WHO

Kurt Van Keppel, who wanted to buy a good cigar cutter in 1994, found the inexpensive models and the high-end models underperforming. So, he set out with Scott Almsberger to match good design (ergonomics and function) with the best styling and materials. The result was the Xi cutter, which they first assembled in their garages, and is now the market leader in cigar cutlery.

XIKAR originated from the word sikar, which is said to be the first Spanish spelling of the Taino word for cigar. The Tainos were the indigenous populations of Hispaniola and Cuba, where Columbus first landed when he discovered the "New World", and tobacco along with it. We changed the S to an X (representing 2 blades) and had the X cut the i, like a cutter clipping a cigar!

In 2000, Kurt and Scott decided to expand their product development into the pocket folder market. That year, they exhibited at the Blade Show, to "learn about the business," and they got good tips from custom knife makers like Tim Herman, and knife manufacturers like Paul Gillespie and A.G. Russel. The following year, XIKAR presented its first knife design, and in 2002 brought to market its full-scale production knives, the 118 Elan, 138 Excel and 158 Excursion. They expect to introduce two additional models for the knife nut at blade 2003!

Kurt Van Keppel: President (right)

Kurt has introduced new products for several consumer products companies, both in the U.S. and abroad. He has an MBA from AGSIM (Thunderbird)

Scott has worked in sales and in industrial design for several Japanese companies. He has an Industrial Design degree from the University of Kansas.

Because the finest cigar in the world is worthless after being crushed in your pocket, XIKAR now ensures you can protect your investment in full style!

Each Envoy Cigar Case holds one, two or three cigars up to 54-ring gauge each, keeping any smoke safe with a modern style all its own. With top-grain, armada leather, each piece has a well-dressed appearance and a soft feel. Contrast stitching secures the leather, giving it a contemporary look.
