Mailed: May 25, 2004

Opposition No. 91159199

The Financial Times
Limited

v.

Financial Technology
Research Institute, Inc.

Karen Kuhlke, Attorney:

On April 14, 2004, the Board suspended these proceedings to facilitate settlement negotiations between the parties. Subsequently, applicant's request, filed on December 16, 2003, that a typographical error in its application be corrected, was associated with the proceeding file. Inasmuch as the request for correction was filed prior to the commencement of this proceeding, it is not governed by Trademark Rule 2.133. However, in order to expedite matters, the Board will act on this request.

By its request, applicant notes that in the recitation of services listed in its application "creditworthiness" appears as one word; however, the Trademark Office entered "creditworthiness" as two words in its database. Inasmuch as this is merely a typographical error by the Trademark

Office, applicant's request is granted and the recitation of services is amended to correct this error.

Proceedings herein remain suspended in accordance with the April 14, 2004 order.
