I. INTRODUCTION

Applicant Tristar Products, Inc. (“Tristar”) appeals the Examining Attorney’s final refusal of registration of Tristar’s mark POWER SMOKELESS GRILL (the “Mark” or “POWER SMOKELESS GRILL”) for “smokeless electric grills” in Class 011 (the “Goods”) on the grounds that the Mark is generic for the Goods or, in the alternative, merely descriptive and has not acquired distinctiveness. The evidence of record does not support the Examining Attorney’s position that the Mark is generic. Instead, the evidence of record overwhelmingly supports Tristar’s position that POWER SMOKELESS GRILL can, and does, function as a trademark. Even if the Board finds that the Mark is merely descriptive, the evidence shows that POWER SMOKELESS GRILL has acquired distinctiveness based on extensive use, massive advertising and promotion, and incredible nationwide exposure and commercial success.

II. STATEMENT OF FACTS

A. Tristar and the POWER SMOKELESS GRILL Mark

Tristar is industry recognized as the premier direct response market leader, and has exceeded over one billion dollars in retail sales. Tristar seeks registration of the mark POWER SMOKELESS GRILL for the Goods, i.e., smokeless electric grills. Tristar has extensively promoted its goods under the Mark, with over $20 million spent on television media advertising services and over 1.5 million units sold as of June 2019 (June 21, 2019 Response, pp. 8, ¶¶ 3-4) and additional spending and sales since then. Tristar’s Goods have also garnered extensive unsolicited media coverage.

B. The Examining Attorney’s Refusal of Registration

The Examining Attorney issued three refusals of this application. The initial action, dated December 21, 2018, included a refusal under Section 2(e)(1) on the basis that the Mark is descriptive of “smokeless grills.” The Examining Attorney further required clarification of the goods and proposed “smokeless electric grills,” which Applicant subsequently adopted in its response dated June 21, 2019. Applicant also submitted evidence of acquired distinctiveness at that time. In the second action, dated July 25, 2019, the Examining Attorney refused the Mark as generic under Section 23(c) and as descriptive under Section 2(e)(1). Applicant’s response of January 27, 2020 included dictionary definitions and evidence obtained from the Internet demonstrating acquired distinctiveness. In the third and final action, dated February 26, 2020, the Examining Attorney maintained the refusals under Section 23(c) and Section 2(e)(1), again relying on the same dictionary definition previously cited along with new third party evidence obtained from the Internet. Applicant filed a Request for Reconsideration on August 26, 2020, submitting additional dictionary evidence and third party evidence obtained from the Internet demonstrating acquired distinctiveness of the Mark. Reconsideration was denied on October 22, 2020. Applicant contends that all evidence of record is properly submitted for consideration by the Board.

III. ARGUMENT

A. POWER SMOKELESS GRILL Is Not Generic

1. Legal Standards

“A generic term ‘is the common descriptive name of a class of goods or services.’” Royal Crown Co. v. The Coca-Cola Co., 892 F.3d 1358, 1366 (Fed. Cir. 2018) (quoting H. Marvin Ginn Corp. v. Int’l Ass’n of Fire Chiefs, Inc., 782 F.2d 987, 989 (Fed. Cir. 1986)) (emphasis added). The public’s perception of a phrase is the “primary consideration” in determining genericness. Loglan Inst., Inc. v. Logical Language Grp., Inc., 962 F.2d 1038, 1041 (Fed. Cir. 1992); In re 1800Mattress.com IP, LLC, 586 F.3d 1359, 1362-63 (Fed. Cir. 2009). The Board applies a two-step analysis for this determination: (1) what is the genus in question, and (2) is the applied-for term understood by the relevant public primarily to refer to that genus? H. Marvin Ginn Corp., 782 F.2d at 989. The Examining Attorney bears the burden of showing a term is generic and must make a “substantial showing” that is “based on clear evidence of generic use.” In re Merrill Lynch, 828 F.2d 1567, 1571 (Fed. Cir. 1987); In re Nordic Naturals, Inc., 755 F.3d 1340, 1342 (Fed. Cir. 2014). “[D]oubt on the issue of genericness is resolved in favor of the applicant.” In re DNI Holdings Ltd., 77 USPQ2d 1435, 1437 (TTAB 2005); In re Waverly, 27 USPQ2d 1620, 1624 (TTAB 1993).

The Examining Attorney has refused the Mark on the grounds that POWER SMOKELESS GRILL is generic because the Mark’s primary significance is the class or category of goods on which it is used, namely, smokeless electric grills. The primary issue here is whether POWER is generic in the context of smokeless electric grills, and whether POWER SMOKELESS GRILL (taken as a whole) is generic in the context of smokeless electric grills.

2. Dictionary Evidence

The Examining Attorney contends that “power” means “operated by electricity or by a motor.” (February 26, 2020 Office Action, p. 3). In support, the Examining Attorney relies on a single definition extracted from yourdictionary.com, which states “The definition of power is operating electrically or having strength or force.” (July 25, 2019 Office Action, pp. 2, 5). Applicant contends that the dictionary evidence shows the opposite – “power” in this context connotes strength, influence, and effectiveness.

Further, consulting the Merriam-Webster dictionary (Exhibit A)<sup>1</sup>, the first six definitions of “POWER” are presented as:

- 1 a (1): ability to act or produce an effect
(2): ability to get extra-base hits
(3): capacity for being acted upon or undergoing an effect
b : legal or official authority, capacity, or right
- 2 a : possession of control, authority, or influence over others
b : one having such power
specifically : a sovereign state c : a controlling group : ESTABLISHMENT —often used in the phrase the powers that be d archaic : a force of armed men
e chiefly dialectal : a large number or quantity
- 3 a : physical might
b : mental or moral efficacy
c : political control or influence
- 4 powers plural : an order of angels
— see CELESTIAL HIERARCHY
- 5 a : the number of times as indicated by an exponent that a number occurs as a factor in a product
// 5 to the third power is 125
also : the product itself
8 is a power of 2
b : CARDINAL NUMBER sense 2
- 6 a : a source or means of supplying energy
especially : ELECTRICITY
b : MOTIVE POWER
c : the time rate at which work is done or energy emitted or transferred

As shown above, the first three definitions support a meaning of “powerful,” and it is not until the sixth definition that electrical energy is introduced. This is consistent with a general impression in the minds of consumers that POWER SMOKELESS GRILL suggests a powerful, effective, and influential product. Additional dictionary sources confirm this trend:

The Cambridge Dictionary (Exhibit B)<sup>2</sup> defines POWER as:

- 1) ability to control people and events
- 2) the amount of political control a person or group has in a country
- 3) strength

<sup>2</sup> Exhibit B was submitted as Exhibit B to the filing on August 26, 2020.

- 4) an official or legal right to do something
- 5) electricity, especially when considering its use or production
- 6) a natural skill or an ability to do something
- 7) a person, organization, or country that has control over others, often because of wealth, importance, or great military strength
- 8) the rate at which energy is used, or the ability to produce energy
- 9) the amount by which an image is increased by a device used for seeing things that are very small or a long distance away
- 10) the number of times that a number should be multiplied by itself

The Macmillan Dictionary (Exhibit C)<sup>3</sup> defines POWER as:

- 1) ability to influence/do
- 2) political/legal control
- 3) strength/effectiveness
- 4) speed of machine/vehicle
- 5) energy/electricity
- 6) in mathematics

The first ten definitions of POWER from the Free Dictionary (Exhibit D)<sup>4</sup> are:

  - a. The ability or capacity to act or do something effectively: Is it in your power to undo this injustice?
  - b. often powers A specific capacity, faculty, or aptitude: her powers of concentration.
2.
  - a. Physical strength or force exerted or capable of being exerted: the power of the waves. See Synonyms at strength.
  - b. Effectiveness at moving one's emotions or changing how one thinks: a novel of great power.
3.
  - a. The ability or official capacity to exercise control; authority: How long has that party been in power?
  - b. The military strength or economic or political influence of a nation or other group: That country projects its power throughout the region.
  - c. A country, nation, or other political unit having great influence or control over others: the western powers.
4.
  - a. A supernatural being: the powers of evil.
  - b. powers Christianity The sixth of the nine orders of angels in medieval angelology.

<sup>3</sup> Exhibit C was submitted as Exhibit B to the filing on August 26, 2020.

<sup>4</sup> Exhibit D was submitted as Exhibit C to the filing on August 26, 2020.

5.
  - a. The energy or motive force by which a physical system or machine is operated: turbines turned by steam power; a sailing ship driven by wind power.
  - b. The capacity of a system or machine to operate: a vehicle that runs under its own power.
  - c. Electrical or mechanical energy, especially as used to assist or replace human energy.
  - d. Electricity supplied to a home, building, or community: a storm that cut off power to the whole region.
6. Physics The rate at which work is done, expressed as the amount of work per unit time and commonly measured in units such as the watt and horsepower.
7. Electricity
  - a. The product of applied potential difference and current in a direct-current circuit.

  - b. The number of elements in a finite set.
9. Statistics In a statistical test, the probability of correctly rejecting the null hypothesis when it is false.
10. A measure of the magnification of an optical instrument, such as a microscope or telescope.

Wiktionary.org (Exhibit E)<sup>5</sup> defines POWER as follows:

1. Ability to do or undergo something.
2. (social) Ability to coerce, influence or control.
  1. (countable) Ability to affect or influence.
  2. Control or coercion, particularly legal or political (jurisdiction).
  3. (metonymically) (chiefly in the plural) The people in charge of legal or political power, the government.
  4. (metonymically) An influential nation, company, or other such body.

He needed a lot of power to hit the ball out of the stadium.
  2. Electricity or a supply of electricity.
After the pylons collapsed, this town was without power for a few days.
  3. A measure of the rate of doing work or transferring energy.
  4. The strength by which a lens or mirror magnifies an optical image.
We need a microscope with higher power.
4. (colloquial, dated) A large amount or number.
5. Any of the elementary forms or parts of machines: three primary (the lever, inclined plane, and pulley) and three secondary (the wheel-and-axle, wedge, and screw).

<sup>5</sup> Exhibit E was submitted as Exhibit D to the filing on August 26, 2020.

the mechanical powers

6. (physics, mechanics) A measure of the effectiveness that a force producing a physical effect has over time. If linear, the quotient of: (force multiplied by the displacement of or in an object) ÷ time. If rotational, the quotient of: (force multiplied by the angle of displacement) ÷ time.
7. (mathematics)
  1. A product of equal factors (and generalizations of this notion)....
  2. (set theory) Cardinality.
  3. (statistics) The probability that a statistical test will reject the null hypothesis when the alternative hypothesis is true.
8. (biblical, in the plural) In Christian angelology, an intermediate level of angels, ranked above archangels, but exact position varies by classification scheme.

In each of the above dictionaries, the leading definitions relate to strength, influence, and effectiveness. In each case, the concept of electricity initially appears in the fifth or lower definition. Applicant's mark is POWER SMOKELESS GRILL. Consumers perceive the product as the POWER brand version of a smokeless grill. For example, a third party online review refers to Applicant's product as the "Power smokeless grill" or the "Power grill" (both of which capitalize the P in Power). Exhibit F,<sup>6</sup> p. 5. Consistent with the above definitions, this demonstrates how consumers view Power as unique and non-generic in the context of smokeless electric grills.

In the Decision Denying Request for Reconsideration, dated October 22, 2020, the Examining Attorney wrote:

Applicant argues that the applied-for mark "POWER SMOKELESS GRILL" is not generic for "smokeless electric grills". Applicant references the initial dictionary definition for "power" attached to the initial Office action, and argues that the definition of the word "POWER" that relates to electricity "appears in the fifth or lower definition." Applicant argues that consumers will not associate the word "POWER" with electrically powered grills because it has other definitions. This argument is unpersuasive because "powerful" or "having strength" is not relevant to a smokeless grill. A grill used for cooking does not require strength or need to be powerful because that is not a characteristic typical of grills. The word "powerful" would be relevant if used in connection with an item such as an engine. The more likely definition "POWER," when used in connection with electric smokeless grills is "electrically powered" because applicant's grills are "electric".

<sup>6</sup> Exhibit F was submitted as Exhibit E to the filing on August 26, 2020.

(October 22, 2020 Decision Denying Request for Reconsideration, p. 3). This is faulty reasoning. The Examining Attorney simply discards the inconvenient definitions as “not relevant” and instead seeks out and selects a less common definition and deems it “relevant.” Critically, if “powerful” and “having strength” (the more prominent definitions) are not relevant to a smokeless grill, then POWER is arbitrary for the goods and inherently capable of distinctiveness. The Examining Attorney appears to implicitly concede as much.

3. Commercial Evidence

As addressed in more detail below, consumers perceive the Applicant’s commercial product as the POWER brand version of a smokeless electric grill. For example, a third party online review refers to Applicant’s product as the “Power smokeless grill” or the “Power grill” (both of which capitalize the P in Power). Exhibit F, p. 5. Consistent with the above definitions, this demonstrates how consumers view “Power” as unique and non-generic in the context of smokeless electric grills.

The Examining Attorney bears the burden of showing a term is generic and must make a “substantial showing” that is “based on clear evidence of generic use.” In re Merrill Lynch, 828 F.2d 1567, 1571 (Fed. Cir. 1987); In re Nordic Naturals, Inc., 755 F.3d 1340, 1342 (Fed. Cir. 2014). Applicant submits that the dictionary and commercial evidence of record shows POWER SMOKELESS GRILL is not generic for smokeless electric grills.

B. POWER SMOKELESS GRILL Has Acquired Distinctiveness

The Examining Attorney has maintained a Section 2(e)(1) refusal on the basis that if the Mark is not generic, it is descriptive of the goods because the Mark merely describes a feature or function of the Goods. While not sufficient to prove secondary meaning, “Large-scale expenditures in promoting and advertising goods and services under a particular mark are significant to indicate the extent to which a mark has been used.” TMEP 1212.06(b). In this case, Tristar has expended significant resources in promoting and advertising the goods. Specifically, as of June 21, 2019, Tristar had already spent over $20 million on television media advertising services to promote its products under the POWER SMOKELESS GRILL Mark, and had sold over 1.5 million units under the POWER SMOKELESS GRILL Mark. (June 21, 2019 Response, p. 7, ¶¶ 3-4). Further, Tristar had spent over $100 million advertising its products under a POWER family of marks, including goods under the POWER SMOKELESS GRILL mark and other. (June 21, 2019 Response, p. 7, ¶ 6). Tristar’s own website and social media offerings (Exhibits G - I)<sup>7</sup> draw significant consumer attention. Such large scale expenditures and extensive marketing efforts have created a meaningful connection between the Mark and Applicant’s Goods in the minds of consumers. The evidence from third party sources bears this out.

An Instagram search of the hashtag #powersmokelessgrill at the following link (<https://twitter.com/hashtag/powersmokelessgrill?lang=en>) results in numerous photo, video, and commentary posts (see Exhibit J).<sup>8</sup> In another example, a review located at (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Ap-G6A4TzhY>) entitled “Power Smokeless Grill Review: As Seen on TV” has over 160,000 views (see Exhibit K).<sup>9</sup> The video review depicts the Mark as a trademark and source identifier for Applicant’s product. The corresponding written review is available at (<https://tvstuffreviews.com/power-smokeless-grill>) (see Exhibit L).<sup>10</sup> Furthermore, Applicant’s product in connection with the Mark has been reviewed by television stations, including a video created by WLTX19, a television station from South Carolina

The connection between the Mark and Applicant's product is unmistakable. The same connection between the Mark and Applicant's commercial product is made at "Indoor Smokeless Grill – Top 10 Grills Compared" by popular.reviews (<https://popular.reviews/indoor-smokeless-grill/>) (Exhibit P).<sup>14</sup>

As evidenced by the above articles, the Mark is used as a trademark and a source identifier when directly compared to other competing smokeless grill products, thereby demonstrating that the Mark is a source identifier and has acquired distinctiveness in the minds of the purchasing public. A search of Google Trends data demonstrates that Internet searches on the Google search engine for the phrase "power smokeless grill" over the period of June 2014 to June 2019 were essentially non-existent until Applicant's launch of its product under the Mark (see Exhibit Q),<sup>15</sup> while Internet searches for the more generic term "indoor smokeless grill"

Yes, if something breaks, like the bottom of the fan cover, there are no replacement parts. You have to order a new grill.

Exhibit Y<sup>23</sup> contains a third party review of six competing products, with the category being referred to as "Indoor Grills" or "Indoor Electric Grills." Applicant's product is the fourth in the list of reviews, and is identified by its name Power Smokeless Grill and an image of Applicant's product. In the comments section, a commenter asks for an opinion of Applicant's Power Smokeless Grill in comparison to a competing product, the Philips Indoor Smokeless Grill. The author of the article responds, again referring to Applicant's product by the full mark Power Smokeless Grill. Further comments about Applicant's product follow. See below:

I'm also curious about your opinion of the Phillips Indoor Smokeless Grill especially vs the Power Smokeless Grill.

Hi Bonnie, We like both the Philips Indoor and Power Smokeless Grills, but we prefer the latter for three reasons. First, the Power Smokeless Grill allows you to control the temperature settings, while the Philips simply heats up to a constant 446° temperature which may be too hot for some foods or types of grilling. Second, the glass lid that comes with the Power Smokeless keeps the heat in and allows moisture to circulate. Finally, the Power Smokeless is less expensive. It's true that the Philips is more powerful (1600 vs 1200 watts), but we don't find that to make... Read more »

Hi again Connie, Here's the story on the Power Smokeless Grill that's advertised on TV and also sold on Amazon. It's a good product, with – as with most products – its pros and cons. The most important pro is that it's versatile, doing a very nice job grilling everything from meat and fish to veggies. It can reach up to 450° with smart temperature control, so you can carefully choose the right temp for whatever it is you're grilling – high heat for searing meat, low temps for grilling pizza, for example. It's also easy to clean up. So... Read more »

Other websites contain reviews of Applicant's commercial product and refer to it by the mark Power Smokeless Grill, often also showing an image of Applicant's product and containing a link to purchase the product from an online retailer. Examples are shown in Exhibit Z<sup>24</sup> (printout from healthykitchen101.com), Exhibit AA<sup>25</sup> (printout from grillsplanet.com), and Exhibit BB<sup>26</sup> (printout from youreallneedthis.co). The connection between the Mark and Applicant's product is unmistakable.

<sup>24</sup> Exhibit Z was submitted as Exhibit I to the filing on August 26, 2020.

<sup>25</sup> Exhibit AA was submitted as Exhibit J to the filing on August 26, 2020.

<sup>26</sup> Exhibit BB was submitted as Exhibit K to the filing on August 26, 2020.

Each of the above websites refers to Applicant's product using the Mark and confirms the author's, commenter's, or newscaster's understanding that the mark POWER SMOKELESS GRILL refers to Applicant's product, not smokeless electric grills in general.

The distinctiveness of POWER in Applicant's POWER SMOKELESS GRILL is further bolstered by Applicant's family of POWER-based marks in the field of cooking products. Specifically, Applicant owns the following registrations for marks prominently featuring POWER<sup>29</sup> for use in connection with kitchen products:

Mark	Listing of Goods
POWER AIRFRYER XL (stylized)  Reg. No.: 5183580 Serial No.: 87106791	Int'l Class 11: air fryers; electric fryers
POWER PRESSURE COOKER XL (stylized)  Reg. No.: 4875633 Serial No.: 86439531	Int'l Class 11: domestic kitchen appliance, namely, an electric combination sauce pan, steamer, slow cooker, cooking pot, rice cooker, dutch oven, pressure cooker, braiser, and stock pot

<sup>28</sup> Exhibit DD was submitted as Exhibit M to the filing on August 26, 2020.

<sup>29</sup> While "Power" is a disclaimed term in the registrations, such disclaimer "shall not prejudice or affect the applicant's or registrant's rights then existing or thereafter arising in the disclaimed matter, or his right of registration on another application if the disclaimed matter be or shall have become distinctive of his goods or services." 15 U.S.C. 1056(b).

Certificates of Registration for each of the foregoing marks are attached hereto as Exhibits EE through KK.<sup>30</sup>

Applicant had already spent nearly one-hundred million dollars by June 2019<sup>31</sup> promoting its products under the POWER family of marks, and it has enjoyed considerable sales success. The public recognizes Applicant's use of POWER as a symbol of origin, specifically identifying Applicant's numerous houseware products and the goodwill Applicant has generated in association with such goods. The term POWER features prominently in Applicant's POWER SMOKELESS GRILL Mark, appearing as the first word in the mark, consistent with the prior registrations identified above. Applicant has a pending application for POWERXL (Serial No. 88705671) in connection with kitchen goods in Class 007 and Class 011 which was recently approved for publication under Section 2(F) after a showing of acquired distinctiveness.

In view of the foregoing evidence, Applicant submits that the Mark has acquired distinctiveness in the minds of consumers. Accordingly, Applicant respectfully requests that the Board reverse the refusal under Section 2(e)(1).

IV. CONCLUSION

Tristar's Mark is not generic. Rather, it is capable of distinguishing Tristar's goods and has acquired distinctiveness. Therefore, Applicant respectfully requests the Board to overturn the Examining Attorney's refusal.

<sup>30</sup> Exhibits EE through KK were submitted as Exhibits M through S to Applicant's filing on June 21, 2019.

Power

come on like gangbusters To burst upon the scene with noisy exuberance; to come on with great power or force; to be officious or overbearing at first meeting. This expression derives from the blaring sound effects that opened a 1936 radio program called Gangbusters. These included the sounds of marching feet, machine-gun fire, and a screaming siren.

money talks Wealth means power; almost anything can be secured with money. This expression alludes to the way money and its procurement direct one's life, as well as to the automatic respect and deference given to the wealthy by the less affluent.

the powers that be The authorities; a group or individual exercising complete control and having the power to make decisions affecting large numbers of people. This phrase is Biblical in origin.

For there is no power but of God: the powers that be are ordained of God. (Romans 13:1)

It is implied that "the powers that be" are impersonal and inaccessible.

pull rank To make use of one's higher status in order to obtain a desired objective. This expression originated in the armed forces, where one of subordinate rank must comply absolutely with the orders of a superior. The term is now also applied to civilians, particularly in describing certain employeremployee interactions. In either case, the expression usually suggests the unexpected or unfair use of authority in resolving a dilemma or in demanding submission.

throw one's weight around To exert one's influence inappropriately or unfairly, to pull strings; to lord it over subordinates, to pull rank. Weight, meaning 'power or influence,' probably derives from the advantage of added pounds or extra weight in contact sports.

Power Smokeless Grill Reviews

November 8, 2019 by Marie Adler

So you want to grill up a couple of steaks or veggies, but it's too cold inside to do it.

Under no circumstances should you take your outdoor grill inside. Traditional grills put off a lot of smoke, which is very harmful to those with asthma or other breathing problems. When you're outside, the fresh air can clear the smoke away—but indoors, you're susceptible to carbon monoxide poisoning.

But don't worry—your grilling days aren't over just because the leaves are starting to fall! With the right smokeless grill by Power, you can enjoy your healthy, flavorful grilled foods all year long. Read on for our Power smokeless grill review.

About the Power smokeless grill

But first, what is a smokeless grill? Well, grilling allows you to use high heat to sear food to delicious, flavorful results. It's a great method for cooking veggies, steaks, chicken, fish... some grilled fruits are even quite good!

Check Price On Amazon

But when you're grilling indoors using power, the smoke from the grill is a major problem. That's why you need a Power smokeless grill. It has all the health and flavor benefits of outdoor grilling while virtually eliminating the harmful smoke that comes with it. You just plug it in, press the button to preheat the grill and fans, and cook your food at an even temperature. The result is fast, healthy, delicious dinner (or breakfast, with the interchangeable griddle plate)—and with this smokeless grill from Power, the cleanup is easy, too!

This grill is reasonably priced and offers many more features than its competitors. Keep reading to find out more about those features.

How does the Power smokeless grill work?

The Power smokeless grill depends on its Turbo-Speed Smoke Extractor Technology. Remember we said smoke was the biggest hurdle to indoor grilling? This grill's built-in fans suck all the smoke and odor out of your cooking area. Plus, it comes with a water tray underneath the grill. You'll add 2 cups of water to the tray during the easy setup process, and then the water absorbs the leftover smoke.

The result is an almost completely smokeless cooking experience which leaves behind very little residue on the dishwasher-safe grill and griddle plates. Set your food's cooking temperature, let it preheat (for only four to six minutes), cook your food, and clean up quickly. It's so easy to use! (You'll find a chart with the ideal cooking temperatures and times in your user manual.)

While you don't have to use the silicon-sealed glass lid, we do recommend it, as it will help keep a consistent cooking temperature, seal in flavor, and prevent splatter. In addition, metallic cooking utensils are not recommended; use wood or silicon spatulas to add, move, or remove your food as necessary.

Of course, this is a cooking device, and normal kitchen safety rules apply. There is a full list of operating rules in the accompanying user manual, but use common sense. For example, if you heat the grill and then put your hands in it, you'll grill your hands... and that's not usually a good idea. The grill is also not intended for use by children—especially without parental supervision. And do make sure you're cooking your food to a safe internal temperature!

Power Smokeless Grill Features

So what makes the Power smokeless grill different from other smokeless grills on the market?

Check Price On Amazon

Design & Size

At 13.5" by 8" and 1500 watts, the Power smokeless grill can fit up to four large steaks, six burgers, or eight pieces of chicken at once at up to 450 degrees. That's a lot of food!

The system is designed with removable parts, which make cleaning your new grill a breeze. A water tray sits under your grill and heating element, helping to absorb all the smoke from your food. And under that, you have the base of the grill, with the fan and its cover attached.

But the best part of this grill's design has to be the interchangeable plates. While the normal grill plate is wonderful for cooking up some meats or veggies for dinner, the griddle plate is an absolute necessity for breakfast. Cook pancakes, eggs, grilled cheese, and more using the same device you'll use for dinner later! Both grill and griddle are made from heavy duty die-cast aluminum with Ceramic-Tech nonstick coating.

This grill also comes with a glass lid to sit atop your grill plate, conveniently allowing you to monitor the progress of your meal as it's cooking. And the lid is silicon-sealed!

Oh, and did we mention the drip tray? One of the things that makes grilling such a great form of cooking is that the high temperatures melt away much of the fat within your food. All that fat goes below your grill surface into a convenient drip tray. By collecting the fat in a drip tray, you can keep it off of your food for a lean dinner, or you can use it as a base to cook gravy or another food that maintains the flavor of your meat. Is your mouth watering yet?

Turbo Speed Smoke Extractor Technology

The success of the Power smokeless grill depends on its Turbo Speed Smoke Extractor Technology. See, the amount of smoke your food gives off depends on the temperature, type of food, fat content, and anything else you put on it like spicing or marinade.

Traditional grills give off a lot of smoke, which gives your food a nice smoky flavor. You can't have all that carbon monoxide in your home, though. So the Turbo Speed Smoke Extractor steps in to remove the smoke and maintain your breathable air through two methods:

1. The fans on the bottom of the grill suck out all the smoke from the atmosphere
2. The pan of water inside the grill absorbs the remaining smoke

It's an ingenious system that you won't find on any other smokeless grill.

Setup

Setup for the Power smokeless grill couldn't be easier. Simply take it out of the box, and wash the lid, grill plates, drip trays, and collection pan with warm soapy water. You should also wipe the inside and outside of the base unit with a clean, moist cloth. Do not wash the heating element or electric fan, and do not submerge the base unit in water.

Once your new unit is nice and clean, you'll fill the water tray with about 2 cups of water and reassemble, using either your grill or griddle plate. Then you attach the power cord, set the temperature and fan, and let it preheat for 4-6 minutes. You'll go from unboxing to cooking in 30 minutes or less!

But don't worry, there isn't a quiz on this; you'll receive both a quick-start guide and a user's manual with your purchase to help you set up and maintain your new smokeless grill.

Nonstick Grilling Surface

There's a lot to love about a classic cast iron pan, but have you ever tried to clean one? Scrubbing and scraping and hand-drying a cast iron or other grill surface is an absolute pain. But not the Power smokeless grill! Both your grill and griddle surfaces are covered in Ceramic-Tech nonstick coating. Nothing will stick to the surface or leave residue behind on your grill. The non-stick surface also means you don't have to spray any oils or butter in order to cook your food, leaving a much healthier product.

Cleaning Process

One of the other huge advantages to the Power smokeless grill is that the cleaning process could not be easier. Both the griddle and grill plates are removable, meaning you can put them in the sink for easy washing (once they're cool, of course). But as an added support, you can also put these grill plates directly into the dishwasher!

You'll also want to clean out the drip tray after every use, or to save the drippings for use in other cooking. The glass lid will need washing, too.

Just be sure you unplug the device after cooking (don't just turn it off), and then wait 30 minutes before handling or cleaning.

Pros & Cons

There are so many pros to the Power smokeless grill!

- The interchangeable grill or griddle surfaces let you cook breakfast or dinner conveniently and with a delightful smoky flavor.

- Both surfaces are coated with nonstick Ceramic Tech to make cleanup a breeze.
- Many parts of this grill are also dishwasher safe.
- The Turbo Speed Smoke Extractor Technology combines high-power fans to blow away smoke with a water tray to absorb it. The result is a virtually smoke-free cooking experience.
- Using a smokeless grill can be an extremely healthy, delicious way to prepare your meals.
- Plus, it's big enough to cook a meal for the whole family!

However, it does come with a couple of cons as well.

- The Power smokeless grill goes from 220 to 450 degrees Fahrenheit. If your recipe requires more or less power than that, you'll have to adjust the cooking time.
- Some Power smokeless grill reviews suggest that the smoky taste might not be quite as strong in the indoor version as it would be with outdoor grilling, depending on what you're cooking.

Product Cost

The Power smokeless grill is available on Amazon today less than 100(click here for the latest price), and comes with free Amazon shipping. It isn't the cheapest smokeless grill you can buy on Amazon, but we take pride in that fact; the cheaper the unit, the less care and attention goes into making it. We think you'll find that this smokeless grill, unlike some of our competitors, is built to last and to live up to its promises. It's also by far not the most expensive smokeless grill, either—but we don't think the higher priced options can offer anything more than we can. Here's why.

Alternative

For an example of a higher-priced product that does not live up to the Power smokeless grill reviews, check out the Philips Smoke-less Indoor BBQ Grill, Avance Collection. Like the Power grill, this grill also boasts virtually no smoke during the cooking process. And it's a healthy way to cook, too; the fat is separated during grilling for leaner meats (or so you can save it for cooking things like gravy). It also has a removable tray for easy, dishwasher-safe cleaning.

However, even at over twice the price tag as the Power smokeless grill, this grill does not also come with an optional griddle. Plus, the grill is not non-stick, so cleanup will be much more difficult. And you can't adjust the temperature on this unit; all food cooks at the same 446 degrees Fahrenheit.

Frequently asked questions

– What is the size of the Power smokeless grill?

The Power smokeless grill is 13.5" by 8". You can cook up to four large steaks, six burgers, or eight pieces of chicken at once. Plenty of food for the whole family!

– How much is a Power smokeless grill?

The Power smokeless grill costs 89.99, with free shipping for Amazon orders. That's very comparable to other smokeless grills on the market—cheaper than many of our competitors, but not so cheap that we had to skimp on quality.

– Is the Power smokeless grill really smokeless?

Yes! Due to the Turbo Speed Smoke Extractor Technology (which combines the water pan and high-power fans, this unit will give off virtually no smoke—and far less smoke than its competitors.

Conclusion

We hope you've found this Power smokeless grill review informative and that you now feel qualified to purchase this amazing device. It can revolutionize the way you make dinners. This grill also makes an excellent gift for housewarming parties, weddings, or Christmas—whether or not the recipient is a chef. There really isn't a better option to buy a smokeless grill in 2019. Get one (or five) today!

How it's Different from Competitors

The secret to enjoying a dish every time it is prepared lies not only in cooking it to perfection but also in ensuring that this perfection stays consistent every single time. This is what separates a small-time food outlet from a high-end restaurant.

The same principle can be applied when cooking at home. However, for that, you need to have a device that is able to cope with delivering consistent results every time you use it for a particular dish. With Power Smokeless Grill, this is exactly what you can expect when you use it to grill your favorite food. Every single time you grill food, no matter what food it is, you will always be able to enjoy the same delicious final product time and time again.

One of the main reasons for this level of consistency is the fact that the heating plate is closely regulated by an LED temperature regulator that allows heating up to as much as 450 degrees. This LED device is able to control the heat distribution in such a brilliantly smart manner that the entire grilling surface is always evenly heated at a uniform temperature without any hot spots whatsoever.

Features

★ Excellent Capacity

When it comes to cooking and baking food, it is important to be able to cook sufficient food at one time for the entire family. It can become rather tedious if you have to cook two batches of a particular dish just because a single portion cooked is not sufficient for your family.

With Power Smokeless Grill, this need not be a concern as this device is well-equipped to cook sufficient food for the entire family at one go. For instance, you should quite easily be able to grill around six burgers at once or even four regular steaks instead. This is simply due to the fact that this device has a grilling surface that is larger than the usual conventional size.

★ Smoke Extractor Technology

When food is cooked there is bound to be some amount of smoke and/or steam that is released into the air around the area where the food is being cooked. No matter how much one tries to cook on as low a temperature as possible, this is something that is certainly extremely difficult to avoid with conventional cooking devices.

However, this is not exactly the case with Power Smokeless Grill. Even though the device itself does minimize the amount of smoke created by the grilling, it cannot totally eliminate all of it. That is the reason why this grilling device is fitted with smoke extraction technology that makes use of a turbo-speed fan in conjunction with AirFlow technology to remove virtually all of the built-up smoke inside.

★ Ceramic Surface

Grilling on a surface that is porous and not specially treated to make it non-stick can prove to be quite an unwise decision, especially when food gets stuck or burnt to its surface.

For this very same reason, Power Smokeless Grill chose to employ a ceramic grilling surface that is completely non-stick and won't allow your food to stick to it that easily. Thus, you will see a massive reduction in the amount of time you would otherwise have had to spend cleaning the surface of a conventional grill.

Benefits

★ Drip-free Grilling

Having your grilling device causing a pool of oil collected on the surface below it can be a massive put off, causing you to even be discouraged from using the grill again. Oil and fat collected over your work surface can be a nightmare to clean, besides the fact that it could steal away your precious time too.

Having a tray that is built to trap and collect all the residual oil from your grilling can be a lifesaver. That is precisely why Power Smokeless Grill is fitted with one in order to save you hassle and time. Once you finish grilling and the whole device has cooled down, all you need to do is get rid of the oil from your drip tray and put it straight into your dishwasher.

★ Professional Results

When it comes to cooking at home, we usually are not too worried about how the food looks or how it feels to the touch. All that usually matters is whether it tastes good, and even that is not too much of a concern if the food is still palatable. However, the manufacturers of Power Smokeless Grill felt that the consumers of this product shouldn't necessarily have to settle for anything less than what is used by the professionals in a high-quality restaurant.

As such, when you use this grilling device to grill your food you will have food of the quality that is nothing less than a high-street fine-dining restaurant. The food will always be cooked precisely the same way every time, and it will also look like it has been professionally grilled by a restaurant chef, with grill marks and the authentic 'grilled' look.

Save Time

Just like in every walk of life in this highly industrialized age, even in the kitchen, the amount of time spent cooking means that much less time available for other critically important tasks and responsibilities.

With this in mind, the device's manufacturers made sure you won't need to lose time waiting for Power Smokeless Grill to heat up just so you could start grilling. This grill has been constructed using cast aluminum that is heavy duty enough to heat up much faster than the more conventional grills out there in the market. This ability of the grill to rapidly heat helps reduce waiting times in a very significant manner and makes the cooking experience a more pleasurable one.

Save Money

When it comes to purchasing online, the primary reason why most of us do so is in order to save that extra bit of cost involved in purchasing from a physical outlet. With that in mind, paying for shipping is the last thing an online shopper is interested in. The good news is this product comes with free shipping.

And unlike charcoal, gas or propane grills, most smokeless barbecue grills are electric, safe to use both outdoors and indoors. This gives you the added benefit of year-round cooking.

When talking about the best indoor grill for barbecue, there's going to be a lot of opinions. After all, there are small contact grills like the one George Foreman makes, there are stand-alone grills that look like the real thing, but rely on electricity, and there are other options such as rotisserie smokers, skewered smokers, and other contraptions modeled after traditional barbecue and grilling recipes and methods.

When people think of an electric grill, they often think of the George Foreman grill, but today, there's a lot more involved than the tabletop grill. Many popular models look and feel just like an open-flame grill, and offer the authentic taste of smoked cooking. As they say, technology is grand! This article will go over some of the best products for cooking smoking BBQ today.

smoke. You'll get juicy steaks, chops and burgers on this grill, too. The high searing temperature will make it easy to sear even fish with precision, locking in the juices and adding that authentic barbecue taste. This particular model has a window so that you can watch as the food simmers. Otherwise, the temperature controls are pretty basic. There's an indicator light that tells you when it has heated up — and preheating can take as long as 10 minutes.

- Because this is a larger model, it comes with a larger drip tray to catch your excess oils and fat. As far as clean up, you can easily remove the drip tray, and the manual says that the trays are all dishwasher safe. If you're like me, however, you'll wash it manually. Manual washing makes nonstick materials last longer. Use a sponge to scrub it gently.

Smokeless Indoor Grill #3:

Philips HD6371/94 Indoor Grill

- With this smokeless indoor grill, Philips entered the smokeless "charcoal" grill market with an impressive first model. Although it runs on electricity instead of charcoal, it mimics the charcoal cooking pretty well. It uses advanced infrared technology in its heating components to make it very "charcoally".
- It will cook all of your food evenly. If you're looking for a smokeless electric indoor grill, this is a great choice for intermediate grill masters and experts alike.

- This is a great place for beginners to start. Just use some light oil and fit the grill/griddle on top of your stove burners. ## Questions to Ask When Buying a Smokeless Indoor Grill:

When buying a smokeless indoor grill, there are a few things you should think about. Not all indoor grills are alike. Here are a few questions you should ask if you're shopping around:

- Does the grill have an on/off switch or knob, or do you have to unplug it from the wall to turn it off? Avoid models that don't have the switch – there's simply too much danger of a fire.
- Does the grill really get hot enough to grill meat? Typically, a grill with 1,000 to 1,500 watts is powerful enough to cook meat until it browns or sear it, but lower temperatures will cook your meat but slowly, losing the texture of grilling in the process and making it softer.
- Are there removable grill plates? If you're cooking raw meat, this feature makes it much easier to get things clean. Go for removable grill plates whenever you can so they can be cleaned thoroughly.

How to Use a Non Stick Grill Pan

When cooking on a smokeless stovetop barbecue grill, and other types of grill pans, there are a few things that you need to consider. Safety always comes first, so remember to wear your oven gloves when you're cooking with a non-stick grill pan for the first time.

You'll need to lightly oil the surface where you'll be cooking, start at a low temperature and wait about 5-10 minutes; depending on what temperature you've chosen.

Here are a 3 questions to ask when you're cooking with a non-stick grill pan:

- When you're placing it, does it fit tightly over your burners? Take it back to the shop if it moves easily when you fit place it on. It may move while you're cooking, and that's too dangerous, especially if you're dealing with oil.
- Does the oil splash too easily? If so, you'll need to turn the temperature down and try cooking at a slower temperature instead. If this isn't acceptable to you, it's time to find a different model.
- Did you remember to cook some veggies? It's a legitimate question. Most people use these grills for meat only, but it's important to have some vegetables too. Stovetop grills make a great platform for grilling Brussels sprouts, tomatoes, and other vegetables.

Electric Grills Are Here to Stay

Smokeless indoor grills are very popular, especially among the "responsible bachelor" crowd that cooks and cleans. Foodies in college often resort to contact grills like the George Foreman, due to the lack of space and time in their lives. This is where many people fall in love with grilling.

An electric grill is a great way to make your grilling hobby work in a tight space. You can live in a small apartment but still grill up fish, steak, and veggies that are highly flavorful. Many people fall in love with indoor grilling for its convenience and ability to make flavorful cooking in just a matter of minutes.

Best Smokeless Grill in 2019 [Buying Guide + Top 5]

Outdoor grilling is not always possible for a variety of reasons – from housing regulations to apartment living or limited backyard space. ## Our Top 5 In-Depth

If you're craving more info, here are our in-depth write-ups for each of our top 5 best smokeless grills:

1. Philips Smoke-less Indoor Grill Review

SALE

Philips Smoke-less Indoor BBQ Grill, Avance Collection

from $219.99

Our top spot goes to the Smoke-less Indoor Grill from Philips, which utilizes infrared technology to ensure even heat distribution during cooking. This model prevents drips from coming into contact with the heating element, reflecting heat from the element towards the food. The cool drip tray catches any fat or marinade, minimizing the amount of smoke produced. At roughly 15 pounds, moving this grill around and storing it away, if necessary, are no problem.

Easy to use, this grill has a single switch with 3 settings – off, hot, and keep warm. When cooking, the grill heats up to 446°F and maintains itself at that temperature. This means you can focus on grilling your food to perfection rather than fussing with the temperature controls. Clean up is also a breeze with the aluminum-coated grill and drip tray, both of which are easily removed and dishwasher safe. The aluminum-coated surface keeps the heat even and produces grill marks that you would achieve on a standard outdoor grill.

This grill has rubber feet, so you won't have to worry about it sliding around. Note that there's also a rotisserie attachment available, which provides constant rotation for perfectly roasted meats and vegetables.

One negative is the lack of a lid. While it's designed to minimize side splatter, some counter cleanup may be required depending on what you're cooking (and how much).

2. Tenergy Redigrill Smokeless Infrared Grill Review

Tenergy Redigrill Smoke-Less Infrared Grill, Indoor Grill, Heating Electric Tabletop Grill, Non-Stick Easy to Clean BBQ Grill, for Party/Home, ETL Certified

$179.99

Another grill utilizing advanced infrared technology, the Redigrill from Tenergy uses indirect infrared heat to provide even temperature across the grill surface. This ensures no cold spots. The easily removable drip tray is kept away from the heat, staying cool enough to catch fats and marinades before they burn and produce smoke.

Like the Philips grill above, this Redigrill has just a couple cooking options – hot and keep warm. It will heat up to 446° F in 6 minutes. This is considered to be the ideal indoor grilling temperature, and again this matches the Philips model. This temperature is constantly maintained, so you won't have to worry about the grill getting too hot or cold.

With a non-stick grill and easily removed drip tray, the Redigrill is easy to clean and is largely dishwasher safe. This particular model is also designed with safety in mind, considering it is designed for use indoors. The grill is certified safe by North American ETL standards and has an automatic shut off should the internal grill temperature get too high.

3. Power Smokeless Grill Review

Power Smokeless Grill with Tempered Glass Lid with Interchangeable Griddle Plate and Turbo Speed Smoke Extractor Technology

$119.99

With a grilling surface of almost 14 inches by 8 inches, the Power Smokeless Grill has enough space to evenly cook 6 large burgers or 3 racks of ribs at a time. Grill size alone makes this model one of the best for cooking for a larger group. Featuring a Super Non-Stick Cerami-Tech Coating, you can rest assured nothing will stick. No extra oils are required, meaning a healthier end result.

This Power grill has an LED Smart Temperature Control panel, offering fully customizable heat settings and maintenance up to 450°F. Precise temperature control allows for even heat distribution and foods cooked to your exact liking. The removable grill makes clean-up a breeze as it is dishwasher safe, and offers versatility as it is easily exchanged with the included griddle – perfect for pancakes, eggs, and grilled cheese sandwiches.

Offering built-in Turbo Smoke Extraction, this model is virtually smokeless. The extractor captures and extracts nearly all of the smoke produced by falling fats and moisture. Weighing just over 17 pounds, this slightly larger grill is still extremely portable if need be, though it takes up a little more counter space. With the addition of a dishwasher-safe tempered glass lid, you can keep your work area free from splatters while cooking.

4. KRUPS PG760851 Electric Indoor Adjustable Temperature Smokeless Grill Review

SALE

KRUPS PG760851 Electric Indoor Adjustable Temperature Smokeless Grill w/Non-Stick Cooking Surface and Dishwasher Safe Removable Drip Tray, Black

$108.99

The KRUPS Smokeless Indoor Grill offers 2 cooking areas which can be heated separately to different temperatures. This model offers the versatility of a larger, traditional grill on a smaller scale. Each grill area has an independent control switch, enabling you to cook different foods without fear of under- or over-cooking. The control panel allows for warm, low, medium, high, and sear temperatures, with a range of 200°F to 450°F. Each individual control panel has two indicator lights – one to show the grill is on, and one to show it has reached the set temperature.

Edge-to-edge heating elements make sure every inch of the non-stick grill surface is heated evenly and to the correct temperature. While some smoke is expected due to moisture dripping from the grill, most of it is directed away. Both the individual grill plates and the drip tray are removable and dishwasher safe for quick and easy clean-up.

Weighing just 10 pounds, this smokeless grill is lightweight and portable. It makes a great addition for camping or tailgating. This model also includes a handy cord wrap on the back of the grill, keeping the cord safely stored while not in use.

5. Hamilton Beach Electric Indoor Searing Grill Review

Hamilton Beach 25360 Indoor Searing Grill with Removable Easy-to-Clean Nonstick Plate, Extra-Large Drip Tray, Stainless Steel

from $68.99

The lightest on our list, this grill from Hamilton Beach weighs just over 8 pounds. Using only 1200 watts, this grill is easily transportable and perfect for cooking in an RV, in addition to the kitchen. While it's smaller than some other indoor grills, it still offers an adequate 118-square inches of grill space.

Controlled with a switch, this grill offers temperatures ranging from 200°F to 450°F. This allows you to precisely control the temperature, depending on what you grill. At its hottest, food is given a beautiful sear, much like on a traditional outdoor grill.

Heat retention and overall food flavor are boosted by the included hood, which is easily removed for cleaning. The hood also prevents splattering on your countertops. Cleverly designed, the heating element is the grill surface itself, providing even heat distribution. This reduces smoke through contact and any fat or marinade is caught by the extra-large drip tray below.

All removable parts are dishwasher safe for easy clean up after use. This model features an on-off light and pre-heat light to let you know when the set temperature has been reached. Compact and easy to carry, this potentially portable grill is also easy to store if you don't have much counter space.

What Exactly Is a Smokeless Grill?

While traditional grills use burning fuels like propane, charcoal, and wood pellets to cook food, a smokeless grill works differently. Powered by electricity, smokeless grills often use infrared technology and reflective coatings. They are typically built so that fat and other drippings don't fall onto hot areas. And while they greatly minimize smoke, especially compared to a traditional outdoor grill, they are not 100% smoke-free. Just like when you're cooking on your stove, a minimal amount of smoke is inevitable when cooking at 400°+ degrees.

How Do Smokeless Grills Work?

On a typical grill, fats and other liquids cause smoke and flare-ups when they drip onto the fuel source below. Smokeless grills combat this in a couple of different ways. The first is by using infrared technology and carefully placed reflective surfaces. The heat from the infrared source is reflected towards the food rather than positioned directly under it. This allows moisture drops to fall on a cool collection plate rather than the heating element itself. While fattier cuts and heavily marinated foods will still smoke a little, this setup greatly reduces the amount of smoke produced.

Another way smokeless grills reduce flares is by using an electric heating element beneath the grill. Carefully designed to ensure even heating, the placement of the element beneath the grill reduces the amount of moisture that comes into contact with it. This subsequently reduces the amount of smoke produced as well. Some smokeless grills have a built-in extractor fan, which also helps.

What to Look for When Choosing the Best Smokeless Grill

Temperature Control

Do you want complete control of your grill's temperature, or are you okay with a simple on/off setting? Some grills on our list have only a couple cooking settings ('hot' and 'keep warm'), while others allow complete control. When choosing a smokeless grill, make sure you're getting the level of control that you want.

Ease of Cleaning

With no burning fuel, clean-up should be much easier with a smokeless grill. Many models offer removable drip trays for any fat or marinades that fall. More often than not, the grill surface itself has a non-stick material coating, like ceramic or aluminum. While many models tout their removable parts as dishwasher friendly, you should bear in mind that non-stick surfaces last longer when hand-washed.

Size, Weight, and Portability

Some smokeless grills are considerably larger than others. And here's a tip: they can be much larger than they look in the photos. It's advisable to measure the counter area where you plan on keeping your grill, and compare it to the dimensions of the model(s) you're interested in.

Weight, on the other hand, probably won't be much of an issue for you. For example, the heaviest grill on this page is still under 20 pounds. If you need to store away your grill, moving it won't be a chore. The weights of these smokeless grills also mean that they are suitable for tailgating, camping, or RV use.

Summing Things Up

It is hard to beat the Philips Smoke-less Indoor Grill. Even heat distribution, simple operation, and easy cleaning make it our #1 choice. However, the Redigrill from Tenergy is a quality substitute, perhaps lacking only in appearance compared to the Philips model. If you're looking for a smaller grill, the lightweight Hamilton Beach Indoor Grill is an excellent option. Love cooking for larger gatherings? The grill area of the Power Smokeless Grill gives you so much space to cook. Lastly, for the temperature versatility of a larger grill, the KRUPS Smokeless Indoor Grill is a top choice.

Have experience with any of these grills? Any questions about them? As always, don't hesitate to let me know in the comments below.

Barbecues can be done in an easy and healthy manner, while you can also avoid all the fume emission into your home or apartment. Apart from their convenience and easy maintenance, indoor grills come with many more positives. Here are a few of the favors that you could enjoy if using this type of appliance.

Facility – Grilling inside is definitely a fast and easy task contrary to outdoor barbecues. Lighting charcoal or wood for cooking can take a lot of time and space. Owning an indoor cooking device will help you make all your favorite steaks and grilled vegetables quickly and practically, at your own home.

Less clutter – Let's face it, everyone wants to cook without making a mess! Now, this can be possible by using this appliance. Prep and cleaning are much easier inside than an outdoor barbecue. An indoor barbecue can be quickly set up and does not require wood or charcoal, so there is clearly, less chaos and less clean up. After using it, just put it in the sink and you will finish the task immediately. Luckily, most of the brands on the market have designed their products by being dishwasher safe, which is even better.

Easy heat control – Controlling the cooking heat is as easy as adjusting your burner heat or turning an electric knob. While controlling the heat on a wood-burning or charcoal grill can be difficult and slow, inside you can do it immediately.

Various options – There are a lot of types of grills on the market you can choose from. Obviously, each of them has its own characteristics and peculiarities. For instance, there are simple stovetop pans which you throw on your burner and start searing. Moreover, there are those countertop ovens which make roasting a chicken or lamb a breeze. Prepare all your favorite meats and veggies in a healthier and smoke-less manner.

Grilled sandwiches – As mentioned above, having to do with a variety of choices, some of the grills can also act as sandwich makers. For instance, you can make yourself Italian panini sandwiches, and French sandwiches. These two usually require a two-sided sandwich press, but now they can be easily done with this type of cooking device.

Recipes variety – Versatility is the term that best describes indoor searing. Almost everything that can be prepared on an outdoor grill, can be prepared on an indoor one, too. Actually, consider that sandwiches cannot be really prepared on a charcoal-broil. Plus, you can make finely chopped vegetables that would fall through the grates of an outdoor grill.

Indoor environment – Yes, you can stay indoors! There are people who do not really enjoy the outdoor environment, especially during summertime when there are a lot of insects and bugs. On the other hand, the weather might be bad sometimes. This way, you can enjoy grilling no matter the season or other impediments.

Conclusion

About Power Smokeless Grill

By DEREK LAKIN, HighYa Staff

Published on: Jul 2, 2018

Using AirFlow Technology with a built-in smoke extracting fan, the Power Smokeless Grill promises to help you cook just about anything—eggs, pancakes, bacon, steaks, seafood, chicken, burgers, vegetables, Paninis; you name it—while virtually eliminating all hot, smoky air.

Additional features include a heavy-duty die-cast aluminum construction, an extra-large (13.5" X 8") cooking surface covered in Cerami-Tech non-stick coating and a removable heating element that delivers 1,200 watts of cooking power for temperatures up to 450°F, with no hot spots.

Its grill and griddle plates are interchangeable, the drip tray/collection pan catches excess fat while you're cooking, and you can keep an eye on your food using the stainless tempered glass cook-n-look lid. The power cord is also detachable for easier storage.

Except for the cord, base, fan, and heating element, all of Power Smokeless Grill's parts are detachable and dishwasher safe for easy cleanup.

Together, the manufacturer advertises that you can grill your favorite foods to perfection all year round, regardless of the weather. In fact, they explicitly claim that Power Smokeless Grill will deliver "the convenience of indoor grilling, with outdoor results."

Advertising claims aside, let's help you figure out if it's worth handing over your hard-earned money for this model, or if you should consider versions from third-party manufacturers—starting with its basic functionality.

How Does the Power Smokeless Grill Work?

We didn't test it ourselves, but according to the website, you'll start by removing Power Smokeless Grill's drip tray, heating element, and grill plate. Then, add about two cups of water to the water tray/collection pan and reassemble.

After making sure the unit is resting on a flat surface (otherwise, it can cause the grease to leak out) and inserting the detachable power cord, you'll touch the 'Fan' button to turn it on, and then the 'Power' button to activate the heating element.

Using the LED smart temperature control, you'll press the up or down arrows to toggle the heat settings, and you're ready to start adding your favorite foods and grilling indoors.

As Power Smokeless Grill grills your food, Turbo Speed Smoke Extractor Technology is said to create a "vacuum-like environment, which pulls smoke down through the vent into the unit, so the smoke does not escape into the air." Instead, it's channeled into the water contained in the collection tray.

At the same time, we're told food particles like grease and other airborne molecules are trapped, while the water helps cool the smoke and eliminates almost all of it from the system. This way, they advertise it won't smoke up your kitchen, or the air in the rest of your home.

When you're done, press the 'Fan' and 'Power' buttons to turn each off.

Although the grill and griddle plates, lid, drip pan, and water tray are dishwasher safe (you can also hand wash), the manufacturer emphasizes that you'll want to let Power Smokeless Grill cool down before cleaning.

Here, we can see each of Power Smokeless Grill's parts, which are removable for quick and easy cleaning. Credit: Tristar Products, Inc.

If cleaned in the dishwasher, they point out you'll want to avoid using lemon-scented detergent, while hand-washers should never use scouring pans, abrasive pads, or harsh cleaners. Instead, they recommend using a nylon bristle brush or plastic scrubbing pad.

The base unit should be washed using a damp cloth, warm water, and mild cleaning liquid. The electric fan is removable if you require a more thorough cleaning.

Outside of these, the manufacturer points out that you should always avoid using metallic utensils, as well as cutting food on the grill plate using sharp metal utensils like knives and forks.

Always use potholders or kitchen mitts when handling the unit, and keep your fingers, face, and unprotected skin away from its hot surfaces while cooking.

How Much Does the Power Smokeless Grill Cost and Where Can You Buy It?

If purchased directly from Tristar, Power Smokeless Grill is priced at three payments of $39.95, plus free S&H, for a total of $119.85. In addition to the grill and lid, you'll also receive two recipe books.

During checkout, you can add a 9.5" Copper Chef Pan, 2-piece Copper Chef knife set, Grill & Bake Mats, or 4-piece utensil set for a total of three payments of $59.95.

Tristar Products offers a 60-day money-back guarantee on all Power Smokeless Grill purchases, less S&H. To request one, customer support can be reached at 973-287-5108.

Just keep in mind that at more than 15 pounds, it might cost more than a few dollars to ship the grill back to the manufacturer.

Note: During our research, we also found Power Smokeless Grill available on Amazon for $124.99, which was eligible for free shipping for Prime members. Several customers also responded that this model doesn't feature the griddle plate or cookbooks.

What Can We Learn from Power Smokeless Grill Customer Reviews?

On Amazon, more than 20 customers had given Power Smokeless Grill an average rating of 4.7 stars.

There, common compliments related to versatility (it can cook a wide variety of foods), effectiveness (significantly reduced smoke, good-tasting results, actual grill marks, etc.), and quality construction.

The single complaint related to difficulty obtaining a replacement for a damaged lid.

Power Smokeless Grill vs. Other Indoor Smokeless Electric Grills

Although we encountered plenty of third-party electric grill/griddle combos during our research on sites like Amazon and Google Shopping, there were meaningfully fewer smokeless models.

Of these, many shared the same core features advertised by Power Smokeless Grill, including countertop functionality, drip pans, non-stick grilling surfaces, adjustable temperatures, dishwasher safe grills/griddles, quickly disassembly for easy cleaning, and even heating and temperature distribution.

Here were some of the more popular search results:

Model	Price	Cooking Surface Dimensions	Standout Features
Power Smokeless Grill	$120	13.5" X 8"	1,200 watts, interchangeable grill/griddle plates, heats up to 450°F
Gotham Steel Smokeless Electric Grill	$60 (Original), $70 (Large)	12" x 10" (Original), 14" x 9" (Large)	Only 4 temp settings (warm, low, medium, high), no griddle plate
Philips Smoke-less Indoor Grill	$230	21.8" x 13.5" (total – no dimensions listed for grilling surface)	1,660 watts; patented design for faster, even heating
Chefman Electric Smokeless Indoor Grill	$50	13.5" x 8.5"	1,120 watts, overheat auto shut-off protection, 3 heat zones on grilling surface (low, medium, high)
Chef's Choice Indoor Smokeless Electric Grill	$150	14 5/8" x 9 5/8"	1,500 watts, cast iron grill plates

As with most other products, choosing the best option is going to start out by deciding on a comfortable budget. After all, as we can see from the examples above, some models are priced almost five times higher than others.

Sharone Stela at TheIndoorGrill.com explains that the number of features you'll have access to with any smokeless grill is often proportional to your budget.

This typically includes the overall size (and therefore the cooking capacity), as well as higher-end features like automatic temperature control and wattage:

“Wattage is the main factor for cooking food, and an indoor grill's price also depends on its wattage. Lower wattage is cost-effective, but this also means it takes longer to cook food. On the other hand, higher wattage models will cook food quickly, but are costly.

“From my practical experience, I can tell you that 1,200 watts is perfect for indoor grilling.”

Another factor to consider is that some models feature incremental heating, which can provide a broader range of cooking temperatures, depending on your needs. On the other hand, models like

Power Smokeless Grill only feature four different heat settings (warm, low, medium, and high).

From a non-stick perspective, many models will feature traditional PTFE-based coatings, while others, like Power Smokeless, use a ceramic alternative. In general, customers of other brands often report that ceramic coatings are initially better, but tend to lose their non-stickiness faster than PTFE.

Our Bottom Line on the Power Smokeless Grill

At about $120, Power Smokeless Grill comes in at a middle-of-the-road price point compared to popular competitors, is manufactured by a company who's been in business for a couple of decades, and features the same Cerami-Tech coating as the Copper Chef cookware line, including the original Pan, Copper Crisper, and Brooklyn Brownie Copper Pan (to name just a few).

In addition, it comes with many essential features like a see-through tempered glass lid, adjustable temperature, removable parts (many of which are dishwasher safe), as well as 1,200 watts of cooking power.

Tristar also seem to stand behind the smokeless grill with a 60-day refund policy if you're dissatisfied. Just remember that it's about 15 pounds, which might be expensive to ship back, depending on your location.

Disappointed

By Cheryl B., Claverack, NY, Nov 1, 2019

Verified Reviewer

I purchased the Smokeless Grill back in April 2019. Today it stopped working. I didn't purchase a service contract, but I would expect something that costs over $200 would work more than under 6 months. It was used that much maybe 1 or twice every 2 or 3 weeks. Very disappointed in the company and product.

Customer service experience

By Linda C., Park Ridge, NJ, Oct 18, 2019

Verified Reviewer

Purchased the grill in July along with the protection plan they offer.

While washing the glass lid in the sink recently the handle came loose and the silicone gasket and screw fell down the drain. I called customer service twice. Spoke with Monique, a supervisor. She could not help me. She told me I had to buy an entire new lid which costs $24.99 because they cannot replace a gasket which costs probably $0.32! She was nasty, rude. I told her this was unacceptable. She told me do what you have to do. She refused to give me the name of her manager or who puts the unit together. They want me to spend $25.00 for an item that costs 32 cents!

Bottom Line: No, I would not recommend this to a friend

Horrible customer service

By Lillian J., Texas, Oct 12, 2019

I purchased and it broke before the warranty was out. Called the company and they started acting like I did something to it. After a 30-minute grilling on how to use it and acting like I was a total moron, they finally agreed to replace it. At my expense. UPS shipping is $50 ground or $115 air...REALLY? So I now have a 2-month-old broken useless smokeless grill.

Bottom Line: No, I would not recommend this to a friend

3 strikes and you are out

By Anne K., Rhode Island, Sep 22, 2019

Verified Reviewer

I purchased my Power Smokeless Grill as an early Father's Day gift for my partner. I figured it would be good to use during bad weather or when the wind was too strong for our gas grill to function properly. Well, tonight I took it out to use for the third time and it will not work. I can't find a number to call to assist me in trouble shooting the grill. Everyone seems to love this grill. I think it is an expensive bust. If anyone can assist me I would appreciate it.

Nightmare on Elm Street

By Lois P., Mississippi, Aug 27, 2019

I bought a Power Smokeless grill in April when we moved to the country. It was broke on arrival, so I don't know how it worked, could never get it to turn on. I immediately called them and wanted to return it, which they were supposed to send me a return label. Never did. After SEVERAL calls never got a response. Yesterday I got a letter from a collection agency for the balance. They want me to pay it IN FULL then try and get a full refund for it from the company. NOT GOING TO HAPPEN. Customer service told me just now, sorry, nothing we can do. I can, DON'T EVER TRY this piece, there is NO WARRANTY OR GUARANTEE, and they don't care if your credit is affected. Read reviews first!

This has been a lifesaver!

By Christie B., Allensville, NC, Aug 16, 2019

I love grilled food, even built a new 15x24 back deck with all the goodies and new grill, used 3 times. My brain tumor came back, and I received another dangerous, incurable diagnosis and I can longer regulate my temperature. My husband bought me this grill for indoors. I was mad! I didn't need another appliance! There's no way the food would taste as good as an outdoor! I WAS SO WRONG! We throw frozen burgers on, 5-6 on each side, most delicious, juicy burgers ever, we even tried 2" thick filet mignon that we treat ourselves with every week and it's better than when I use the cast iron pan (Gordon Ramsey would beat me, lol). And the days I'm struggling to eat during my treatment, I can easily grill myself delicious vegetables and fruit kabobs. Now I just need a griddle top! It didn't come with ours.

Disappointed and disgusted

By Nelly L., Dallas, TX, Aug 13, 2019

Verified Reviewer

I ordered a Power Smokeless Grill on 06/08/2019. After trying it 3 times, I was so disappointed with the product and I returned it for a refund.

I called the customer returns department, and an associate offered me $50.00 to keep it. This automatically told me that they know the product is not worth the money that they sell it for. The associate also told me to keep the bonus breakfast kit so I don't pay more shipping and handling.

I end up losing $56.00 for shipping and handling.

I also lost $25.00 that they charged me for the breakfast kit.

The associate in no shape or form told me that I had to pay for that. He told me don't worry, just keep it so you don't have to pay shipping and handling.

Bottom line, I'm disgusted with how they stole my money and will continue stealing money from people.

Terrible

By Diane B., Pennsylvania, Jul 16, 2019

I bought this because the indoor grill I was using made the house smoky. Well, I have used it three times now and it is NOT smoke-free! My whole house got smoky that I could not see or breath! The house smelled for days. The only good thing is that it did grill the food very well, other than that it was a piece of crap. If I didn't throw the box away I would return it. It definitely was not worth the money I spent!

I just received my Power Smokeless Grill and before I used it I was reading all the bad reviews and thought that I made a bad choice, but I have started to use it and I am so happy with this product and glad I did not listen to all the negative reviews. Thanks for the product...

My Power Smokeless Grill Video Review

How it's Different from Competitors

The secret to enjoying a dish every time it is prepared lies not only in cooking it to perfection but also in ensuring that this perfection stays consistent every single time. This is what separates a small-time food outlet from a high-end restaurant.

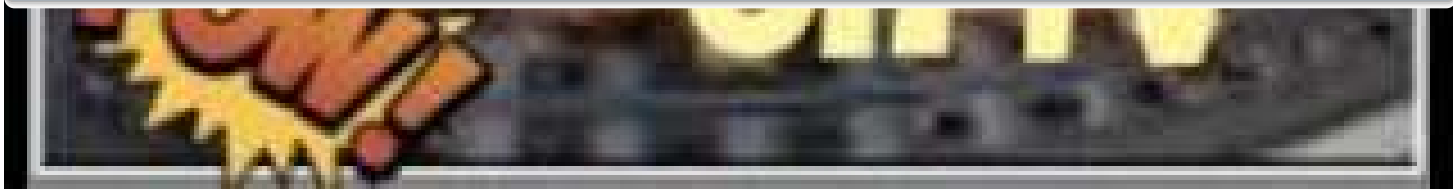

The same principle can be applied when cooking at home. However, for that, you need to have a device that is able to cope with delivering consistent results every time you use it for a particular dish. With Power Smokeless Grill, this is exactly what you can expect when you use it to grill your favorite food. Every single time you grill food, no matter what food it is, you will always be able to enjoy the same delicious final product time and time again.

One of the main reasons for this level of consistency is the fact that the heating plate is closely regulated by an LED temperature regulator that allows heating up to as much as 450 degrees. This LED device is able to control the heat distribution in such a brilliantly smart manner that the entire grilling surface is always evenly heated at a uniform temperature without any hot spots whatsoever.

Power Smokeless Grill Unboxing and First Use Review

Dust Daddy Video Review

Features

★ Excellent Capacity

When it comes to cooking and baking food, it is important to be able to cook sufficient food at one time for the entire family. It can become rather tedious if you have to cook two batches of a particular dish just because a single portion cooked is not sufficient for your family.

With Power Smokeless Grill, this need not be a concern as this device is well-equipped to cook sufficient food for the entire family at one go. For instance, you should quite easily be able to grill around six burgers at once or even four regular steaks instead. This is simply due to the fact that this device has a grilling surface that is larger than the usual conventional size.

★ Smoke Extractor Technology

When food is cooked there is bound to be some amount of smoke and/or steam that is released into the air around the area where the food is being cooked. No matter how much one tries to cook on as low a temperature as possible, this is something that is certainly extremely difficult to avoid with conventional cooking devices.

However, this is not exactly the case with Power Smokeless Grill. Even though the device itself does minimize the amount of smoke created by the grilling, it cannot totally eliminate all of it. That is the reason why this grilling device is fitted with smoke extraction technology that makes use of a turbo-speed fan in conjunction with AirFlow technology to remove virtually all of the built-up smoke inside.

★ Ceramic Surface

Grilling on a surface that is porous and not specially treated to make it non-stick can prove to be quite an unwise decision, especially when food gets stuck or burnt to its surface.

For this very same reason, Power Smokeless Grill chose to employ a ceramic grilling surface that is completely non-stick and won't allow your food to stick to it that easily. Thus, you will see a massive reduction in the amount of time you would otherwise have had to spend cleaning the surface of a conventional grill.

Chicken on the Power Smokeless Grill

Benefits

★ Drip-free Grilling

Having your grilling device causing a pool of oil collected on the surface below it can be a massive put off, causing you to even be discouraged from using the grill again. Oil and fat collected over your work surface can be a nightmare to clean, besides the fact that it could steal away your precious time too.

Having a tray that is built to trap and collect all the residual oil from your grilling can be a lifesaver. That is precisely why Power Smokeless Grill is fitted with one in order to save you hassle and time. Once you finish grilling and the whole device has cooled down, all you need to do is get rid of the oil from your drip tray and put it straight into your dishwasher.

★ Professional Results

When it comes to cooking at home, we usually are not too worried about how the food looks or how it feels to the touch. All that usually matters is whether it tastes good, and even that is not too much of a concern if the food is still palatable. However, the manufacturers of Power Smokeless Grill felt that the consumers of this product shouldn't necessarily have to settle for anything less than what is used by the professionals in a high-quality restaurant.

As such, when you use this grilling device to grill your food you will have food of the quality that is nothing less than a high-street fine-dining restaurant. The food will always be cooked precisely the same way every time, and it will also look like it has been professionally grilled by a restaurant chef, with grill marks and the authentic 'grilled' look.

Just like in every walk of life in this highly industrialized age, even in the kitchen, the amount of time spent cooking means that much less time available for other critically important tasks and responsibilities.

With this in mind, the device's manufacturers made sure you won't need to lose time waiting for Power Smokeless Grill to heat up just so you could start grilling. This grill has been constructed using cast aluminum that is heavy duty enough to heat up much faster than the more conventional grills out there in the market. This ability of the grill to rapidly heat helps reduce waiting times in a very significant manner and makes the cooking experience a more pleasurable one.

Save Money

When it comes to purchasing online, the primary reason why most of us do so is in order to save that extra bit of cost involved in purchasing from a physical outlet. With that in mind, paying for shipping is the last thing an online shopper is interested in. The good news is this product comes with free shipping.

Wise Advice

Do not buy Power Smokeless Grill online before searching Amazon.

- Alternatives or the same items are always available and sometimes at lower prices.

Grease and Water All over the Counter

The instruction manual says to add 2 cups of water to the water tray, which completely filled it. So where is the grease supposed to go if the pan is already full? Everywhere, apparently. There are no instructions about putting in LESS water in the tray to accommodate all the grease. How is anyone pleased with this thing if you follow the instructions in the manual? What am I missing?

Beware of Junk

After watching a TV ad for this product, I immediately ordered one from the company. After placing the order, I went to these reviews and started to regret my order but Decided to give it a try.

I received the grill about a week later and immediately put it together without any problem and all parts fit. I started it without any issues and grilled several hamburgers that tasted great. Several days later, I cooked several steaks and had no problem. Then several days later, went to grill on it again and it would not start at all. I tried everything and even changed outlets to no avail.

Needless to say, I was very unhappy.

On Monday, I contacted the company and talked with a rep explaining the issue and asked for a return label. The rep told me to hook it up and he would try to help me get it started but I refused and told him the item was already boxed for return and I wanted my money back. He told me to just use my order number on the outside of the return box and that would be enough. He told me where to return it so I took the box to the post office and had to pay the shipping of approximately $55.00 (live in Arizona and shipping to New Jers) to get my money refunded from the company. I finally checked my bank account and today the money was credited to my account.

Do not be enticed by the great TV commercial as I was and should have known better. Order it if you want but chances are you will be making a return as many others have done.

sat there staring at me. I am going to look for another brand of the grill. Called their rep for a return authorization, which was hilarious. He offered me a cash reward if I would give the grill to a friend rather than return it. Why would I want to give a friend a grill that didn't work?

3 Strikes and You're Out

We bought one at Sam's and used it twice. It was awesome and the food delicious! When we tried to use it a third time, it would not come on (no power). We tried several things to no avail.

We took it back to Sam's and got a second one. It would not come on at all. We took that one back and got the third one. Like the first one, it worked great but only two times. The third time we tried to use it, it would not come on. There won't be the fourth one.

Power Smokeless Grill (Easy as 1-2-3)

Great quick grill! Using the unit was easy and the clean up wasn't bad. I enjoy experimenting and trying new recipes on my grill.

I've read many of the comments posted on here and will easily say, I'm sure a high percentage of the posted "negative comments or problems" didn't have to end this way. If only the user (s) had first read the units "Assembly Insert and Owner's Manual" thoroughly, carefully and in its entire (can't stress this enough!) before using the unit. User (s) should also use a bit of "common sense or best practices" when using any food prep item (s) I.E. Utensil, cookware, oven/grill, etc., if they expect to have any success. Even more so with a "new" cooking appliance! Lastly, although my meals cooked on the P.S.G. Tasted great, don't expect a true "BBQ" taste; it's still an electric grill after all.

I recommend as a last resort to use the customer service phone number for assistance or to communicate any user issues (Hey Co.'s CEO, I hope this is a toll free number or at least get an "800" number for your customers!) :

Customer Service: 973-287-5129

That said; nothing irritates a consumer more when dealing with "customer service" when the following happens:

- 1) Details of sale or promotion are Deceiving, vague or omitted at POS (extra (s) /bonus item (s) are back ordered, extra (s) /bonus item (s) shipped upon completion of sale/final payment, etc.
- 2) Instruction manual is not reviewed or updated to insure "Owner's Manual" is complete or easier to understand (especially due to the amount of returns and negative posts (someone at the Co.'s helm is asleep!))

Wishing you all Good Health!

FOLLOW INSTRUCTIONS

Read negative reviews before purchase. Witnessed a friend's use before purchase. Purchased, and glad I did.

It is very important to thoroughly read instructions and tips before use. Like any directions/instructions, sometimes we get too eager and believe "it's just another indoor grill; how hard can it be" and begin using, thinking we know-it-all already.

can't blame product if you fail to thoroughly read, and FOLLOW the instructions.

If you did, and still had problems, I understand the review; however, my experience has been exceptional.

LACK OF CONTROL

I had no way to set the temperature on the grill. It should have arrows that move from one temp setting to another if necessary. The settings are locked in place. It is not possible to raise or lower the temp which makes the grill impossible to use. I followed all the instructions, but the ribs were dried out for lack of temperature control knowledge.

NOT as Advertised

I bought my Power Smokeless Grill online. When it arrived, I instantly used it. It didn't heat enough to even grill vegetables. I sent it back. More than a month later, the replacement arrived. Since then, I have tried to use this grill to make hamburgers, toast bread, grill steaks, grill pork chops, sauce bbq ribs. It failed in all attempts except toasting bread and making VERY THIN hamburgers. It doesn't heat hot enough to actually cook meat. It took 45 minutes to grill (or rather steam a $13/lb steak). I didn't send it back and chalked it up to another TV sales scam. Don't buy this grill. It truly doesn't do the job.

Was Excited to Order but not now :-)

I was so excited to order for my daughter since she lives in an apartment! I even got a notice it was 25% off for a short time. That's when I thought it was a sure sign to order after debating whether I should or not! But my gut instinct said to read some reviews! Wowza! Am I glad I listened to my gut because now my gut hurts thinking about how I would have felt giving this as a Birthday gift to her in Texas while I'm back in Iowa and she'd be stuck with the mess of ALL these bad reviews! How can they keep selling this with all these negative responses? Does anyone know of a legit smokeless grill that actually works and heats up HOT enough and tastes good when done- not to mention cleans up easily? Oh, and has a griddle option with lid available too! Now back to square one --- what to get her for her birthday since I'd been planning on the Power Smokeless Grill for so long! So disappointed!

Bad Business Practices

We bought the grill from the infomercial and used it last week, the day it arrived. After preheating 10 minutes out on lamb chops. No grill Marks for 10 minutes and those barely showed. Repacked the grill to send back and the kicker. You have to pay the shipping to return and it cost more than the grill. Good trick though! Please don't buy unless from Amazon which has a free return. Looking

It was a gift and decided to return it. Costing $49 for shipping! So I called the co. And was offered $30 if I would keep it, still waiting to receive the refund. Will have to call the co. AGAIN! Don't buy this unless you know for certain you are keeping it. As for trying it, I also couldn't get grill Marks on meat or zucchini, etc. So far the only success I've had is grilling pizza dough. Fingers crossed it gets more successful because I'm stuck with it. I will say that it cleans up easily, just a bulky appliance to store.

We bought this three months ago and have used three times followed instructions to a tee. I would rate this product 0-to 5 I give it a 0 no matter if you have the fan and lid on it still smokes and sets off alarms. Disappointed I threw it in the trash do NOT recommend this product.

Bad Product, bad Service

Seemed this would be the perfect solution for grilling for me. Used it 2-3 times and it was amazing - food turned out excellent. The next time, the female end of the plug, in the actual grill, came out of the grill body when I tried to unplug it. This happened every time during the next couple grillings. The 6th time I used it, there was no power to the grill or fan as something in the power wiring must have disconnected after being pulled on. I was very careful every time I plugged/unplugged the grill but to no avail. I contacted customer service and no matter how objective I was, and no matter how much I stated that customer satisfaction should be their #1 goal, they just continued to state "it's past the 60-return window and you should have purchased the additional warranty". A warranty for a less than $100 grill. Come on! In any case, don't buy this grill as mine had faulty electrical issues but more importantly, the absolute worst customer service that doesn't give a damn about making customers happy. They'd get zero stars if the food didn't taste so good.

Returning it !

The sound of the grill and smokeless was great. I got it, I used it every day for About 2 weeks, great to cook, burger, lamb, salmon, shrimp kabobs, Even the chicken breasts that usually somewhat dry because of being Covered and the water in the bottom they were super moist. Now to Clean, get ready. If you don't clean it once it cools down it is hell. The grease goes into a drip pan, great but you have to scrub, the grill is hard to clean with all the holes is hard. I purchased a special brush and it helps. After 2 weeks of use, the coating in the grill on the sides is Peeling off. Honestly, I prefer my George Foreman electric grill and I wish I never purchased this, I am returning it because of the peeling off Situation.

A Fraudulent Product

I got this as a wedding gift. It had all the books but no warrantee. I tried to grill steak but it would not stay heated. The fan light was red not blue like in video. The thing tried to preheat, beeped repeatedly after a few minutes like it had preheated and the power light was flashing red again. It turned itself off with the fan sound on. I had to transfer the food to an electric skillet to actually cook the steak. Don't bother buying this product.

Bought mine at Wal-Mart cooks well for me gets hot doesn't take long for things to cook. My only problem is that drip pan has very sharp edges on vents cut on side of pan. Even being very careful I have sliced thumb open twice, requiring stitches the first time. So you know I was careful after that. No complaints on the way it cooks just on sharp edges.

I Really Love This !

I ordered this off Amazon, signed up for Prime, and It arrived in 2 days. I got the 1500 Watt model, and I am extremely happy with it! I have cooked in restaurants for over 25 years, using open broilers, and enclosed broilers, they both do the same job, just work differently. I have read all the negative reviews, and am sorry people are not happy with their purchase. It does take some playing with it temp wise, so you're not smoked out, but with trial and error, I have found it works great! George Foreman doesn't hold a candle to this.

SAVE YOUR $$$'s

I waited a long time and thought I did my research but apparently not well enough. I bought mine @ Kohl's. (thank God because of their great return policy this piece of Junk is going back tomorrow). I made only one meal on it - using the griddle. The sausage STUCK and so did the pancakes if I cooked them in the area where I made the sausage. It was NOT easy to clean. Also, in the manual it said there were 2 arrows to raise and lower the temp incrementally - this one had a +/- sign and they did NOT adjust incrementally. They would reduce by 25 degrees @ a time. I may chance the Gotham indoor grill, I trust the copper coatings much more than what this one hyped.

But it really does a nice job just wish it went to 500 degrees. It does a nice job sucking out any smoke although you do get a little bit certainly beats a frying pan or our foreman.

Worked Fine at First Then the Fan Not Working

I loved my grill; it was doing wonders at first. By the way, I only started using it more in the last couple of months. But today, I was grilling salmon and the fan just stopped working. I thought it was a "cool down", moment even though the temperature was only at approximately 320 degrees. It has never had to "cool down" before when the temperature was higher. I am very disappointed. I looked for information on troubleshooting but was unable to find any. Can it still be used? Will it still have the same effect on the grilled food?

We have used this grill a few times now. I'll give it credit for being smokeless but that's about it. I'd surely like to know how you can get grill Marks on any meat yet alone have it taste like it's even been grilled. As far as I'm concerned don't waste your money. I surely can't produce any results as they show on the infomercial. I wish they could only be honest if you're promoting a product. Disappointed, to say the least.

Horrible Service

Not impressed with the Customer service of this Company at all. Ordered two of the Grills on Dec 19th when they arrived one of the grills wouldn't turn on. Returned the grill to them after spending 45 min on hold to get through to a rep to get the return shipping label. As of the 22nd of Jan I still haven't received the replacement. After staying on Hold for another 45 min to reach a cust serv rep I was told that it would ship out in another 7-10 days. I asked to speak to a supervisor and was put on hold again for another 30 min. When the supervisor came online she (Mabel) was extremely rude and very matter of fact that the only thing she could tell me is that it would ship out in a few days. Essentially we have your money and its not our concern that you have nothing to show for that yet. I should be happy that they delivered a defective product and still haven't corrected the problem. HORRIBLE CUSTOMER SERVICE Rodney Norris.

Cheating Customers That Use PayPal

Beware! The so called monthly payments are only for those that use the listed forms of payment not paypal. Even though paypal is one of the highest & trustworthy ways a person can pay for items, including monthly payments with the added security, that a customer has paypal protection. But, seems this company won't allow paypal users the same payment break, they charge the full one time payment. (verified by phone). The result, we canceled our order, they lost a sale. Seems losing a sale makes no difference to them. Look, if you choose to not be fair to all customers, then don't 'lie', which is what you're doing by making false statements regarding "monthly" payments. Personally, we don't lie and don't do business with liars.

Worst Piece of Equipment we Have!

I didn't give any stars because it says that it's not required for comments and questions. The Power Smokeless Grill from Eric Theiss is the worst piece of equipment my husband and I own. It is incredibly hard to clean in spite of what Eric says. That is if you want to get rid of ALL the grease. It deposits on the sidewalls of the inside of the machine (bottom piece of the grill with NO attachments). It is hard to see at first because once all pieces are removed it is really hard to see the grease unless you tilt the bottom part of the grill and look at the long sides towards the bottom. Grease collects in that area and after a while becomes rancid and smells. If I had a really large sink and could submerge the bottom portion of the grill in really hot soapy water it would be easier to clean. But then you have water trapped inside the bottom piece and need to heat it up somehow to get the water inside dried out. What a PITA! What Eric shows on the infomercial that is easy to clean, is relatively easy to clean! However, it's the parts that he doesn't show that are difficult to clean. And really time-consuming. Who wants to spend that much time in the kitchen to probably be hamburgers and show where the grease accumulates and how hard it is to clean. After that it will be in the possession of Goodwill or Salvation Army. Maybe someone else could appreciate this stupid piece of kitchen equipment. By the way you all that are reading this. We've had a Jet Stream Oven for over 20 years and it still works fine, is WAY easier to clean up and cooks any food really well.

BUYER BEWARE

I called customer service and since it was after 60 days, they would do nothing for me. I did not even get the offer of sending the lid back or a new lid. They told me to watch the video- which I did, a couple of times (the video makes it seem so simple but I was unable to attach the lid the way it was shown on the video- the screws did not seem long enough) and to get help to attach the handle. I don't understand a company that will not stand by their product.

Question for Those With Parrots

Most non-stick surfaces that heat up can be, and often is, fatal to parrots and other pet avians. Do any of you have parrots, etc., and can let me know if this is safe to use around them. Anyone with a bad reaction using this product. I have 4 parrots and lost my 5th when we used the oven to bake pork chops, so I'm super cautious. Another friend used her pet safe self-cleaning oven (no non-stick surfaces, oh except for the stuff on the wires) to clean her oven and lost 7 Macaws.

Selling Like Hotcakes ! Buyer be Aware!

Purchased 12/15 at local Sam's Club. They were running a special and they were in nearly every cart at check out. Unpacked and set up, did the preheating as instructed (that was the only time there was a wee little bit of red glowing from the heating elements). Put the burgers on and turned it up to high as it would go. We waited, and waited, and waited. Managed to get a little warm but no steam, no grilling, no actual grilling. After 30 minutes of waiting for a burger to start grilling (and all the side dishes in the house being done and overdone from waiting), we gave up and threw the burger on the Cuisinart sandwich grill. Piece of junk -- another Merry Christmas scam.

Very Pleased

I ordered my smokeless grill on Nov 3rd, was shipped within four days of purchase. I received my order in about a week or so when I received it, it was very neatly packed with all items and pieces in the box, very clear and easy to understand instructions of how to unpack and prep for use. We have not cooked a ton of food on it, but for the basic summer time grilling indoors for the winter I am very satisfied with it. No smoke, the smell of food cooking is awesome and for the most part, clean up is a breeze :) doing Bacon Double Cheese Burgers tomorrow. Yum, yum ! Thank you, Power Smokeless Grill: ).

I ordered two of these grills on November 11th and was notified the next morning that there were four new charges on my credit card, that I did not make. It is extremely unsatisfactory to attempt to purchase an item in good faith, just to get ripped off. As it is, I have notified my credit card company, of these fraudulent charges, and they have closed this account and so my purchase will be denied when they attempt to post it. I will not now nor will I ever again purchase anything from this totally unscrupulous organization. All I can say is buyer beware, the crooks are out there just waiting for some unwary shopper to scam.

Never Trust TV

I had this for 2 weeks and sent it right back, doesn't perform like on TV, what a scam, doesn't get hot enough, bbq sauce sticks to it, cost me $18.75 to send it back too, it's a small cooking surface, not worth it at all, then they wanted to knock off $20 when I called for a return #, so if you like it to call and say you want to return it and they will take $20 off!

Glad I Read the Reviews!

I was going to order of Amazon Prime. Having just watched the infomercial on TV, I was all excited, as I love charred foods. After reading the reviews, I am passing. I have had my share of these fly by night companies who make BIG claims, and then rarely deliver. If you want charred food. Best to just use your outdoor grill. Thanx to everyone for their reviews, and for saving me a lot of heartaches.

Review Concerns

Was about to order smokeless grill until I read reviews. Having second thoughts. Called customer relations at 973-287-5157 and representative stated all those issues had been taken care of and that all supplies were being shipped with grill now. Nice to be able to read complaints, but would also be nice to read if complaints were resolved. All of us rely on each other for protection from bad merchants

Do not Order

Two things on the info commercial the slates in the sides of the drip tray are lit up red supposedly from the heat from the grill. Even on 450 degrees, there is no red at all. Also, the cooking time was much longer than I expected. Trust me, buy a new wave oven I've had a couple. Much more satisfactory!

Smokeless Grill! Exhausting!

We spent all day yesterday on 3 things, grilled pepper and onions on skewers, the O'Brien potato/onion/pepper recipe, and sirloin tips. All taste great but the time spent to make not worth it. Then to clean up between each recipe. We are returning but also were offered $30 off to keep. Yup, we know shipping is going to be a fortune to return it but.

I have been promised for three months now that the cook and recipe books will be sent to me in 7 to 10 days. After speaking to six different people, (I kept a written log of calls) I'm finally told the books are on back order and will be shipped after the first of the year. Their customer service department sucks. My second call was to a "supervisor" who actually gave me a bogus tracking number.

Mr. Theis, REALLY? One might think the infomercial customer service department is smearing your name.

I Have a Question and Comment

Before buying the Power Smokeless Grill, I fortunately read the negative reviews. I found out a very important unmentioned detail about using this item. --- Water. Did I miss the part in the infomercial about needing water? I don't think so. In fact, it's not even mentioned in their answer of FAQ #9** explaining about how the "Smoke Extractor Technology" works. Read their answer carefully. **(FAQ #9) How does the Power Smokeless Grill reduce virtually all the smoke from grilling? ANSWER: The Power Smokeless Grill's Turbo-Speed Smoke Extractor Technology sucks up smoke and odor utilizing a smoke recycling system. The smoke is captured and extracted through an advanced fan system, greatly reducing the amount of smoke that is let out. OK, so their answer indicates that the smoke is removed, "through an advanced fan system.". Hmmm. Maybe more accurate would be to say "fan and water" system. In my opinion, it seems a bit deceptive. They should show in detail the smoke cycling through water to be more accurate and forthcoming. After this consideration, I will not be buying this item.

Smokeless Grill

I got my grill yesterday. Was anxious to try it. Did NOT receive the griddle or the cook books like I was supposed to. Box does not have instructions on what temps to cook things on. I made hamburgers, salmon, steak. Good size fit quite a bit. I started out on low heat then turned it up a little to cook outside. Smokeless fan worked perfect along with the lid. I like it. My steak turned out good so did everything else. Would like cookbook to know what temps to cook with.

I received my grill 2 days ago and used it to grill hamburgers for the first time, last night. Although I heard the fan working, it seemed to be pretty insipid and did not take much of the smoke out. With the lid on, the smoke just came out of the vents, instead of going into the fan! Very disappointed. I've got to stay clear of "pie in the sky" informercials from now on!

Did not expect a grill that you had to add water to to grill, tried some chicken and it did not brown, why would it if you steam it. Called then to request a return slip and was told, they would reduce the price if I kept it. I said no I wanted to return it. I was told that I would have to pay for return shipment, which would cost me as much as the grill itself. I have never dealt with a Company that did not send you a return slip. ## POWER SMOKELESS GRILL

Power Smokeless Grill

There are quite a few parts to wash and clean. Fortunately, the lid, grill plate, drip tray and water tray are all dishwasher safe.

Our first test was with bacon – to test how evenly the Power Smokeless Grill cooks, and to test whether or not my home would reek of bacon after cooking.

PRO: Bacon cooked evenly. Note – a flat griddle plate also comes with the unit. I should have used that for bacon – but at least you can see the grill marks to demonstrate how hot the unit can get.

Extra crispy bacon – just how we like it.

PRO: The house wasn't entire bacon smell-free – but it wasn't nearly as bad as on my stovetop with the exhaust fan on. We saw wisps of smoke, but I felt comfortable not turning on my exhaust fan to supplement the Power Smokeless Grill internal fan.

We cooked marinated flat-iron steaks in the Power Smokeless Grill.

PRO: Nice grill marks, the steak grilled perfectly. I grilled the steaks without the lid for 3 minutes each side, then covered with lid until the steaks were medium-rare.

CON: Because the steaks were marinated, the sugar in the marinade did burn (which caused quite a bit of smoke) and I needed to place the grill near my exhaust fan.

CON: The most difficult element to clean is the heating element. The element is exposed, so you really do have to clean it well (a dirty heating element will affect performance and also will cause burning and smoke).

PRO: The rest of the unit was really easy too clean, just a damp cloth to wipe down.

CONCLUSION: We love cooking at the dinner table – some of our favorites are fondue, Korean BBQ, shabu-shabu, Chinese hot pot, Vietnamese spring rolls. The problem with cooking at the table is all the smoke!! With the Power Smokeless Grill, we are able to grill thinly sliced pork for spring rolls, bulgogi for lettuce wraps and grilled vegetables for Raclette. The unit allowed us to cook at the table and not worry about too much smoke to set off the smoke alarms.

What's the Best Smokeless Indoor BBQ Grill in 2020?

in Products tagged Buying tips / Grill / Grilling / Indoor grill / Smokeless grill by Melissa Brewer (updated on 08/09/2020)

If you can't use a propane or traditional coal grill this summer, due to regulations or your own time restrictions, you may want to try an indoor BBQ option to cook your meals instead. Let's face it, many barbecue recipes take a lot of time that we don't necessarily have. While we can't get the perfect slow-cooked meat from an electric grill, we can get it pretty darn close to perfection.

And unlike charcoal, gas or propane grills, most smokeless barbecue grills are electric, safe to use both outdoors and indoors. This gives you the added benefit of year-round cooking.

When talking about the best indoor grill for barbecue, there's going to be a lot of opinions. After all, there are small contact grills like the one George Foreman makes, there are stand-alone grills that look like the real thing, but rely on electricity, and there are other options such as rotisserie smokers, skewered smokers, and other contraptions modeled after traditional barbecue and grilling recipes and methods.

When people think of an electric grill, they often think of the George Foreman grill, but today, there's a lot more involved than the tabletop grill. Many popular models look and feel just like an open-flame grill, and offer the authentic taste of smoked cooking. As they say, technology is grand! This article will go over some of the best products for cooking smoking BBQ today.

Smokeless Indoor Grill #1:

Power Smokeless Grill With Turbo Speed Smoke Extractor Technology

- This great Power Smokeless Grill is one of the best indoor smokeless grills. It comes with a lid which is really helpful in reducing smoke. Also your meal is ready earlier because the lid locks the hot air.
- You can sear your meat with the 450 F hot temperature which you can set up with the touch switch. The grilling causes excess fat to drain away from food.

Smokeless Indoor Grill #2:

Hamilton Beach 25361 Indoor Grill

- This indoor electric grill was built for searing, which makes it a really fun tool to cook grill or any other barbecue you want, indoors, without smoke. You'll get juicy steaks, chops and burgers on this grill, too. The high searing temperature will make it easy to sear even fish with precision, locking in the juices and adding that authentic barbecue taste. This particular model has a window so that you can watch as the food simmers. Otherwise, the temperature controls are pretty basic. There's an indicator light that tells you when it has heated up — and preheating can take as long as 10 minutes.
- Because this is a larger model, it comes with a larger drip tray to catch your excess oils and fat. As far as clean up, you can easily remove the drip tray, and the manual says that the trays are all dishwasher safe. If you're like me, however, you'll wash it manually. Manual washing makes nonstick materials last longer. Use a sponge to scrub it gently.

- With this smokeless indoor grill, Philips entered the smokeless “charcoal” grill market with an impressive first model. Although it runs on electricity instead of charcoal, it mimics the charcoal cooking pretty well. It uses advanced infrared technology in its heating components to make it very “charcoally”.
- It will cook all of your food evenly. If you're looking for a smokeless electric indoor grill, this is a great choice for intermediate grill masters and experts alike.

Smokeless Indoor Grill #5:

Chefmaster Smokeless Indoor Stove Top Barbecue Grill

- I'm listing this here because it's quite popular, but while it is smokeless, it's not a grill per se. It's more of an indoor grill cooktop. This smokeless indoor stovetop grill fits on top of a gas stove to mimic an outdoor grill with smoke. It's more of a griddle than a grill, and it's great in a pinch on a bad weather day for the family to cook up something interesting.
- However, if you're looking for more advanced barbecue cooking, you'll want to skip this offering for something that actually works like a grill, rather than an electric stovetop grill like this one. It will serve you well as a smokeless stovetop barbecue grill.

Utopia Kitchen Reversible Cast Iron Grill Griddle

- Similar to the Chefmaster offering, this smokeless indoor grill offers more of an authentic texture for your food. If you've been wondering how to grill on stove without grill pan, this may be the closest you come without resorting to purchasing an electric grill. Have you been wondering how to use a stovetop grill?
- This is a great place for beginners to start. Just use some light oil and fit the grill/griddle on top of your stove burners. Wait for it to heat, and make sure that you've got everything you're grilling on top. It should cook as quickly as pan-frying but offer a more grill-like taste and texture. This may be one of the best stove top grills on the market today.

Questions to Ask When Buying a Smokeless Indoor Grill:

When buying a smokeless indoor grill, there are a few things you should think about. Not all indoor grills are alike. Here are a few questions you should ask if you're shopping around:

- Does the grill have an on/off switch or knob, or do you have to unplug it from the wall to turn it off? Avoid models that don't have the switch – there's simply too much danger of a fire.
- Does the grill really get hot enough to grill meat? Typically, a grill with 1,000 to 1,500 watts is powerful enough to cook meat until it browns or sear it, but lower temperatures will cook your meat but slowly, losing the texture of grilling in the process and making it softer.
- Are there removable grill plates? If you're cooking raw meat, this feature makes it much easier to get things clean. Go for removable grill plates whenever you can so they can be cleaned thoroughly.

How to Use a Non Stick Grill Pan

This website uses cookies to improve your experience. We'll assume you're ok with this, but you can opt-out if you wish. Accept

Read More

When cooking on a smokeless stovetop barbecue grill, and other types of grill pans, there are a few things that you need to consider. Safety always comes first, so remember to wear your oven gloves when you're cooking with a non-stick grill pan for the first time.

You'll need to lightly oil the surface where you'll be cooking, start at a low temperature and wait about 5-10 minutes; depending on what temperature you've chosen.

Here are 3 questions to ask when you're cooking with a non-stick grill pan:

Shares

- When you're placing it, does it fit tightly over your burners? Take it back to the shop if it moves easily when you place it on. It may move while you're cooking, and that's too dangerous, especially if you're dealing with oil.
- Does the oil splash too easily? If so, you'll need to turn the temperature down and try cooking at a slower temperature instead. If this isn't acceptable to you, it's time to find a different model.
- Did you remember to cook some veggies? It's a legitimate question. Most people use these grills for meat only, but it's important to have some vegetables too. Stovetop grills make a great platform for grilling Brussels sprouts, tomatoes, and other vegetables.

Electric Grills Are Here to Stay

Smokeless indoor grills are very popular, especially among the "responsible bachelor" crowd that cooks and cleans. Foodies in college often resort to contact grills like the George Foreman, due to the lack of space and time in their lives. This is where many people fall in love with grilling.

An electric grill is a great way to make your grilling hobby work in a tight space. You can live in a small apartment but still grill up fish, steak, and veggies that are highly flavorful. Many people fall in love with indoor grilling for its convenience and ability to make flavorful cooking in just a matter of minutes.

Allowing the grease to drip from the food provides an added benefit – it helps reduce the overall fat content of your cooked meats.

The grill will almost instantly reach roughly 446-degrees Fahrenheit; making sure your food is cooked thoroughly and evenly.

Along with these smokeless indoor grills, you may have a few other options for cooking at home. For example, you could choose a grill for your apartment balcony or consider getting a grill that will fit in small spaces.

About Smokeless Indoor Grills

Smokeless indoor grills are meant to keep you from inhaling smoke throughout the entirety of your cooking session. They also help keep smoke alarms from getting triggered and provide the added benefit of reducing fat. Most of these grills feature a drip tray, which catches the grease from your cooked foods.

These grills also tend to be small. When you're cooking a smaller batch of food, you're going to produce less heat and smoke. They are also designed to be easy to clean. This is to make it easier to remove leftover food particles and grease. When these particles burn, they release smoke.

You may also notice that some of these grills come with lids. The lids can trap the heat and humidity, which keeps your meat from Another thing you'll notice about smokeless indoor grills is that most of them use electric as a power source. This is once again for health reasons, as charcoal and gas can release carbon monoxide fumes. With electric grills, there isn't an open flame, so there is virtually no chance of flare ups; events that would most definitely cause high amounts of smoke to arise.

If you feel that an electric grill lacks the char-taste associated with grilling, you can use a substance called "liquid smoke". This is added directly to your food before grilling and can recreate hickory, applewood, and mesquite flavors. This substance was made through the condensation of smoke and can be applied to any type of meat you're cooking. If you can't find liquid smoke, there are a few seasonings that may help, including sea salt or paprika.

At the end of the day, grilling consists of hot dogs, burgers, ribs, and steaks searing on the cooking platform. Just because you're cooking inside doesn't mean you have to take away the benefits of grilling food. With smokeless indoor grills, you'll be able to cook your favorite foods without being hindered by dreadful smoke that sometimes comes from the grill.

Best Indoor Electric Grill Review – Top 6 Hottest List for Aug. 2020 with Buying Guide

It's a tempting thought in the middle of winter: the unmistakable taste of food grilled outdoors, without battling the elements or standing outdoors to cook in a heavy coat and gloves. Indoor electric grills offer the perfect way to do it. Unfortunately, many don't pass the taste test.

Let's be honest. You're never going to fully duplicate the flavor of meat grilled over charcoal, or even cooked on a premium outdoor gas grill, by using an indoor appliance.

If you choose the right indoor electric grill and get a little creative with your spices or rubs, though, you can come awfully close – and if you close your eyes, you might almost feel the gentle summer breezes and see the kids running around the yard as you chew.

All of the products on Groom+Style's best indoor electric grill top 6 list will do a very good job with burgers and steaks; you'll even see features like "sear" buttons to put the perfect finish on meats. Where many of them shine even more, though, is with thin food like fish filets and items like sandwiches and Paninis. Some can also double as a terrific griddle.

The Two Main Styles of Indoor Grills – Open Grill & Contact Grill

There are two styles of indoor grills. They each have covers, but one is known as an open grill because the cover doesn't contact food when it's closed. The other is a contact grill, on which the cover presses against the food that's inside to provide a more even cook and the telltale "grill marks" on both sides.

Open Grills

Open grills are generally larger and will come closer to recreating the taste of meats grilled outdoors; they're also the only type which can properly handle unevenly-shaped foods like vegetables and shrimp.

Contact Grills

As long as they're powerful enough, contact grills cook faster because both sides of the food are being cooked simultaneously. They're also ideal for grilled sandwich preparation, and if their surfaces are dishwasher-safe they clean up more easily. Contact grills should definitely have hinged floating cover to accommodate different foods of different sizes, and all of our reviewed models do.

Indoor Electric Grill Buying Considerations

There are different criteria by which you can best judge each type of grill, but some are important for both open and contact models. They should be able to hit temperatures up to 425-450° (and higher for searing meat), unless you're only going to use them as a griddle or to grill Paninis and grilled cheese sandwiches.

They should have enough power to handle their assignments and to quickly return to temperature after the lid is raised. They should have adjustable thermostats and built-in thermometers. Their grates or cooking plates should be removable for easy cleaning. And an overlooked but important consideration: their cords should be long enough for convenient placement.

Groom+Style have included both contact and open grills on our top 6 list, so you can choose the style you'd prefer based on your needs and their features. Let's get cooking.

1. Cuisinart GR-4N 5-in-1 Griddler

Cuisinart GR-4N 5-in-1 Griddler. Click on the photo to see the Price on Amazon.

This Cuisinart unit has become the go-to indoor electric grill in recent years, and for good reasons. It's the most versatile contact grill on the market because its construction allows it to do much more than its competitors; that's what the "5-in-1" is all about.

Let us count the ways. You can use the Griddler as a traditional contact grill (1) or as a Panini press (2), you can fold the top all the way back to use the unit as a two-surface open grill (3) or griddle (4) since the plates are reversible with both flat and grill surfaces, or you can split the difference and use one side as a grill and the other as a griddle (5) for those Sunday morning pancakes and sausage breakfasts.

Having two cooking surfaces greatly increases the amount of food you can prepare on the Griddler, of course. There's enough room for eight normal-sized pancakes when used as a full griddle, two or three large steaks when used as a full grill, and four to six burgers when used as a contact grill.

This model maintains temperatures extremely well across the entire cooking surface in both open and contact modes, it's able to reach 450° (425° for the griddle) and has a 500° sear setting for finishing off your meats. Any indoor grill will spatter when you're grilling meats (when you're outdoors, you just don't notice it) but there's noticeably less of an issue with the Griddler than most competitive units; just don't cook fatty meats on "high." Preheating takes between five and ten minutes.

Most of the small touches are taken care of, too. There are metal clamps to firmly lock the top in place in contact mode, the grease-catching cups slide out easily, and both the plates and grease cups are dishwasher-safe although you can usually clean the plates pretty well with a wet paper towel. If you love home-cooked waffles, waffle plates are available for an additional price.

The cooking surface is flat so grease doesn't run off quite as easily as it should, and the cord is relatively short, but those are really the only negatives we found. One thing they don't mention in the instructions, though: don't use non-stick spray on non-stick plates, because that can wear away the surface.

The griddle works wonderfully, Paninis and other sandwiches come out perfect, and grilled meats are cooked quite well for an indoor model (don't forget the spices or rubs for outdoor flavor!). The Griddler is great value.

2. T-fal GC702 OptiGrill Indoor Electric Grill

T-fal GC702 OptiGrill Indoor Electric Grill. Click on the photo to see the Price on Amazon.

This T-fal contact grill model came in ranked #2 on our list of the top 6 best electric grills because it doesn't have the same flexibility as the Griddler. If we were to judge purely on features and results, however, it would have topped the list.

When you first look at the OptiGrill it doesn't look like just another indoor grill, it looks like a kitchen appliance, almost industrial in appearance. It's heavier and takes up a large footprint on the counter, even though its cooking surface is smaller than that on the Griddler.

But there's a lot packed into this electric grill. Start with the six cooking programs you can choose to tell the OptiGrill what you're preparing: burger, red meat, poultry, sausage, fish or sandwich. Then factor in the "automatic sensor cooking" which detects the number of items and thickness of what's placed onto the grill, and then sets the proper temperature and cooking time automatically. (You can adjust them manually as well for any of those foods, for uneven thicknesses or other items like vegetables, of course).

Add the smart LED system which glows green for cooking, yellow for rare, orange for medium and red for well done, and finish with the “frozen” mode which can grill foods right from the freezer. There are audio “beep” alerts as well. As you can tell, this is no ordinary indoor grill.

The non-stick plates are made from die-cast aluminum and clean up easily, the OptiGrill is the most powerful of all the models the Groom+Style Review Team looked at and takes only about five minutes to heat up – and food comes out juicy and absolutely delicious (bearing in mind that it still won't fully taste like it was cooked outdoors).

If we had one issue with this T-fal beauty it's that it doesn't have a sear mode, but for a small family we'd choose the OptiGrill in a flash.

Details for the T-fal GC702 OptiGrill Indoor Electric Grill:

- Type: Contact grill
- Power: 1800 watts
- Cooking area: 90 square inches
- Material: Stainless steel
- Non-stick cooking surfaces: Yes
- Temperature controls: Yes
- Locking cover: Yes
- Size: 14 x 6 x 13 inches
- Weight: 12 pounds
- Warranty: One year

3. Delonghi BG24 Perfecto Indoor Grill

Delonghi BG24 Perfecto Indoor Grill. Click on the photo to see the Price on Amazon.

This open indoor grill stands out because its heating element is fully embedded in the grill plate, which is the only way to reliably guarantee even heat distribution through the entire cooking space. It also happens to prepare food very well.

We have to mention the major drawback of this Delonghi unit right away: you can't put the grill plate in the dishwasher because of the embedded heating elements. It's non-stick, though, so it cleans up easily by hand; the drip catcher is dishwasher-safe. There's a decent-sized cooking area (for an indoor grill, of course) and the tempered glass lid contains heat and steam to cook food faster and help the meat retain juices.

It also helps contain spatter, as you'd guess. The Perfecto heats up relatively quickly, though it does take longer to cook food than a contact grill since there's only one heating surface. You can set cooking temperatures on the detachable thermostat that runs from low to high (high is 450°). There is no sear function.

The lid sits pretty close to the grill surface so don't plan on grilling extremely thick meats, and we find that indoor open grills cook more like a combination grill/oven than an outdoor gas or charcoal grill. With that in mind, the finished products come out tender, tasty and "grill-like," and it's unrealistic to ask much more than that for the price.

In-depth on the DeLonghi BG24 Perfecto Indoor Grill:

- Type: Open grill, glass cover
- Power: 1500 watts
- Cooking area: 72 square inches
- Material: Stainless steel and plastic, glass cover
- Non-stick cooking surfaces: Yes
- Temperature controls: Yes
- Locking cover: No
- Size: 22 x 6 x 14 inches
- Weight: 11 pounds
- Warranty: One year, limited

4. Power Smokeless Indoor Grill

If you watch much TV, you've probably seen ads for this grill: "Virtually Smokeless!" "Infused With Flavor!" "Smoke Extraction Technology!" Surprisingly (at least to the review team, that is), the Power Smokeless Grill delivers most of what it promises, although at a rather high price.

First things first. We usually prefer contact grills for indoor use, but this model is an open-style grill with a glass top. That means the Power Smokeless won't cook quite as quickly or evenly as a unit whose upper and lower plates both make contact with the food, it won't make cool "grill marks," and it's not ideal for grilling a Panini. It's also somewhat low-power, at 1200 watts versus the 1500 or 1800 watts a top-end grill normally delivers.

However – we do really like the Power Smokeless Grill. It does a great job cooking almost every type of food as long as you give it enough time to do its work. And the smart temperature control that lets you set target temps as high as 450° makes things simple. Of course, the fact that it's an open-style unit with a large cooking surface also means that it's easy to grill the odd-shaped vegetables and seafood items that a contact grill can't handle; the 14" x 8" grilling surface is big enough to fit eight large burgers, three large steaks, three racks of ribs or an entire chicken.

Power Smokeless Grill: Technology

The big question, of course: is the Power Smokeless Grill really “smokeless?” The answer: it depends. When you’re grilling lean meat or other foods that aren’t fatty(like fish or veggies), and when you’re depending on the non-stick grill surface to cook without additional oil or grease, it’s virtually smokeless. If you’re cooking meat that drips a lot of grease, or if you use oily marinades, liquid smoke or other fatty liquids, you’re going to see a good amount of smoke.

Two other notes: this grill is quite easy to clean as long as you’re not using extra oil or fat, and you have to pay extra for desirable add-ons like a griddle plate.

This is the most expensive indoor grill in the Groom+Style rankings, but you get a lot for your money if a large grill top and “smokeless” operation are the features which matter most to you.

More info on the Power Smokeless Grill:

- Type: Open grill, glass cover
- Power: 1200 watts
- Cooking area: 112 square inches
- Material: Plastic, aluminum, glass cover
- Non-stick cooking surface: Yes
- Temperature controls: Yes
- Locking cover: No
- Size: 12 x 8 x 15.5 inches
- Weight: 15.4 pounds
- Warranty: 60 days

5. George Foreman GRP99 Next Generation Grill

George Foreman GRP99 Next Generation Grill.

Click on the photo to see the Price on Amazon.

Note: we review George Foreman's, lower priced but, best selling model at the end of this article for those who are interested.

You knew it had to be here somewhere, right? There actually were indoor electric grills before George Foreman arrived on the scene (we owned one of them) – they just weren't very good. This line of grills redefined the category in the late 20th century, though, and the current model is dependable and a good performer.

There are many good features on this Foreman contact grill, including the ability to digitally set exact cooking times and temperatures, the LED readouts, and the sloped grill that causes a minimum of fat buildup and splatter.

The reason the GRP99 doesn't rank higher on our list of the top 6 best indoor electric grills, however, is that if you're not very careful it can remove too much fat from the meat you're cooking, leaving you with dry or rubbery steak or chicken. The Groom+Style Review Team also thought the power cord was definitely too short.

The Next Generation's components are easy to remove and dishwasher-safe, the cooking surface is large enough for making four burgers or a couple of steaks and the food can definitely be tasty – just be sure to check your meat regularly as it's cooking.

Specifications for the George Foreman GRP99 Next Generation Grill:

- Type: Contact grill
- Power: 1440 watts
- Cooking area: 96 square inches
- Material: Metal
- Non-stick cooking surfaces: Yes
- Temperature controls: Yes
- Locking cover: Yes
- Size: 16 x 6 x 13 inches
- Weight: 8 pounds
- Warranty: One year, limited

6. Hamilton Beach 25360 Indoor Flavor/Searing Grill

Hamilton Beach 25360 Indoor Flavor/Searing Grill. Click on the photo to see the Price on Amazon.

You can probably tell that we're partial to contact grills, but this Hamilton Beach open grill is a good performer – and the way it's built can almost make you feel like you're cooking outdoors, because the cover is an attached (but removable) hood just like the one on your gas grill.

Groom+Style didn't like the fact that the highest temperature this grill can hit is 400°, but it's always going to take longer to cook food in an open grill so that wasn't a fatal flaw, and to compensate there's a 450° sear function that we did like.

The non-stick grill plates come out easily for cleaning, it doesn't take up a huge footprint (although the power cord is very short so it can't go just anywhere), and most importantly, it cooks well while retaining flavor and juices.

It wasn't quite as impressive as the Delonghi open grill we reviewed earlier, probably because it's much less powerful, but it's still a good choice in this price range.

Digging deeper on the Hamilton Beach 25360 Indoor Flavor/Searing Grill:

- Type: Open grill
- Power: 1220 watts
- Cooking area: 108 square inches
- Material: Stainless steel and Metal
- Non-stick cooking surfaces: Yes
- Temperature controls: Yes
- Locking cover: No
- Size: 17 x 7 x 12 inches
- Weight: 8 pounds
- Warranty: One year, limited

Bonus Review – George Foreman GRP-1060B 4-Serving Removable Plate Grill And Panini Press

The GRP-1060B is George Foreman's best selling model and deserves to be mentioned in this review. It is a bare-bones grill at a low price, so you won't find many extra features like timers and adjustable thermostats on this 60-square inch contact grill. But it's large enough to prepare a tasty dinner for four (if they don't have huge appetites), the non-stick coating on the plates is much better than on previous models, the machine heats up quickly (it's ready to go in as little as three minutes), and the trademark Foreman sloped grill design means there will be a minimum of fat buildup and splatter.

There's a one-inch adjustable hinge on the top that lets you grill different cuts and sizes of meat and veggies, as well as paninis.

Once again, like with the GRP99 model listed above, the Groom+Style Review Team also thought the power cord was definitely too short. The unit is available in either black or platinum finishes.

The 4-Serving Removable Plate grill's components are easy to remove and dishwasher-safe, the cooking surface is large enough for making four burgers or a couple of large steaks and the unit cooks nicely.

Specifications for the George Foreman GRP-1060B Grill And Panini Press:

- Type: Contact grill
- Power: 1440 watts
- Cooking area: 60 square inches
- Material: Plastic
- Non-stick cooking surfaces: Yes
- Temperature controls: No
- Locking cover: No
- Size: 13.4 x 12.2 x 6.5 inches

Hello,

Have you reviewed "Uchicook Steam Grill"? I'm looking for ways to cook fish other than frying, particularly by grill, and I was wondering if Uchicook would help.. Thanks 😊

Hi Melike, Thanks for introducing us to what looks like a really great product. The UchiCook Steam and Grill looks like a brilliant combined cooking method, for fish, vegetables (pretty much anything). We have not tried it, but from reading the online reviews available it seems like you start by grilling the fish (for example) and then once complete you add water (or stock etc) to the ridge inside the grill, pop the lid on and complete cooking. Supposedly cooking time is reduced by 1/3 and moisture is captured during the cooking process ensuring food remains juicy and tender. You... Read more »

Hi Bonnie, We like both the Philips Indoor and Power Smokeless Grills, but we prefer the latter for three reasons. First, the Power Smokeless Grill allows you to control the temperature settings, while the Philips simply heats up to a constant 446° temperature which may be too hot for some foods or types of grilling. Second, the glass lid that comes with the Power Smokeless keeps the heat in and allows moisture to circulate. Finally, the Power Smokeless is less expensive. It's true that the Philips is more powerful (1600 vs 1200 watts), but we don't find that to make... Read more »

Hi again Connie, Here's the story on the Power Smokeless Grill that's advertised on TV and also sold on Amazon. It's a good product, with – as with most products – its pros and cons. The most important pro is that it's versatile, doing a very nice job grilling everything from meat and fish to veggies. It can reach up to 450° with smart temperature control, so you can carefully choose the right temp for whatever it is you're grilling – high heat for searing meat, low temps for grilling pizza, for example. It's also easy to clean up. So... Read more »

Power Smokeless Grill Review: A Glance at the 1500W Indoor Grill

The Power Smokeless Grill is a well-loved cooking machine. With regulated temperature settings, meats and vegetables come out perfect every time. It comes with dishwasher safe components, making it a snap to clean up. There is no dealing with ash and soot like an outdoor charcoal grill.

Power Smokeless Grill: Notable Features

View On Amazon

Pros

- ✓ Fits six hamburgers
- ✓ 1500-watt
- ✓ Dishwasher safe parts
- ✓ Multifunctional griddle plate

Cons

- ❗ May leak smoke

With its sleek looks, this elegant cooking appliance will be a smart addition to your kitchen countertop. Unlike other hotplates and grills, the smart design of the Power Smokeless Grill, when working properly, pulls away the smoke so you can use it inside a kitchen or small apartment without setting off the fire alarm. The glass lid of the Power Smokeless Grill allows you to see how everything is cooking.

Grilling to Perfection

The Power Smokeless Grill is a great indoor grilling machine. It can nicely sear steaks to perfection while draining away the excess fat, making the food safer to eat. Your New York steaks will come out perfectly seared and mouthwateringly delectable.

The grill has no problem cooking vegetables like bell peppers and broccoli. You can have fun with shish kabob skewers of steak, bell pepper, onions, and mushrooms.

With non-stick coating and most components being dishwasher safe, cleanup is a snap. All the major components including the lid will come apart and fit into the lower tray of the dishwasher.

Great for Grilling Many Kinds of Foods

The Power Smokeless Grill is not just for meats. By switching the back and forth from the flat griddle surface, foods such as eggs, pancakes, grilled paninis, and grilled cheese will all come out perfectly.

The grill surface allows you to cook a whole breakfast of eggs, hashbrowns, bacon, and pancakes with it. That said, it's not as large as advertised. The claim that it can fit eight large burgers at the same time seems to be an over-statement—it can only fit about six at its best. That's still enough for a small family, but don't expect it to feed a big party.

Smoke Reduction

The grill is advertised as smokeless, and the amount of smoke produced is significantly less than other countertop grills like the George Foreman.

However, some users have reported that when cooking meat at high temperature settings, some smoke may manage to escape the internal venting system. We felt it is a matter of quality control on the manufacturer's part.

If you are to buy the grill, we recommend using it within a week since it's delivered to you. That way, there'll be enough time to return it if it happens to be a faulty machine that leaks smoke and smell.

The Power Smokeless Grill is still a significant improvement over other grills. It is important to watch the heat setting to keep this under control.

These days, electric grills are on the rise. They are better and better with each model and they offer features that were reserved for high-end charcoal grills in the past. They are obviously more advanced and come with all the essentials you may need. As you may know already here is the Power smokeless grill review, where we will look at one of the most popular and the most desirable grills of this kind. At the first sight, it looks like a complete deal and has all you may need.

Features of Power Smokeless Grill

Complete package

The first segment of our Power smokeless grill review is the package itself. In it, you will get a grill, griddle plate, grill plate, collection pan and a glass lid which makes the unit look even better. All you have to do is to assemble the grill (takes a couple of minutes) and you are ready to start grilling.

The grill is optimized for all types of grillers meaning that there are no complicated procedures, processes or anything similar. You can use it anywhere you like and you don't have to spend hours on researching what the best temperature is or something similar. All the components are well-made and you can see that they are beautifully made. We enjoyed testing this grill.

2 recipe books included

One of the most important and the most appealing features is actually the fact all future owners will get 2 cookbooks. They contain a massive number of recipes and here you can find literally anything you want to cook using the grill. The next best thing is the fact all the recipes are optimized and developed for this particular grill, meaning they will work perfectly with your new friend.

The recipes include meat meals, veggies and so much more. We obviously cannot list all the recipes or all the types of meals you can find and master but we can add that there are more than needed. You would need months to test the grill by preparing each of the meals included. In addition, the recipes are easy to follow, have all the necessary points and range from extremely simple to average in complexity.

1500 Watts power

1500 watts is actually the most common power of the grill you can find these days. Of course, we are referring to electric grills only. The reasons why are obvious. A grill with 1500 watts of power will be small and compact, but it is able to prepare various meals instantly and without any cold spots on them. Yes, you may opt for a bigger and more powerful grill but there is no need to do that.

On our tests, we prepared over 20 different meals using this very grill and each one was delicious. Each one was easy to prepare as well and we never thought a more powerful grill is needed. The precise cooking area is 13-1/2" x 8" another reason you do not need a bigger grill. This size is sufficient for single users, for families and also when grilling with friends. Mid-power wattage also allows you to use the grill on an external power source.

Ceramic tech nonstick coating

In the package, you get a grate and griddle plates. A more important part of the Power smokeless grill review you are reading is the fact both elements are coated with ceramics. This is actually a more advanced and more desirable type of coating that can provide better results and at the same time can assist you to cook more types of foods.

The grate and the griddle can be replaced within seconds and then you change the complete nature of the grill. Try to remember that some of the recipes in the cookbooks you will get are designed for griddle plate while others are made for grates specifically. You can still mix and match but if you are a newbie, follow the requirements. They are written by professional chefs, so you are unlikely to change something and make it better.

Air flow technology

The full name of this particular feature is the Air Flow Technology with Smoke Capture Fan. What it does is uses a fan to eliminate smoke but also to send hot air where it is needed. We saw this system on a few, far more expensive grills that are advertised as professional models. The result is epic and here's why.

The meals you can prepare will be evenly cooked and they taste perfect. There are no cold spots or too hot spots on the meat and foods, meaning you will grill like a pro. The taste is perfect each time and you are able to enjoy your productivity like never before. The technology is still relatively new and has plenty of room to be improved but for now, it is a game changing system that makes all the difference.

Let us not forget that you can activate the fan at any given moment. When you start grilling, it will be turned off but you have an option to activate it on the control panel on the right side. The same panel is used to adjust the temperature and to control the grill.

Glass lid

The last thing we can reveal is the lid. It is made from tempered glass and looks great. Yes, it is the simplest feature here but very important. When using metal lids you must open it to see the foods. This will decrease the temperature of the grill and may have a side effect on the cooking. Professionals know this and they are able to adjust the temperature or they simply do not open the lid.

When the lid is made from clear glass, you are able to see the progress without removing the lid. This also helps you adjust the temperature if needed and get an even better result with more delicious foods.

WHO SHOULD INVEST IN GETTING THE PRODUCT?

In our Power smokeless grill review we revealed all the features, the pros, and cons of the tested grill. It is an excellent choice for us many but it is still designed for several types of users. The first type are the most homeowners and apartment owners who need a small can compact, yet powerful grill. If space is an issue in your life but you love to grill, the model is the best answer to your question we can think of.

The second type of users who need to consider this grill are newbies or beginners. If you are one of them, you will like to know that the grill is easy to use, comes with detailed instructions and recipes you can prepare by yourself. There are no complicated temperature adjustments or anything similar. Just turn the grill on and start grilling. Glass lid eliminates the risk of errors while grilling and can help you see the progress of your food at any given moment. Once again, this grill is excellent for all beginners.

The third type of users are those who need a complete deal. As we have mentioned at the beginning, the grill comes with the grate, lid, griddle and all the essentials you will need. If this is your first grill, you are a lucky person. There is no need to order several components separately and to mix and match. Simply get the package, assemble it and start grilling.

To summarize, the grill is excellent for people who need practicality and simplicity but still want delicious foods. We don't see why professional grillers will be unhappy with this purchase and we believe that the grill will meet the expectations of us many. Anyway, we had a great time on the test and we prepared some of the most impressive meals within minutes. You can do the same in the comfort of your home.

CONCLUSION

The last part of the Power smokeless grill review is the one we like the most. It is the rating. All combined we can give this grill 4.8 stars out of 5. It is a high rating and here's why. We liked the functionality, the package and the features which allow to newbies to cook like professionals. We liked the quality and the recipes included. It really makes grilling more appealing than ever before. Honestly, if the price is a bit lower and cleaning a bit easier, this grill will have 5 stars. ALL SEASONS ARE GREAT FOR GRILLING

The Power Smokeless Grill Review 2020 - As Seen On TV?

Ever wanted to enjoy a delicious grilled meal in the evening and ended up having to fire up the barbeque out in the cold, only to notice that the propane tanks are almost empty? Now you have to refill them and waste precious time. Forget about that hassle. With the Power Smokeless Grill, you can cook indoors and never worry about filling up your home with smoke. You can grill your food to perfection all year long.

The PowerSmokeless Grill has a smoke-extracting technology that acts as a vacuum and sucks up smoke and odors. It heats up in just a few minutes and gives the food a charred look just like the one you would get when grilling with charcoal outside. The temperature remains constant for consistent results every time you use it.

What can you grill with the Power Smokeless Grill?

Anything you want! In the mood for some surf and turf? A juicy Porterhouse? BBQ ribs? Once you're done, no one will believe it was not cooked on an outdoor grill. Enjoy your veggies, chicken, shrimp, salmon, or any other of your favorite recipe ingredients, always grilled to perfection.

The water also helps cool the smoke, and as a result, nearly all of it is eliminated from the system. That means it won't smoke up your kitchen and the air indoors. No more worrying about setting off the smoke alarm.

How do I use the Power Smokeless Grill?

Operating your Power Smokeless Grill is very easy. Just lift off the grill plate, heating element, and drip tray to reveal the water tray collection pan. Add about two cups of water to the water tray collection panel and reassemble.

To turn the unit on, make sure that the detachable power cord is plugged into both the unit and an electrical wall outlet. Always make sure your unit is on a flat surface. Then, on the control panel, touch the button marked fan to turn on the fan and touch the power button to turn on the power. Use the up or down arrows to toggle the heat settings up or down. The temperature can be set from 220°F to 450°F. That's it! Now you are ready to add your favorite grilled food and start grilling indoors.

When you are done, merely touch the fan button to turn off the fan and touch the power button to turn off the heating element.

How much can I grill?

The Power Smokeless Grill has a small-sized design, measuring 13.75" X 8, but don't let that fool you; the entire grilling surface – made of heavy-duty cast aluminum – can fit a whole chicken, three racks of ribs, or eight large burgers. Enough to feed a hungry family.

How long does it take to cook my meal on the Power Smokeless Grill?

Take a look at the following chart to get an idea of the average cooking times.

Cooking Chart

Food Item	Time	Internal Temperature	It's Done When
Fish	12–15 mins. (1-in. thick)	155° F	Opaque/Flaky Texture
Shrimp	2–4 mins. (per side)	155° F	Opaque & Red Edges
Chicken Drumsticks	30–45 mins.	176° F	Juice Runs Clear
Chicken Wings	20–25 mins.	176° F	Juice Runs Clear
Kabobs	12–15 mins.	-	Your Preference
Steak	3–9 mins. (per side)	140° F–165° F	Your Preference
Pork Chops	20–25 mins.	160° F	No Pink Meat
Burgers	10–15 mins.	160° F	Your Preference
Sausages	15–25 mins.	160° F	No Pink Meat
Bacon	1–2 mins. (per side)	NA	Crispy

So, what's the secret?

The Power Smokeless Grill has a heat source that evenly transmits heat to the grill plate. This reaches up to 450°F, and while it cooks, the fat drips into a tray below. So, not only is your food delicious but also healthy, draining away the fat.

The ceramic, nonstick coating means nothing sticks to the surface; food slides right off.

No more smoke

The main feature of this device is the turbo speed smoke extractor technology. As your Power Smokeless Grill grills your food just like your outdoor grill, an innovative smoke extraction system goes to work. The fan unit creates a vacuum light environment that pulls the smoke down through the vents into the unit, so the smoke does not escape into the air.

The smoke is then channeled over the water tray collection. When it passes over the water, food particles, grease, and other airborne molecules are captured and trapped.

- Base with Smoke Extractor
- Two Grill/Griddle Cookbooks

Is cleaning the Power Smokeless Grill easy?

After you are finished cooking, cleanup is a breeze. Just remember to let the Power Smokeless Grill cool down before you clean it. An easy way to clean it is to put the griddle plate, drip tray, water tray, and glass lid right in the dishwasher. They are all dishwasher-safe, so no scrubbing required.

The base unit can be washed by hand with a warm, damp cloth and a few drops of mild cleaning liquid. For more thorough cleaning, remove the electric fan and clean inside the casing. Never submerge the electric fan or the heating element in water or liquid since the electrical parts will get damaged.

It is important to always wash the grill surface after each use to remove any accumulated grease. Never use scouring pads, abrasive pads, or harsh cleaners to prevent scratching or damaging the coating. If scrubbing becomes necessary, use a plastic scrubbing pad or a nylon bristle brush.

Does the Power Smokeless Grill really work as it says on TV?

ABC's affiliate WNEP-TV news section "Does it really work" reviewed this product a few months ago. With the help of Jake, a professional chef who works at Jay's Famous Roast Pork & Beef in Dallas, Pennsylvania, they put the Power Smokeless Grill to the test.

Chicken, steak, sausage, burger patties, and more were grilled to perfection and received an enthusiastic thumbs up.

MISSOURI CITY, Texas — The makers of the Power Smokeless Grill say you can get that outdoor flavor without firing up your backyard grill.

The setup is easy.

The only tricky part is making sure you don't spill water after filling the tray at the bottom. That tray combined with a turbo speed fan are the secrets to this indoor grill.

The makers of the Power Smokeless Grill say you can get that outdoor flavor without ringing up your backyard grill.

"I'm actually liking the setup and everything," Gwen said after watching us put the countertop grill together.

Gwen admitted that her favorite food is cooked outdoors and it's hard to recreate that flavor anywhere else.

"There is something about that grilled taste on meat especially but on the veggies that's when it's really good," she said.

It took the grill about five minutes to warm up.

While we waited, we added seasoning and a little olive oil to everything.

When the grill was hot, we put our food on and covered with the lid. The directions say that cooking works best with the lid on.

We bought chicken, hot dogs and lots of vegetables for our review. We recruited help from Gwen Jones. She's a mom in Missouri City.

We could hear the sizzle, smell the goodness but we saw no smoke coming from the grill!

In less than 15 minutes, our entire meal was ready.

Gwen was amazed that everything had grill marks and cooked evenly. Even the chicken was cooked just right.

"It is good and it's moist," Gwen announced. Our vegetables and hot dogs turned out great too.

Disinfectant wipes will be tough to find until 2021 | Connect the Dots

That doesn't mean you can't still disinfect.

Author: Marcelino Benito (KHOU)
Published: 6:31 AM CDT August 5, 2020
Updated: 6:31 AM CDT August 5, 2020

It's become a must have product during this global pandemic: disinfectant wipes. But at least one manufacturer is warning they won't be fully restocked until next year.

Let's connect the dots.

While toilet paper has thankfully returned to store shelves some other products remain hard to find, and that includes disinfectant wipes.

What If There Was No Money?

FEATURED BY

The head of Clorox has told Reuters the company doesn't expect its popular wipes to be back on store shelves in force until 2021.

While part of the problem is the overwhelming demand, the industry is running into supply chain issues.

According to the Seventh Generation, which also makes popular disinfectant wipes, the issue is raw materials. And the raw materials used for wipes are the same ones used for personal protection equipment. That includes things like masks, medical gowns and medical wipes.

That doesn't mean you can't still disinfect.

Other products like disinfectant sprays and soap are still widely available, according to manufacturers. And they are planning on keeping up increased output even after there is a vaccine, predicting that cleaning will be part of our "new normal."
