DAX HERRERA,

Opposer,

Opposition No. _____

v.

GEORGE OUZOUNIAN,

Applicant.

NOTICE OF OPPOSITION

Dax Herrera, an individual with a business address of 3756 W Ave 40, Suite K #269, Los Angeles, California 90065, (hereinafter called “Opposer”), believes that he will be damaged by the registration of the mark shown in Application Serial Number 87/310,938 in classes 009 and 038 by George Ouzounian (hereinafter called “Applicant”) filed on January 23, 2017 and hereby opposes Application Serial Number 87/310,938. The grounds for this opposition are as follows:

Introduction

1. Opposer is a co-owner of the joint venture, along with Applicant, that owns the common law mark “The Biggest Problem in the Universe” for podcasts and other related goods and services, as described in more detail below.

2. This common law mark has been in existence and constant use since 2014.

3. Despite this, Applicant filed a trademark registration application falsely and knowingly claiming to be the sole owner of the mark. As such, this application is void ab initio.

4. While Applicant later updated his application to be an intent to use application (Opposer believes that this is due to Applicant being forced to submit a specimen that would show that he was trying to pass off the underlying existing podcast associated with the mark as his own), this amendment was improper and a material change to the application.

5. Regardless of the issues of the validity of the application and the amendment, the mark, as proposed, will cause likelihood of confusion and false designation of origin issues with Opposer's existing mark.

6. Opposer has the legal right to file this opposition to protect his interest in the joint venture and the joint venture's assets.

7. As such, the registration, for both class 009 and 038, should be rejected and this opposition sustained.

Brief History of the Biggest Problem in Universe Podcast

8. Sometime in early 2014, Opposer and Applicant collaborated on an idea to start an entertainment podcast. The parties created a joint venture whereby both of them would be equal co-owners in a joint venture that owns the podcast and its related property, including intellectual property, websites, etc. As part of this joint venture, the mark that identified the podcast, "The Biggest Problem in the Universe" was created (herein known as the "Existing Mark").

9. On May 20, 2014, the first episode was released to the public using the mark "The Biggest Problem in the Universe." Since the release of the podcast, the joint venture marketed the podcast, using the Existing Mark as a source identifier, throughout the United States and the world¹.

10. In total, between May 20, 2014 and May 31, 2016, the podcast has been downloaded 7,752,292 times by hundreds of thousands of listeners. These listeners included people from all 50 states and multiple foreign countries. See attached Exhibit A detailing the number of listeners and their geographic location. Additionally, the podcast is marketed on iTunes and the Google Play store using the Existing Mark. See attached Exhibits B and C.

11. The podcast involves the parties discussing and debating what each considered to be the “biggest problem in the universe,” with each party bringing in a new “problem” each episode.

12. In addition to the podcast, the parties use the Existing Mark to identify a website and interactive service they provide via the internet wherein listeners can vote on the problems presented and the votes and rankings of the problems would be displayed and users could discuss each of the episodes and problems. See attached Exhibit D.

13. While the parties stopped making new episodes of the podcast around May 31, 2016, both parties still market and make available the podcast using the Existing Mark. See attached Exhibits B, C, E, and F. Additionally, the parties still make available the interactive website service allowing comments and voting.

14. The podcast is a huge success and podcast consumers throughout the United States associate the mark “The Biggest Problem in the Universe” with the podcast created by the joint venture and the website, including the interactive voting, ranking, and discussion service.

15. In short, Opposer is co-owner of the joint venture that owns the common law mark “The Biggest Problem in the Universe” and has common law rights to the mark for podcasting, podcasting services, and internet web site, including the voting, ranking, and discussion of the problems throughout the entire United States since at least May 20, 2014.

History of Applicant’s Application

16. On January 23, 2017, Applicant submitted the subject application. However, the initial application is significantly different than the application as amended.

17. The application is for the mark “The Biggest Problem in the Universe” (“Proposed Mark”).

18. The application was filed for two classes:

- a. 009 - Downloadable MP3 files, MP3 recordings, on-line discussion board posts, webcasts, webinars and podcasts, news, and audio books in the field of entertainment; and
- b. 0038 – Podcasting services.

19. The owner was listed solely as Applicant.

20. Notably, the initial application was filed pursuant to section 1(a) and claimed that the mark was currently in use in commerce and had been since May 20, 2014 – the date the first existing podcast was released.

21. Additionally, the specimen submitted did not show the use of the mark in commerce, it was merely an image of the cover art used to promote the podcast. Compare Exhibit B and Exhibit G.

22. It is clear that the original application was an attempt by Applicant to pass-off the existing podcast as a work solely owned by him in violation of section 1125(c).

23. While no office action was entered, on April 19, 2017, Applicant amended his application to change the filing basis from 1(a) to 1(b), alleging now that he had a bona fide intent to use the mark in commerce in the future.

24. This amended application was preliminarily approved by the examiner and published for opposition on May 30, 2017.

The Application is Void Ab Initio

25. Trademark Rule 1.7(d) provides that “[a]n application filed in the name of an entity that did not own the mark as of the filing date of the application is void.”

26. Applicant filed an application under section 1(a) alleging existing use and that he owned the mark. As stated before, he did not own the mark, it was owned by the joint venture. As such, the application is void ab initio and could not be amended subsequently to allege a bona fide intent to use. See Great Seats, Ltd. v. Great Seats, Inc., 84 USPQ2d 1235, 1239 (TTAB 2007) (“In a use-based application under Trademark Act Section 1(a), only the owner of the mark may file the application for registration of the mark; if the entity filing the application is not the owner of the mark as of the filing date, the application is void ab initio.”); Huang v. Tzu Wei Chen Food Co., Ltd., 849 F.2d 1458, 7 USPQ2d 1335 (Fed. Cir. 1988) (application filed by individual void where owner of mark was corporation with which individual was affiliated); In re Tong Yang Cement Corp., 19 USPQ2d 1689 (TTAB 1991) (application filed by corporation void where owner of mark was joint venture of which applicant corporation was member); and American Forests v. Sanders, 54 USPQ2d 1860 (TTAB 1999) (intent-to-use application filed by individual void where the actual entity possessing the bona fide intention to use the mark was a partnership comprised of the individual and her husband).

27. Because the applicant did not own the mark at the time of filing, the application was void ab initio and could not be later amended to allege a bona fide intent to use.

28. As the application is void, it cannot be registered and this opposition should be sustained.

The Application Amendment was Improper

29. Upon information and belief, Opposer believes the following occurred with regards to the application amendment:

- a. Applicant was contacted by the examiner regarding the deficiency in the specimen submitted.
- b. Applicant was then forced to make a choice. The application submitted was clearly an attempt to pass-off the joint venture-owned podcast as Applicant's own. If Applicant updated the specimen to show the use in commerce, it would be clear on the record that Applicant was attempting to pass-off the existing podcast as his own.
- c. Faced with this, Applicant opted to amended the application to allege an intent to use.

30. Trademark Rule 2.71 is entitled "Amendments to correct informalities." It is clear that the changes made by Applicant were not "informalities" and were not proper.

31. While the trademark examiner may have, understandably, believed this to be a minor error in selecting the filing basis by a pro se Applicant, it is clear that this was a significant, material change in the application.

32. "To avoid material alteration, 'the new form must create the impression of being essentially the same mark.'" In re Thrifty, Inc., 274 F.3d 1349, 1352–53 (Fed. Cir. 2001) citing In re Hacot-Colombier, 105 F.3d 616, 618, 41 USPQ2d 1523, 1525 (Fed.Cir.1997).

33. Here the impression is not that this is the same mark. The original mark, as applied for, implied that the Applicant owned the existing podcast, and related website, entitled "The Biggest Problem in the Universe" and had sole ownership of the podcast and the mark since May 20, 2014.

34. The amended application implies that this is a new mark and that the Applicant intends to create a new podcast (or related service) using the name “The Biggest Problem in the Universe” and that it is wholly unrelated to the joint venture-owned podcast that has been in existence since 2014.

35. However, Applicant clearly intended the application to apply to the existing podcast. He knowingly, and illegally, claimed that he was the owner of the mark.

36. Applicant intended to use the mark and registration to pass off the existing podcast and related website as his own despite knowing that he was not the owner.

37. It was not until Applicant was forced to submit a proper specimen, which would have clearly shown that he was attempting to pass off the existing podcast as his own, that he made the amendment to allege an intent to use.

38. As such, the amendment was material and should not have been allowed.

39. Therefore, this opposition should be sustained.

The Applicant Did Not Have a Bona Fide Intent to Use the Mark in Commerce as of the Filing Date

40. As described more fully above, it is clear that Applicant’s intent at the filing of the application was to pass off the Existing Mark as his own.

41. Applicant did not have a bona fide intent to use the mark, as described in the amended application, in commerce. His intent at the time of the filing of the application was to register the Existing Mark which had been in use since 2014 as his own,

42. As Applicant did not have a bona fide intent to use the Proposed Mark in commerce at the time of the filing, the application should be denied and this opposition sustained.

Likelihood of Confusion

43. Assuming arguendo that the application is valid and the amendment was proper, Applicant's proposed mark will cause a likelihood of confusion with Opposer's existing common law mark.

44. The factors set forth in In re E.I. Du Pont de Nemours & Co., 476 F.2d 1357, 177 USPQ 563 (CCPA 1973) clearly show a likelihood of consumer confusion.

45. Here, the Proposed Mark and the Existing Mark are word for word duplicates.

46. Moreover, the Proposed Mark is for the exact same goods and services as the existing mark and, upon information and belief, will be marketed and distributed on the same channels, namely the Internet and podcast listing services like iTunes and Google Play.

47. Additionally, the Existing Mark and the underlying goods and services were marketed to consumers, and understood by consumers, as being a podcast containing both of the parties (under their entertainment pseudonyms) as hosts.

48. If Applicant were to market a new podcast (or similar downloadable MP3, audio books, etc.) using the exact same mark as the Existing Mark it would clearly confuse consumers into thinking that this new podcast was associated with the existing podcast, especially given that Applicant is a host and entertainment personality on the existing podcast.

49. In short, this Proposed Mark would clearly cause a likelihood of consumer confusion with the Existing Mark should it be actually used in commerce and registered.

50. As such, this opposition should be sustained.

Passing Off and False Designation of Origin

51. While the website, "<http://thebiggestproblemintheuniverse.com>" is owned by the joint venture, Applicant has unlawfully precluded Opposer access to this website.

52. Upon information and belief, if Applicant's registration is granted, Applicant will begin using the same website, including the voting, ranking, and discussion of the problems, for this new podcast, as the list of services for the mark includes "on-line discussion board posts."

53. This would clearly violate 15 U.S.C. § 1125 as it would falsely and confusingly mislead consumers into believing that website was for the proposed podcast when it clearly is for the existing podcast.

54. Users and listeners who visit the website to see problems and discussions of the existing podcast would be misled into believing that the new problems and discussions were for the existing podcast when, if the registration is approved, they would actually be for the proposed podcast.

55. Given that the names of the Existing Mark and Proposed Mark are exactly the same, this would only increase the confusion that consumers would have.

56. In short, Applicant's plan appears to be to pass off the existing website as solely his own and for the new, proposed podcast.

57. As such, this opposition should be sustained.

Conclusion

58. Applicant appears to regret his business decisions and would like to erase history and claim that he alone owns the existing podcast and all of the related rights, including the Existing Mark.

59. This is clearly not the case.

60. Despite that, Applicant's knowingly filed an application claiming that he was the sole owner of the mark, despite not being the owner. When confronted with the reality of his claim, he made an improper amendment to allege an intent to use the mark in the future.

61. However, this amendment does not cure the issues as the mark will cause a likelihood of confusion among consumers and a false designation of origin.

62. As such, this application should be rejected and this opposition sustained.

WHEREFORE, Opposer prays that this Opposition be sustained, that the application be void ab initio, that registration for the applied-for mark in Application Serial Number 87/310,938 in classes 009 and 038 be denied and that no registration be issued thereon.

Self-Defeating Thoughts	3383

Toms Shoes	3212
Hoverboard Hoaxes	1734
See All the Problems...

Here's our second best-of episode where we play the first-ever "Weird Matthew McConaughey" voicemail before we gave him the moniker, a classic Bono phone call and the origin of the "go fuck yourself" tag that started from a pattern of disparate comments and voicemail we received.

Dick starts us out with Hoverboard Hoaxes and bemoans the lack of boards that hover without the aid of wheels or superconducting rails or weird vacuum contraptions, and I discuss my master plan for stealing the crown jewels. Everyone on the show agrees that it's brilliant and it was never discussed again.

Then I talk about the problem I've received the most email about in this show's history: self-defeating thoughts. This one hit close to home for a lot of listeners and I felt that it was worth including in a "best-of." If you disagree, you might want to check yourself because that's a self-defeating thought.

Then Asterios rounds out the third problem with Toms Shoes and faux-altruism. Say that last word out loud to appreciate that brilliant portmanteau I created. And stay tuned to the end to hear one of our favorite fan songs by @BandWagonBedlam called, "Too Much Swearing," a reference to an earlier problem Dick brought in of the same name.

And for the curious, the bonus episode referred to in the promo was Bonus Episode 3.

Like I said last week. You guys fucked it up when you didn't get Asterios and Tim Changzzz to fill in for you. Thinking of the stupid shit people in an alternate universe gets to experience and that I'm stuck with cold leftovers just makes me angry.

Also, go fuck yourself Dick.

I have a feeling either Boisterous Coconuts or Tim Changzzzzz are going to have their own show on their new network.

But my heart still wishes they get the other 40 year old fossilized Internet comedian from the pioneer days of internet comedy, Seanbaby, especially since he's commented on his Twitter that he wants to do a new project after he's done with Calculords 2.

If you ever bring back a problem to re-argue, do French fries. The whole argument was botched and they are definitely a problem. They're fucking exhausting and have to come with every entrée. Fries shouldn't be in the negative territory.

Would you agree that fries would be less of a problem if only they would offer options of the content? E.g. if I order a steak, I can get fries or a baked potato, but if I get fries, I'd like a choice of potato fries, sweet potato fries, zucchini fries... Also, they taste really good in coconut oil, so would they be less of a problem if we could have a choice of oil as well?

Maddox, white liberals are referred to as cucks because they advocate for more and more welfare, i.e. resources that statistically are much more likely to go to illegals and minorities. There are not many ways to more directly provide resources for other people's offspring than through welfare.

I don't even like using the word but I can at least tell that people don't use it to imply other people have some sexual fetish that doesn't go further than internet activity. Go fuck yourself.

Maddox Rules

Yes, I know the archaic reference all the losers keep trying to hammer home, but that's not what it means today. It's a form of humiliation porn. People get off to rape fantasies, public humiliation, deprivation and other forms of masochism: https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Erotic_humiliation

Porn is a multi-billion dollar industry. Ignoring the most common commercial use of the word is ignorant.

The majority of people who use the word are uncreative and can't think of a better insult, and it doesn't apply to most arguments. It's a boring and tired insult.

Maddox Rules How do you know what people mean when they say it? I'm being serious. In conservative subreddits I see much more mockery of white people who adopt black children or are stepfather to mixed race kids than any mention at all of sexual fantasy. Let's see some evidence Mr Scientific Method.

The "Self-Defeating Thoughts"-problem made me change jobs. Two government agencies were in the process of reorganizing. Some employees were forced to change employer as their tasks moved to the other agency, and some changed willingly even though they still had work at their old agency. My job wasn't affected by the reorganization. I remember sitting at my desk contemplating my and my workplaces future while listening to the podcast, and Dick said: "Fake it 'til you make it. also they check backpacks and if maddox walked in with a super heavy backpack stinking of jetfuel I think someone might say something.

See All the Problems...

Well this is it, what may end up being the biggest problem in the history of this show, the problem nobody wanted or saw coming: the end of shows. Sometimes shows run their course, and this is one of those times. After 107 consecutive episodes, this will be the final show for The Biggest Problem in the Universe. When we took a break 2 weeks ago, I had every intention of coming back to regular episodes today. Unfortunately that can't happen, but we're going out with something a lot of fans have requested for a long time: the full intro song at the end of this episode.

Also, we have a brief cap at the top of the show with the ever-boisterous coconut, Asterios. The final episode includes a problem from the most-downloaded episode in the show's history: Well-Intentioned Idiots, and a fan-favorite guest, Ryan Holiday. We go over the final tally of problems and solutions and reminisce about the show. When I first started this show, I created it as an experiment to see if people would vote on these problems week after week. It turned out to be wildly successful and highly scientific, so it's an element I'd like to continue in other podcasts I work on. And speaking of...

This goodbye is only temporary because the new podcast and the new podcast network is still launching within the next two weeks. I'll be posting about it on Facebook, Twitter and the site that started it all, The Best Page in the Universe. If you'd like to call in and leave a voicemail or song for the new show to speculate what it's about or to simply ask life-advice, the new number is: 1-562-58-I-RULE (1-562-584-7853)

Special thanks to all of the guests, callers, people who sent in gifts, fans who came out to the live shows, people who bought me drinks and all of the contributors and people who work behind the scenes to make this podcast possible, including producer Randy, Sean the audio engineer, assistant Jessica, Laurie Foster and Megan Pennock. This show wouldn't be possible without you.

One final shout-out to Harry's for supporting this show over the years. Go to Harrys.com/BIGGESTPROBLEMS and use the promo code, BIGGESTPROBLEMS, to get $5 off your first purchase. It's been a genuine pleasure working with these guys.

And finally, a very special thanks to me for tirelessly putting in 10-12 hours per episode for over 2 years, without a single break. You're welcome.

So long for now, it's been a hell of a ride.

Lots more to come.

Here is my prediction: The podcast will split into two shitty podcasts (hence the podcast network), whereas each podcast will be less than half the quality of the current podcast.

Maddox, just so you know, if that happens, I'm throwing my shit away, and buying an Iphone and Macbook, I'll eat the wrong kind of apples, and adopt and breed monkeys. Just to spite you and undo the progress you've made in changing the world.

Joel Chury Dick said for episode 77 that he was asked not to be in it but didn't say why. I wonder if there's some beef stewing here. It's weird enough that they abruptly end the show without any new episodes for 3 weeks or explanation of why (like he said, they hadn't planned on it), it's even weirder that one of the two hosts didn't appear in any of the final episodes or even get a mention as to why he's not here.

The Biggest Problem in the Universe

RIP: 2014 - 2016

All the problems in the universe, in descending order.

The Biggest Problem in the Universe was a show where my goal was to rank every problem in the universe, from biggest to smallest. Each episode, several problems were discussed, and the listener's job was to vote on which problem was bigger so over time, we'd have a list of all the problems in the universe, from Ants to AIDS. Or if you prefer alphabetical rather than scope for your sorting, from AIDS to Zits. The show had 105 live episodes, plus 2 "Best Of" episodes with live-recorded bumpers. It was a lot of fun to do while it lasted, and the show wouldn't have been the same without the tremendous fan support.

All of the content from the old site will remain here indefinitely. I've uploaded every episode of the old show to SoundCloud where they can remain hosted for free. You can comment on the tracks themselves, as well as listen to it with an RSS (<http://thebiggestproblemintheuniverse.com/feed/biggestproblem.rss>) reader, or if you prefer, the entire playlist is available at the bottom of this page. Some people prefer YouTube, but due to DMCA issues, these tracks can't be uploaded there because they'll eventually be claimed due to MCN music licensing agreements.

I've made this archive as complete as possible. You're welcome.

Maddox (<mailto:maddox@xmission.com>)

Special thanks to Megan Pennock (<mailto:mep2160@gmail.com>) for her tremendous help converting the site to static HTML.

Solutions:

The "solutions" episodes were bonus episodes where we discussed so-called solutions to some of the world's biggest problems. Thank you to all the fans that paid for these episodes, your contributions paid for the cost of production, transcripts and extra time it took to make these.

Since the show's demise, there have been many pirated and unofficial copies of these hosted elsewhere, so rather than getting them from untrusted sources, I've made them all available for you here indefinitely. You can listen to them with your favorite RSS (<http://thebiggestproblemintheuniverse.com/feed/biggestproblem.rss>) reader, or if you prefer, the entire playlist is available at the bottom of this page. As with the problem episodes, these can't be hosted on YouTube due to DMCA issues, please don't post them to YouTube.
