NOTICE OF OPPOSITION

Opposer: R. STONE CO., LLC (a Connecticut limited liability company)
 164 Park Lane
 Trumbull, CT 06611

The above-identified opposer believes that it will be damaged by registration of the mark shown in the above-identified application, and hereby opposes the same.¹ The grounds of opposition are as follows.

The Parties

1. Opposer R. Stone Co., LLC (“R. Stone” or “Opposer”) is a limited liability company organized under the laws of the State of Connecticut, with business addresses at 164 Park Lane, Trumbull, Connecticut, 06611, and 28 Hill Street, Bridgeport, Connecticut, 06606.

¹ The applicant La Pietra Thin Stone Veneers of Monroe, Inc. has also applied, wrongfully, to register a number of the other marks that R. Stone developed contemporaneously with the mark at issue here. R. Stone is in the process of filing notices of opposition to those registrations in other proceedings before the TTAB, on grounds similar to those stated in this notice, and intends to move to consolidate the various opposition proceedings, including 86491635 (“AUTUMN RIDGE”); 86491650 (“CARMEL HILL”); 86491661 (“CHATHAM BLEND”); 86492124 (“GLEN COVE”); 86492135 (“NORTH SHORE”); 86492141 (“OLD NEW ENGLAND”); 86492146 (“WESTCHESTER TAN”); and 86492160 (“NANTUCKET BLUE”), as well as possibly consolidating two currently unpublished application, 86492166 (“DUTCH BLEND”); and 86537233 (“COUNTRY FIELD STONE”).

At all times relevant hereto, it has been in the business of, among other things, cutting and shaping raw granite into finished forms for use in construction, and supplying the finished stone to retailers and end-users.

2. Applicant La Pietra Thinstone Veneer of Monroe, Inc. (“La Pietra” or “Applicant”) is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Connecticut, with a place of business at 1106 Federal Road, Brookfield, Connecticut, 06804, and/or 600 Main Street, Monroe, Connecticut, 06468. For most of the time at issue in this proceeding, it was in the business of buying finished stone products from cutters and shapers such as R. Stone, and further cutting the stone into different finished forms known as “thin stone” or “thin-stone veneer.” More recently, La Pietra has also gone into the business of selling finished thin-stone veneer to retailers and end-users.

The Application Proceeding

3. On or about December 29, 2014, Applicant La Pietra filed an application in the United States Patent and Trademark Office to register “CHATHAM BLEND” as a mark for “thin stone and veneer made from natural stone for use with fireplaces and interior/exterior walls” The application was assigned serial number 86491661 (the “Application”). The USPTO examiner approved the Application for publication on the principal register, and the Application was published for opposition on or about June 16, 2015. Opposer timely sought and was granted two extensions of time to oppose the registration, and the Application is currently open for opposition.

The Production and Use of Thin Stone Veneer

4. “Thin stone veneer” or “thin stone” of the sort referred to by the mark at issue in this opposition proceeding is a form of cut and shaped granite used in the construction and appointment of buildings. It can be used, for example, as an exterior façade of a house, or to finish a specific element such as a chimney.

5. Thin stone is one of a variety of similar finished cuts of stone referred to in the industry as “veneers.” Thin stone has been in use in construction for approximately the last twenty years, and has become particularly popular in the last decade. As the name suggests, thin stone differs from more traditional veneer cuts in that it is thinner than they are. Thin stone is typically 1.5 inches thick, while older veneer cuts can be as much as 4 to 6 inches thick. This greater thinness makes thin stone lighter than traditional veneer cuts, and therefore particularly suitable in applications calling for lighter building materials.
6. Finished granite used in building, including thin stone and other veneer cuts, is created by drawing raw stone from a quarry and then cutting and finishing the stone with machines.
7. Creating thin stone from raw granite requires at least two processing steps after quarrying. The first step – which is common to all finished varieties of granite for building – is to cut and shape the raw, as-quarried slabs of stone with a device known as a “guillotine.” Guillotining produces finished granite in a variety of shapes, including a traditional, 4- to 6-inch thick veneer cut known as “full-bed stone” or “dimensional stone.” This full-bed or dimensional stone is itself a finished building material sold to builders and end-users in that form.
8. Finished full-bed or dimensional stone may also be put through a second step, however, to create thin stone. This second step consists of cutting the stone with a separate piece of equipment – known as a “thin-stone saw” – that can cut granite more thinly than a guillotine can.

9. Full-bed stone, thin stone, and many other finished cuts are often sold to retailers, builders, and other end-users under trademarks that, in addition to designating the producer, refer to specific colors and textures of available stone. Typically, these names are consistent across multiple cuts or shapes of finished stone produced by the same supplier. As relevant here, for example, R. Stone uses the mark CHATHAM BLEND to refer to both full-bed stone and thin stone that it produces with a distinctive color and texture common to both.

The Establishment of the Opposer R. Stone,
Its Creation of the Mark, and the Development of Its Business Relationship with Applicant La Pietra

10. The members of R. Stone are Rudolph Mobilio and Douglas Woudenberg. Mr. Mobilio and Mr. Woudenberg are experienced stone buyers and cutters who had previously worked together for many years in a similar business operated in Fairfield, Connecticut by nonparty Fairfield Stone & Landscape Supply, LLC (“Fairfield Stone”).
11. For much of the time that Mr. Mobilio and Mr. Woudenberg were employed at Fairfield Stone, La Pietra served as a vendor or subcontractor to Fairfield Stone. During its engagement as a vendor or subcontractor to Fairfield Stone, La Pietra owned a thin-stone saw, while Fairfield Stone did not. Fairfield Stone engaged La Pietra to cut Fairfield Stone’s full-bed stone into thin stone for further resale, providing La Pietra with space at Fairfield Stone’s facility to do so. La Pietra did not buy the raw stone for cutting nor did it perform the guillotining, both of which were done by Fairfield Stone.
12. In or about the winter of 2010-11, Fairfield Stone acquired a thin-stone saw of its own, began to cut thin stone itself, and ceased its relationship with La Pietra.

13. In or about January, 2011, Fairfield Stone also terminated Mr. Mobilio's employment. As a result, he and Mr. Woudenberg decided to go into the business of cutting and supplying stone together. On February 4, 2011, they formed R. Stone, which acquired a guillotine and began to negotiate for the purchase of raw granite from quarries with which Mr. Mobilio had contacts through his past work in the stone industry.
14. Because R. Stone wished to sell thin stone, among other finished stone products, but did not own a thin-stone saw, Mr. Mobilio approached La Pietra's principals Marcio and Fabio Figueiredo, with whom he was acquainted from his time at Fairfield Stone, about an arrangement in which La Pietra would locate its thin-stone saw on site already identified by R. Stone in Oxford, Connecticut, and cut thin stone there.
15. At this time, R. Stone created product names for the different colors and textures of finished stone that it intended to sell. These product names were fanciful and largely drew upon personal experiences of Mr. Mobilio's and Mr. Woudenberg's unknown to La Pietra or its principals, including things such as their nicknames, or connections they felt to places in coastal New York or Massachusetts. The mark at issue in this proceeding, for example, CHATHAM BLEND, reflects Mr. Mobilio's and Mr. Woudenberg's interest in Cape Cod and specifically in the town of Chatham, Massachusetts.
16. In or about February, 2011, R. Stone and La Pietra entered into an oral agreement (the "Agreement") whereby R. Stone would locate its thin-stone saw on the site R. Stone had previously secured in Oxford, with La Pietra occupying the interior of a building on the site and R. Stone occupying the yard. R. Stone would sell guillotined and shaped stone, typically in full-bed form, to La Pietra, at pre-agreed prices, and under the product names R. Stone had previously developed, including the mark at issue here, CHATHAM

BLEND. La Pietra would further process the stone into finished thin-stone veneer products, in specifications and quantities needed to fulfill orders for R. Stone's customers, and then sell the finished products back to R. Stone at pre-agreed prices.

17. The parties further agreed that R. Stone would supply additional stone to La Pietra and temporarily license La Pietra to sell thin-stone veneers to others under R. Stone's marks, including the mark at issue here, CHATHAM BLEND, within an agreed-upon territory. More specifically, the parties agreed that R. Stone would give La Pietra a temporary, exclusive license to sell thin-stone veneers in New England under R. Stone's CHATHAM BLEND mark and other R. Stone marks, apart from previously established customers of R. Stone in the State of Connecticut, while R. Stone would retain for itself exclusively the right to sell under the marks in other locations.

18. The parties further agreed to jointly create a website (hosted at www.netsveneers.com) and a Facebook account under the trade name NorthEast Thin Stone Veneers to help promote the products, and that R. Stone would permit the CHATHAM BLEND mark and R. Stone's other marks temporarily to be used on that website and Facebook page and in certain printed marketing material to promote sales of the products, with R. Stone and La Pietra each being identified as distributors of the products in their respective territories.

The Opposer R. Stone's Unambiguous and Unchallenged First Use of the Mark in Commerce, Including in Routine Sales to the Applicant La Pietra Itself

19. At the inception of its business in early 2011, R. Stone created display racks for the thin stone veneer products it intended to sell. A photograph of such a rack is attached hereto as Exhibit A. The racks contained specimens of the various products in R. Stone's portfolio, labeled with the marks R. Stone had created, including the CHATHAM

BLEND mark at issue in this proceeding. R. Stone brought the display racks to supply yards and other retailers so that builders and potential end-users or consumers could see the stone, and become familiar with the products and the marks, before ordering.

20. Furthermore, from the inception of the business in February 2011, R. Stone promoted products under its CHATHAM BLEND mark and its other marks in printed marketing materials, initially including a flyer using trade name NorthEast Thin Stone Veneers in the spring of 2011, an example of which is attached hereto as Exhibit B, and thereafter principally in brochures using the name R. Stone, examples of which are attached hereto as Exhibits C and D.
21. R. Stone made its first sales of stone under the CHATHAM BLEND mark at least as early as April, 2011. It cut and shaped stone for CHATHAM BLEND products on its guillotine, and sold 24.62 tons of CHATHAM BLEND to La Pietra on or about April 19, 2011. Attached hereto as Exhibit E is an invoice from R. Stone to L Pietra for that sale, which specifically identifies the product sold by the mark CHATHAM BLEND. R. Stone also received and filled customer orders at least as early as April, 2011 for stone under the CHATHAM BLEND mark. Attached hereto as Exhibits F and G are copies of invoices and underlying order documents for sales of CHATHAM BLEND products to County Line Mason Supplies of Huntington Station, New York on April 15, 2011 and April 28, 2011, respectively.
22. R. Stone has continued to market, produce, and sell stone under the CHATHAM BLEND mark without interruption since those first promotions, orders, and sales.
23. For several years following those first promotions, orders, and sales of products under the CHATHAM BLEND mark – from early 2011 until at least the autumn of 2013, La Pietra routinely purchased stone from R. Stone under the CHATHAM BLEND mark without asserting any claim of its own to the mark. La Pietra's stone-cutting capacity was almost entirely occupied with the stone it bought from and sold back to R. Stone, and to the extent La Pietra marketed products under its license to use the CHATHAM BLEND mark or made sales of such products, it always produced those products from finished stone that it obtained from R. Stone that was already identified by the CHATHAM BLEND mark. La Pietra did not buy any raw stone for such production, nor did it cut and shape stone with a guillotine.

La Pietra's Attempts to Hijack the Mark

24. In or about the autumn of 2013, however, La Pietra began progressively to renege on the parties' arrangement for the production and marketing of products under R. Stone's CHATHAM BLEND mark and R. Stone's other marks. La Pietra began to delay the production of thin stone for R. Stone, and made false statements to R. Stone's customers and others in the industry that R. Stone would be unable to maintain production levels. Eventually, in the autumn of 2014, it progressed to hijacking the marks outright. It ceased processing thin stone for R. Stone altogether, wrongfully forced R. Stone to vacate the Oxford premises, removed R. Stone's name from the NorthEast Thin Stone Veneers website, and renamed the NorthEast Thin Stone Veneers Facebook account to "La Pietra Thin Stone Veneers." La Pietra began and has continued to produce and market thin stone products made from stone that La Pietra acquires elsewhere, under R. Stone's CHATHAM BLEND mark and other marks, including producing nearly identical copies of R. Stone's printed marketing materials that simply substitute La Pietra's name for R. Stone's. The brochure attached hereto as Exhibit H, for example, is a brazen copy of the brochure in Exhibit D that R. Stone has long used to promote the CHATHAM BLEND mark. That hijacking campaign has culminated in the bad-faith registration application that R. Stone opposes here.

Injury to the Opposer

25. R. Stone believes that it will be damaged by the registration of La Pietra's registration of the CHATHAM BLEND mark and by La Pietra's continued use of the mark.
26. La Pietra's registration of the mark and continued use of the mark is likely to confuse customers about the origin of the La Pietra's goods. In fact, La Pietra deliberately fosters such a false association between its goods and R. Stone's goods by advertising and promoting its goods as CHATHAM BLEND and seeking to take advantage of the good will, reputation, and following enjoyed by R. Stone's goods.
27. The resulting confusion is likely to diminish R. Stone's success in marketing and selling thin-stone products, as well as ultimately to tarnish the CHATHAM BLEND mark itself.

FIRST GROUND OF OPPOSITION (likelihood of confusion)

28. The Opposer hereby repeats and realleges each and every allegation set forth in paragraphs 1 through 27 of this Notice of Opposition as if set forth fully herein.
29. The CHATHAM BLEND mark is identical to a mark previously used in the United States by another and not abandoned – to wit, the Opposer's CHATHAM BLEND mark – and is therefore likely, when used on or in connection with the Applicant's goods, to cause confusion, or to cause mistake, or to deceive. Therefore the Applicant's registration of the mark should be denied.

SECOND GROUND OF OPPOSITION (applicant not the owner of the mark)

30. The Opposer hereby repeats and realleges each and every allegation set forth in paragraphs 1 through 29 of this Notice of Opposition as if set forth fully herein.

31. The Applicant is not, and was not, at the time of the filing of its application for registration, the rightful owner of the CHATHAM BLEND mark it seeks to register. Rather, the rightful owner is and was the Opposer. Therefore the Applicant's registration of the mark should be denied.

THIRD GROUND OF OPPOSITION (fraud in prosecuting the application for registration)

32. The Opposer hereby repeats and realleges each and every allegation set forth in paragraphs 1 through 31 of this Notice of Opposition as if set forth fully herein.

33. The Applicant's representation to the PTO, in the Application, that the first use of the CHATHAM BLEND mark in commerce was on January 1, 2011 is false, inasmuch as the mark was not created until some weeks later, and, even when it was created, was created and used by the Opposer, not the Applicant.

34. The Applicant's false representation is material to the Application, inasmuch as it goes directly to when the mark sought to be registered was first used in commerce and by whom, and had the examiner known the true facts disguised by the Applicant's misrepresentation – that the Applicant was not the first to use the CHATHAM BLEND mark in commerce, much less at the time the Applicant claimed to have used it – the PTO would not have approved the application for publication.

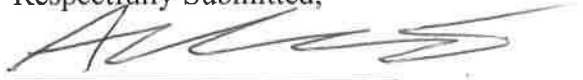

35. The Applicant knew the representation was false when the Applicant made it, and the Applicant made the representation deliberately, in order to induce the PTO to conduct proceedings on the Application, and ultimately to issue the requested registration.

36. The Applicant's false representation to the PTO constitutes fraud, and therefore the requested registration should be denied.

WHEREFORE, the Opposer requests that this Notice of Opposition be adjudicated in its favor, and that the registration sought in the application bearing serial number 86491661 be DENIED.

Adding the elegance and enduring quality of natural stone to your home or business has never been easier or more affordable thanks to La Pietra Thin Stone Veneers

We are proud to offer the quality of 100% natural, locally quarried stone that is five times thinner than traditional stone-yet, still lasts a lifetime!

Why Buy Our Thinstone? Here's Why:

Our stone is thinner, although durable enough to last a lifetime, making it more affordable.

We offer a multitude of colors, styles, varieties and grain patterns that will suit your needs.

Thinner stone means more coverage for less!

With 100% natural stone you increase curb appeal to your home or customer impact to your business.

Natural beauty that lasts a lifetime.

Lighter stone means less shipping and installation costs, and no costly footing requirements, leaving you with money to spare!

Great for fireplaces, interior/exterior walls and can even be added to existing structures!
