OPPOSER’S REPORT ON RELATED PROCEEDINGS

Opposer Peer Bearing Company hereby notifies the Board of other proceedings concerning related marks. These Oppositions are as follows:

Number Marks

Opposition No.	Serial No.	Mark	Applicant
91216123	78/664,362	1621	Roller Bearing Company of America, Inc.
91216332	78/664,533	1641	Roller Bearing Company of America, Inc.

Series Marks

Opposition No.	Serial No.	Mark	Applicant
91171191	78/535,213	1600 SERIES	RBC Bearings, Inc.
91176823	78/745,178	600 SERIES	RBC Bearings, Inc.
91176848	78/754,907	6900 SERIES	RBC Bearings, Inc.
91176851	78/754,876	7500 SERIES	RBC Bearings, Inc.
91176837	78/754,894	7600 SERIES	RBC Bearings, Inc.

All of the “series marks” oppositions have been consolidated into Opp. No. 91171191.

The “number marks” listed above, and the “1630” mark that is the subject of the present Opposition, are some of the “numbers” that fall within the “1600 Series” of bearings, and these Oppositions are therefore related to the “1600 Series” application (Opposition No. 91171191).

There are some differences between the Consolidated Opposition for the “series marks” and this Opposition, and the other “number mark” Oppositions. First, the “series” applications were filed in the name of RBC Bearings Inc., while the “number” applications were filed in the name of Roller Bearing Corporation of America, Inc., which is believed to be a subsidiary of RBC Bearings Inc.

Second, the goods covered by the applications are different. The “Series” applications in the Consolidated Opposition cover “ball bearings for machines, engines, motors and tools” (the 1600 SERIES application covers “ball bearings for equipment relating to construction, mining, material handling, transportation and off-highway, robotics and automation, farming, machine tool, and semiconductor applications”). The “number” applications listed above, on the other hand, cover “thin section roller bearings.”
