DECLARATION OF ROBERT M. FRANK, Ph.D. IN SUPPORT OF APPLICANT'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

I, Robert M. Frank, Ph.D., declare that:

1. My name is Robert M. Frank. I am the owner, President and founder of Illuminor LLC ("Illuminor"), which specializes in research, consulting and expert witness testimony with respect to trademark infringement matters.

PURPOSE OF DECLARATION

2. Illuminor was retained by counsel for CoreBeauty to conduct research regarding MyBody, L.L.C.'s claim that CoreBeauty's MY trademarks are confusingly similar to MyBody's trademark, MYBODY. I am being compensated by CoreBeauty at the rate of $375 per hour plus expenses.

SUMMARY OF KEY FINDINGS

3. The key findings from my research are set forth in paragraphs 4 - 8 below:

4. The one-word trademark MY has twice been registered in International Class 3.

One of those Registrants, BCCB, LLC (dba My Co.), marketed a product called "My handmade bath creme" (Exhibit G). Those registrations were canceled (Section 8), and the products no longer appear to be marketed. When the one-word trademarks for MY were active, other multi-word trademarks containing or beginning with the word MY were concurrently registered. That is, marks containing the word MY (or beginning with the word MY) were registered prior to (and were active at the time of) the registration of the one-word mark MY in International Class 3; subsequent to each registration of the one-word mark MY in International Class 3, new marks were registered that either began with or contained the word MY and the registrations for these new marks were issued at the same time as each one-word MY registration was active.

5. There is no reason why CoreBeauty should not be permitted to be the third registrant. The one-word trademark MY in International Class 3 is available for registration and adoption.

6. The use of MY as the first word of a multi-word mark in International Class 3 is common. Currently there are over fifty (50) trademarks registered in International Class 3 that begin with the word MY.

7. The use of the word MY as a component of a trademark or as the first word of a trademark is not currently indicative of source or origin of any cosmetic product. However, this does not mean that the one-word MY cannot become a trademark indicative of the source or origin of a cosmetic product.

8. There does not appear to be any company using the 1-word trademark MY for any type of cosmetic products.

QUALIFICATIONS

9. I received my Bachelor's Degree from the University of Missouri-Columbia College of Education in 1974. I received my Master's Degree from the same institution in 1975 and I received my Ph. D. from the University of Missouri-Columbia in 1979.

10. In 1983 I left academia for the business world. I started a company in New York City named CORSEARCH®. Initially CORSEARCH was formed to provide Lexis® and Westlaw® searches for small to medium sized law firms who did not have access to these systems due to their high cost and specialized training requirements.

11. In 1985 I transformed CORSEARCH from a case law research company into an intellectual property research firm that specialized in the research needs of trademark practitioners. Over the next 11 years I grew the business from 5 employees to nearly 100. When I sold CORSEARCH in 1996 the company was completing nearly 20,000 trademark searches per year for clients who were mainly Fortune 500® companies or their outside counsel.

12. There are several reasons why a corporation or individual may wish to have a trademark search conducted including registerability and distinctiveness. A skilled trademark researcher will consider several factors when designing and conducting a search including corrupted or alternative spellings of the proposed name (i.e., searching for Genesys or Jenesis when the proposed mark is Genesis) and marks registered or used in association with similar or related goods and /or services. A skilled "master" trademark researcher will conduct an exhaustive search of the mark in order to provide the client with the most comprehensive report possible while, at the same time, often not knowing the purpose of the search. A master trademark researcher must thoroughly understand issues such as “likelihood of confusion”, “trade dress” “dilution”, “generic” marks and “descriptiveness” as applied to trademark law. In addition they must understand that some marks, such as arbitrary or fanciful marks, are “stronger” than other marks, such as suggestive or descriptive marks. If a mark appears to be suggestive or descriptive, the researcher will need to consider whether there are similar words or terms that invoke a parallel suggestion or description. Finally, they must also understand that some marks are generic and therefore are legally incapable of serving as a trademark.

13. During my 15 years as CEO and President of CORSEARCH I developed our trademark research service, personally trained over 50 trademark researchers (many of whom became “master” searchers) and developed a structured classroom experience that was used for training at least another 100 researchers. In the early days of our foray into trademark searching I not only trained researchers but I also completed full US comprehensive trademark searches. From the period of 1986 until 1990 I generally completed about 50 searches per month and I estimate that I personally conducted over 5,000 full U.S. trademark searches while I was at CORSEARCH. Some of these searches were for major product launch marks such as Fruitopia®, a product marketed by Coca-Cola® or Special Additions for Haagen-Dazs®. Without a solid foundation in trademark law and a comprehensive understanding of trademark lexicon (such as “likelihood of confusion”, “dilution”, “generic”, “suggestive” and “descriptive”), I could not have satisfactorily completed these projects and I would not have been able to train others or grow CORSEARCH into becoming the second largest trademark research firm in the world.

14. From 1985 through May 1998, I personally developed and updated the training program and training manuals used by all researchers at CORSEARCH. In addition, on the average I would spend three afternoons per week reviewing reports that were being completed that day for our clients. I estimate that I personally reviewed at least 45,000 trademark searches while at CORSEARCH.

15. I have personally designed, developed, configured, maintained and used proprietary databases specifically designed for searching and retrieving information related to trademarks.

16. I have been a member of International Trademark Association (INTA) since 1985 and have chaired or co-chaired committees, task forces and teams on behalf of INTA.

17. As a result of my application of statistics, research and teaching to a business environment I have received several awards and honors from the University of Missouri, which are listed on my resume attached hereto as Exhibit A.

18. As a result of my achievements in improving the practice of trademark searching I was asked to become a member of the International Trademark Association's (INTA) U.S. Patent and Trademark Office ("USPTO") Automation Committee. I accepted the position and within a year was co-chair of the committee. In this position I traveled to Washington, D.C. almost once a week for meetings at the USPTO. I provided guidance and advice to personnel at the USPTO as to how trademark databases can be made searchable over a network such as the Internet. I also provided guidance and advice to USPTO personnel regarding the best ways to integrate the elements of an electronic trademark filing system so as to properly add the new data to the existing database. The results of over 5 years of assistance to the USPTO can be seen today on the PTO's web site in the form of their search system and its integration to their TRAM (Trademark Reporting and Monitoring) and TESS (Trademark Electronic Search System) programs.

19. In the early 1990s I was again contacted by the International Trademark Association and asked to provide assistance in connection with a pressing matter: the conflict between trademarks and domain names. At that time there were only about 80,000 "dot com" domain names and the database was growing at a paltry rate of a few thousand per year. However, some persons had registered domain names such as mcdonalds.com and were writing articles about the "new wild west" of the Internet. The trademark community was fearful that trademark rights were going to be diminished in this new frontier. I was asked to co-chair the Association's Internet Domain Names Task Force with David Maher, a highly respected attorney in Chicago with the firm Sonnenschein, Nath and Rosenthal.

20. Over the next several years David and I gave presentations around the world on the issues arising in connection with conflicts between Internet domain names and trademarks. We worked closely with members of the Internet Assigned Numbers Authority, the Internet Society, the US State Department, the US Congress, the World Intellectual Property Organization and the International Telecommunications Union to develop standards, regulations and policies regarding the Internet.

21. Because of the innovations and contributions that CORSEARCH made to the trademark searching industry I was asked to become a founding member and a member of the Board of Governors of the International Trademark Association's Brand Names Education Foundation (BNEF). I served as a member of the Board of Governors of BNEF from its formation until 1998.

22. Finally, a listing of all matters in which I have been retained to provide research, consulting or expert witness services during the last four years is included in my resume which is provided as Exhibit A to this report. Matters on which I am currently working, or in connection with which my retention has not yet been publicly disclosed are not included.

23. I have been retained in matters where the questions addressed have centered on dilution, genericness, descriptiveness, trade dress and product configurations. I have provided research and reports for cases in several U.S. District Court jurisdictions, The U.S. Patent and Trademark Office and at trademark office matters in Israel, Hong Kong and China. My reports have never been excluded.

RESEARCH SOURCES

Dialog as a Reliable Source of Information:

24. To identify instances where a mark was mentioned in a magazine, newspaper, trade journal or industry publication, Illuminor uses an information service known as Dialog. Dialog is a pay-as-you-go subscription service that has been in existence since the 1970's. The Dialog system consists of hundreds of different files (databases) that contain practically every major newspaper, magazine, trade journal, professional journal, scholarly journal, press release or business report printed in the Western/English speaking world (although more and more non-English language publications are being added to the system annually.) The various Dialog databases include content from as early as the 1950's and are as current as yesterday. According to the Dialog Internet site, "Our tools and services offer organizations the ability to precisely retrieve data from more than 800 million (emphasis added) unique records of key information, accessible via the Internet or through delivery to enterprise intranets."

(<http://www.dialog.com/products/>) In addition, the Dialog web site states, "...DialogClassic [which is what was used for this report] offers a command-driven line oriented interface to more than 500,000 sources (emphasis added) of scientific, technical, medical, business, news and intellectual property information." (<http://www.dialog.com/products/productline/dialog.shtml>)

25. Dialog is a primary source of common-law information for trademark research reports conducted by leading trademark research firms such as CT-CORSEARCH and has consistently been found to be a reliable source of information for trademark research and trademark attorneys.

26. The purpose of conducting research on Dialog is to determine the scope of coverage and the amount of print media attention that references a particular word or phrase in a particular context. By thoroughly researching Dialog, a trademark searcher is able to ascertain the type, amount and frequency of exposure that a particular word or phrase would have to the members of the public who obtain information from print sources such as magazines, newspapers, trade journals, product evaluations or press releases.

27. The Dialog system contains article abstracts and full-text versions of the article. Both abstracts and full-text versions are often indexed to more readily identify company names and trade names. In addition the Dialog system allows users to search for "free text" or generic uses of a mark, name or phrase.

28. While I was at CORSEARCH, we tested the accuracy of the Dialog database and found it to be 100% accurate. From 1983-85, I and other employees of CORSEARCH verified over 100 search reports that had been completed by taking them to the New York City public libraries to determine whether we could locate original versions of the articles that had been digitized on Dialog. We learned that the Dialog version was 100% accurate when compared to the original printed periodical, with the exception of extremely infrequent typographical errors. I have continued to verify Dialog for accuracy and reliability and I found, that of the articles for which I was able to find an original source document, the Dialog version mirrored the original source document with 100% accuracy.

29. One of the advantages of conducting research by using database systems such as Dialog (or Lexis®/Nexis®) is that database research is highly replicable. That is, because databases have a fixed amount of content at a given moment, and that content is backed-up numerous times on alternative file servers, re-running an identical search one day, a week, a month or even a year later will almost always retrieve all of the citations found in the earlier search, along with updated citations that have been added to the database since the first query. Consistency, reliability and the ability to replicate are substantial advantages offered by database searching that are not available through traditional mall-intercept or telephone surveys of the type that were historically offered in trademark cases.

30. In addition, Dialog-based research for this case (and some Internet-based research), have the added value of being highly verifiable. That is, in many instances it is possible to obtain photocopies of the original source articles that were included on Dialog so as to verify the accuracy of the online information.

Internet-based Research:

31. The purpose of conducting research on the Internet by means of search engines such as Yahoo and Google is to determine the amount, frequency and type of exposure that a particular word or phrase has to members of the public who seek information from the Internet. Quite often the use of a particular word or phrase is found on the web and is not found on Dialog. This is primarily due to many small companies that have a “web presence” but are not large or unique enough to have obtained coverage of their products or services via traditional print media. The best way to ascertain coverage and use of a term or phrase in the primary sources (other than television) that consumers most often use to obtain information about products and services is to review both Dialog and the Internet.

32. For both the Dialog and Internet research, I used search strategies that were based on my extensive and decades-long experience in trademark searching, I developed search protocols consistent with those used by trademark search firms and the USPTO. My methodology requires that I input search criterion that are compared against a database (or the Internet) and results in a factual output of relevant use of a given term or phrase. My results are factually developed and based on standard search criteria and independently maintained sources.

Admissibility Before the USPTO of Evidence Obtained from Dialog:

33. The U.S. judicial system is one venue where issues of likelihood of confusion are tried and resolved. The vast majority of matters that involve likelihood of confusion are initially (and often conclusively) addressed at the USPTO, the very agency charged with making this kind of determination, as part of the examination process for the 150,000+ annual filings of new trademark applications at the USPTO. Applications for registration are first reviewed by an assigned examining attorney and subsequently, if an examiner's refusal to register is appealed, by the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board.

34. The Trade Mark Manual of Examining Procedure ("TMEP" — currently 7th Edition) provides procedures for examiners to use when reviewing trademark applications.

35. The USPTO addresses the admissibility of evidence obtained from databases such as NEXIS and DIALOG in the TMEP. Section 710.01(a) that states:

710.01(a) Evidence From Research Database

36. If evidence is obtained from a research database, the record should include an indication of the specific search that was conducted. The record should indicate the libraries and/or files that were searched and the results. If the examining attorney does not review all of the documents the search locates, the record should indicate the number of documents that were reviewed. The search summary should be made a part of the record and will provide most of this information. Information not indicated on the summary, such as the number of documents viewed, should be stated in narrative in the Office action. The Office action should include a citation to the research service, indicating the service, the library and the file searched, and the date of the search (e.g., LEXIS®, New and Business, All News (June 5, 2007)).

37. When evidence is obtained from a research database, the examining attorney does not have to make all stories of record. It is sufficient to include only a portion of the search results, as long as that portion is a representative sample (emphasis added) of what the entire search revealed. In re Vaughan Furniture Co. Inc., 24 USPQ2d 1068, 1069 n.2 (TTAB 1992). See also In re Federated Department Stores Inc., 3 USPQ2d 1541, 1542 n.2 (TTAB 1987).

38. The DIALOG information that is included in this Report identifies not only (1) the specific searches that were conducted, (2) the libraries and/or files that were searched and (3) the results, but also includes citations to the exact publication name and publication date of the articles cited. The Dialog information presented in this Report complies 100% with the requirements for the admissibility of evidence as detailed in Section 710.01(a) of the TMEP. The presentation of the DIALOG information follows an approach that is openly and consistently accepted by the USPTO and the TTAB for identifying and presenting information concerning the use of a mark and the way in which the public is using a term.

Admissibility Before the USPTO of Evidence Obtained from the Internet:

39. The TMEP in Section 710.01(b) (Internet Evidence) states:

Articles downloaded from the Internet are admissible as evidence of information available to the public, and of the way in which the public is using a term. (Emphasis added) However, the weight given to this evidence must be carefully evaluated, because the source may be unknown. See In re Total Quality Group Inc., 51 USPQ2d 1474, 1475-76 (TTAB 1999); Raccioppi v. Apogee Inc., 47 USPQ2d 1368, 1370-71 (TTAB 1998). When making Internet evidence part of the record, the examining attorney should provide complete information as to the source or context of the evidence. Any information that would aid a party in locating the relevant document should be included in the citation (e.g., the complete URL address of the website, the time and date the search was conducted, and the terms searched).

40. The Internet information presented in this Report complies 100% with the requirements for the admissibility of evidence as detailed in Section 710.01(b) of the TMEP. The presentation of the Internet information follows an approach that is openly and consistently accepted by the USPTO and the TTAB for identifying and presenting information concerning the use of a mark and the way in which the public is using a term.

Summary:

41. In summary, the sources and methods used for this Expert Report are the same types of sources gathered by the same methodology that is used on a daily basis by the USPTO to determine whether the mark in an application for federal trademark registration is registrable, is likely to cause confusion with a previously filed or registered trademark, is dilutive of a previously filed or registered trademark, or alternatively is either descriptive or generic.

RESEARCH PROCEDURES

42. I began my research for this project on August 3, 2011 and completed the research and the preparation of this Declaration on January 12, 2011.

43. My first step in conducting research for this project was to read the various documents that have been filed with the USPTO. Upon developing an outline of key components of the opposition I next reviewed the web site for the Opposer. I then conducted my research on the Internet (including the USPTO web site) and Dialog. I next prepared Exhibit B (Dialog Search Results) and Exhibit C (USPTO Search Results), Exhibit D (Spreadsheet of USPTO Records), Exhibit E (Internet Search Results), Exhibit F (Summary Spreadsheet), Exhibit G (Canceled Federal MY Registrations) and Exhibit H (Concurrent MY Registrations).

At times I may have prepared additional spreadsheets or other types of documents to facilitate my analysis of the information I obtained or developed. If those spreadsheets or documents contained information upon which I relied for the preparation of this report or the forming of my opinions then those spreadsheets or documents are included either in the report itself or as an Exhibit to the report. If I did not rely upon particular information that I may have uncovered, discovered or created during the research phase of this project then I did not retain nor disclose the information or the documents.

44. Using my decades of knowledge and experience in searching Dialog and the Internet I targeted my queries to identify trade names (primarily in the cosmetics lotions and creams market) that either used the single word MY as a trademark or used the letters MY as the first letters of a multi-word trademark. The purpose for conducting these queries was to determine if MY is primarily or exclusively associated with MyBody or whether MY is used by competing companies for competing products, and if so, to what extent.

Dialog Search Procedures:

45. Thirteen databases on the Dialog system offer supplemental search indexing by Trade Name. (Two of those databases are international in nature and, therefore, were not considered for inclusion in this project.) That is, as the database is prepared indices are created for company name, publication date, publication name, trade name, etc. A database indexed by trade names is especially helpful, as will be shown in this report, for identifying trade names that contain frequently used terms or hard to search terms such as stop words. In addition, as is shown in Exhibit B, Pages 19-40, it is possible to obtain a listing of all trade names indexed in these databases by the first letter (or letters) of the trade name. In this instance, I retrieved a listing of all trade names that began with the letters MY.

46. The eleven databases that were searched are listed at Exhibit B, Page 1. As can be seen from scanning the database titles, coverage extends as far back as 1959 (File 47) and as current as September 5 (two days prior to the conducting of my research.) These databases, according to information found at <http://library.dialog.com/bluesheets/>, contain information from over 6,500 sources such as scholarly publications, business, technical or trade journals, newspapers, governmental publications and general news periodicals. As of September 28, 2010 these 11 databases contain more than fifty-seven (57) million articles.

47. I queried these eleven databases seeking records that contained MY in the trade name field and which also mentioned “cosmetic” or “skin” or “lotion” or “cream”.

USPTO Search Procedures:

48. I conducted three queries using the USPTO web site search engine. The first query was for all LIVE (pending or registered) trademarks in International Class 3 that are indexed as having the word MY in either the Basic Index (BI) or Full Mark (FM) fields and which have goods listed as “cream” or “lotion”. One hundred fifty (150) records were identified from my query and the search summary listing of those records is provided as Exhibit C, Pages 1-6.

49. My second query was for all LIVE (pending or registered) trademarks in International Class 5 that are indexed as having the word MY in either the Basic Index (BI) or Full Mark (FM) fields and which have goods listed as “cream” or “lotion” and are not also filed in International Class 3. Thirteen (13) records were identified from my query and the search summary listing of those records is provided as Exhibit C, Page 7.

50. My third query was for DEAD (canceled, expired or abandoned) trademarks in International Class 3 that are indexed as having the word MY in International Class 3. Four hundred fourteen (414) records were identified as complying with my query. I reviewed the summary listing provided by the USPTO and selected only those records where the entire trademark consisted solely of the word MY and the mark had previously been registered. Two records were identified that met my criterion and they are provided as Exhibit G.

51. I next reviewed the search summaries from the first and second queries and downloaded, from the USPTO web site, the record for all the registered marks that began with the word MY. The fifty-five (55) records that were selected from the first query are presented as Exhibit C, Pages 8-70; the three records that were selected from the second query are presented as Exhibit C, Pages 71-73.¹

52. Next I prepared a spreadsheet summarizing the results of these two USPTO queries. (Exhibit D) On the spreadsheet I named columns according to the general terms used by MyBody to describe its trademarks as listed in the MyBody Opposition filing. The terms I selected were (1) Lotions and Creams, (2) Antiperspirants, Deodorants or Deodorizers, (3) Anti-Aging or Anti-Wrinkle, (4) Peels, Soaps or Cleaners and (5) Moisturizer. (The only column heading that I added and which does not represent goods/services found in the MyBody registrations is "Hair Care". I added this column because the use of MY for hair care products such as conditioners or shampoos was rather prevalent.)

¹ It should be noted that two records that were reviewed were subsequently discarded because the actual goods/services descriptions were not relevant to the current matter. Those two records were Registration # 3999733 for MY CAMELLA which is only a hair coloring product that is sold as a gel or cream and MY BUDDY, Registration #2955242 that is used for shampoo products for pets.

53. Each row of the spreadsheet lists individual trademarks in the same order as they appear in Exhibit C; I placed an "X" in each column where the goods listed in the trademark are the same (or very similar) as those listed by MyBody in its trademark registrations.

Internet Searching Procedures:

54. Searching a term such as MY on the Internet is problematic in that MY is a very frequently used word. Even adding refinement terms such as "lotion" or "cream" or "cosmetic" does not generally assist one in finding cosmetic products whose name begins with the word MY. However, that does not mean that it is impossible to find such products on the Internet.

55. I began my queries by searching web sites that are known for selling drugstore / pharmaceutical types of products such as drugstore.com as well as regular well known retailers such as shopzilla.com and amazon.com. I browsed page after page of search results and selected only those pages that displayed cosmetic products where the name of the product began with the word MY. The images and pages that I selected are provided in Exhibit E.

Dialog Searching Results (Exhibit B):

56. My searching of the DIALOG databases previously discussed in this report identified cosmetic industry products such as anti-aging products, moisturizers, skin cleaning products, creams and lotions whose trade names begin with "MY". Records retrieved from my DIALOG research included uses such as:

- My Age Is Concealed, anti-aging formula, April 18, 1994, Product Alert (Exhibit B, Page 2)
- My Skin Designer Fragrance Body Cleanser & Moisturizer All-in-One, October 10, 1995 (Lookout, Non Foods Edition) (Exhibit B, Page 3)
- My Everything Cream, a skin care product, June 29, 1992, Advertising Age (Exhibit B, Page 3)
- My Queen, a fragrance, July 1, 2005, WWD-Women's Wear Daily, (Exhibit B, Page 4)
- My Essential Solutions Cleanser; Moisturizers; Lip Conditioner; Night Cream; Exfoliator; Toner; Body Cream, January 25, 1993, Product Alert (Exhibit B, Page 6)
- My Fancy Skin Care Makeup, June, 1991, Cosmetics & Toiletries & Household Products Marketing News in Japan, (Exhibit B, Page 7)
- My Home Shower Body Shampoo, August 15, 1990, International Product Alert (Exhibit B, Page 8)
- My Pearl Cleansing Milk, March 4, 1992, International Product Alert (Exhibit B, Page 10)

- My Foot Thing (calluses remover), June 26, 1987, PR Newswire, (Exhibit B, Page 11)
- Beginning on Exhibit B, Page 19 there is a listing of over 900 trade names that begin with the letters “MY”.

57. Opposer MyBody claims a date of first use for its MyBody line of cosmetic products as January 28, 2011. All 9 of the listed “MY” cosmetic products found on Dialog were marketed prior to the Opposer’s date of first use for its MyBody line of cosmetics—one by over 20 years and all by at least 5 years. The prevalence of numerous multi-word² MY cosmetic products prior to the Opposer’s date of first use for its MyBody line of cosmetic products leads one to the conclusion that the use of the word MY as the first word for a multi-word trade name for cosmetic products has been a frequent and common occurrence since long before MyBody began marketing its line of cosmetic products.

58. The 21 page listing of multi-word trade names that begin with MY (as shown at Exhibit B, Pages 19-40) leads one to the conclusion that the use of the word MY as the first word of a multi-word trade name is widespread and seems to be used for practically every type of product imaginable. For instance, in browsing the lengthy listing of MY products where the word after MY begins with the letter B (as does MyBody) one finds uses such as:

- My Bank Tracker (online software)
- My Benefits (insurance software)
- My Book (computer hard drives)

² Multi-word trademarks can be either a trademark with several separate words such as My Benefits Tracker or a trademark where the space between words has been eliminated such as MyBody (which is also referred to as a compressed mark).

- My Bread (financial planning)
- My Buddy (tackle boxes)
- MyBackup (backup software)
- MyBase (computer program)
- MyBelle (telephone)

USPTO Searching Results: (Exhibits C, D and G)

59. 55 International Class 3 registered multi-word MY records were retrieved from the USPTO web site and three International Class 5 registered multi-word MY records were retrieved from the USPTO web site. (Exhibit C, Pages 8-70 and 71-73 respectively) 9 of those records are owned by the Opposer.

60. Of the remaining 49 International Class 3 or 5 registrations, 100% have a priority date that is earlier than the filing date of the earliest application by the Opposer for its MYBODY trademarks.

61. To further validate the common use of the word MY as the first word for a multi-word trademark in International Classes 3 and 5, I prepared the spreadsheet shown in Exhibit D. 55 of the 150 MY registrations in International Class 3 begin with the word MY.

62. As described earlier in this report, I listed, across the column heads, the generic types of goods/services described in the various MyBody registrations such as “lotions and creams”, “deodorizer”, “anti-aging”, “anti-wrinkle”, etc. I next listed in the left-hand column each of the 58 registered marks presented in Exhibit C. Finally I placed an “X” in each column where the goods described in for each registration are similar to those goods described in the MyBody registrations.

63. As can be seen in Exhibit D:

- a. 46 of the non-MyBody multi-word registrations (94% of the 49 registrations) list goods related to “lotions or creams” in their MY multi-word registration.
- b. 9 of the non-MyBody multi-word registrations (18% of the 49 registrations) list goods related to “deodorizer” in their MY multi-word registration.
- c. 5 of the non-MyBody multi-word registrations (10% of the 49 registrations) list goods related to “anti-aging” in their MY multi-word registration.
- d. 25 of the non-MyBody multi-word registrations (51% of the 49 registrations) list goods related to “cleaners” in their MY multi-word registration.
- e. 17 of the non-MyBody multi-word registrations (35% of the 49 registrations) list goods related to “moisturizer” in their MY multi-word registration.
- f. 6 of the registrations (24% of the 58 registrations) list goods related to “hair care” in their MY multi-word registration.

64. Two records were retrieved from the USPTO web site for the 1-word mark MY as a registered trademark in International Class 3. (Exhibit G) Both of these registrations were cancelled due to a failure of the trademark owner to file an acceptable declaration under Section 8.

65. The earlier of the two registrations (Registration Number 1779444, hereinafter the ‘444 Registration’) listed goods as “cosmetics; namely, skin cleansing creams, skin toners, day creams, night creams, eye creams, exfoliant facial scrub, body lotion, tinted day skin moisturizer, lip conditioner” with a date of first use of May 23, 1992, a registration date of June 29, 1993 and a cancellation date of July 3, 2000. The second registration (Registration Number 2540647, hereinafter the ‘647 Registration’) listed goods as “cosmetics” with a date of first use of August 11, 2001, a registration date of February 19, 2002 and a cancellation date of November 21, 2008 (Exhibit G, Pages 1-1.2).

66. The ‘444 Registration covered the time period from March 30, 1992 (Filing Date) through July 3, 2000 (Cancellation Date) and the ‘647 Registration covered the time period from August 22, 2001 (Filing Date) through November 21, 2008 (Cancellation Date). During the nearly 19 year time period from March 30, 1992 (the filing date for the ‘444 Registration) through January 28, 2011 (the date of first use for MyBody) a registration for the one-word mark MY in International Class 3 was active by one owner or the other for over 15 of those 19 years. In addition, during that 19 year period 201 marks were registered in International Class 3 that contained the word MY and 122 (61%) of those registrations began with the word MY. (Exhibit H, Pages 1-5) Of the 201 concurrent MY registrations issued during that 19 year period, 105 (52%) listed goods of either "lotion" or "cream". (Exhibit H, Pages 6-9) Of those 105 registrations that listed goods of either “lotion” or “cream”, 58 (65%) began with the word MY.

67. During the “live” period of the ‘647 Registration, 15 of the currently “live” registrations provided in Exhibit C of this report were filed and the registration was issued. That is, the existence of a valid registration for the 1-word trademark MY for use on “cosmetics” was not seen as a barrier to subsequent, concurrent registrations for marks such as:

- MYMY By Trudi (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #15) Registration Date April 22, 2008
- MYBIO2 (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #16) Registration Date January 2, 2007
- MY QUEEN (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #17) Registration Date June 3, 2008
- MY GIVENCHY: GIVINCHY PARIS (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #18) Registration Date October 10, 2006
- MY WAXING SYSTEM (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #19) Registration Date April 10, 2007
- MY ELIXIR (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #21) Registration Date April 1, 2008
- MY ULTIMATE DREAM (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #23) Registration Date July 24, 2007
- MY SHADE (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #24) Registration Date September 11, 2007
- MY SUMMER (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #25) Registration Date October 10, 2006
- MYSKIN (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #26) Registration Date March 6, 2007

- MY HEAD ONLY WEARS DESSANGE (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #27) Registration Date June 13, 2006
- MY FAIR BABY (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #28) Registration Date June 13, 2006
- MY PASSION (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #30) Registration Date October 4, 2005
- MY PLEASURE (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #31) Registration Date November 4, 2003
- MY PLEASURE (Exhibit C, USPTO International Class 3 Record #32) Registration Date September 9, 2003

68. This aspect of my research demonstrates two tenets. First, it is not beyond the scope of typical USPTO registration practices to register the single word MY as a trademark in International Class 3. In fact, the USPTO has twice previously permitted the registration of the single word MY as a trademark in International Class 3 and in neither instance was the mark challenged or a cancellation action brought against the mark either through procedures at the USPTO or any district court. (Neither of the two prior registrations for the single word MY in International Class 3 appears to currently be in use.) Second, the registration of the single word MY in International Class 3 has not previously been viewed by the USPTO as a barrier to the future registration of other MY formative or multi-word trademarks in International Class 3 for similar or related goods.³ Since other multi-word MY formative trademarks were registered prior to or concurrent with each of the single word MY registrations it makes little sense to now deny to CoreBeauty the same rights to the word MY as have been previously granted by the USPTO to other applicants. The one-word mark MY is available for adoption by CoreBeauty and there is no reason why such an adoption should not be permitted.

Internet Searching Results: (Exhibit E)

69. A search through the Internet seeking cosmetic products whose trade name begins with the word MY identified the following products that appear to be currently available for purchase by consumers.

- My Age Day Cream-an anti-aging day cream (Exhibit E, Page 1)
- My Desire-a moisturizing hand and body cream (Exhibit E, Pages 2 and 3)
- My Life- a body cream (Exhibit E, Page 4)
- My Voyage-a body lotion (Exhibit E, Page 5)
- My Life Blossom-a body lotion (Exhibit E, Page 6)
- My Silhouette-a gel-cream (Exhibit E, Page 7)
- My Secret-a body lotion (Exhibit E, Pages 8 and 9)
- My Secret-a perfume (Exhibit E, Page 10)
- My Old Flame-a nail lacquer (Exhibit E, Page 11)
- My Luscious Greens-a make-up palette for eyes (Exhibit E, Page 12)

³ One of those Registrants, BCCB, LLC (dba My Co.), marketed a product called "My handmade bath creme" (Exhibit G).

- My Glossy Lips-a lip gloss (Exhibit E, Page 12)
- My Youthful Smile-a skin cream (Exhibit E, Pages 13 and 19)
- My Bronze-a tanning cream (Exhibit E, Page 14)
- My Morgan-a body lotion (Exhibit E, Page 15)
- My Insolence-a body lotion (Exhibit E, Page 16)
- My Queen-a body lotion (Exhibit E, Page 17)
- My Lip Stuff—a lip protector (Exhibit E, Page 18)

70. As has been reported earlier in this report, the use of the word MY as the first word for a multi-word trade name in the cosmetics industry is rampant. What is not rampant is the use of the individual word MY for any product—cosmetic or otherwise. The use of the individual word MY for cosmetic products appears to be readily available for adoption by CoreBeauty.

SUMMARY

The following is a summary of the key findings from my research.

71. The one-word trademark MY has twice previously been registered in International Class 3 for goods very similar to those listed by both the Applicant and the Opposer in this matter. One of those Registrants, BCCB, LLC (dba My Co.), marketed a product called “My handmade bath creme”. (Exhibit G) Both of those prior registrations have been cancelled under the provisions of Section 8 and the products do not appear to be currently marketed by any company. When applications for these trademarks were filed at the USPTO registered marks already existed that either began with the word MY or included the word MY in the trademark.

The existence of these prior registrations was not seen as a barrier to the registration of the one-word MY applications. During the active period of both the one-word MY registrations new applications were filed (some of which became registered) that used the word MY as a component of the trademark. Many of those registered trademarks used MY as the first word of the trademark. Accordingly, in the current scenario it does not create or generate confusion. CoreBeauty proposes to register the word MY as a trademark, where other entities use the word MY as an element of their trademark including the use of MY as the first word of their trademark.

72. For nearly 15 of the last 19 years one entity or another has had a valid federal registration in International Class 3 for the trademark MY while, at the same time, other entities have had valid federal registrations in International Class 3 for marks that contained the word MY or that began with the word MY. This concurrent use does not appear to have created confusion in the marketplace. Neither of the previously registered one-word MY trademarks is currently active and the products marketed under the respective MY trademarks do not appear to be currently available for purchase. Accordingly, the trademark register has an “opening” in International Class 3 for the one-word trademark MY for goods that are related to cosmetics, lotions or creams and there is no reason why CoreBeauty’s application to register MY in International Class 3 should not be permitted to move forward.

73. Over one hundred fifty (150) currently active federal trademark registrations in International Class 3 contain the word MY as part of the trademark. Fifty-five (55) of those registrations begin with the word MY (as does the Opposer’s trademark, MyBody). A review of the TTAB history (if there is a history) for all the registered trademarks found in International Class 3 that began with the word MY and which list goods as “cream” or “lotion” found that only three entities have ever used their MY trademark to oppose another’s application. These entities are:

- a. Bacon Products Corporation and its trademark My Buddy (Registration Numbers 1533112, 3016366, 2542503 and 2955242). All six oppositions file by Bacon Products Corporation were against companies seeking to register “Buddy” trademarks, not MY trademarks;
- b. Astarte Cosmetics: MY Shade (Registration Number 3290469) opposed Go Ahead Make My Shade. This is the only opposition that has been filed by Astarte Cosmetics basing the opposition upon its MY Shade trademark;
- c. MyBody, LLC: MyBody (8 MyBody registrations and 11 MyBody applications). Oppositions filed against the applications to register: MDbody (Serial numbers 85228764 and 85287112); MY EDEN BODY (Serial Number 85114091); and MY (Applicant in this Opposition matter). The MyBody oppositions except for this particular opposition, were filed against marks that either contain the words MY BODY as part of the trademark or, at a minimum, contain the word BODY. By departing from its traditional opposition practices and seeking to extend the reach of its trademark rights to include the individual word MY, MyBody exceeds accepted and allowable boundaries for the extension of trademark rights. All remaining owners of trademarks that are registered in International Class 3, begin with the word MY and which have goods of "lotion" or "cream" have maintained a peaceful co-existence with one another.

74. Because of the pervasive use of the word MY as the first word of a trademark in International Class 3 as well as the extensive use of the word MY as the first word for trade names for cosmetic lotions and creams that are not federally registered, the word MY, at the present, alone or even in conjunction with other words fails to be indicative of the source or origin of any cosmetic product. There may come a time in the future when due to the success of the CoreBeauty products, the one-word trademark MY is indicative of the source or origin of cosmetic products.

RELEVANT EXPERIENCE:

With more than 25 years experience in the trademark research field, Dr. Frank brings an unmatched wealth of knowledge to cases involving dilution, generic and descriptive trademarks. His research and expert witness services have been used for matters at the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office as well as District Courts in the United States. Having founded, in 1983, CORSEARCH, Inc. (currently known as CT-CORSEARCH), Dr. Frank has personally completed over 5,000 trademark research reports, has trained over 50 trademark researchers, has developed materials used to train over 100 additional trademark researchers and has reviewed an estimated 45,000 trademark searches. (The purpose of a trademark search report is to identify marks that are potentially confusingly similar to a proposed mark. Trademark research reports are one of the primary methods used by trademark practitioners to identify third-party uses of a mark.) Dr. Frank has personally designed, developed, configured and maintained proprietary databases specifically intended for searching and retrieving information related to trademarks.

In addition to his work at CORSEARCH, Dr. Frank has been an active member of the International Trademark Association (INTA) since 1985. He has attended more than 40 seminars, conferences and workshops on trademark-related issues sponsored primarily by INTA as well as organizations such as the Bar Association of the City of New York, The New York State Bar Association, the New Jersey Bar Association and the Dallas Bar Association. He has served as the co-chair of INTA's Patent and Trademark Office Automation Committee and INTA's Domain Name Task Force. He also has served as a member of the INTA Internet Registration Practice and DNS Administration Subcommittee and currently serves on the INTA Internet Committee, Online Use Sub-Committee and Internet Fraud Working Group. He has testified and/or reported as an expert witness on trademark-related issues in infringement cases and neither his testimony nor his reports have ever been criticized or excluded by a court.

MCQUEEN EXPANDS HIS FRAGRANCE KINGDOM

Abstract:

In the U.S., the fragrance will be launched Oct. 15 in the 95 doors of Nordstrom, which was described as "a service-oriented environment" by Maggie Ciafardini, ceo and managing director of the U.S. division of YSL Beaute. Noting that the fragrance will be on counter in September, she indicated that Nordstrom was chosen, in part, because the chain does well with designer brands and the Nordstrom customer is younger than those usually found in department stores.

Text:

NEW YORK -- Alexander McQueen is making room in his kingdom for his ideal woman.

Three years after launching his first women's fragrance, Kingdom, the designer is about to launch his second women's scent this fall, My Queen, as his new olfactive icon.

According to Christine Piccola, senior marketing director for classic and designer brands at the U.S. division of YSL Beaute, the new fragrance has a more feminine positioning, with more of a magical, enchanting fairy-tale aura than McQueen's first scent, which was launched in March 2003.

"I worked with Nick Knight and discussed an image that is long-lasting, romantic, based on the works of Gainsborough and Whistler. It is an image that can last for a long time, a memorable image," said McQueen, who spoke during the fragrance's Paris unveiling, held at the British embassy there on June 21.

"She's my queen," he continued, adding that she's "godlike." "She gives herself to everything around her. She is empowered."

Chantal Roos, chairman and chief executive officer of the parent YSL Beaute in Paris, said of the positioning of the fragrance, "It's a fairy tale and the fairy tale has no end. The idea of the fragrance is to last for eternity and the advertising is the same -- the ad is not just of this season."

[Unrelated Text Has Been Deleted]

The formula's facets are signified by four corresponding indentations in the glass bottle. Also, the company has, for once, taken the additional step of echoing the mystery element in the positioning with the design of the outer box, covered in white pique fabric. A shadowy outline appears as if a ghost of the bottle is trying to break through the packaging.

The fragrance will come in two sizes of eau de parfum, a 1.6-oz. version for $58 and a 3.3-oz. version for $75, plus a 0.5-oz. perfume for $145 and 6.6-oz. body lotion for $35.

In the U.S., the fragrance will be launched Oct. 15 in the 95 doors of Nordstrom, which was described as "a service-oriented environment" by Maggie Ciafardini, ceo and managing director of the U.S. division of YSL Beaute. Noting that the fragrance will be on counter in September, she indicated that Nordstrom was chosen, in part, because the chain does well with designer brands and the Nordstrom customer is younger than those usually found in department stores. That is a key consideration because the consumer target for My Queen is younger than that of the earlier Kingdom. Piccola put the new target at 30.

The Nick Knight ad will be used for blow-ins in the Nordstrom catalogue and will go out as scented direct-mail pieces. Ciafardini also plans to use it on Nordstrom's Web site. It also will be launched overseas in the fall, where distribution will be equally tight. Roos estimated the global distribution at only 3,000 to 4,000 doors, compared with 16,000 for YSL.

Smartphone Apps for engineers

Abstract:

Three smartphone applications for engineers are reviewed. These are: 1. Autodesk AutoCAD WS, 2. Husqvarna My Automower, and 3. GasDensity.

Text:

AutoCAD WS for Android

The AutoCAD WS app from Autodesk lets users view and work with DWG files directly on any Android phone or tablet running Android 2.1 or higher. The free app can be downloaded from the Android Market. After installing the app, be sure you are connected to the Internet the first time you open the app to create an account or sign in to your existing AutoCAD WS Web account. After you open the mobile app, a Drawings window shows a list of drawings and folders you have uploaded or created. The Editor contains toolbars that let you add new objects such as circles, rectangles, and polylines to drawings, annotate drawings, and share drawings with other users. Besides English, the AutoCAD WS app supports Chinese, French, German, Italian, Japanese, Korean, Portuguese, and Spanish.

Tired of cutting your grass?

The My Automower iPhone app from Husqvarna in Sweden works with the company's Automower robotic lawnmowers. Each lawnmower has its own phone number. After downloading the app, type in your mower's number. You can then remotely start and stop the lawnmower via text messages, as well as see its position on Google Maps. Instruction videos in the app tell you how to connect the docking station, lay the boundary wire, and program an Automower. It also answers a long list of FAQs.

Hi there, dollface. You look like someone we know

Abstract:

Mattel has begun offering custom-designed Barbie friends online at www.Barbie.com. The doll who started life as a blue-eyed blonde lives in an ever-more-diverse world, but no matter how politically correct she gets, Barbie always keeps her slender, curvy and controversial figure.

Text:

IN HER 39-YEAR EXISTENCE, BARbie has been a surgeon, a TV news reporter, a veterinarian, a firefighter, a paleontologist, a rock star and a presidential candidate. Nearly 20 years before Sally Ride blasted off, Barbie was already an astronaut. But now she can have the most glamorous identity of all: starting this month, Barbie can be ... you.

Yes, the 11 1/2 inch icon with the impossibly long legs and gravity-defying bosom has done it once again. Or at least her makers at Mattel have. Last week the company began offering custom-designed Barbie friends online (at www.Barbie.com). Karen Caviale, 44, editor and publisher of the bimonthly magazine Barbie Bazaar, happily shelled out the $39.95, plus shipping, for a brown-eyed doll named and modeled after (surprise!) herself. Like the thousands of others who ordered a My Design Barbie friend on her debut day, she chose the color of her doll's skin, eyes and hair, and created a "personal profile" for her-complete with her address, birthday, hobbies and career.

My Design is only the most recent of the new high-tech Barbie additions. Girls can already make clothes on fabric fed through computer printers. And various CD-ROMs let them solve fictional crimes, choose, name and dress Barbie's horses, and design and create their own fingernail decals.

Wal-Mart fragrance launch target soap fans

Abstract:

Lending a dose of reality television to ABC's All My Children that is based on pure fantasy, Wal-Mart launched an exclusive new fragrance, All My Children's Enchantment, in September. Now, the grand dame of soap divas, All My Children star Susan Lucci, will sell her own fragrance, Invitation, at everyday low prices, as well. By carrying both Enchantment and Invitation, Wal-Mart can tap into both younger and older shoppers who are All My Children and Susan Lucci fans.

Text:

There are few television series as mass-market as soap operas, so it makes perfect sense that Wal-Mart and ABC's "All My Children" have joined forces. Lending a dose of reality TV to a show that is based on pure fantasy, Wal-Mart launched an exclusive new fragrance, 'All My Children's Enchantment,' in September. Enchantiaient is the name of the fictitious beauty company that has been part of a long-time plotline on the show, a cosmetics brand similar to a Lancome or Clinique. In an innovative integrated marketing program, Enchantment was created on the series, made available on-shelf and marketed on-air and in-store by its stars. This effort mirrors Kmart's partnerships with The WB Television Network and E! Entertainment Television to launch its back-to-school apparel lines, including a number of new brands, as previously reported in this publication.

Now, the grand dame of soap divas, "All My Children" star Susan Lucci, will sell her own fragrance, Invitation, at everyday low prices, as well. A queen not only of small screen entertainment but of many an infomercial, Lucci already sells extensive hair and skin care lines, sleepwear, intimate apparel and accessories, including fashion jewelry, on HSN (formerly branded Home Shopping Network), including her Invitation fragrance and body lotion .

EasyBook & My Own Stories. (Chickadee Software Inc. and MECC offer publishing programs that make it easy for kids to write, illustrate and print books) (Software Review) (Evaluation)

Cazet, Donna Maurer

Technology & Learning , v14 , n5 , p10(4)

Feb , 1994

Text:

Two new publishing programs for kids make it easy to write, illustrate, and print original books. Chickadee's EasyBook is packed with creativity tools and customized to produce the perfect "real book" printout. MECC's My Own Stories (a contemporary adaptation of their Storybook Weaver program) emphasizes on- as well as off-screen presentations, inviting kids to combine images and sound effects to create stories about everyday experiences. Each program contains a rich assortment of features and lots of appeal for youngsters up through eighth grade.

[Unrelated Text Has Been Deleted]

My Own Stories offers youngsters more than 1,000 object and scenery combinations which they can preview and then use to fill their graphics windows. Scenery choices are as diverse as a highway, a soccer field, and the desert. The program offers four categories of places (views, homes, people places, and special places), and eight categories of objects (kids, adults, animals, nature, vehicles, things, shelter, and decor). Other options include solid backgrounds in a variety of colors. Objects may be dragged into the graphics window, placed behind or in front of other objects, and reduced and enlarged many times. A color button can vary text, object, and even skin color. Sound effects and music add an extra element of fun to on-screen books created with My Own Stories. Users can assign any of 41 sounds to objects, and choose a song to be played at the beginning and end of a story.
