 N.W. Chipman Road, hosts free bike rides each Saturday beginning at 9:45 a.m., now through Labor Day weekend.

SPIN! co-owners Gail and Richard Lozoff and Ed Brownell wanted to bring together two of Italy's greatest pastimes: eating and bicycle riding.

Each of the restaurant's four locations features bicycles in its décor — from the murals of bicycle riders on the walls to the light fixtures made from bicycle gears. The patios are surrounded by fences created from bike racks.

"I'm personally interested in cycling, not in a competitive way," Gail Lozoff said. "When we started, we wanted to create a community tie-in. Every well-intentioned store wants to do that. The benefits of cycling are health, fun and community building."

While looking for a sponsor, Jon-Paul Shores, a bicycle racer and owner of ShoresSports.com, recognized that SPIN! would be a good fit. While talking with Gail Lozoff about sponsorship, the two conceived the idea of non-competitive bicycle rides for the community.

The program began last year at the Overland Park location, 6541 W. 119th St. Each Monday night individuals and families gather at the restaurant to ride through the neighborhood.

Based upon the success of the Overland Park rides, Gail Lozoff and Shores decided to expand the idea to Lee's Summit.

The 19-mile ride around Longview Lake is open to riders of all ages and skill levels and is led by Shores and former mountain bike champion Cameron Chambers. Both Shores and Chambers take steps to help make sure all participants are comfortable with their bicycles, even helping make adjustments if necessary.

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

Participants are given wristbands with the restaurant's phone number on them in case they need to call for help. A shorter ride is also an option.

"People should expect a family-friendly ride where they are going to show up and it be as advertised," Gail Lozoff said. "We're trying to create an opportunity to learn. Riders will learn the rules of the road and get their feet wet for a longer ride."

In its first week, 25 riders came out to participate in the Lee's Summit ride.

"It was really well received," Gail Lozoff said. "Everyone had a great time."

The numbers have dropped off, but Gail Lozoff remains optimistic. The Overland Park location experienced turnout that varied from week to week last year, but this year, the ride's popularity has risen and the numbers have stayed around 50 people each week.

Blue Springs cyclist Sheryl Crawford learned of the rides through an e-mail from the restaurant. She came out for the first ride and enjoyed it so much, she made it a regular part of her week.

"It had a good turnout," Crawford said. "It was a good ride, and I got to eat SPIN! pizza afterward. I'm a bike rider. You can't beat that."

SPIN! offers a 10 percent discount on meals for participants, friends and family to enjoy after the ride.

Another participant, Meshelle Vesecky of Columbia, learned of the ride from a friend.

"I love to cycle," Vesecky said. "It's good exercise. I was going to be in town for the (Royals vs. Cardinals baseball) game, so I thought it would be great to do. I plan to come back."

Details SPIN! Neapolitan Pizza has arranged to take recreational bicyclists on a spin through the Lee's Summit area.

•When: 9:45 a.m. Saturdays through Labor Day

•Where: Meet at the pizza restaurant, 1808 N.W. Chipman Road, Lee's Summit.

•Route: 19 miles around Longview Lake

Restaurants let you stash your alcohol

sarah benson
{ ink }

Thanks to a restaurant-industry trend, you can pay to keep your drink in the clink.

Wine lockers — available at select restaurants and wine bars — are for-rent lockboxes where you can stash wine or liquor until your next visit.

At $200 to $1,000 a year, the lockers aren't cheap. But they do come with enticing benefits.

For example, if you rent a $200-per-year whiskey locker at Raglan Road, 170 E. 14th St., you get your name etched onto a brass plate on the locker's exterior, said manager Tammy Slaybaugh . That's all about prestige, she said.

And when you rent a wine locker at Trezo Mare, 4105 N. Mulberry Drive, you get two bottles of top-quality wine each month. The value of the wine is roughly equal to your locker rent, according to manager Dinh Pham, who said Trezo Mare doesn't turn much profit on its wine-locker program.

The goal, Pham said, is to give customers incentive to return again and again.

Paul and Alana Scott of midtown started renting a wine locker three years ago at JP Wine Bar, 1526 Walnut St. to learn more about vino.

The two rent the locker for $40 a month. Thanks to the membership — and frequent trips to JP — the couple is on a first-name basis with the bar's staff.

"You feel like it's your place," Paul said.

He said that comfort level allows him to ask questions and find out more about wine. An extra perk is the discount he receives on wine and food at the bar.

Want to vault your vino? Here's where to do it.

Bring your own Here's a wallet-friendly alternative to the wine locker: Spin Neapolitan Pizza, a locally owned artisan pizza chain with four local locations, has a "BYOV" program — as in, bring your own vino.

It works like this: You bring your own bottle of wine into the restaurant, pay an uncorking fee, and drink up while you eat pizza (or salad or a sandwich). The uncorking fee is $1 on Sundays and Thursdays and $5 on Fridays and Saturdays. Spin also sells bottles of wine for about $18 apiece.

Owner Gail Lozoff said she started the program shortly after opening because at the time Spin had a limited wine list.

"We wanted people to be able to drink good wines with our pizza," Lozoff said. "We kept the pricing low because we felt that one of the attractions of Spin is that you get great artisan food for a very reasonable price."

The BYOV program was a hit, Lozoff said, so Spin kept it going even after improving its wine list.

The program is available at three of four Spin locations: 6541 W. 119th St. in Overland Park, 1808D N.W. Chipman Road in Lee's Summit and 14230 W. 119th St. in Olathe. You can't BYOV to the Kansas City location at 4950 Main St. because of Kansas City liquor laws.

Trezo Vino Open since March, this Leawood wine bistro at 11570 Ash St. was the first bar or restaurant in Kansas to sell wine lockers (wine lockers were illegal in Kansas until this summer).

Trezo Vino, which started selling the lockers in June, has three levels of wine lockers: silver, gold and platinum.

The silver membership costs $400, the gold costs $600 and the platinum is $1,000. Each annual membership nets you two bottles of wine per month — the more expensive the membership, the more expensive the wine. You can't bring your own wine in, but you can purchase more wine from the restaurant and keep it in the locker, even if you don't finish the whole bottle.

Each locker has a nameplate and a key, which is kept at Trezo Vino.

Trezo Vino event planner Andrea Lavalley said the bistro has 75 wine lockers, and 25 have sold since June.

She added that the wine lockers are a good value because when you buy a $1,000 platinum membership, for example, you actually get $2,000 in wine.

Trezo Mare Act fast if you want a wine locker at Trezo Mare, 4105 N. Mulberry Drive in Kansas City.

The Mediterranean restaurant and bar boasts 100 wine lockers, but there's only one left for rent.

The wine lockers also come in three tiers: There's a $300-per-year locker, a $500-per-year locker and a $1,000-per year temperature-controlled locker. Again, the higher the price, the better the wine. Trezo Mare allows wine-locker members to bring their own wine, and there's no uncorking fee.

Wine-locker owners also enjoy free wine tastings (normally about $20) and special treatment.

"We treat those folks as part of our restaurant," manager Dinh Pham said.

Raglan Road This Power & Light District Irish pub, 170 E. 14th St., rents out whiskey lockers for $200 a year.

To keep your locker, you have to buy at least one bottle of liquor a year. Whiskey is popular, but you can buy vodka, rum or any other liquor you prefer. You keep the key, but you can't pour from your own bottle — that's the server's job, thanks to liquor laws.

Manager Tammy Slaybaugh said the pub has sold 20 out of 50 whiskey lockers.

JP Wine Bar This classy wine bar, with locations at 1526 Walnut St. in the Crossroads Arts District and 4311 W. 119th St. in Leawood, treats its wine-locker program as a wine-of-the-month club.

Brian K. Jewell , who manages the Crossroads location, said lockers at both wine bars cost $475 per year. That money gets you 12 bottles of wine that retail for about $35 each. Wine-locker owners also net a 15 percent discount on wine and food at the bar. Plus, they're invited to free monthly wine tastings, which normally cost $10 to $15.

Recession prompts a boom in cause marketing

DEBRA SKODACK
The Kansas City Star

Ronda and Scott Gentry never thought about buying a slice of Spin pizza.

That is, until it did some good.

Then they bought a whole pizza — Italian and turkey sausage — last week, along with a special pizza for their dog Bulova.

The Lee's Summit fundraiser at Spin benefited the Wayside Waifs animal shelter.

The Blue Springs couple's special dinner is part of a growing segment of philanthropy called cause marketing. Simply put, it's when businesses and nonprofits get together to sell something to consumers that helps raise donations.

Cause marketing is not a 5K run, but rather a structured business deal. It might be the sale of a pink blender, with a portion of the proceeds going to breast cancer research. It might be a massage, with some of the proceeds going to a domestic violence shelter.

Cause marketing has been around for more than two decades, but the recession has prompted a boom.

"We are your perfect cause-marketing people," Ronda Gentry said.

She has a full-time job as operations manager at The Best of Kansas City, but her husband has been underemployed as a video and audio contractor since losing his full-time job in June.

Going out has become a rarity for the two — unless it's for a good cause.

"Anytime we choose to go out, it's got to be worthwhile," Ronda Gentry said.

Their next special date is "Bark at the K" on Sunday, when dogs and their owners can enjoy a Royals game together while raising money for animal causes.

Nonprofits certainly have noticed the importance of cause marketing as the recession erodes individual donations and grants.

Habitat for Humanity Kansas City, for example, has scheduled four cause-marketing events in the next few weeks, including a happy hour Friday at Qudos Cognac and Cigar Bar in Kansas City.

The $5 cover charge that goes to the nonprofit might not seem like much until Habitat begins to calculate its potential: If 100 people pay the cover, that's enough money to buy a front and back door to a Habitat home.

"You have to be more creative in this type of economy," said Rebecca Dye , spokeswoman for Habitat for Humanity Kansas City. "Funds are short, but the needs are great."

Cause marketing often brings in more than donations to a nonprofit. It can introduce a business's regular customers to a charity.

"Awareness is as important as the actual dollars raised in the event," said Marla Svoboda , development director at Wayside Waifs in Kansas City.

Businesses definitely understand the benefit.

"What we've seen happening in this economy hasn't put a damper on companies continuing to invest in cause marketing and cause products," said Mike Swenson , president of Barkley Public Relations in Kansas City and a national cause-marketing expert.

"Think of it — since the turn of the century, we've had 9/11, Katrina, two wars and the worst recession in our lifetime," Swenson said. "We've had a lot of upheaval, and amidst all that, what kept growing is people's desire to give back."

Swenson said consumers are so used to corporate good deeds that they almost expect it from a company.

Consider some of the findings from the 2008 Cause Survey from PRWeek/Barkley Public Relations:

•45.8 percent of the women surveyed said they had bought a product that benefited a cause in the last 12 months.

•63.4 percent of those women said they purchased a particular brand because they knew that brand supports a cause they believe in.

•72 percent of the companies surveyed said a worsening economy would not affect their commitment to cause-marketing programs.

Consumers should not be afraid to ask how a charity might be benefiting from cause marketing, said David Renz , director of the Midwest Center for Nonprofit Leadership at the University of Missouri-Kansas City .

Renz said he once bought a tie at a department store, with some of the proceeds going to a national charity.

"It was something like 1/19th of 1 percent, which doesn't sound like much except if you sell $12 million worth of ties," Renz said. "It's legitimate to ask."

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

But there are other reasons for businesses to engage in cause marketing.

"No one practices cause marketing just for the money," said Joe Waters , the director of cause marketing for a Boston nonprofit hospital, who writes a blog called "Selfish Giving."

"More and more consumers are demanding that companies show their corporate responsibilities," Waters said.

That's OK, said Gail Lozoff, a co-owner of Spin Neapolitan Pizza.

Last week's fundraiser — the restaurant's third — grew out of the suggestion of an employee.

"It's a way to connect with our customers and provide things that are important to our customers and important to us," Lozoff said.

What everyone gets for giving Besides the money raised and spent, cause marketing produces intangibles, too.

For the business:

•New customers who know the charity but not the business

•A nice-guy image

•A morale boost for employees who want to support a cause

For the charity:

•Virtually no overhead

•New donors who know the business but not the charity

•A creative reminder of the cause

For the customer:

•A feel-good, no-guilt way to spend money

•A chance to meet people with similar interests

•A fun reason to write a check

Fall festivals; Lee's Summit news in brief

Downtown's Main Street will be hopping this weekend during the 40th anniversary Fall Fun Festival, which begins at noon Friday and runs through 6 p.m. Sunday. What's billed as the largest parade in Eastern Jackson County kicks off Saturday's activities at 10 a.m.

Organized by the Blue Springs Chamber of Commerce , the event features a beer garden with live entertainment, a 22-foot rock-climbing wall, a petting zoo, a carnival and a Dockdogs contest, where canines will compete all three days to see which one can make the longest leap from a dock into a body of water. Look for a karaoke contest at 8 p.m. Friday and local dance groups performing on the community stage.

New this year is a crisscross collision course, where runners compete on a slippery course while enclosed in bubbles.

St. Ann's parish invites the community to its annual fall festival from 11:30 a.m. to 4 p.m.Sept. 27, a Sunday.

You'll find games, a Moon Walk , dunk tank, crafts, funny photos, lots of raffles and a priestly magic show, courtesy of the Rev. Bernard Branson .

The church is at 10109 E. Lexington Ave.

Breast care center

St. Luke's East–Lee's Summit opened its Center for Breast Care on Monday.

Services include walk-in mammograms, various biopsy techniques, an MRI designed specifically for breast scans, and computer–aided detection of breast abnormalities, which augments the work of the on-site breast radiologist.

Breast cancer patients will have access to clinical research trials through the center's affiliation with Saint Luke's Cancer Institute .

"Because we have biopsy capability on-site, we can perform a breast biopsy on the same day that the breast abnormality is found and often have pathology results to the patient on the following day," said Ruby Meierotto , breast radiologist at Saint Luke's East, 100 N.E. St. Luke's Blvd. near Interstate 470 and Douglas Street.

Tour de BBQ bike ride has a higher purpose

DAN MARGOLIES
The Kansas City Star

Tired but jubilant, Titus Fehling and his girlfriend pedaled the final few yards of the Tour de BBQ today, stopping just short of Hale Arena in the American Royal Complex .

The 60-mile bike ride had begun some five hours earlier. Along the way, the pair partook of barbecue provided by Oklahoma Joe's and Jack Stack — two of more than half a dozen barbecue joints that provided riders with succulent sustenance along the way.

But the reason for Fehling's jubilance had nothing to do with pulled pork or smoked sausage.

It had everything to do with his sister, 41-year-old Jerri Sum , who was diagnosed with stage 3 cervical cancer two years ago and greeted him at the end of the ride.

Fehling, his girlfriend and more than a dozen other riders signed up in honor of Sum for the ride, a fundraiser for the Lance Armstrong Foundation and the University of Kansas Cancer Center. The group managed to raise $3,000.

"I'm so incredibly proud," said a beaming and visibly moved Sum, who threw her arms around her brother as he pulled up.

More than 400 riders took part in the maiden Tour de BBQ on Saturday, traversing a 60-mile loop around some of the area's signature barbecue joints and stopping for samples at each. There was also a shorter, 15-mile ride.

The Tour — held in conjunction with the American Royal Barbecue — raised a total of $45,000, according to organizer Erica R. Brown .

"It's an incredible, humbling experience to see how many people are committed to the cause," she said.

Jeff Reene, chief operating officer of the KU Cancer Center , rode the 15-mile course and said he was thrilled with how well the event turned out.

He was even more pleased with the money it raised, which he said would be used to pursue KU's goal of acquiring comprehensive cancer center designation — the highest level of recognition in cancer research and care — from the National Cancer Institute .

The designation would entitle KU to more federal grants, clinical trials and research programs.

Reene described himself as a recreational cyclist, but the tour brought out the full gamut of cyclists — from beginning to recreational to hard-core. Spin Neapolitan Pizza, one of the sponsors, fielded a team of 60 riders, many of whom participate in the rides that depart several times a week from area Spin locations.

For the Tour de BBQ, Spin created a special pizza consisting of barbecued spiked crushed Roma tomatoes, roasted chicken sausage, mozzarella, provolone and fontina cheese, chopped red onions and roasted corn.

"We sold 181 pies as of last night," Spin co-owner Gail Lozoff said.

Spin donated 10 percent of the proceeds to the event.

Michael Straub , 52, didn't take part in the 15- or 60-mile rides, but he may have been the toughest cyclist of all.

Determined not to let his liver cancer keep him from participating, he volunteered his time at BB's Lawnside BBQ at 85th Street and Troost Avenue, one of the pit stops along the 60-mile route.

To get there, he cycled from Antioch and Johnson Drive. When he was done, he cycled back to Hale Arena.

"Don't tell my doctor," he pleaded. "But I know I'm going. There's nothing they can do. I'm on full disability. But I still wanted to be involved."

Street Corner Choir to Play at SPIN! Neapolitan Pizza in Overland Park on August 18

Street Corner Choir, the songwriting duo of Lezlie Revelle and David Hakan, will perform at SPIN! Neapolitan Pizza in Overland Park from 6 – 8 p.m. on Tuesday, August 18 as part of the restaurant's Folk on the Patio series, produced all summer by POUNCE Marketing. With inspired guitar arrangements, solid gold lyrics, and velvet harmonies, you'll think you just stepped off the bus and entered the gates of heaven. Hakan has been recording and performing his original music since 1999. He has played small clubs and house concerts from Baltimore to Houston. Hakan gives us a voice like John Denver's, wit like John Prine's, and the subtle poetry of Dave Carter. His guitar sound is clear and luscious; the melodies will have you whistling in the shower, and the stories will get you wondering about the world in new ways. Revelle comes from a family where music was the second language. Since she was old enough to walk and sing, she has performed in choirs, variety shows, theatre productions, coffee houses, fairs, and festivals. Revelle blends her songwriting talents with a roots rock/folk feel, a buoyant personality, and an occasional Celtic flair. As a songwriter, playwright, and poet Revelle shares stories of the human condition and the divinity to be found in us all. For more on their music go to www.myspace.com/davidhakan and www.myspace.com/lezlierevelle.

Restaurants offer incentives for people to venture out in the cold to dine out

JOYCE SMITH
The Kansas City Star

It may be cold on the outside, but Kansas City restaurants are turning up the heat on the inside with deals for hunkered-down homebodies.

Frigid temperatures? Get chili cheap at The Well Bar Grill & Rooftop and Lew's Grill & Bar, sister operations in Waldo. They've tied the price of a cup of chili to the temperature — with the purchase of an entree — so when it's 15 degrees outside, you pay 15 cents. And yes, if the temperature is below zero, they'll pay you.

Under 20 degrees? Downtown's Prime Rib Grill is offering "buy one/get one free" entrees at that temperature for members of the Kansas City Originals, an independent restaurant group.

And tonight, Cafe Trio near the Country Club Plaza is offering free valet parking, free coffee or cocoa, and a "buy one/get one free" lunch, dinner or drink, up to a $20 value.

"It's been a slow week, all the snow, so we are trying to generate business and give people incentive to get out of the house," said Greg Morey , director of marketing for Cafe Trio.

Spin Neapolitan Pizza offered a voucher worth 20 percent off this week to its Spin Club e-mail members. The response was so good at the four area locations that it extended the offer through Sunday.

Others restaurateurs have turned up their marketing efforts.

Celina Tio is using Facebook and Twitter to remind fans that her Brookside restaurant, Julia(n), is still open despite the weather.

During last Saturday's snowstorm she had 95 diners. But on Wednesday, another snow day, she only had about 20 customers for lunch and then another 20 for dinner.

"Some came from the Northland, some were first-time diners, and some were neighbors from less than a mile away," Tio said. "When I thanked them for braving the weather to come in, they thanked me for staying open, because several places were closed."

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

As the owner of a "neighborhood" restaurant, Tio said, she thinks it is unfair to close early or entirely.

"It is important to me that we are always open during our posted hours," she said.

Food club searches KC for the best pizza, burgers

JAMES A. FUSSELL
The Kansas City Star

Like millions of others, Lea and Valerie Bailes enjoy going out with friends for pizza or burgers.

Unlike those millions of others, they bring detailed score cards.

Since 2008, the Liberty couple and their group of friends have been on a mission, going from Parkville to Prairie Village in search of the most mouth-watering burger and palate-pleasing pizza. Recently Valerie began blogging about the results at www.kcnoshers.blogspot.com .

The gastric get-togethers — part socializing, part culinary criticism — started after they read a story in The Star. The inspiring article, "Our Critic Searches for KC's Best Pizza," was written by the paper's late food critic, Lauren Chapin .

If The Star could do it, Valerie thought, so could she. After all, she was a registered dietitian.

And what about Lea, an attorney who owns Guier Fence with Valerie?

A lanky 6-foot 3, he likes to eat.

The couple recruited more than a dozen friends from Pleasant Valley Baptist Church in Liberty, and a pizza club was born. Over the next year and a half they followed Chapin's list, meeting once a month at 18 restaurants to rate crusts, cheeses, sauces, toppings, service and more.

Each member had his or her own style of evaluation. One member took a walk on the wild side, ordering both salmon and artichoke and Polish sausage and sauerkraut pizzas, while another stuck with pepperoni for the sake of consistency.

Opinions varied, of course. Valerie liked the Art of Pizza in the Crossroads Arts District so much she had her sister's baby shower there.

But when all the votes were counted, four restaurants — D'Bronx, Waldo Pizza , the Art of Pizza and Spin! Nea- politan Pizza — shared top honors.

Last August the club switched its focus from pizza to burgers: KC's Best Burger Club.

Laura Anderson , a marketing manager from Kansas City, North, who is the club's only single member, loves the club.

"Brilliant idea," she said. "When you're adults and you start getting married and having kids it can be hard to maintain your friendships. If you let it, life can get in the way."

Sometimes the club meetings seem like a scene from a movie.

"One of the guys was swinging one of the kids in the air, and I was holding one of the babies, and we were all laughing. And I remember thinking, 'I am so richly blessed to have these friends in my life.' "

Adeena Almond appreciates the club for exposing her to places she might not have found on her own.

"So many people gravitate to chain restaurants," she said. "But with the smaller places, you get fantastic food and wonderful atmosphere."

On a recent Tuesday they were at it again. Valerie Bailes wrapped her small hands around a hefty hamburger at Grinders, an eclectic eatery in the Crossroads Arts District that the group had previously visited for pizza.

"Mmmm," she said, sinking her teeth into soft bread and steaming ground beef.

Her burger is called the "Large Marge" for a reason. A huge bun and handfuls of toppings (including cheese, grilled onions, barbecue sauce and bacon) snuggled up to a hulking half-pound of beef. Around her sat a table of friends, all club members. Last week they wolfed down burgers at Westport Flea Market. Before that it was BRGR in Prairie Village and Blanc Burgers + Bottles on the Plaza.

Valerie's favorite?

"I like Blanc," she said. "But I was pleasantly surprised by BRGR. They both had unique, fresh, delicious burgers and fries and milkshakes."

Lea goes with BRGR over Blanc by a smidge, but only because one of the owners is from his hometown of Tyler, Texas.

The most passionate response for any single burger — inducing breathless gasps and exaggerated eye rolls — belongs to Blanc's Inside Out burger, a bleu-cheese stuffed meat monster with smoked bacon and onion ring on an onion brioche bun.

"Oh my gosh!" gushed Adeena Almond. "It's to die for. It is so good!"

The club doesn't have many rules. Members prefer locally owned restaurants, and — with an occasional exception — do not go to chains. Valerie brings ballots to each meal. And while personal preferences are fair game (thin crust over thick), she does insist on some standards, especially with the pizza.

Take the cheese.

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

"A good cheese doesn't make the pizza oily, nor does it taste funny," she wrote in her judging guidelines. "The cheese should ... be stretchy when you take your first bite."

Or the sauce.

"A good sauce isn't acidic or bitter, nor is it laden with sugar. It shouldn't be sweet like ketchup. There should be enough sauce that you can taste it and slide the cheese off in your mouth, but not too much as to overpower the taste of the cheese."

There are no guidelines yet for burgers.

The Grinders burger menu is small but infinitely customizable. On this night members are in luck. There's a buy-one-get-one special on the Large Marge. Most everyone orders one. Around the table with Valerie, Lea and Laura Anderson sit fellow Northlanders Adeena and Jerin Almond, Ashley and Kyle Jackson and their 1-year-old daughter, Ellie, and Craig Swanson , whose wife, Nicole, couldn't make it. Swanson sits with his 3-year-old son, Brett.

Over the years the meetings have become more than the sum of their scrumptiousness.

Members have celebrated births, new jobs and new boyfriends and mourned loved ones and members moving away. At Grinders, Kyle Jackson , who recently returned from a church mission trip to Myanmar, talked about the experience. Later the group celebrated Jerin's 30th birthday with a cookie cake.

"We've sort of done life through this," Anderson said.

Grinders was dimly lit. Adeena liked its eclectic décor and hipster ambiance. The waitress began to take orders, and quickly rattled off the dizzying variety of cheese options.

"American, cheddar, pepper Jack, Swiss, bleu cheese, gorgonzola, fresh mozzarella, goat cheese," she said without taking a breath. "You name it, we've got it."

Anderson ordered hers Hillbilly style with barbecue sauce, cheddar, grilled onions and bacon, with a side of gouda potato casserole. Valerie ordered the same, while Lea opted for "Diablo" (hot and spicy).

When the food arrived, Anderson dug into her gouda potato casserole and made a "yummy" face.

Swanson picked up a fork and raised his eyebrows as if to say "bite?"

Anderson nodded.

"Mmmm ... goud-a" he said.

Later Anderson took a bite of her Hillbilly burger.

"This is seriously good," she said.

Anderson considered bringing a guy she has been dating but changed her mind. Too early, she thought. And too much pressure.

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

"It is like meeting members of your family," she said.

At the end of the night, the members looked at one another. What's the verdict?

"The meat's tasty," Valerie said. "Really good. The toppings? Great selection and quality."

Craig Swanson wasn't as positive. The MU grad felt it was a step down from Westport Flea Market, which reminded him of Booches Billiard Hall in Columbia.

No, Valerie said. Grinders was better.

For Kyle, BRGR was still the best. As for Adeena, who had bleu cheese and bacon on her burger, Grinders was love at first bite — "neck and neck" with Blanc's Inside Out burger for noshing nirvana.

As the night ended, members tended to their ballots. A month later they will meet again in another part of town with fresh experiences and opinions for another installment of KC's Best Burger Club.

Until then they wiped their mouths and said goodbye, happy and smiling with full stomachs and warm hearts.

"So," Valerie said. "Where do y'all think we should we go next month?"

Organizations reaching out to Joplin

Kansas City Star

Looking for ways to help those in Joplin? Several organizations in the Kansas City area are gathering supplies to help with the relief effort.

Here's how to get involved:

•NBC Action News in Kansas City will sponsor a telethon tonight from 5-7 p.m. to raise money for The Salvation Army tornado relief efforts in Joplin and Reading, Kan. The phone number to call to donate is 816-932-HELP (816-932-4357).

The Salvation Army has four mobile feeding kitchens stationed in Joplin, each capable of serving several thousand meals. The Salvation Army Team Emergency Radio Network also arrived in Joplin today to assist survivors in locating loved ones through a ham radio network.

In Reading, Kansas, which was struck by a tornado late Saturday night, The Salvation Army is serving hundreds of meals per day from two mobile feeding kitchens.

•Summit Christian Academy and GracePointe Church in Lee's Summit will make a trip to Joplin to drop off supplies Wednesday morning.

The non-profit organization based in Olathe is also mobilizing a group to go to communities in Kansas that were damaged by severe weather during weekend storms. But it will concentrate volunteers in Joplin for now.

"Our focus point right now is Joplin, where we already have a medical-assessment team on the ground and are preparing to send more resources later today," said Heart to Heart Chief Executive Officer Andre T. Butler .

Based on assessments from its initial launch of volunteers, the crew immediately organized its mobile health clinic to help in Joplin. The facility includes a waiting room, scrub station, two exam rooms and an onboard pharmacy.

The group is also asking for the public's help. Medical volunteers are asked to contact the organization at 913-764-5200. The general public can make financial contributions or pack hygiene kits. To learn how to pack the kits or to help in other ways go to www.hearttoheart.org

Shops join Avignon project

Mixed-use development also means mixed tastes for shoppers.

That could be part of the reason why a developer has signed three distinctly different restaurants to fill the Shops of Avignon commercial development on 119th between Pflumm and Black Bob roads.

Spin! Neapolitan Pizza has recently signed with the development, as did Mi Ranchito, a Mexican and Central American restaurant. New restaurant tenants also include Lenny's Sub Shop, which makes gourmet sub sandwiches and Philly cheesesteaks. Spin, which is based in Overland Park, makes traditional stone-baked pizzas.

The three new eateries are just the beginning in the overall Avignon development, which also includes a residential component. The apartments and single-family homes directly behind the commercial development are already being sold.

JOYCE SMITH CITYSCAPE - CITYSCAPE: Cityscape: Shops of Avignon sign new tenants

JOYCE SMITH, The Kansas City Star

The Shops of Avignon in Olathe has signed several new tenants, including two locally owned restaurant companies that are expanding. The center, which was built last year, is at 14110 W. 118th St., just west of Pflumm.

Town Center Plaza 's Sushi House plans to open its second area location in late 2007 or early 2008. The new location, with an outdoor patio, will be a bit larger than the Leawood restaurant.

"The more I looked at it, the more I liked the area," said Tom Johnson, president of Sushi House.

"The demographics, it's very dense. Sprint is a daytime population, and there are still a lot of fields out by Leawood."

Johnson's brother owns four Sushi House restaurants in the Chicago area.

Spin Neapolitan Pizza hopes to open in early 2008. Spin, which has an Overland Park restaurant, also plans to open in SummitWoods in Lee's Summit, probably before the end of the year. Spin features authentic Italian-styled pizza baked in a brick oven with fresh gourmet ingredients.

Blendz -- selling ice cream, fresh fruit smoothies, specialty coffee drinks, shaved ice and pastries -- is expected to open in mid-September.

Snap Fitness, of Chanhassen, Minn., will open a franchise fitness center. The operations boast no contracts, 24-hour access daily and state-of-the-art equipment.

Eddie V's in the works

Eddie V's Edgewater Grille, Scottsdale, Ariz., is in negotiations to open one of its white-tablecloth restaurants in the Country Club Plaza area. Eddie V's is known for its high-end seafood and steaks, along with live entertainment in the bar. If the deal is done the restaurant probably would open in 2008.

Eddie V's entrees include sauteed New Zealand grouper with Fresh Jonah crab, Chilean sea bass, grilled fresh crab stuffed colossal shrimp, filet mignon, and roasted rack of Colorado lamb.

The company has two locations in Austin, Texas, and one in Scottsdale. It also has another seafood concept, Wildfish Seafood Grille.

New building

The former Gil Rumsey Gallery site in downtown Overland Park will get a new life as a mixed-use complex.

The gallery burned just over a year ago, and Rumsey relocated to 8201 Santa Fe Drive.

The owners of Overland Park's Incite Design Studio partnered with four others to purchase the land for $500,000; they plan to build a three-story building on the site. Incite owners Brian Foxworthy and Randy Bartel are the architects and developers of the project under Incite Properties.

The first floor of 7924 Santa Fe Drive, which should open next summer, will have 8,500 square feet of retail space. The second floor will be for offices including Incite's new studio. The third floor will be for four condos with rooftop patios.

"The area has that small downtown feel without being downtown Kansas City," Foxworthy said. "And we really feel like this area is on the rise."

Jim Kerwin of RED Brokerage LLC handled the negotiations for the seller and Jake McGuire with CB Richard Ellis handled the negotiations for the buyers.

Manager moves on

Joe Wilcox, longtime manager of Plaza III The Steakhouse on the Country Club Plaza, has moved on.

"I'd rather not comment on the circumstances, but he left on good terms," said David Haddad of Haddad Restaurant Group earlier this week.

The company later issued this statement: "Joe Wilcox, longtime manager at Plaza III on the Country Club Plaza, has been moved to a new position in the expanding Restaurant Group."

On Thursday he was at the licensed Plaza III The Steakhouse in Jacksonville, Fla., helping with a party, but was too busy to comment.

Sexologist's store offers 'an educational experience'

With a name like Wink, consumers would be excused for thinking they were walking into an optical shop.

But Wink is out to open eyes in a different way.

Elizabeth Rich, a clinical sexologist, opened her "sex-positive, gender-neutral, orientation-friendly store" a few months ago at 1415 W. 39th St.

"I have a lot of people who stumble in here, and those are actually some of the most gratifying experiences," Rich said. "Most of the people who wonder if we are a sex shop find out pretty quickly that we are different. We really try to make it an educational experience as opposed to a retail experience."

Rich has a bachelor's degree in American studies from the University of Missouri-Kansas City and a graduate sexologist degree from The Institute for Advanced Study of Human Sexuality in San Francisco, and she is working on her doctorate in human sexuality from the institute.

She was living in San Francisco and visited Good Vibrations, a similar store offering sexual information and products, and decided it was needed in the Kansas City area.

Recently, a new mother stopped into the store and confided a problem she was having after giving birth and discussed with Rich what products could help. Rich also has held bachelorette parties in the store.

"People find we have all of these really great partner products, things that can just enhance their bedroom experience whether they have just gotten married or they have been married for 40 years," Rich said. "And the men are generally the ones who are a little bit more uncomfortable than their wives. So that's sort of a little bit of a cultural turnaround."

Wink products also are available online at www.winkkc.com.

Rich also is considering her options and may have someone take over the day-to-day retail operations so she can work full time with Joani Blank, founder of Good Vibrations and a writer and educator in sexuality.

Costume sale

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

Kansas City Costume Co. has put its building at 2020 Grand Blvd. up for sale after nine years.

"We bought it before it was really going down here and have loved it," said co-owner Steve Short.

"The retail is fabulous. But it's too expensive to store costumes/wardrobe here. Our taxes have gone from $11,000 a year to $47,000 over the years, with the greatest increases in the last three years."

The three-story building with basement parking has 54,000 square feet and is on the market for $3 million.

Kansas City Costume, which has been in business since 1925, is a theatrical rental and sales company that also ships wardrobes throughout the country for traveling shows. It also has an online store at www.kccostume.com.

Second Spin

The Overland Park-based Spin Neapolitan Pizza has opened a second area location in the SummitWoods Crossing shopping center, 1808 N.W. Chipman Road, Lee's Summit. The operations offer thin-crust pizza baked in a stone oven with fresh-roasted ingredients such as spinach and garlic, roasted potato, eggplant, chicken and goat cheese, along with gourmet salads and sandwiches, wines and specialty cocktails.

A third location is expected to open in June at the Shops at Avignon, 119th and Greenwood streets, in Olathe.

Delayed

Stroud's owner Mike Donegan hoped to kick off his new south location on St. Patrick's Day. But the opening for the restaurant at 4200 Shawnee Mission Parkway, Fairway, has been pushed back.

"It looks like April 1st, but nothing is written in stone," Donegan said this week.

Tanner's downtown to serve up last bite

Another locally owned downtown restaurant/bar will soon go dark, but it is not laying the blame on the Kansas City Power & Light District.

Tanner's Bar & Grill will close at 1000 Broadway at the end of the month, according to Mark Untersee, attorney for the owners. He said sales had been down for about three years.

"It is more of a neighborhood place, and downtown is not a neighborhood," Untersee said. "They were dependent on business customers and conventions."

Tanner's opened in the spot in late 1995, taking over the short-lived P.J. Clarke's space. It currently has about 30 full-time and part-time employees.

Tanner's has six other area locations and will open a new Northland operation at 6024 N. Antioch in mid-July.

The Mango Room and Fred P. Ott's also have closed downtown in recent weeks.

Spin update

Spin Neapolitan Pizza has opened its third location at 14230 W. 119th St. in Olathe's The Shops at Avignon. It also plans to open a fourth location at 4950 Main St. in late 2008.

Other locations are in Overland Park and Lee's Summit.

Spin makes its own pizza dough on site daily and roasts many ingredients each morning on a stone hearth oven. Cheeses are hand-grated. Customers can choose between 14 signature pizzas or come up with their own combination.

Other items include appetizers, soups, salads, sandwiches and gelato.

Along with salads and appetizers, the operation serves gourmet pizzas such as prosciutto pizza or roasted garlic and fontina with roasted crimini mushrooms and fresh thyme.

 Fronteras Mexican Restaurant & Cantina now has a second location in Deer Creek Woods, 13316 Metcalf Ave., Overland Park.

The local owners also have a location 7779 Quivira Road, Lenexa, which opened in mid-2006.

 Rev Cafe and Gallery, 2010 Main St., features coffee, espresso, teas, sandwiches, pastries and cookies.

The nonprofit operation is a fundraiser for, and is owned by, the Lutheran Mission of the Good Shepherd, an urban and multi-ethnic ministry with a food pantry, English as a second-language program and other services.

 Whole Lot of Wings & Things, 5354 Roberts St., Shawnee, is a locally owned operation specializing in Jumbo chicken wings with 10 different sauces.

It also sells chicken sandwiches, hamburgers, wraps, brisket, seafood and more.

Perfect Scents reopens a bricks-and-mortar store

Locally owned Perfect Scents is back.

The perfume-bath-and-body shop built a loyal following when it opened in Westport in 1989. It operated there for 13 years before relocating to the Country Club Plaza in 2002. Owner Nancy Pell closed it four years later to concentrate on her Internet business.

But the lively Pell missed the face-to-face contact with customers. So she has taken over her sister-in-law's former Middle Class Values space at 5010 Main St.

Half the store is the traditional Perfect Scents lines. Customers also can pick from among 250 perfume oils for custom blends to put in 20 products, from body lotions to shaving gel.

The north half of the store is devoted to the unique greeting cards -- from birthday to sympathy cards for the death of a pet -- and novelty items, such as windup toys, that Middle Class Values was known for. Other items include jewelry by local designers, lamps, handbags and candleholders.

"I love being off the beaten path yet close to a neighborhood shopping area and not cookie-cutter," Pell said.

Perfect Scents is one of the few businesses on the block not part of the new DST redevelopment.

Accurso's Italian Restaurant & Catering, at 5044 Main St., and Plaza Ford-Ideal Laundry & Dry Cleaners, at 6 W. 51st St., will relocate to DST's new buildings in the 4900 block of Main in February but will continue to operate at their current locations until then.

Locally owned Spin Neapolitan Pizza will join them in mid-February with its fourth area restaurant.

Reader question

Did the Sushi House at 14178 W. 119th St. in Olathe close?

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

Indeed it did. The locally owned Sushi House opened in the Shops of Avignon when the economy was still doing well. Owner Tom Johnson said he steadily built business from the April opening through September. Then business was "depressed" except for a few increases here and there. He is working with the landlord to do a different concept or bring in another tenant.

Johnson said business was still good at his 6 1/2 -year-old Leawood location, at 5041 W. 117th St. in Town Center Plaza, although down from a year ago.

JOYCE SMITH CITYSCAPE: Cityscape: Bartender draws a following

Thirty-five years ago, Watergate brought down President Richard Nixon. "The Waltons" was about the hottest thing on TV. Word processors -- the precursor of the personal computer -- were the rage.

And Willie Grandison set up shop behind the bar at The American Restaurant.

He's still there, having raised five children on the pay and tips (along with a side job), creating signature drinks that were written up everywhere from Playboy to Cheers magazines, and meeting celebrities from Henry Kissinger to Tony Bennett to "John Boy" Walton himself, Richard Thomas.

"People give thanks for their friends and family at Thanksgiving, but I also give thanks for my bartender," said customer Ann Tierney, director of corporate gifts at Halls. "He can talk to anybody, join in any conversation."

Grandison grew up in Louisiana but later moved to Kansas City, getting "stuck" here in 1962.

"I didn't come here to stay. But I got in debt as a young married man and stayed. I never got out of debt," he said with a laugh.

Grandison, who this month celebrates his 35th anniversary at the American, started bartending at Putsch's 210 on the Country Club Plaza in 1964 and worked for the company for 18 years, including a stint at the Strawberry Patch in Ward Parkway Center. But in 1974, while in his early 30s, he was recruited by the new American Restaurant in Crown Center at 200 E. 25th St.

At first he kept his day job at Putsch's 210, working nights at the American.

"They watched me work. They liked my personality and how I get to people, how people like me," said the low-key Grandison. "I think I was one of the first, or the first, black bartender on the Plaza."

But "Willie's Bar" at the American is where he created his signature drinks -- "The Stinging Bee," a rum-based concoction, and "The Stoli Pickled Brussels Sprout Martini."

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

Customers often send him special pins that he wears on his tuxedo lapel -- a Texas boot, a Burma map. He gets a kick out of those, but perhaps seems most proud of the Halls "Gold Crown" pin, as well as the Mobil Four Star and AAA Four Diamonds pins awarded for the restaurant's quality.

"I helped to build those," Grandison said. "So I've got to be proud of that, just like I am of the Stinging Bee."

Natasha to Flo's

The Crossroads' Bar Natasha cabaret lounge will reopen with new owners and a new name.

Chad Waldrop -- who has been in the club business here and in Miami for 14 years -- has bought the business as a starring venue for Flo, Kansas City's famed drag queen.

The new Flo's Cabaret is scheduled to open in early April.

"It will have more of a theater atmosphere, a dinner show on the weekends," Waldrop said.

Flo will appear Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays while still making Sunday gigs at Tootsie's, just north on Main Street, which Waldrop also manages. Waldrop plans other shows Tuesdays and Thursdays, along with happy hour offerings.

The space at 1911 Main St. also will be available for private events.

Bar Natasha closed in September after five years.

Former co-owner J.D. Mann is looking for the "next great idea." For now, he jokes: "I'm going to Disneyland."

Taking a Spin

Locally owned Spin Neapolitan Pizza has opened its fourth area restaurant.

Spin offers Italian thin-crust pizza baked in a stone oven with fresh gourmet ingredients, along with appetizers, soups, sandwiches, salads, antipasto, wine, beer and Italian gelato (ice cream). It has dining inside and an outdoor patio.

The first location opened in mid-2005 in Overland Park. Other locations later opened in Lee's Summit and Olathe.

The latest location -- just south of the Plaza at 4950 Main St. -- is in the new DST redevelopment project. Accurso's Italian Restaurant & Catering has closed up the street and also will soon relocate to the project, shooting for a Wednesday opening. Plaza Ford-Ideal Laundry & Dry Cleaners, which is still operating at 6 W. 51st St., also is scheduled to relocate by next week.

Then their former buildings at the end of the block on the west side will be demolished in the next 30 days to make way for future development.

Now open

Reader questions

On a weekly basis, readers ask if Trader Joe's, an eclectic kind of grocery, is coming to this area.

Nothing has changed since I last wrote about this in April 2008. The company has a store in St. Louis, but a company spokesman said there is still no plan to build one in Kansas City.

Local real estate agents, however, say the chain has looked at sites on the Missouri side of the city close to State Line Road. Then it would draw Kansas customers without having to deal with Kansas liquor laws.

The marquee on Trailridge Cinema keeps being changed weekly, announcing a revised reopening date. With $10 ticket prices, what a time for our area not to have a second-run movie theater. Any clues?

Turns out two of the three theaters there are open. Owner Benny Late has renovated two and is showing "subrun movies," films that have been out for a while at discounted prices. The third theater is still being renovated and should be open this spring. The theaters also offer new menu items such as burritos.

The theaters at 75th Street and Nieman Road in Shawnee charge $2.50 for tickets. To learn more, go to www.mytrailridgecinema.com.

For more Cityscape items, including the closing of Italian restaurant/club Seven Downtown and the two-day liquor license suspension of Harling's Upstairs, visit the Star's Dollars & Sense business blog at economy.kansascity.com.

What's new in town, who's making news

More dress-code wrangling

Kansas City Council members are looking to loosen dress-code standards. A Council committee is studying a proposal to put restrictions on just what city-subsidized developments can ban.

The measure follows many complaints about the Power & Light District's dress code, which some critics say discriminates against racial minorities and is inconsistently enforced. Officials with The Cordish Co., the developer, have said the dress code is not discriminatory and is implemented fairly.

Councilwoman Beth Gottstein emphasized that the ordinance was not aimed just at Power & Light. She said it would prohibit such provisions as:

Type of jewelry and how it is worn. Hairstyle or length of hair. Length of sleeves or pants being too long. Type of shoes worn. Wearing of garments associated with a particular religion or national origin. Wearing of ball caps or the manner in which they are worn. Length of an exposed shirttail.

Many of those elements are included in the Power & Light District's dress code.

Drag-aret and barbecue

Coming soon:

 The Crossroads' Bar Natasha cabaret lounge will reopen with new owners and a new name. Chad Waldrop -- who has been in the club business here and in Miami for 14 years -- has bought the business as a starring venue for Flo, Kansas City's famed drag queen. The new Flo's Cabaret, 1911 Main St., is scheduled to open in early April.

 Famous Dave's barbecue will return to the Power & Light District, less than two months after it closed. The operation had wanted to convert to an Old Chicago and had started remodeling. But a deal couldn't be worked out with landlord The Cordish Co.

openings

 The fourth area restaurant of locally owned Spin Neapolitan Pizza, 4950 Main St., just south of the Plaza.

 Locally owned KC Juice, 4141 Pennsylvania Ave. The Westport shop sells fresh-fruit smoothies and milk smoothies.

 Polished Nail Salon, 1221 Main St. in the Power & Light District. Locally owned, full-service nail salon.

closings

 Northern Italian restaurant and nightclub Seven Downtown, 613 Walnut St. Owner Bill George blamed the closing on a "perfect storm" of the economy, competition from the Kansas City Power & Light District and the smoking ban. Seven opened in May 2007.

 After nearly nine years on the Country Club Plaza, contemporary furnishings store Z Gallerie shut down for good Saturday.

A shiny, new K

Crews are working 10- and 11-hour shifts to finish a massive renovation project that will have Royals fans thinking they're in a brand new Kauffman Stadium for the home opener April 10 against the New York Yankees. Among the changes:

 A new restaurant and rooftop party deck just outside the right-field wall.

 Pregame amusements, including miniature golf and video batting tunnels, behind the scoreboard.

 A 360-degree concourse,which will, for the first time, give fans the chance to stand at the center-field wall as a homer sails by.

 Cheap seats near where the old JumboTron was located, which will go on sale each game day for $7.

 The ratio of food and beverage points of sale to fans has been slashed more than half, from 1 per 438 to 1 per 193. There also will be more choices, including more than 20 beers on tap or in bottles.

'Wine by the sip'

Kansas City is considering a new category of liquor license. Call it "wine by the sip."

If approved by the Council, package liquor stores could upgrade to the new license and sell wine -- and only wine -- for consumption on the premises in servings up to 5 ounces. The idea is to discourage free-sample freeloaders while allowing retailers and wine specialty shops a practical option to let customers sample their wares.

New in Town: Plaza eateries Accurso's Italian Restaurant & Catering, Chaz on the Plaza, Spin Neapolitan Pizza

sarah benson, { ink }

Three new Plaza eateries have two things in common: They're locally owned, and Italian food's on the menu. Here's the lowdown on each one. Buon appetito!

Accurso's Italian Restaurant & Catering

The back story: This cozy, traditional Italian restaurant recently moved from 4980 Main St. to new digs at 5044 Main St. Joe Accurso, who has owned the restaurant for 24 years, said the new Accurso's has the same menu.

The look: The old Accurso's had a checkerboard floor, red gingham tablecloths and wood-paneled walls hung with Accurso family photos dating back decades. The new Accurso's feels decidedly more modern. Tall windows let in plenty of natural light and provide a sweeping view of Main Street. A long marble bar is an elegant spot to grab a glass of vino, and the dining room behind the bar is bright and airy, with a precisely arranged row of family photos on one wall. The overall vibe is down-to-earth but polished. An outdoor patio will be perfect for warm summer nights.

The food: For lunch, there's a wide variety of pasta, sandwiches, soups and appetizers for less than $10. Menu items include the Meatball Grinder with fresh mozzarella ($7), which comes with homemade potato chips, and the Eggplant Parmesan ($8) which comes with salad and garlic bread. For dinner, owner Accurso prefers Walt's Steak Modiga ($28.95). That's two beef tenderloin medallions breaded and charbroiled, topped with mozzarella cheese and a lemon-mushroom sauce, and served with spaghetti and red sauce. Looking for something lighter? Try the Salmon Amogia ($17.95), a grilled salmon fillet served on a bed of sauteed vegetables. Or there's the Spinach Salad ($11.95), which comes topped with bacon, sliced apple and gorgonzola cheese.

The drinks: Accurso's serves 55 or so wines by the glass or bottle. The restaurant also sells beer by the bottle (Peroni, Stella Artois, Boulevard).

Hours: 10 a.m.-10 p.m. Monday through Saturday

Chaz on the Plaza Restaurant and Lounge

The back story: This renovated bar and restaurant housed inside The Raphael Hotel reopened in February. There's live music at Chaz from 6 to 10 p.m. Tuesday through Thursday and from 6 p.m. to midnight Friday and Saturday.

The look: The 86-seat restaurant has old-school hotel charm. Touches of silver and bronze on the booths, tables and chairs pop against deep-red walls. Vintage Victorian furniture, crackled mirrors, Asian-inspired wall hangings and an abstract mural of Plaza landmarks lend an eclectic air and keep the restaurant from feeling too stuffy.

The food: Executive Chef Peter Hahn prepares Midwestern dishes with European flair. He's choosy about ingredients. Hahn uses, for example, Piedmontese beef, an heirloom breed of cattle from Italy, instead of Angus.

If you just want to grab a bite, hit the bar for some Marinated Olives ($4) or Blue Chips ($5), a set of house-made kettle chips dusted with parmesan and drizzled with Maytag blue-cheese sauce.

For dinner, sit at one of the cozy, round booths. Try the American Bison Ribeye Steak ($28), Spanish Style Diver Scallops ($25) or the Roast Fingerling-Arugala Salad ($8), which consists of roasted potatoes, crispy pancetta, walnuts, crumbled goat cheese and sliced tomatoes. Chaz serves breakfast, too, including Lemon Ricotta Pancakes ($9.50).

The drinks: Five Godiva chocolate martinis, Roasterie coffee, 354 wines, assorted mixed drinks and beer. Happy hour runs from 5 to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday in the lounge. Martinis cost $6 during happy hour Thursdays. If you go when bartender Cameron Hart's on duty, you can try his specialty martinis: Tiramisu and Pineapple Upside-down Cake.

Hours: Restaurant: 6:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 to 10 p.m. Monday through Friday. 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 to 11 p.m. Saturday. 7 a.m. to 1 p.m. and 5 to 9 p.m. Sunday. Lounge: Appetizers and beverages served 11 a.m. to midnight Monday through Saturday.

Spin Neapolitan Pizza

The back story: This sleek Neapolitan pizza joint just opened a fourth location, its first in Kansas City. You might've sampled the Spin in Overland Park, Lee's Summit or Olathe. The Kansas City location is now the corporate headquarters, too.

The look: When you walk into Spin, you're greeted by an employee who helps you navigate the extensive menu. Sidle up to the "order here" station to pick your pie, then walk by the gelato case and try not to drool over the colorful bins of creamy Italian ice cream. The dining area here is all tall ceilings and sunny windows. Deep-green booths, tomato-red lamps and bold murals of cyclists and Italian sayings enliven this large space. Interwoven slats of wood protrude from the ceiling. They're rustic and elegant at once, just like the pizza. This location has a bar and patio, too.

The food: Pizza (duh) with red or white sauce. The red sauce is made with roma tomatoes, the white with olive oil and mozzarella. You can find pretty much any topping you fancy here and then some, including the more exotic fare of artichoke, pesto, apple, spinach, potato, eggplant, etc. They have pepperoni and sausage here, too. If you're not in the mood for pizza, try the salads, which range from $4.25 for a small Caesar to $7.45 for a large Greek salad (complete with kalamata olives, roasted tomatoes, feta and artichokes). Spin also sells grilled panini sandwiches ($6.50 to $7.95) and Meaty Ziti pasta ($7.95).

The drinks: A well-edited selection of wine curated by the downtown vino experts at Cellar Rat, plus beers on draft or by the bottle.

Hours: 11 a.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday through Thursday. 11 a.m. to 10 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Accurso's Italian Restaurant & Catering

This cozy, traditional Italian restaurant kept its menu, but has new modern digs near the Plaza.

Chaz on the Plaza Restaurant and Lounge

The renovated bar and restaurant inside The Raphael Hotel serves Midwestern dishes with European flair.

Cupcake a la Mode

The bakery west of the Plaza serves enticing confections in 16 flavors. Decadently moist chocolate and vanilla cakes are topped with mouthwatering, made-from-scratch frostings, such as pineapple, peanut butter, maple cinnamon, chocolate-chunk strawberry and mocha java.

The Duchess of Flanders

The small, sunlit cafe, which features home-style meals and baked goods, is operated by an apron-clad Belgian woman who tweaks the menu from week to week, augmenting comfort-food staples such as egg-salad sandwiches and cottage pie with dishes of the day such as meatloaf and tomato jam and herb-roasted pork tenderloin.

Grinders West

Despite the common name and shared wall with the original Grinders, Grinders West -- soup, salad, deli -- presents a cleaner, healthier and fresher vibe.

The latest spin on Spin: Think Lenexa

JOYCE SMITH
The Kansas City Star

Locally owned Spin Neapolitan Pizza has been looking all over the area for its next location.

Now it has found one in Lenexa.

Spin will open a 3,500-square-foot restaurant in January in the new Patio 95 Shops (formerly dubbed Prairie Creek Shops) at 95th Street and Renner Road. It's the first announced tenant for the center.

Spin will seat 100 people indoors with a patio for 48 people and a bar area. It makes its pizza dough fresh daily with three types of flour, including one imported from Italy. Toppings such as mushrooms, tomatoes, artichokes and chicken sausage are roasted each morning in stone hearth ovens. The menu also features panini, salad, soups and sandwiches.

Gail Lozoff, a partner in Spin, said the area has a great combination of daytime traffic, as well as residential rooftops and apartments. Patio 95 also will have two freestanding fast-food operations, as well as other tenants yet to be announced.

This will be Spin's fifth location.

New brewpub

As they sailed on the smooth waters of Lake Jacomo, two friends would often talk about one of their hobbies: home brewing.

Those talks became more serious when Chancie Adams and Matt Moore got an opportunity to purchase a Martin City building. So after they finished their day jobs — Adams in pharmaceutical development, and Moore in lawn care and landscaping — they would meet to remodel the building at 500 E. 135th St. (just down the street from Jess & Jim's Steak House) for a brewpub. Their friends Matt Murdick and Robb Richmiller joined in for the redo and will stay on as chefs when Martin City Brewing Co. opens there on June 1.

They'll serve 14 American-style craft beers on tap and 50 beers in bottles. Menu items will include bacon-wrapped jalapenos, braised brisket sandwich with egg, chicken burgers, risotto balls, pork tenderloin medallions with risotto, and spicy shrimp dip. It also will have an outdoor patio.

Adams and Moore plan to roll out the brewpub in three phases because they are financing the business themselves. At first they will just offer free tastings of their microbrews because they don't have a microbrewing license yet. A second phase calls for a full-scale microbrewery with the beers on tap. Later the partners will produce Martin City Brewing Co. beer for local distribution.

"We want a destination in south Kansas City that offers a unique and upscale experience, different from Power & Light, different from Brookside," said Adams.

Around town

•Carter's, a provider of apparel and products for infants and young children, plans to open a 5,000-square-foot store in Lenexa this fall.

The retail chain, which owns the Carter's and OshKosh B'gosh brands, will open in Orchard Shopping Center, 9596 Quivira Road, across from Oak Park Mall. Nordstrom Rack also will open in the center this fall.

•Burrito Joe's has opened at 1403 W. 39th St. It offers Mexican-style breakfast including huevos rancheros and chorizo with egg and potato. Lunch and dinner items include a vegetarian burrito, tacos and tostados.

•Pieroguys Pierogies has opened its Pieroguys Cafe in City Market. The operation at 307 Main St. serves eight varieties of pierogies — all made by hand with organic ingredients. The cafe is open from 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and 7 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, with breakfast pierogies until 10:30 a.m.

Gram & Dun 'gastropub' beats deadline for holiday opening

JOYCE SMITH
The Kansas City Star

After signing a lease for a Country Club Plaza restaurant space, Bread & Butter Concepts had just four months to gut it, remodel it and reopen it as a "gastropub" — if the owners wanted that bustling holiday business.

They just made it.

Gram & Dun plans to open at 11 a.m. today at 600 Ward Parkway in the former home of Baja 600.

The main entrance has returned to Pennsylvania Avenue, and the inside features long rows of tufted leather banquettes down the center, with tables and chairs in front of floor-to-ceiling windows overlooking the patio area and Brush Creek. The windows will open up in warmer weather.

The patio has three fire pits, heaters, a bar, tables and chairs, and a lounge area.

"It's not quite a bar, it's not quite a restaurant. It's a hybrid. The chefs are creating comfort food from all over the world, with a culinary twist, and we match the food with specific wine, beer and cocktails," said Alan Gaylin , chief executive officer of Bread & Butter Concepts.

The seasonal menu now includes French onion dumplings, a burger with Tillamook cheddar cheese and house-smoked bacon, blackened shrimp and grits, Korean beef short ribs, citrus-roasted chicken, corn flake fried chicken with cheese and herb waffles, hazelnut cocoa coffee crusted ribeye, catfish BLT club and wild boar sloppy joe sandwiches.

Bread & Butter Concepts also owns BRGR Kitchen + Bar and Urban Table in Corinth Square in Prairie Village. It plans to open another area BRGR Kitchen + Bar in 2012.

Bar Louie at Zona Rosa

Hot on the heels of opening its first area location in September, Texas-based Bar Louie is at it again.

Bar Louie said it will take the former O'Dowd's Little Dublin spot in Zona Rosa, 8600 N.W. Prairie View Road, and plans a Feb. 6 opening. O'Dowd's closed in October after nearly six years of operation.

The new Bar Louie will be bigger than the one that opened in September in the Power & Light District at 101 E. 14th St., formerly a Ted's Montana Grill . The menu includes small plates, flatbreads, burgers, salads and entrees.

Taking another Spin

Spin Neapolitan Pizza plans to open a location in the Corinth Square shopping center by late 2012 or early 2013.

Spin will take a 3,500-square-foot space at 8226 Mission Road, Prairie Village, in part of the space now occupied by CVS/pharmacy. CVS is in negotiations to open a new freestanding store nearby, on the site of the former Tippin's Restaurant and Pie Pantry in Corinth.

The locally owned Spin has locations south of the Country Club Plaza and in Lee's Summit, Overland Park and Olathe. A fifth restaurant is under construction in Lenexa.

Cole Haan steps into Legends

A Cole Haan Factory Store is now open in the Legends Outlets Kansas City.

The store, at 1843 Village West Parkway, Suite 107 (near the Brooks Brothers store), sells the luxury brand's women's and men's shoes, along with handbags, sunglasses, outerwear, leather goods, duffle bags and more at discounted prices.

JOYCE SMITH CITYSCAPE - CITYSCAPE: Divorce not just 20 sardines each

JOYCE SMITH, The Kansas City Star

The divorce between Debbie Gold and Michael Smith is turning out to be as complicated as some of the delectable dishes they created for their 40 Sardines restaurant.

The chefs/owners, who opened the operation in southern Overland Park in mid-2002, are set to go to divorce court in early March, where they will hammer out noncompete clauses along with personal issues.

But legal maneuverings have been taking place since Gold filed for divorce on Dec. 13, 2005.

In documents filed in civil court in Johnson County, Gold says the couple's business has been put in jeopardy by Smith's behavior with a manager of the restaurant, specifically "an extramarital affair between the respondent and the (manager)."

The manager "has put the parties' company on notice of her intent to pursue a claim against the parties' restaurant for harassment and hostile work environment, also adversely affecting the parties' joint business," according to the lawsuit. The manager's testimony is needed to "prove a disproportionate distribution is proper."

While Gold declined to comment, Smith said he began dating the manager months after separating and filing for divorce. Smith's last day was Oct. 31, 2006. The manager also has left the restaurant. Smith paid her a small severance from his own funds, and the two are still seeing each other.

"The fact that a divorce is going on would create internal issues," Smith said. "But sales have actually gone up. Revenues were $2.5 million in 2005 and $2.7 million in 2006."

Brad Manson, Smith's attorney, said: "The business has never performed better. They put years into it, and he basically walked away from it -- for her -- now that's the high road."

Smith said the couple had 18 years together. "As both chefs, maybe we competed against each other," Smith said. "We're both competitive people. But she's a good mother, a great woman and a great chef."

© 2012 Thomson Reuters. No Claim to Orig. US Gov. Works.

Smith wants to open a location -- perhaps in the Country Club Plaza area, Crossroads Arts District or the Power & Light District. He may have two concepts, one fine-dining, one a casual cafe.

Comings and goings

Spin Neapolitan Pizza is expanding with a second location in The Shops at Avignon, 14230 W. 119th St., Olathe, next fall.

The space will be a little larger than the original location at 6541 W. 119th St., Overland Park, and will include an outdoor patio. Toppings are made from fresh produce, freshly made pizza dough, and mostly hand-grated cheeses.

Debbie Gold and Michael Smith created the menu and are minority partners. Gail Lozoff, co-founder, also was co-founder of Bagel & Bagel, which later merged with three bagel companies to become Einstein Bros. Bagels.

Meanwhile, the Einstein Bros. Bagels has closed its location at 12219 Shawnee Mission Parkway, Shawnee. A spokeswoman for the chain said the restaurant's lease was up for renewal and it "wasn't meeting certain business expectations."

Elite honor

Elite Feet in Overland Park has been named one of "The 50 Best Running Stores in America" by Footwear Intelligence, a trade magazine, and The Running Network , a clearinghouse for information on grassroots running.

Among other things, stores were judged on inventory selection, window displays, and staff friendliness and helpfulness.

Don and Leslie Nottberg opened Elite Feet, in Hawthorne Plaza, 11938 Roe Ave., in 1996 and previously operated Phidippides, also in Overland Park.

"We work very hard at it, one or both of us are always here," said Leslie Nottberg. "Whatever we are doing to make our feet feel good, we do for our customers."

Footwear Intelligence was a bit confused about local geography, putting Elite Feet in Kansas City, Kan., not Overland Park.

Neapolitan pizza place to open in Fountains

The founders of Bagel & Bagel are launching a new concept — Spin Neapolitan Pizza.

The casual restaurant is scheduled to open in The Fountains shopping center at 6541 W. 119th St. in Overland Park in March. Gail Lozoff and Richard Lozoff, founders of Bagel & Bagel, and Ed Brownell, who was operating partner for Bagel & Bagel, plan an Italian pizza place with thin crust pizza baked in a brick oven with fresh gourmet ingredients. The operation also will serve sandwiches, salads, antipasto, wine, beer and Italian gelato.

Award-winning chefs Debbie Gold and Michael Smith of 40 Sardines are working on the opening menu.

Richard Lozoff went to cultinal school in Italy in the mid-1970s and became a fan of the local cuisine. The Lozoffs started Bagel & Bagel in 1980 in Brookside. In 1995, Boston Market bought Bagel & Bagel and two other bagel companies to form Boston Market Bagel. [illegible] bagel chain. Gail Lozoff remains a partner in Brookfield's Restaurant Inc., which [illegible] acquired in 2002.

KANSAS CITY CHALLENGE

Lozoff's creativity guides her 'round restaurant business

BY JAMES DORNBROOK | STAFF WRITER

Cooking up new businesses comes naturally to Gail Lozoff, a third-generation entrepreneur.

Lozoff is best known as co-founder of Bagel & Bagel, a local chain that she sold to Boston Market and turned into Einstein Bros. Bagels. The concept for her business included not only a popular product but also a place for customers to hang out.

"Gail is one of those people who helped put Kansas City on the business map," said Martha Gershun, a former business associate. "She is one of those rare people who combines creativity with common sense. She always has new ideas but still understands that the budget has to be balanced, the food has to taste good and deliveries have to be made on time."

Lozoff said her entrepreneurial streak comes from her grandfather Ben Pastemak, a Russian baker who immigrated to Kansas City and started the Vienna Bakery. Pastemak later started a business with Lozoff's father, The Cake Box, that grew into a chain of area stores.

Lozoff began working at The Cake Box when she was 5, folding cake boxes for a penny each. She eventually did many other jobs, working behind the counter, in the kitchen and in the office.

"I grew up around bagels," Lozoff said. "My father and grandfather always made them at the bakery."

Lozoff got an English degree in 1972 from Beaver College in Philadelphia. She then attended the Kansas City Art Institute and did freelance graphic design work for marketing agencies.

In 1985, Lozoff accepted a full-time position at DataPhase Systems, which she called her "first real job." The company sold a computer-based marketing tool.

Although she stayed for less than a year, the job introduced Lozoff to Gershun, a Harvard graduate who taught her disciplined business techniques.

"I launched a business with Gail called Eastwind Trading Co.," Gershun said. "The idea came when she visited a fabric store in Fairway and found some antique mother-of-pearl buttons."

The pair got a loan from the U.S. Small Business Association and bought about 10 million of the buttons. They tried to sell them to fabric stores and make jewelry out of them.

"It really flopped," Lozoff said. "There wasn't enough interest, and the jewelry fell apart. I learned the hard way that product is everything."

Lozoff had to declare bankruptcy but said the experience wasn't a total loss. She learned from Gershun how to create a business plan and start a company from scratch. It wasn't long before Lozoff was ready to dive into the entrepreneurial waters again.

A visit from her in-laws led to a discussion about a small chain of bagel shops in Minnesota called Brugger's. Talk soon turned to Lozoff's experience with bagels at her father's bakery.

Soon after, Bagel & Bagel was born. The first store opened in 1988 at 63rd Street and Brookside Avenue – in the same location as The Cake Box's first store.

"We entered the market at just the right time," Lozoff said. "It was right at the end of the old classic diner era. There was a hole in the market, and we were able to fill it."

Ann Willoughby, founder of Willoughby Design Group, said Lozoff's work at Bagel & Bagel helped create the fast casual dining experience.

"Everybody looks at Starbucks as the creator of that concept, but she was doing it at the same time," Willoughby said. "She knew about bagels, had an understanding of that trend and was able to capture it. What set Bagel & Bagel apart was it was as much a cultural thing as it was a business."

Bagel & Bagel grew to nine stores in the Kansas City area. By 1994, it attracted the interest of Boston Market. Lozoff and her partners – her husband, Richard, and in-laws, Mitchell and Debra Swaden – sold their interests in the business. Lozoff moved to Boulder, Colo., to become vice president of marketing for what became the Einstein Bros. chain. The goal was to build the franchise to 600 stores.

DAVID SAUR | KCBJ

Gail Lozoff's latest venture is Spin Neapolitan Pizza in Overland Park. The entrepreneur started her first business, the Bagel & Bagel chain, in 1988 before selling it to Boston Market about six years later.

As the Kansas City Business Journal commemorates its silver anniversary in 2007, we also celebrate some of the area's seminal business figures of the past 25 years. Their profiles will appear every week until the newspaper's special anniversary section is published Sept. 28.

Lozoff left before the company sold again in 2001 and returned to Kansas City as chief concept officer for Houlihan's Restaurants Inc., which was in Chapter 11 bankruptcy. She worked there for about two years and then took a year off before launching her latest business, a restaurant in Overland Park called Spin Neapolitan Pizza.

"My husband and I would always go out to eat and get a salad and a pizza, but we could never find a place where both were good, unless you spent $50," Lozoff said.

Although she is busy with her new business, Lozoff also devotes time to the community through her role as president of Jewish Family Services.

"In her time here, she's been instrumental in marketing our agency and freshening our image," said Adrienne Kizer, the charity's marketing and special events coordinator. "She also helped quadruple fund-raising for our Friendship Counts campaign, that we rely on to fund programs."

Lozoff said she's reminded of her bagel past every time she sees the Einstein Bros. logo. The logo came from Bagel & Bagel, and the two men in the image are her husband and her brother-in-law.

"We were in the Phoenix airport a couple weeks ago, and there was an Einstein Bros. there, and my husband was trying to tell somebody that was him in the picture," Lozoff said. "They were saying 'Yeah, right, whatever.' They just didn't believe him."

The Lozoffs are at it again.

Nearly two decades ago, Richard and Gail Lozoff opened a Brookside bagel shop that became the local Bagel & Bagel chain and then part of national chain Einstein Bros. Bagels.

Now the couple are launching another concept that they hope might be just as popular.

JOYCE SMITH

Spin Neapolitan Pizza recently opened in the Fountains shopping center at 6541 W. 119th St., Overland Park, just behind the Cheesecake Factory.

The casual restaurant with a contemporary design offers thin-crust pizza baked in a stone oven with fresh-roasted ingredients — spinach and garlic, roasted potato, eggplant, olive, roasted chicken and goat cheese, ham and spinach, and more. It also serves several gourmet salads and sandwiches.

The Lozoffs developed the concept with Ed Brownell, their operating partner in Bagel & Bagel, and Debbie Gold and Michael Smith from 40 Sardines. Richard Lozoff lived in Italy for four years and recently took a sabbatical from his medical practice and went to culinary school in Boulder, Colo.

"Once we get our feet on the ground here, then we would like to expand to other locations in the city," Gail Lozoff said.

Kitchen work

The Lozoffs know kitchens, and not just commercial ones.

They've moved nine times in six years and have designed three residential kitchens for their homes.

For their new Kansas City house, they wanted top-end, professional-grade appliances, brown granite on the kitchen island, raisin-colored concrete on the countertops, and deep-blue, custom-built cabinets with orange interiors.

The project was featured in the April issue of Metropolitan Home.

Architect Dan Maglan of El Dorado Architects Inc., Kansas City, and independent area interior designer Lisa Schantz worked on the project.

COVER STORY | Celebrate National Pizza Month

TOWER OF PIZZA

Our restaurant critic chews through a mountain of pies to find the best in KC.

By LAUREN CHAPIN
The Kansas City Star

Pizza preferences are personal, as personal as boxers or briefs, Pepsi or Coke, MU or KU.

In Kansas City we are blessed with an abundance of pizzerias serving all sorts of pies: thin-crust, thick crust, gluten-free or cheese stuffed.

We have the major styles covered, including several sources of original Neapolitan. And we span the country, too: from New York to Chicago, from St. Louis to California. And, of course, it wouldn't be Kansas City if we didn't dish up a few barbecue pizzas.

In honor of National Pizza Month, The Star checked out a few beloved pizzerias, compiled a list of even more favorites and set up a "Best of" list on our Web site at KansasCity.com, where you can vote for your favorite.

Spin! Neapolitan Pizza: 6541 W. 119th St., Overland Park 913-451-7746 (SPIN). www.spinpizza.com.

Richard Tozoff fell in love with authentic pizzas when traveling through Italy in the 1970s, and Spin! is the result. The staff uses a real Italian flour for the pizzas, which bake in the 600-degree oven. Choose from two basic styles: the pizza Rossa (crushed tomato sauce with a blend of cheeses) or Bianca (olive oil and Italian cheeses). Mix and match your own toppings or choose from the creative list of Spin pizzas.

I preferred the Cipolla e Chevre (roasted and caramelized onions with goat cheese) with fig jam and fresh mozzarella instead of the Polpette — caramelized onions and roasted crimini mushrooms. The crusts were thin and chewy and folded easily in half. And the kitchen was generous with the toppings. But they tasted even better the next morning.

Other highlights: carafes of fruity white sangria that paired really well with the earthiness of the pizza toppings and inventive house salads. One disappointment: The gelatos, imported from a small company in Michigan, were sticky, as if they hadn't been transported and stored properly.

(Spin! has other locations at 1808 D N.W. Chipman Road in Lee's Summit and at 14230 W. 119th St. in Olathe.)

It seems the bloom is off D'Bronx since Robert and Janet Bloom sold it. I tried slices of cheese, pepperoni and the specialty pizza loaded with all sorts of meat and vegetables.

They were all lovely hot. The cheese stretched from slice to mouth like a telephone wire, the Schools hosting 'Rachel's Challenge'

Educational program aims to help students change violence into acts of kindness.

By LINDA SAUER
The Kansas City Star

Since his daughter died in the one of the nation's worst school shootings, Darrell Scott has traveled the country telling students how Rachel lived.

How she would scoot next to someone at lunch if they were sitting alone. Or stick up for someone being picked on, even if she'd never met that person. Rachel's dad — along with other family members and trained speakers — have shared journal writings where the Columbine high school student theorized that doing kind acts for one person would cause a ripple reaction.

Students across the Blue Valley district will hear about this "Rachel's Challenge," a national educational program that's coming to two Blue Valley high schools next week. Darrell Scott will present the message himself, urging students to change the culture around them and replace the violence and rage in the world with kindness and compassion.

RELAXED RIDES APPEAL TO FAMILIES

Non-competitive rides have a community feel.

By JEFF STRAIT
Special to The Star

Professional cyclist JP Shores was eating with his family at a Spin! Neapolitan Pizza in Overland Park last year when he got an idea.

Though it was his first time in the restaurant, it wasn't too hard to pick up on the cycling motif — from the logo that incorporates bike wheels to a mural of shadowy cyclist silhouettes on a patio wall. But it was a picture of two-time Tour de France winner Fausto Coppi that really caught his attention.

Coppi is an Italian cycling legend, but someone whom the average American has probably never heard of. These people must know at least a little something about cycling, he thought.

It turns out they did.

Spin! owners Gail and Richard Lozoff and Ed Brownell, if not professional cyclists, were people who at least knew their way around a bike. The Lozoffs had biked in Italy, where they got the inspiration for the restaurant, which Shores found out when he asked the owners if they'd be in-
