In application Serial No. 86/550,995 the Respondent seeks to register the subject DIGIDOCLINKS mark for “Software for storing, accessing, displaying, sharing, creating, managing and analysing digital files including audio, video and text relating to legal documents, legal advice and related records; software for organizing and interacting with digital content, including audio, video and text relating to legal documents, legal advice and related records” in Class 9, and for “Providing the temporary use of online non-downloadable software for storing, accessing, displaying, sharing, creating, editing, managing and analysing digital files including audio, video and text content relating to legal documents, legal advice and related records; providing the temporary use of online non-downloadable software for organizing and interacting with digital content, including audio, video and text relating to legal documents, legal advice and related records” in Class 42.

The subject DIGIDOCLINKS application was filed on March 3, 2015, and was published for opposition in the Official Gazette on July 28, 2015. The subject application was filed under Section 1(b) of the Act claiming intent to use the mark in commerce.

2. Opposer is a well-known and well-respected manufacturer of computer connectivity hardware and computer software used to manage communications to and between mobile devices, to provide both wired and wireless connectivity between computer networks, to connect serial devices to a network, to provide remote access to computer networks and to the Internet, to provide connectivity between peripheral devices and computer networks, to provide connectivity between mobile devices and computer networks, to provide connectivity for intelligent devices to computer networks, and to provide remote management of intelligent devices. (Collectively, the “Digi Marks”). Copies of the TSDR records corresponding to the above marks are enclosed herewith as Exhibits 1 through 34. The above registrations are valid and subsisting, and in most cases incontestable, and constitute prima facie evidence of the Opposer’s exclusive right to use the Digi Marks in commerce in connection with the goods and services covered by the registrations.

6. As noted in the above chart, Opposer has been using the DIGI mark in commerce continuously since 1985, and has been using other of the Digi Marks in commerce in connection with computer connectivity hardware and software, and associated services, continually for almost that long. Opposer has acquired substantial common law rights in the Digi Marks, registered and unregistered, long prior to March 3, 2015, filing date for Respondent’s mark.

7. Opposer has expended considerable amounts of money, time and effort in advertising, promoting and popularizing its Digi Marks, so that the public in general, and the purchasing public in particular, have come to know and recognize Opposer’s marks and goods and services and to know that the same originate with and belong to Opposer. Opposer’s DIGI branded computer hardware and software products, and its services offered under the Digi Marks, includes goods and services essentially identical to and closely related to the products listed in the subject application.” Therefore, confusion, mistake and deception in the trade and in the minds of purchasers as to the source or origin of the respective goods and services are likely to result.

8. Opposer’s Digi Marks and the Respondent’s DIGIDOCLINK Mark are so close to one another in appearance, sound, and in connotation as to be likely to cause confusion. In fact, Respondent’s mark incorporates the whole of Registrant’s registered mark DIGI and combines it with the descriptive words “doc” and “link.” The addition of the terms “doc” and “link” to the Opposer’s DIGI mark is not sufficient to distinguish the marks. Many of Opposer’s goods and services are intended to provide storage and remote access to digital files, and to provide online access on non-downloadable software that allows users to view, organize, analyze, and interact with digital information.

9. The goods and services covered by the Respondent's subject application are identical in some respects, and closely related in other respects, and are likely to be sold through the same trade channels and appeal to the same class of purchaser as Opposer's goods and services.

10. Opposer is well and favorably known in the United States and has built up exclusive goodwill and a good reputation in connection with its family of Digi Marks, and Opposer's goodwill and reputation will be damaged and jeopardized by Respondent's use and registration of its DIGIDOCLINKS mark.

11. Opposer's Digi Marks are distinctive and well known within the relevant industry. Accordingly, Opposer's Digi Marks are strong marks that enjoy a broad scope of protection.

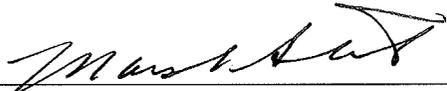

12. Opposer has priority over Respondent as a result of its earlier continuous use of its Digi Marks in connection with identical and closely related goods and services. Opposer has used some of the Digi Marks in commerce continuously for approximately thirty years prior to the filing date of Respondent's Mark.

13. Respondent's Mark so resembles Opposer's Digi Marks as to be likely, when used in connection with Respondent's goods, to cause confusion, or to cause mistake or to deceive. Purchasers and prospective purchasers are likely to be confused or mistaken as to the source of the goods or services, all to the detriment of Opposer. Registration of Respondent's mark therefore should be denied registration under 15 U.S.C. §§ 1052(d).

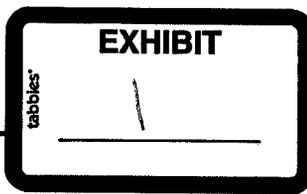

WHEREFORE, pursuant to Section 14 of the Lanham Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1063, Opposer respectfully requests that Application Serial No. 86/550,995 be rejected, and that the registration of the mark shown for the goods therein specified be refused and that the present opposition be sustained.

Respectfully submitted,
