NetApp, Inc.

v.

IntApp, Inc.

Cheryl Goodman, Interlocutory Attorney:

On October 21, 2008, applicant filed a proposed amendment to its application Serial No. 78670061, with opposer's consent.

By the proposed amendment applicant seeks to change the identification of goods to delete "Computer software for enabling computer software applications to work together" from the identification of goods, which will then read as follows:

"computer software applications for enabling mobile communications devices, computer and computer peripherals to work together; computer software for enabling computer software applications to share computer, mobile communications device and computer peripherals data; computer software for enabling mobile communications devices, computer and computer peripherals to share computer, mobile communications devices and computer peripherals data; computer software for limiting access to specific computer, mobile communications devices and computer peripherals data; and downloadable computer software for use in troubleshooting computer software problems."

Applicant also seeks to amend the mark from "INTAPP" to "INT APP".

Inasmuch as the amendment is not a material alteration of the mark and because opposer consents thereto, it is approved and entered. See Trademark Rule 2.133(a).

If this resolves the dispute herein, opposer is allowed until thirty days from the mailing date of this order to file a withdrawal of the opposition, failing which the opposition will go forward on the application as amended. See Trademark Rule 2.106(c).

Opposition No. 91177825

By one rule change effective August 31, 2007, the Board's standard protective order is made applicable to all TTAB inter partes cases, whether already pending or commenced on or after that date. However, as explained in the final rule and chart, this change will not affect any case in which any protective order has already been approved or imposed by the Board. Further, as explained in the final rule, parties are free to agree to a substitute protective order or to supplement or amend the standard order even after August 31, 2007, subject to Board approval.
