Re: Opposition No. 91110507
CONNEX INTERNATIONAL INC.
V.
CONNEX, INC.

Dear Sir or Madam:

Please be advised we have received your letter dated November 22, 2004 noting that there is 30 days to show cause why the Board should not treat the Plaintiff's failure to file a brief as a concession of the case. Please note that we are not the attorneys of record in this matter but are responding as a courtesy.

The attorney handling this case, James Hastings, was employed by Morgan & Finnegan at the time of the opposition filing. This notice was sent to them originally and then later forwarded to our office as his last known place of employment. However, Mr. Hastings is no longer with our firm or practicing law but working in a business capacity as the head of a consulting operation in South America. We have attempted to contact him to find out the status of this case but as of yet have been unable to reach him. We have also attempted to contact the President of Connex who is away on vacation. We do not have any files or documents in our offices regarding this matter.

Under these circumstances it may be appropriate to extend the period to file a brief in opposition, in the even our attempts to forward this to the relevant party uncover the need for any actions to be taken.

Very truly yours,

Jess M. Collen
