Dear Mr. Vermejo:

I realize my payment is late and I promised you a payment of $150.00 by March 24, 1995. Due to problems I can't control and I apologize, but I am trying to pay my bill with your company as quickly as I am able. Your understanding to this point is greatly appreciated.

I do ask that you wait to bank this check until Friday, April 7, 1995. I know this has been difficult for your company and I can't apologize enough for the problems this may have caused the company. I thank you sincerely for your patience and your help with this matter.

Sincerely,

John M. Sachs

TRIANGLES

A 60° triangle is measured on the longest cathetus, LC, and a 45° is measured on the length of the two equal sides, C.
Two triangles are considered a set if LC for a 60° is two inches longer than C for a 45°.

ARTISTS' OIL COLORS

Technical Specifications

ACRILEX artists' oil colors are carefully grounded in the highest quality combination of vegetable oils (subject to international norms) and additives specially formulated for professional artists' products. ACRILEX oils produce brilliant concentrated colors, which dry to a tough and permanent paint film.

ACRILEX carefully selects only the finest professional quality, full strength pigments to obtain the utmost tones and semitones. ACRILEX's primary requirement is that all color inks are formulated intermixable, without losing their physical properties and good finish. Every oil color uses only one solid pigment at a time, guaranteed contents printed on label, ACRILEX colors are 100% free of adulterants.

ACRILEX has required that all its oil color products have well defined and uniform specifications, in viscocity, purity, strength, dryness, and adhesiveness.

ACRILEX is one of the first developers and manufacturers of professional artists paints in the world.

After years of research and testing, ACRILEX introduced its paints in 1964 with its slogan "Colors for every idea".

Material washing and solution.
The used instruments must be washed with Turpentine, or a good quality "Mineral Spirits".

Pigments Types

The artists' oil line is divided into two groups:

01 Transparent pigments Colors	701	702	703	704
	705	706	707	708
02 Non-Transparent pigments Colors	709	710	711	712
	713	714	715	716
	717	718	719	720
	721	722	723	724

All ACRILEX colors can be intermixed in any proportion, organic or inorganic. The pigments used in the line A-700 are selected with the highest professional standard of quality.

Acrylic Artists' Color
Technical Specifications

This new product was developed to satisfy the needs of Professional Artists. Ingredients are based on pigments selected for their high resistance to light and atmospheric agents.
Colors were selected based on extensive research with acrylic paint artists and provide a wide range of mid-tones.
The optimum ratio of pigment to vehicle (resin) was carefully studied taking into consideration the absorption characteristics of each pigment. The result was an ideal blend extending the useful shell life of the paint. The vehicle is an emulsified acrylic resin which is water soluble, dries quickly, has exellent elasticity and adheres to several bases and derivates. It does not yellow with the passage of time.

Material wash and dilution
The acrylic material is diluted with water. Once dry the acrylic forms an impermeable film. All brushes, palette knives and other tools should be washed with soap and water after use.

Durability
This professional paint is protected against microorganisms by a combination of fungicides and bactericides. These agents are not harmful to humans and are 100% effective in preserving your work in harsh environments.

Pigments Division

The series of Acrylic Artists' Color is comprised of three groups:

01 With Transparent(gloss) pigments	601	602	603	604
	605	606	607	608
02 With Matte pigments	609	610	611	612
	613	614	615	616
	617	618	619	620
	621	622	623	624
03 With Iridescent prigments	691	692	693

Inorganic Pigments

Cadmio Pigments:
Cadmio Pigments are made through chemical reactions of the following elements: Cadmio, Sulfur, Selenium, Zinc. This process produces the light yellows, intense yellows, oranges, reds, and ochres which are highly resistant to light and heat.

Titanium Dioxide (TiO_2):
Is a special white non-yellowing pigment which in crystal form produces "Radiant" colors. It has great chemical stability and a power of mixture higher than any other white pigment used.

Ultramarine Blue:
Is composed of Sulfur, caustic and alkaline compound, in high temperature with the help of a reductor. Changing the proportion of the components, changes the tones. Ultramarine Blue in spite of its transparency, keeps its vivid colors, unequaled by the other blue pigments.

Chromium Oxide Green and Cobalt Blue:
Are pigments with high resistance to light and high temperatures.

Iron compounds:
The yellow, red, ochres, brown and black oxides are very resistant to light.

Organic Pigments

The organic pigments selected for the professional art palette are:

Hansa Yellow
Hansa Yellow, pigment based in toluidine and Beta Naphthol, has good resistance to light in concentrated colors, while the pastel colors have less resistance to light. The Hansa Yellow has proven to have strong resistance to acid and alkaline solutions.

Naftol Red Light
Pigment of Naftol resines as (Beta-HydroxiNaphtoic Aniline) and a monomer compound of the lacquer has good resistance to light, in clear tones and reasonable resistance in mixed tones with Titanium Dioxide.

Naftol Red CRIMSON and Quinacra Violet
Pigments derived from Quinacra ($C_{20}N_2O_2H_{12}$) have a high resistance to light, similar to Phtalocyanine. These pigments are expensive due to the complex production process.

Hooker's Green
This pigment is obtained from the reaction between Naftol-Beta-Nitrate and a Salt of iron and has decreased resistance to external light. The beautiful tones and tranparencies enhance the palette of every professional artist.

Phtalo Blue
Obtained from the reaction between Phtalic Anhidride, Phtalonitrite and a copper salt. It is a pigment that has great resistance to light and heat whether in a pure or mixed form. There is no restriction in its use while it is in beta form.

Phtalo Green
Obtained from the same reactions that form the Phtalo Blue, but with substitution of the Hydrogen atoms by Cloro. It has the same resistance to Blue Phtalo.

Dioxazine Purple
Derived from Dioxazine Cresol, which presents great resistance to light and high power of mixture. Because of this property, it is used as a mix in white inks (as whitener).

Ivory Black
The only pigment of this selection that is formed by one chemical element or charcoal. It's obtained through a special process which eliminates the ashes and other impurities.

The ivory black pigment has maximum power of mixture, unlimited resistance to light and the ability to absorb ultraviolet rays.

Iridescent
Specially treated and purified micas (plastic) reflect a very attractive metallic bright. Colors are obtained by special processes of products with high resistance to fading.

Why Lyptus® Wood?

- Lyptus® Wood is wood from the eucalyptus tree
- A durable hardwood; as hard, if not harder than oak
- Its finish resembles either a cherry or mahogany wood
- Eucalyptus trees are fully mature and ready to be harvested in only 14-16 years
- Lyptus® Wood is a renewable resource: trees sprout from the stumps of previously harvested trees

Bee on a red eucalyptus flower

Lytpus® Wood is a new trend in creating more environmentally responsible products. A premium-grade hardwood, Lyptus® is grown on highly-productive, environmentally friendly plantations in South America. The plantations are a mix of eucalyptus trees and native tropical forest, ensuring a natural ecosystem.

Artists can feel good about using products made from Lyptus® Wood. A naturally-occurring hybrid of Eucalyptus grandis and Eucalyptus urophylla, Lyptus® forests are 11 times more productive than a temperate forest. Thriving in the warm climate of Brazil, Lyptus® trees are ready for harvest in as little as 14-16 years as opposed to 50-70 years in colder regions. The Lyptus® plantations have been an important force in reforesting the damaged native rainforests of Brazil.

Not only are Lyptus® plantations using land that had become useless by years of intensive logging and farming, but for every two hectares (1 Hectare = 2.471 Acres) of Lyptus® plantation planted, one hectare of new native forest is planted. The mills used to produce Lyptus® Wood use proprietary technology in a sustainable and a environmentally friendly manner. The entire process from planting, to pruning, to manufacturing is carried out with the environment in mind.

Quick Facts:

Grain: Straight grain and fine, even texture

Characteristics: Great variety of color. Because trees are hand-pruned throughout their growing years, wood is very uniform and has fewer knots.

Durability: Lyptus® has similar density, strength and technical properties as hardwood maple. Lyptus® is about 45% heavier than Mahogany, the boards are much straighter, flatter, and smoother.

Color: The color of Lyptus® varies from pink to pale red-brown with dark pink variations.

Finishing: Lyptus® is receptive to all common types of finishing including both water and solvent based lacquers, various types of pigments, oils and waxes.

Dulce

Great feature on the Richeson Lyptus® Wood Dulce Easel:
Mast and painting tray move independently for larger canvas capacity!
