Domiabra

The nomadic tribes of Africa would remain in settled areas for only as long as the harvest was adequate for family and live stock—without exhausting the soil's potential. The Elders' wisdom allowed them to predict when the time to relocate was necessary. In their infinite wisdom they would send out young warriors and a few elders to seek and select a new site. When such a place was found the young warriors and elders would build a new village and prepare for the arrival of the families. The elders sent a warrior back to the prior tribal site to carry a message to those who remained behind, the message was DOMIABRA (Dōm-ē-ă-bră), which means "IF YOU LOVE ME, JOIN ME."

The Philosophy of The Institute on Drug Abuse and Addiction

The Howard University Institute on Drug Abuse and Addiction believes that narcotics are a political tool of white racism and white supremacy. We believe that narcotic usage is a form of self-destructive behavior and a serious threat to the future of our black children. Furthermore, narcotics usage disrespects and affronts the sufferings, sacrifices, and deaths of black people for our liberation. The Institute believes that the interests of black people are best served by increasing self-knowledge, scientific and technological skills, self-help programs, and resisting injustice. Thus, the Institute is dedicated to the building of a drug free society in the tradition of our black heritage and culture, and in the spirit of Domiabra.

CHALLENGE

The mural "CHALLENGE", on the cover of DOMIABRA was created by Brother James Padgett. Brother Padgett, a candidate for the Master's Degree in the Howard University Art Department, is the recipient of many awards and a member of the Howard University Mural Project Committee. Among his many works, Brother Padgett has contributed murals to the auditorium lobby of the Howard University School of Social Work at the Wall of the Shaw Community Health Center. "Challenge" will be placed in the lobby of the Annex Building I, Freedmen's Hospital. The Howard University Institute on Drug Abuse and Addiction would like to thank the Artist, James Arthur Padgett, and Artist/Professor, Jeff Donaldson, chairman of the Howard University Art Department, for their cooperation.

A TRIBUTE TO AMILCAR CABRAL

On January 20, 1973, Dr. Amilcar Cabral, Secretary-General of the PAIGC (African Party for the Independence of Guinea and Cape Verde) was brutally assassinated at his exiled home in Conakry, Guinea. Dr. Cabral, an agronomist born 48 years ago in the Cape Verde Islands, launched the PAIGC movement for liberation in 1956 which today 7000 strong controls one-half to three-quarters of Guinea-Bissau against 25,000 to 30,000 Portuguese troops.

In liberated areas of Guinea-Bissau, Cabral and PAIGC created more than 200 primary schools along with four hospitals and 200 clinics. In 10 years Cabral did more in health and education for his fellow Africans than the Portuguese did in 400 years of colonial and neo-colonial rule.

THIS ISSUE OF DOMIABRA IS DEDICATED TO THE WORK AND MEMORY OF AMILCAR CABRAL...IN TRIBUTE, LET US REFLECT ON A FEW OF HIS MANY TEACHINGS:

"Always bear in mind that people are not fighting for ideas, for the things in anyone's head. They are fighting to win material benefits, to live better and in Peace, to see their lives go forward, to guarantee the future of their children."

"...Every responsible member must have the courage of his responsibilities, exacting from others a proper respect for his work and properly respecting the work of others. Hide nothing from the masses of people. Tell no lies. Expose lies whenever they are told. Mask no difficulties, mistakes, failures. Claim no early victories."

"The struggle against our own weakness... Our experience has shown us that in the general framework of daily struggle this battle against ourselves—no matter what difficulties the enemies may create—is the most difficult of all."

Amilcar Cabral—Revolution in Guinea

A WONDER

Will the life story of this no-drugs and real African hero, Amilcar Cabral, ever be the subject of an independent Black movie grossing 12 to 30 million dollars from the Black community?

"HEROIN OVERDOSE"

Risks associated with drug usage are many. They may be grouped into: those which have a deleterious physiological effect on the body; those which result from impurities in compounding of the drug; those which result from contaminated "equipment"; and those which are poorly understood. The withdrawal syndrome, hypersensitivities, infections, hepatitis, endocarditis and sudden death following intravenous injections of drugs are some of the recognized risks associated with drug usage.

Death from "heroin overdose" is the most publicized hazard described in heroin addicts. The mechanism for sudden death in these people is poorly understood. For all intents and purposes, the term "O.D.", is a misnomer. Basically, deaths attributed to heroin overdose are not actually due to overdose at all. Data, derived from experimental animals and humans, indicate that the concept of sudden death from heroin overdose is not factual.

It is the exception, rather than the rule, for a person to die suddenly from an overdose of heroin or morphine. Usually death ensues hours or even days after an overdose of medication. The amounts of these drugs required to kill a non addict have been estimated to range from 120 mg. to as much as 350 mg. Literature indicates that addicts have survived even larger doses than those stated above.

Kolb and Mez, of the United States Public Health Service, showed experimentally that 7 to 8 mg., per kg. of body weight, of heroin or morphine are required to kill non addicted monkeys (when injected by vein). Relating this to humans, it would require 500 mg. or more of heroin to kill a non addicted adult. Basing this on street sales of heroin, it would require 50 bags of heroin (N.Y. type), injected in one dose, to kill.

One should also consider that virtually all "O.D.'s" are addicts. It must be assumed that they have developed a high tolerance to the drug and that enormous doses of the narcotic are needed to kill. Experimentally, some addicts have received doses of morphine in the range of 1800 mg., over a 2½ hour period, without becoming ill.

To date, there are no conclusive data to show that deaths, attributed to "O.D.", are in fact, so caused. Carefully performed autopsies are necessary to prove a cause and effect relationship. Reviews of the American literature fail to show an acceptable scientific method which conclusively implicates heroin overdosage. Usually the alkaloid is present in the blood, and tissues. However there are no pathognomonic tissue changes associated with heroin overdose.

What causes death in so called, "heroin overdose"? Usually the victim has taken the same amount of the drug that he has taken previously, however on this occasion, he dies shortly after the administration of the drug. At autopsy, one usually finds varying degrees of pulmonary edema. Some scientists have speculated that materials used to cut the heroin, such as quinine, may be instrumental in causing death. Some investigators have suggested that the victim may have already taken barbiturates or alcohol. Therefore, the combination of the narcotic and cerebral depressant may be lethal. Generally, however, it is known that most addicts do not drink alcohol and then "shoot" heroin.

In summary, the mystery surrounding death in the "heroin overdose" patient is still unsolved. Evidence suggests that the term "heroin overdose" is a misnomer and should be discarded or used in light of present day understanding.

HAIL TO MRS. HALE

Mrs. Clara Hale, a widowed mother with three children who started a home for infants of working and unwed mothers 33 years ago and now maintains a home for drug-addicted babies, was honored by Harlem citizens and New York City officials.

Standing outside the new home of Mrs. Hale, "Hale House," at 154 West 22nd Street (a five story brownstone being renovated to accommodate children born addicted to drugs) some 75 people paid homage to Mrs. Hale for raising 43 disadvantaged youngsters, all of whom became college graduates.

Mrs. Hale was given a city proclamation and declared a Clara Hale Day.

BLACK CONTRADICTION

Black Afro-Shops which display the posters of The Honorable Elijah Muhammad, Amilcar Cabral, Marcus Garvey, Kwame Nkrumah, Patrice Lumumba, Malcolm X, Martin Luther King and other Black leaders along with hashish pipes, roller paper and machines, snorting spoons, roach clips, should examine the implied contradiction.

REP. CHARLES RANGEL (DEMO, N.Y.) CHARGES FEDERAL DRUG AGENCIES WITH NEGLECT

Fifty-two percent of the nation's drug addicts are members of minority groups, and as always, most federal agencies which administer drug-abuse programs have few Blacks or other minority-group members in top decision making positions.

Specifically, the Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention (SAODAP), the most important policy-making agency for federal drug programs, lacks minority representation in its top 15 policy making positions.

Only eight Blacks and two Spanish Americans, out of a total staff of 149 persons, are employed by the Division of Narcotic Addiction and Drug Abuse of a broad range of drug abuse programs.

In the United States Justice Dept's Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs the deficient representation is- of 2,299 persons employed, only 196 (8.5) percent are Black.

POLITICAL USE OF DOPE DURING WORLD WAR II

In a book published about the Office of Strategic Services, predecessor of the CIA, "The OSS in W.W.II," author Edward Haymott writes that "OSS agents parachuted into Burma with silver coins and opium to pay anti-Japanese Kachin irregulars." If there were any moral considerations, they were overcome by the realities of war and military operations.

NATE ARCHIBALD - SCORING AND ASSIST LEADER IN THE NATIONAL BASKETBALL ASSOCIATION (NBA)

Nat (Tiny) Archibald led the NBA in scoring with a 34-point average and in assists with an average of more than 11 a game. In the programs, he is listed at 6 feet 1 and 160 pounds, but he appears smaller.

He grew up in the Bronx, on 143rd Street off Morris Avenue, and in the off-season he returns there. But he's not there to flash his money and his fame. He's there to work with the kids, to save them from the streets that he was saved from by basketball.

"In the streets, everybody is offering a high to you," he was saying the other night at Madison Square Garden after a game. "The cat'll say, 'You my man,' and he wants you to get high for old times' sake."

Too many kids went along for old times' sake. He remembers one who was on the Clinton High School basketball team, a 6-7 leaper with about 75 scholarship offers, who hung around with the wrong people. It not only ended his basketball career; it killed him.

"He overdosed right there on the court, man," Archibald remembered. "He died right there on the court." With that memory, Nate Archibald coaches four playground teams in the summer basketball leagues.

"I give 'em hell. I was raised on strict coaches," he said. "But you can't jive the kids. You can't tell 'em one thing and do another. Some guys try that. They tell the kids to be straight, but later the kids see him outside, drinking wine and smoking a joint. And the next time that man comes around, you can hear the kids saying, 'wish he would hurry up and cut this, because I see him do it.' There's a demand for athletes to do all they can for the kids because the kids will listen to them if they don't jive 'em. But not enough athletes do anything. Most of them just don't give a damn. Drugs are everywhere. It's not just New York, I see 'em in every city we go to. You go to the bottom, it's there." Six of his players now are in college on basketball scholarships.

INTERVIEW WITH DONALD BYRD, BLACK MUSIC MASTER,

FOUNDER AND CHAIRMAN,
INSTITUTE ON JAZZ STUDIES, HOWARD UNIVERSITY

"I DIDN'T WANT NOTHING THAT WAS SO GOOD IT WOULD MAKE YOU KILL YOUR MAMA."

Q. Were drugs prevalent during the early phases of your musical career?

A. Yes, there used to be a Big Band bus where alcohol users sat up front, moderate drug users sat in the middle, and heavy using cats shot-up in the back. Using dope was considered "hip"; a very good friend of mine was fond of the expression,
"I did my bit." If you hadn't used s . . t, or gone to jail or been to the crazy house you weren't considered "hip". At one time everybody was in Lexington (a major Federal drug rehabilitation prison); it was considered "hip" to be there. You could have given out all the Downbeat Awards in Lexington.

Q. When did dope become popular among Black Musicians?

A. In the '40's it became popular. Most people were introduced to heroin through musicians. They were the most mobile and popular members of the Black Community. They spread the hip language and other Black styles from town to town. There was this musician "cat" who thought he had to have a habit to be a musician. So this cat got a "jones" first, then he went out and bought himself a horn. The musicians were the most respected people in the Black community other than the preachers. They made the most money. It was known and started before, that:
George Gershwin was a kind of dope fiend and the play Porgy and Bess deals with drugs. Whether it was as popular then with Louis Armstrong and others is another matter. I know it was popular in the '40's among the many leading jazz figures, almost anybody you can name outside of Dizzy Gillespie. The Islamic Movement was also starting then and how the Orthodox Moslems rationalized their religious belief with the use of drugs and not eating pork is something I never understood. The origins of many Black people interest in Islam was started by Black Musicians like Art Blakey, Idris Sulieman, Taub Dawud (Dakota Staton's husband). Then of course, Bird's (Charlie Parker, the virtuoso and genius saxophone player) role in turning others on the drugs is well known.

Whatever Bird did others would do. He was a father symbol and charismatic leader. He influenced thousands. Bird's influence in turning others to drugs is well known, but nobody talks about his other side. He would discourage others from using them.

Q. Who supplied the musicians with dope?

A. A variety of sources like other musicians and certain white hangers-on, booking agents (white and Black) and record companies. When the record companies started supplying musicians with dope some white owners of companies got strung out, they were in turn influenced by certain musicians. Club owners also supplied and reinforced experiences with dope. This has happened in a very recent example. When musicians bought dope from club owners they wouldn't have any money at the end of the week.

Q. What were the trends concerning drug use among Black musicians in the '50's and the '60's?

A. In the mid '50's everybody started cleaning up with the Brooks Brothers looks and the Ivy League hair cut. The MJQ (Modern Jazz Quartet) style was in vogue. Our group, the Jazz Messengers, wore similar suits; it was the thing.
Anybody using drugs was looked down on. Miles
Davis was the style setter, with his four button suits, the olive drab suit, etc. The look of business people, that was the thing. For a long time hardly anybody was using drugs except for one band. It stayed like that until a few years ago, 1968-1969.
In 1958, "cats" went into a health bag, and spiritually the Islamic thing and an African thing.
Trane was using nuts, birdseed and sunflower seed. Eric Dolphy died from an overdose of honey. All of this was incompatible with drug use. Trane (John Coltrane) is an example of a musician who kicked drugs and went into his most creative periods; Sonny Rollins and Miles Davis also. Rollins came out of jail in 1955 and joined with Clifford Brown and Max Roach.

Q. When did you first encounter the drug scene?

A. My first contact with drugs was in high school in 1947. All my peers emulated "Bird" and "Be-bop" figures of the '40's.

Q. How did you manage to stay free of drugs among fellow musicians who were users?

EXHIBIT 19

A. They knew I never messed around. I was one of the few in the crowd who never used. It was hard to get along unless you used stuff. "Cats" didn't accept people if you didn't. You wouldn't be a part of the thing, it was a social thing. Yet, I was able to get along. They respected my ability to play. As a leader, I could hold some musical groups together. One time a group of "cats" overpowered me and held me down on the floor while trying to force me to use drugs. I talked them out of it.

Q. What stopped you from using dope?

A. I didn't dig needles, didn't want to get sick, scared of getting caught, didn't want to go through the hassle. If it was legal I might have gotten into it, but didn't like the idea of hustling to cop and hanging out in filthy places. I DIDN'T LIKE THE IDEA OF O.D.-ING. I DIDN'T WANT NOTHING THAT WAS SO GOOD IT WOULD MAKE YOU KILL YOUR MAMA.

Q. DOMIABRA discourages marijuana use, what is your feeling about reefer smoking?

A. Reefer. Somebody, one of these days, will publicize the truth. They say the drug is addictive. Ain't nothing wrong with smoking reefer outside of getting caught. I don't dig alcohol. If I had my choice, I rather smoke than drink. Drinking is out. It damages brain cells, messes with kidneys and liver, etc. Alcohol went out in the '30's among Jazz Musicians. Alcoholism and homosexuality are two things you don't find among Black jazz musicians. I don't dig playing and being high. Frankly, I been so busy that I don't have time to relax. All drugs tend to make you relax. When the man relaxes, then I'll relax.

Q. What's going on at present with drugs and Black music?

A. Right now, dope use in Black music is at an all time low. Times are hard. Musicians ain't got no money to do nothing, probably not enough money to get involved to become strung out. "Cats" are moving into academia and business like attitudes, rewards on a high level. The leaders of the music are not into dope. Those who are out there are too busy making money. Among musicians, the thing is to make as much money as you can. They're at a survival level. That's the reason cats are playing rock music. Its economics. The number of clubs, record companies, concerts, and gigs have diminished where booking agents and Black Jazz music is concerned. Those who are making it, are making all the money; those who ain't making it, ain't making nothing. Musicians don't work for scale anymore. Everybody wants more money up front, not like the '40's and '50's and early '60's. Let me say too that economic consideration is a form of control.

There is like a little light boxer rebellion going on among Black people. I don't know if drugs are like a fraud perpetrated on the people, like birth control pills. Why are drugs so easily attainable in the Black neighborhoods and can't be copped in the white neighborhoods? The difference is that in the white neighborhoods it's protected by physicians and prescriptions. Also, in the white community it's legal; in the Black community it's not. In general, students don't dig drugs. LSD never did catch on with Black people nor with musicians. Black people are not hallucinogenic or psychedelic. They can't afford to be laid out drugged. Somebody might rip you off. It's not their nature. Drugs are being forced on people. Black people don't need drugs to create an illusion or a vision: "TOMORROW'S GONNA BE A BETTER DAY, SO DON'T YOU COMMIT SUICIDE, that's the Black Temperment."

DOMIABRA recommends Professor Byrd's latest album, "BLACK BYRD"

"SATCHMO" on Smoking "GAGE" (Marijuana)

"Through the years you try everything to an extent to see which one's best for you. And trying to get with the other cats I used to light up with them—and to me you'd have a better session with gage, as we called it, than getting full of whisky. But the judge started throwing all them years at us for just a roach. So, well, I didn't see nothing funny in that."

"Truth is, it's all in your mind and you play better without anything. I ain't seen nobody make a success out of it."

Louis "Satchmo" Armstrong
Autobiography: A Self Portrait—

PRAISES BROTHERS

DOMIABRA congratulates Dr. Fletcher Robinson, Director of Howard University Urban Health Project, for his intervention in the attempt by a Canadian physician to "inject two thousand (2000) college students at Makerere University in Kampala with killed gonococcal bacteria vaccine." This proposed Kampala experiment was reminiscent of the "Tuskegee Experiment" wherein 400 Black Males were denied treatment for syphilis for experimental purposes. It was conservatively estimated that some one hundred (100) men died from the Tuskegee project.

Because of Dr. Robinson's efforts, The Minister of Health in Uganda decided to stop the experiment. Logic implies that in order to test the vaccine's effectiveness, the African student would have had to undergo injections of the gonorrhea disease. Consider the IMPLICATIONS of two thousand (2000) Africans walking around with "experimental gonorrhea" in terms of the potential contamination, incidence of sterility and other complications.

DO BLACKS HAVE ANY MONEY FOR HOSPITALS, SCHOLARSHIPS, OR SCHOOLS?

Executive Producer, Tony Brown, of T.V.'s Black Journal states, "Before the last ticket is sold 'Super Fly' will gross over $30 million dollars for white people. The Negro investors of 'Super Fly' have not been allowed to invest in the sequel—the exploiters have been exploited."

(Muhammad Speaks, January 19, 1973)

Advice From Oscar Brown, Jr.

"Super-fly ultimately gets caught on the Super-fly paper." "It takes just as much energy to be mediocre as it does to be excellent."

INTERVIEW ON PSYCHO-SURGERY - JESSE BARBER M.D.

(Chief, Division of Neurosurgery, President, Medical - Dental Staff, Freedmen's Hospital)
*Note

DOMIABRA plans to interview several physicians from the Howard University medical Complex on a variety of topics related to drug abuse. The views and opinions expressed in such interviews are not necessarily those of DOMIABRA, Freedmen's Hospital, or Howard University. We welcome comments on all interviews.

Q. Has psychiatry been effective in treating patients with drug problems?

A. Well the overall success rate in terms of the patients whom I see in relationship to alcohol, which is the only thing I can speak of statistically, is that the effectiveness of present day modalities of treatment including Alcoholics Anonymous, psychiatric treatment and the like is low. Nonetheless, as far as I'm concerned, at the moment it's the best thing that we've got and should still be utilized. There are people who I think we see that have a record of failures with every known and accepted method of treatment and it seems to me to be enough of these people to justify innovative kinds of approaches, possibly including psycho-surgery.

The performance of psycho-surgical procedures on prison inmates is a complex problem. Generally speaking, the medical care of these prisoners is poor and seldom do they receive adequate medical care for any condition. They do, then, often represent "treatment failures" but from the point of view of not being given treatment. I do not feel that psycho-surgery should be used, at the present time, on persons who have not received the usual and customary medical therapy.

The problem of "informed consent" in prisoners to any diagnostic or treatment technique encompasses all their medical care and should be solved from an overall point of view. If one assumes that the inmate of a penal institution has the human, moral and constitutional right to the same medical care that all the persons in our community may receive—then one must agree that established medical procedures can be administered to them.

Personally, I would welcome the rehabilitation of Black prisoners and the relief of the Black Community from the burden of the crimes of Black prisoners afforded by psycho-surgery. The recent trend toward the delay and possible prevention by our courts, of psychosurgical procedures on members of the community who have, along with their families and physicians, agreed to such procedures is deplorable and a dangerous precedent. The legal determination of the nature and type of medical treatment is preposterous. As long as patients continue to suffer from disorders of the body and mind we must continue unceasingly to attempt to alleviate these disorders by any available means including psycho-surgery.

The utilization of psycho-surgery should not and does not preclude the study and use of other forms of treatment. My own professional experience with the results and the treatment of those addicted to heroin is limited.

Q. Do you favor the University and the Hospital seeking grants to foster research in psycho-surgery?

A. Unequivocally, as a matter of fact, I think that not only am I in favor of it, I think we have an obligation to do it. I think so many of these problems we are discussing are our patients and also because of the fact we would hope in our approach to them that it would be more humane, non-racist approach, which may not be the case when approached in other institutions.

Q. What has been your observations of the effects of so-called soft-drugs, like marijuana, on the brain?

A. As far as I'm concerned, the information I have of course would be purely clinical rather than experimental, and it does not appear to me that any of the soft drugs to my knowledge have any recognizable deleterious effects on brain function. Let me hasten to add that there are a number of social and behavioral problems that causes medical problems in people who are on these drugs that is to say in terms of association with head injuries or falls and the like which do cause secondary brain problems. But in doing frequent electrocardiogram, chemical studies of the blood and behavior of the addict."

THERE IS NOT A SINGLE SCIENTIFIC PAPER IN THE UNITED STATES MEDICAL LITERATURE STATING OVERDOSE IS IN FACT A CAUSE OF DEATH AMONG HEROIN ADDICTS. THERE IS NO EXISTING EVIDENCE ON ADDICTS DYING FROM HEROIN OVERDOSE.

Why is this overdose myth accepted universally if there is no evidence to indicate addicts are dying from overdose and even huge doses of heroin will not kill an addict?

The answer lies in the practices of the U.S. coroner-medical examiner system. The practice rose among coroners and medical examiners to label all deaths among heroin addicts as heroin overdose because the true cause could not be determined or was not determined.

"Overdose" determinations rested on:

- a. the victim was a heroin addict who "shot-up" prior to his death.
- b. there was no evidence of suicide, violence, infection, or other natural cause.

Thus, death from heroin overdose is synonymous with "death from unknown causes after injecting heroin.

In 1943, a strange new kind of death began to make its appearance among heroin addicts. The cause of this new kind of death remains unknown today and is quite common. This mysterious new way of dying is extremely sudden. Death occurs a few minutes or less perhaps only seconds after the drug is injected. It has been shown that a high proportion of all so-called "overdose" deaths share these two characteristics.

Dr. Milton Helpem, Chief Medical Examiner of New York City explained that pulmonary edema—massive flooding of the lungs with fluid is the most conspicuous feature of so-called "overdose" deaths.

The cause of pulmonary edema is not known. This reaction sometimes occurs with the intravenous injections of mixtures, which as far as is known do not contain heroin.

Dr. Michael M. Baden, Deputy Chief Medical Examiner says, "The majority of deaths are due to an acute reaction to the intravenous injection of the heroin-quinine sugar mixture. This type of death is often referred to as an 'overdose,' which is a misnomer. Death is not due to a pharmacological overdose in the majority of cases.

Neophytes (new converts) unaccustomed to heroin would be expected to be susceptible to death from overdose. But, those dying of so-called overdose are reported to be long term users. Also, according to Dr. Baden "addicts often shoot in a group, all using the same heroin supply, and rarely does more than one addict die at such a time."

Syndrome X is the name given to this "acute fatal reaction to the intravenous injection of crude mixtures of heroin and other substances. One theory is that Syndrome X deaths are caused by quinine in the bag. Quinine was introduced as an adulterant of heroin after 1939, when an epidemic of malaria spread by contaminated injection needles hit New York City addicts. The first suggestion that quinine might be causing New York City's Syndrome X deaths came from Dr. F.E. Camps, the United Kingdom Home Office pathologist in charge of investigating opiate deaths in England. At the meeting in London in 1966, Dr. Camps stated, "The only comparable drug to heroin which causes rapid death with pulmonary edema is quinine."

DEAN PERCY PIERRE, SCHOOL OF ENGINEERING - COMMENTS ON DRUGS

- Q. Do you think drug addiction and abuse is a major problem in the Black community? If yes, why?
- A. Yes. It diverts the energies of the Black community from the tasks of Black development.
- Q. If your child or friend or relative was using drugs, what advice or alternative would you attempt to offer to him?
- A. I would try to help develop meaningful life goals.
- Q. What merits or demerits do you see in the legalization of marijuana and/or other drugs?
- A. I see very little harm in legalizing it. One benefit would be to separate users from the traffickers in hard stuff.

Staff Of The Institute

The services and programs conducted by the Institute embrace treatment, education, and prevention and research. Education and prevention are addressed through workshops and seminars conducted in a number of areas aimed at augmenting the body of knowledge about drug use.

Cannabis & ‘Muggles’: An Etymology

Ellen Komp

November 13, 2018

The second installment of the Harry Potter prequels, Fantastic Beasts: The Crimes of Grindelwald, comes out Thursday, but it may be missing its muggles.

Author J.K. Rowling made “muggles” — her word for non-magical humans — so popular that scholars added it to the Oxford English Dictionary in 2003. But strangely, when the first prequel to the movies, Fantastic Beasts and Where to Find Them was released in 2016, writers changed “muggle” into “no-maj,” to the consternation of her fans. The film’s 1920s New York City setting exactly matches the time period when and where “muggles” had a much different meaning.

“I feel like she hijacked my name, and made it non-magical.”

Really the Blues, the autobiography of jazz clarinetist and 1920s Harlem weed dealer “Mezz” Mezzrow, contains a glossary defining the hip lingo used at the time. In that language, muggles means “cigarettes of marijuana.” Newspapers used the term in headlines about “giggle-easy” busts made in those years, when cannabis inspired jazz musicians.

VIEW LEAFLY FINDER

Hemp historian Michael Aldrich, author of perhaps the first Ph.D. dissertation on marijuana in the US back in 1970, thinks the term muggles derives from “smuggle,” a theory that meets the Occam’s razor test as the simple and obvious answer: Marijuana was being smuggled into the US through the port of New Orleans when the term became popular. Aldrich further points out that a “reefer” can mean either a “coat worn by a sailor” or a “refrigerator on a boat”, both of which could easily help smuggle in muggles.

Marijuana-lover Louis Armstrong’s 1928 recording “Muggles” is known in jazz history as the first one to feature improvisation, Aldrich says. Louis plays around with the melody and the tempo in the third verse, bringing it back to a dreamier rhythm in the fourth. It’s likely Armstrong recorded the track on cannabis. He was a “lifelong connoisseur.”

Even white folks used to call cannabis “muggles” back in the day.

Village Voice jazz critic Gary Giddins wrote in his biography of Bing Crosby’s early years that, “Louis [Armstrong]’s influence on Bing extended to his love of marijuana, which he alternately called mezz (after Mezz Mezzrow), gage, pot, or muggles.”

Looking For Legal Muggles? Leafly Has All Your Local Menus

White jazz legend Hoagy Carmichael — in his autobiography The Stardust Road — writes about an evening listening to Armstrong play in the summer of 1923:

“Then the muggles took effect and my body got light. Every note Louis hit was perfection. I ran to the piano and took the place of Louis’s wife. They swung into Royal Garden Blues. I had never heard the tune before, but somehow I knew every note. I couldn’t miss. I was floating in a strange deep-blue whirlpool of jazz.”

In her book High Times, Hard Times, singer Anita O’Day writes about how the 1943 marijuana arrest of drummer/bandleader Gene Krupa “really bugged me,” adding:

“I’d been smoking grass since I was a kid without any terrible effects. Reefer Madness, now a camp classic, was still regarded as a cautionary tale of the evils worked by tea, muggles, mary jane, gage, hemp, marijuana or whatever you wanted to call it.”

I caught up with the Bay Area musician who has gone by the name Mugg Muggles since the late 1970s at the longstanding Wednesday night open mike at Missouri Lounge in Berkeley, CA. where he played songs by Jessie Mae Hemphill and Charlie Rich on an electric ukulele.

Mugg first read “Really the Blues” in 1967, while he was still in high school and investigating cannabis, deciding whether to try it or not. Meanwhile, he started listening to Mezzrow’s French recordings with Sidney Bechet. One day, he was either listening to Mezz or reading about him, and the name came to him, possibly inspired by the character Og Oogleby in WC Fields’s movie “The Bank Dick.”

Rowling has claimed she didn’t know of any association between muggles and marijuana when she coined the term, starting instead from the word “mug,” meaning a gullible person.

“I feel like she hijacked my name, and made it non-magical,” Mugg laments. “I’ve done a lot to show I can be ‘marijuana magical’; now I’m a wannabe wizard.”

Older folks and musicians immediately get the connection to marijuana when they hear his name, he said. Now, younger folks and less jazz-oriented people instead make a connection to Harry Potter.

“But I’m quick to correct them and say there was a previous incarnation of the word, and it’s still incarnate among the cognoscenti,” he says.

Our collection of marijuana slang names and common cannabis nicknames collected from around the world.

Slang Names for Marijuana

Marijuana is the most highly used illegal drug consumed in the United States.

People, young and old, have tried it at least once in their lifetime. Marijuana has been consumed for centuries by various cultures from around the world.

Currently over 60% of Americans are in favor of legalizing cannabis in the United States.

Because of its widespread popularity, marijuana slang names are abundant.

Actually, there isn't another drug out there that has more names than the little miracle plant, originally named cannabis.

Therefore, there is a surprisingly long list of slang names for marijuana, and they vary based on age group and country you live.

A hand full of states have already legalized the recreational use of marijuana and at the time of this writing there are 36 states that have legalized medical marijuana use with a prescription. Many states have decriminalized it up to a certain amount, however it may still be a while before America can celebrate a federal legalization. (fingers crossed)

How the Irish Invented Marijuana Slang

Categories

- * 'Gage', 'grouch', 'hep' and 'dude' are some of the words commonly used by English speaking cannabis consumers. They have become basic slang terms for any marijuana user and they derive from old Irish words.

In his book 'How the Irish Invented Slang', Daniel Cassidy looks at words that are normally used to describe things linked to the world of marijuana, words which have their origins in Irish words.

Cassidy explains that he found the words in an old book kept by a friend who had passed away. The book explained the origin and the meaning of certain terms, and he himself took charge of studying it and defining each term.

When reading that book he found the word 'Gage' that Louis Armstrong affectionately used to refer to marijuana. As the writer would later discover, that word comes from another Gaelic word, 'Gaid', pronounced as 'gad', 'gadge' or 'gaj', that means "twisted branches, cord or hemp".

Cassidy explains that another term that comes from the Irish is 'hep' (hepatitis) or 'hip' as it was believed that hepatitis could be caused by smoking cannabis, a belief that has long since been rejected over time. However, in slang, the term is used to define someone who is intelligent, well informed, wise and stylish. This may derive from the old Irish term "aibi", pronounced as "h-ab" which means "mature, quick and intelligent".

'Grouch' is another of the words, it is used to describe a smoker who feels tormented, worried, pained or annoyed and the term comes from the 'grouch bag', a bag used by the Marx brothers to carry around marijuana. It is believed that the Irish origin is in the word 'Craite' (which means "angry").

'Dude', in turn, is a term typically used by marijuana smokers to refer to other smokers, and it comes from the Irish word 'dud' meaning "stupid or silly looking". To find out more about the origins of cannabis slang, you just need to delve into the book, it will certainly not leave you indifferent.

How The Irish Invented Slang for Marijuana

By Ellen Komp, Cannabis Culture on March 18, 2015

CANNABIS CULTURE – We all know that the Irish saved civilization, or so says the bestselling book by Thomas Cahill.

Now comes the book, How the Irish Invented Slang, by Daniel Cassidy, who postulates that many slang words for which even the Oxford English Dictionary (OED) can't name the origin were in fact based on Gaelic.

After a friend died and left behind his Irish dictionary, Cassidy took his wife's advice and learned a word every night, soon noticing how similar the pronunciations were to slang words.

Flipping through the book in a bookstore (yes, they still exist), I came upon the word "Gage," the term by which Louis Armstrong so lovingly referred to marijuana. Cassidy proposed the word comes from the Gaelic word Gaid, pronounced gad, gadge or gaj, and meaning twisted twigs, rope, or hemp.

That Armstrong would have picked up on this slang fits with Cassidy's matches for jazz terms with Irish ones, including the word jazz itself, another word the OED has no clue about. Jazz is the phonetic spelling of the Irish and Gaelic word "teas," meaning "heat, passion, excitement, and highest temperature," Cassidy asserts.

Another slang term Cassidy related to Irish is hep or hip, which is thought by some to come from opium smokers who sat on one hip. But its meaning “well-informed, knowledgeable, wise, in-the-know; smart, stylish” could come from a simple contraction of the Irish work “aibi,” pronounced h-ab (“mature, quick, clever”).

Grouch, which Chico Marx said came from a “grouch bag” in which the Marx Brothers carried marijuana, is also possibly from Irish origin, via the word “Craite” (tormented, troubled, vexed, pained; annoyed.)

And finally “Dude,” what stoners like to call each other, can be traced to the Irish “Dud” (pronounced “dood”) meaning a foolish-looking fellow; a clown.

In the UK, cannabis is often referred to by quantity:

- 1/16 (ounce): 'teenth' (sixteenth), Louis (the 16th)
- 1/8: eighth, eighter, single, Henry (the VIII), cut, slice, Garden Gate
- 1/4: quarter (ounce), quad, 'Q', bottle (of water), farmer's daughter, mike vick
- 1/2: half (ounce), 'halfie', 'half-O', 'halfer'
- 1: ounce, oz, onion Ozzy (Osbourne), 'O', Oscar, zone, zip, Fosters
- 4 o's: QP, quap, Cutie Pie
- 9: bar (approx. 250g)
- 36: key, kilo (approx. 1 kg)
- 10⁹: beenth (fictional term for a billion ounces)
- £5s worth - 'Dives'
- £10s worth - 'ten bag', 'tens', 'benners', 'ten bit', '10s poof', 'a draw'
- tuppence worth

Realistically though, unless you're safe with your dealer or you know the geezer who grows it, you're gonna get mugged off. Probably end up paying £10 and getting a 0.8/0.7.

In the US, cannabis is often referred to by price:

- Nickel bag, blunt (also referred to as a "nick") — $5 worth
- Dime bag (also referred to as a "dime") — $10 worth
- Dub - twenty bag, $20 worth
- 30 sack - $30 worth
- 50 piece (also referred to as an eighth or fatty eight) — You get 3 of that particular dealer's twenty bags ("dubs") for $50, $10 in savings. Sometimes just comes in one bag/plastic jar.
- 25, or a quarter — It is $100 worth and works with the savings system by giving you $20 amount free with it.
- Lid- $200 worth, It is usually the largest amount bought at a time. It is referred to as a lid because the height of the amount of marijuana in the bag is equal to the width of the lid of a bucket.

In the Northeastern U.S. it is common to speak of cannabis in terms of clothing store merchandise or food (e.g., a slice is 1/8 oz. (3.5 g))

- Sock—1 gram

- Shirt—1/8 ounce (3.5 g)
- Pants—1/4 ounce (7 g)
- Jacket—1 ounce (28 g)

Buyer: "How much do you think a pair of pants would cost?"

Dealer: "A pair of pants would cost $X.00."

In Canada, similar terms to those in the UK are used, but grams are used in small quantities, and fractional ounces are actually weighed out in grams. For example, an "o" or ounce in most of Canada will be weighed as exactly 28 grams on a scale, which is an approximation. Common purchase units are the "half", "quarter" and "eighth", or "half quarter", weighed out as 14, 7, and 3.5 grams respectively. Grams are used for lower quantities, and may be referred to as "grs".

In Australia, cannabis is usually sold in $25 bags (referred to as a "stick" or "wick" or a "twent"), $50 bags (referred to as a "fifty"), quarter "quart", half ounces "half", ounces and pounds, 1/8 can also be called a half-quarter. Dealers also occasionally deal $30 bags, common in Western Australia. On the sunshine coast most people sell in $10 bags or 'tenners' or $50 bags.

In New Zealand, the smallest quantity you can usually buy is one gram, costing $20-25, which is referred to as a "tin" or a "tinny" due to generally being wrapped in tin foil. $50 bags are referred to as a "fid" or "fiddy", and contain 3-4 grams. A "hundy" weighs about 7g and costs $100, although these are not always available. Larger quantities are in line with the UK, Canada, and Australia, being measured in half ounces ("half"), ounces ("O" or "full"), and pounds.

In India, cannabis (and especially hashish) is usually sold in tolas, one tola being 10 grams. Interestingly, a tola is also the standard unit of weight used by jewelers and dealers often use jewelers scales to measure their product

Cannabis potency

- Skunk: high grade potent cannabis, unmistakable aroma.
- Skunk Bud Killer weed, lovingly cultivated high potency chronic.
- dro: high-grade cannabis, grown with hydroponics, that is usually more expensive.

- headies: a step above beasters; a general category for the best cannabis.
- beasters: seedless cannabis, generally low quality, commercial grade.
- mids: medium-grade cannabis.
- the kill: highly potent cannabis.
- 'chronic': high-grade product, or in combination ("laced") with cocaine. piff.
- piff: high-quality marijuana. Terms such as "that's that piff," or "this bud is mad piff" are common among certain marijuana consumers. Used almost exclusively in New York City. The East Coast equivalent of chronic.
- bud: refers to the buds of the Cannabis plant. Bud may be high- or low-quality depending on several factors. Contrary to popular belief, marijuana leaves are usually not smoked (unless covered in resin from nearby buds, though such leaves are usually used for hashish production), rather it is actually the buds which are smoked. The buds of unpollinated female plants are preferred because these plants will focus their energy on resin production in order to catch pollen from the male plants (this resin is the only part of the plant which contains any usable quantities of psychoactive chemicals).
- shake: debris that shakes loose from brick or bagged marijuana.
- kine: (a.k.a. kine bud or simply kb, often mistaken as "kind" or "kind bud") refers to sinsemilla (from Spanish, meaning "without seed") marijuana of high quality.
- schwag or stress: refers to low-quality bud. Often dry and brownish in color rather than lush and green (however, looks can be deceiving). This is also called "brown frown".
- dirt weed (or Brown Frown): often refers to brown, withered-looking buds which are usually impotent, although potent "dirt weed" is not unheard of. This term is seldom used synonymously with "outdoor" (see below).
- regs: Marijuana of low to medium quality.
- street weed: low-potency marijuana, comes from the implication that people selling weed on the streets to all comers are selling low-grade, mass-produced marijuana as opposed to high-quality product.
- Bunk- low potency weed, can also mean getting shorted.
- Skimp- Getting shorted or just low quality.
- Waste- marijuana leaves and stems that are crushed instead of buds (only in Oregon).
- Ditch Weed- low potency, probably wild and un-nurtured.
- "Bush": low quality weed that is always outdoor-grown, sometimes wild, and often with leaves mixed in. Mainly sold to teenagers and/or at a low price for making edibles with (New Zealand slang)
- Gas: Highly potent weed, the term "gas" refers to weed with a strong odor, much like gasoline.

Miscellaneous cannabis-related slang

Bogart: (double-toke, hog a fattie, selfish with the stash) stank dank fatty (as in that's one stank dank fatty) beat (as in a finished bowl, e.g., "this bowl is beat yo"), to pick up (to buy or collect cannabis), to cop (to buy cannabis), to chop or shot (to sell cannabis), to deal or to sling (to sell cannabis), to be live or to be doing good (to have cannabis to sell), holding or Holden Caulfield (possessing cannabis), cached (finished—said of a pipeful of cannabis; also for the smoker's bloodshot eyes), bogart (to take too long in consumption without passing in a social setting), parking on the grass (same), politicking or microphoning (same), kicked (finished—said of a pipe full or a bong), snap (to smoke an entire bowl in one inhalation), Gridlock, killer, indy or indian or baseball or taxi or Chicago or Jamaican hits or marathon or suicides or Mexican sweat (the practice of not exhaling a toke until the spliff has been passed to everybody), two toke pass (the act of taking one toke normally and another to be held in without exhaling until the spliff returns), heady or heddy (used to refer to high quality or highly potent marijuana), hippie hit (hitting a section of a bowl in order for others to get an equal "green" hit. AKA cornering it), pooched (finished—said of a pipe full or a bong), puff puff pass (method of smoking blunt or joint, two hits then passed), baptize, to invoke red monkey (a spotted violation of the rules, a 'party foul'—to drop the joint/spill the bong/mess up rotation or such), rape or choke (to choke while taking a hit), murph it (to cough or laugh into the bong and spray water everywhere), running the kermit (to drop off bags of cannabis), green hit (the first hit of a freshly-packed bowl, where the marijuana is still green), gazooted (state of being very high), King Kong (two cigar blunts, such as GAME, rolled together to make a very long blunt), Gary Payton (the name for a twenty-dollar sack of marijuana, after the Seattle Supersonics player's number was 20. A forty dollar sack of marijuana is sometimes referred to as a Shawn Kemp, the former star player for the Supersonics who wore the number 40), Chicago; Lightning rounds/speed boating (to hold a toké until the joint, pipe or bong returns to you), bear-a-toké (to lift someone from behind and bear hug them while leaning backwards while they hold a toké until they cannot hold it any more ((People have been known to pass out from this)))(Known as 'Angel' in Midlands UK)), (USA): blown, blowed, blunted, throwed (can mean intoxicated on anything, but especially from marijuana), blazed, "on that level", chiefing, chief. "Ghosting it," or ghost: to hold in the smoke for an extended period of time until, upon exhalation, no smoke is visible. From the North-east (specifically New Hampshire & Maine): cheebulate (to smoke with a group). Uncle Lars or just Lars (Cannabis, any quality). Smunchin' (wanting to get high). Hot box or a Dutch Oven (to smoke in a vehicle or room with all the windows closed), also called fish bowling, twenty twen-twen (a $20 bag, from the movie Friday), to be a Jerry aka camper Jerry (e.g. Hey camper Jerry, pass the bong): to take an excessive amount of time before passing a rolled joint or to not pass a pipe or bong after you are done using it, often used when smoking partners are intoxicated and distracted. "Shut the f*ck up and spin up a dog leg." Pause for the cause: to take a break, particularly from a video game, to smoke. Rattle a fat one (inhale a large bong).

NICKNAMES, STREET NAMES & SLANG

It's hard to imagine your child would ever try marijuana (<http://casapalmera.com/assessments/am-i-addicted-to-marijuana/>) or other drugs, but don't be fooled. Statistics show that half of all teens have tried some sort of illicit drug by the time they finish high school. When it comes to marijuana use, nearly 11 percent of 8th graders, 24 percent of 10th graders and 32 percent of 12th graders have tried marijuana at least once.

The more you know about what your child does and who they hang out with, the more likely you'll be able to spot when they're messing with the wrong stuff. Your kids may even be talking about using drugs right in front of you. For instance, do you know all the common slang terms for marijuana or partying?

To help you gain insight into your child's relationship with marijuana, we've compiled a list of common street names and nicknames for marijuana and partying.

Why Is Cannabis Called Marijuana, Weed & Pot?

Pose this question to your friend the next time you're enjoying a smoke, dab or edible: how many different names do you know for marijuana? The response will probably go on for a while. The amount of slang terms and weed names that are in the lexicon is staggering. We've called Cannabis everything from, "The Devil's Lettuce," "Cheeba," "Sticky Icky" and "The Dank," to "Gage," "Mary Jane" and "Endo," and so many things in between.

The Origin of Cannabis

Unsplash

Before we get into the slang, let's look at the science. The genus Cannabis resides within the family Cannabaceae that most likely originated somewhere in Asia. Over the years, most people define weed as either Cannabis sativa and Cannabis indica. Subsequently, we've added Cannabis ruderalis, and more. Many of us also know the general term cannabis referring to a plant used for medicinal purposes, as an intoxicating drug, to produce textiles, seed oils and

...and more. Cannabis is a complex plant with a long history of use in various cultures.

rope. We've learned to refer to certain types of dried cannabis flower as marijuana, and the industrial fiber produced from cannabis plants as hemp. We also produce extracts like hashish and hash oil from the plant. The word itself comes directly from the Latin word "cannabis," which many people believe derived from the ancient Greek term "kannabis." There is also considerable speculation about whether the Hebrew "qannabbos" pre-dated the ancient Greek word, but it is difficult to be sure.

Marijuana Meaning

Unsplash

The dried leaves of the female flowers on the cannabis plant many people know colloquially as marijuana. Much like cannabis, scholars dispute the origin of this word, as well. "Marijuana" is an Anglicized version of the Spanish "mariguana" and "marihuana," but where did the Spanish get it? Here are a few theories:

It is an alteration or adaptation of a word from pre-Colombian societies (such as the Nahuatl or Quechua) in what is now Mexico and Central America.

Chinese traders called cannabis "ma ren hua" (meaning "hemp seed flower") when they brought it to the Western Hemisphere and the name stuck. Perhaps this is why in parts of Central America and northern South America, people sometimes call weed "Chinese oregano?"

The word developed much more recently and is simply an Americanism that combines the two common Mexican names of Maria and Juana. Maybe that's why we sometimes call weed Mary Jane?

According to the Oxford English Dictionary, the first known appearance of a form of the word in English is in The Native Races of the Pacific States of North America, published in 1873 by Hubert Howe Bancroft. Other citations include "mariguan," from the Indian Hemp Drugs Commission Report in 1894 and "marihuana" from a Los Angeles Times article in 1905 that includes this horrific, sensationalized description: "People who smoke marihuana finally lose their mind and never recover it, but their brains dry up and they die, most of the time, suddenly." Even more sensational, in 1925 The New York Times published this headline: "KILLS SIX IN A HOSPITAL.; Mexican, Crazyed by Marihuana, Runs Amuck With Butcher Knife."

What is Weed?

Unsplash

In 1929, American Speech, the academic journal of the American Dialect Society, included "weed" in its piece, "Among the New Words," and defined it as a "marijuana cigarette." This is the first formal appearance of the word used as a synonym for cannabis and it surprisingly defined a cigarette filled with cannabis, and not that actual plant itself. In 1938, Bea Foote released, "Weed," in which she sings about "weed, weed, weed, all day long." It is unclear whether she is still talking about her marijuana cigarette or her marijuana stash in general. While we have used the term "weed" for centuries to define an unwanted plant, it wasn't until 1949 that the terminology changed with the publication of The Little Sister, Raymond Chandler's fifth book featuring gritty private investigator, Philip Marlowe. The famous line dropped the ubiquitous "the" that normally prefaced "weed." "They were looking for... a suitcase full of weed," and suddenly the term morphed into a completely different type of noun.

Why is Weed Called Pot?

This cannabis moniker first showed up in the U.S. in the late 1930s. Many people generally agree that it is an abbreviation of the Spanish words potiguaya and potaguaya that came from potacion de guaya. Translated to English as "the drink of grief," the Spanish would steep cannabis flower buds in alcohol to create this concoction. Obviously, where did the term pot come from is a far easier question to answer.

How it filtered its way into mainstream use is another question altogether. Most scholars believe that Chester Himes, another crime fiction writer, popularized the term. Instead of Los Angeles, Himes chose Harlem as his setting and wrote in the short story "The Way We Live Now," in 1938, "she made him smoke pot and when he got jagged [high]...she put him on the street." William Burroughs' 1959 classic, Naked Lunch, also comes close to a pop culture reference. Instead of "pot," however, Burroughs uses "pod." "... a square wants to come on hip... talks about 'pod' and smokes it now and then."

What are your favorite slang terms for cannabis? Do you remember what you first heard it referred to as? Take a second to share in the comments section below.

Marijuana: is it time to stop using a word with racist roots?

As marijuana arrests disproportionately affect minorities, controversy grows over a term prohibitionists hoped would appeal to xenophobia

Alex Halperin

It's been known as dope, grass, herb, gage, tea, reefer, chronic. But the most familiar name for the dried buds of the cannabis plant, and one of the few older terms still in use today, is “marijuana”.

For the prohibitionists of nearly a century ago, the exotic-sounding word emphasized the drug's foreignness to white Americans and appealed to the xenophobia of the time. As with other racist memes, a common refrain was that marijuana would lead to miscegenation.

Harry Anslinger, the bureaucrat who led the prohibition effort, is credited as saying back then: “There are 100,000 total marijuana smokers in the US, and most are Negroes, Hispanics, Filipinos and entertainers. Their Satanic music, jazz and swing result from marijuana use. This marijuana causes white women to seek sexual relations with Negroes, entertainers and any others.”

Today “cannabis” and “marijuana” are terms used more or less interchangeably in the industry, but a vocal contingent prefers the less historically fraught “cannabis”. At a time of intense interest in past injustices, some say “marijuana” is a racist word that should fall out of use.

Harborside, which is among the oldest and largest dispensaries in California, says on its website: “‘Marijuana’ has come to be associated with the idea that cannabis is a dangerous and addictive intoxicant, not a holistic, herbal medicine ... This stigma has played a big part in stymying cannabis legalization efforts throughout the US.”

It’s clear why a business like Harborside would prefer the more scientific word for branding purposes, but does that mean everyone should follow along?

The word “marijuana” comes from Mexico, but its exact origins remain unknown. According to the book Cannabis: A History by Martin Booth, it may derive from an Aztec language or soldiers’ slang for “brothel” - Maria y Juana.

The practice of smoking it arrived in the US from the south during the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Mexican laborers and soldiers carried it into the American southwest. Sailors brought it from Brazil and the Caribbean when they docked in New Orleans, where black jazz musicians adopted it.

In the last few years, the US state marijuana legalization experiments have grown into a multi-billion dollar industry. But while companies build out multi-million dollar grow houses and edibles factories, huge numbers of people continue to face serious consequences for possessing negligible quantities. After legalization in Colorado, arrests of black and Latino juveniles for illegal possession increased.

In 2016, there were almost 600,000 US marijuana arrests, more than for all violent crimes combined. The vast majority of those pot arrests were for low-level possession - and disproportionately affected minorities.

Statistics show different races use marijuana at roughly the same rate, but racial minorities are far more likely to face punishment. According to the American Civil Liberties Union, between 2001 and 2010, African Americans were arrested for marijuana possession at almost four times the rate of whites.

Relatively few of the 600,000 will serve extended prison sentences for marijuana-related offenses, but having a past conviction can still block access to housing, student loans and employment.

With legalization, some states and communities want to help those carrying minor cannabis convictions to be able to clear their record. Similarly, several cities and states are trying to create so-called equity programs to enable entrepreneurs from communities hit hardest by the war on drugs to join the industry.

But when the industry had the chance to take a stand against the racism of the past, it backed down.

After the 2016 election, Donald Trump nominated the then Alabama senator Jeff Sessions to be attorney general, the country's top law enforcement official. While some Republicans, including Trump, have expressed a willingness to co-exist with marijuana, especially for medical purposes, Sessions remains an unreformed drug warrior. In 2016, he said: "Good people don't smoke marijuana." Instead of protesting his all-but-assured confirmation, the industry's primary trade group, the National Cannabis Industry Association [NCIA], decided not to risk angering him.

The now attorney general has since reversed the more lenient Obama-era policies and ordered federal prosecutors to pursue the most serious charges they can, likely resulting in more drug offenders spending longer in prison.

For Sessions, it's easier to come down hard on ordinary lawbreakers, who are disproportionately black and brown, than state-licensed cannabis business owners, who are overwhelmingly white.

The industry's response has been to let him - while encouraging people to call the plant cannabis.

As with other symbols of past oppression, from the pink triangle to the n-word, there's a powerful tradition of marginalized communities redeploying symbols of their oppression. It's these communities - not businesses - who have the moral authority to decide if marijuana is a racist word which should be avoided or an important reminder of a more racist past.

This article was amended on 29 January 2017 to correct Harry Anslinger's first name.

... as you're joining us today from Canada, we have a small favour to ask. Tens of millions have placed their trust in the Guardian's fearless journalism since we started publishing 200 years ago, turning to us in moments of crisis, uncertainty, solidarity and hope. More than 1.5 million supporters, from 180 countries, now power us financially - keeping us open to all, and fiercely independent.

Unlike many others, the Guardian has no shareholders and no billionaire owner. Just the determination and passion to deliver high-impact global reporting, always free from commercial or political influence. Executive Summary

This Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) Intelligence Report contains information from a variety of law enforcement and open sources. It is designed as a ready reference for law enforcement personnel who are confronted by many of the hundreds of slang terms used to identify a wide variety of controlled substances, designer drugs, and synthetic compounds. Every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy and completeness of the information presented. However, due to the dynamics of the ever-changing drug scene, subsequent additions, deletions, and corrections are inevitable. Further addendums to this report will attempt to capture changed terminology, to the extent possible. This compendium of drug slang terms has been alphabetically ordered, and identifies drugs and drug categories in English and foreign language derivations.

Related Words runs on several different algorithms which compete to get their results higher in the list. One such algorithm uses word embedding to convert words into many dimensional vectors which represent their meanings. The vectors of the words in your query are compared to a huge database of pre-computed vectors to find similar words. Another algorithm crawls through Concept Net to find words which have some meaningful relationship with your query. These algorithms, and several more, are what allows Related Words to give you... related words - rather than just direct synonyms.

As well as finding words related to other words, you can enter phrases and it should give you related words and phrases, so long as the phrase/sentence you entered isn't too long. You will probably get some weird results every now and then - that's just the nature of the engine in its current state.

Special thanks to the contributors of the open-source code that was used to bring you this list of marijuana themed words: @Planesifter, @HubSpot, Concept Net, WordNet, and @mongodb.

There is still lots of work to be done to get this to give consistently good results, but I think it's at the stage where it could be useful to people, which is why I released it.

English Synonyms and Antonyms

gage

The first four words agree in denoting something given or deposited as an assurance of something to be given, paid, or done. An earnest is of the same kind as that to be given, a portion of it delivered in advance, as when part of the purchase-money is paid, according to the common expression, "to bind the bargain." A pledge or security may be wholly different in kind from that to be given or paid, and may greatly exceed it in value. Security may be of real or personal property — anything of sufficient value to make the creditor secure; a pledge is always of personal property or chattels. Every pawnshop contains unredeemed pledges; land, merchandise, bonds, etc., are frequently offered and accepted as security. A person may become security or surety for another's payment of a debt, appearance in court, etc.; in the latter case, he is said to become bail for that person; the person accused gives bail for himself. Gage survives only as a literary word, chiefly in certain phrases; as, "the gage of battle."

Synonyms:

bail \(/synonym/bail\), earnest \(/synonym/earnest\), pledge \(/synonym/pledge\), security \(/synonym/security\), surety \(/synonym/surety\).

Preposition:

Security for the payment of a debt; security to the state, for the prisoner, in the sum of a thousand dollars.

1. Gage Green Group is a community-minded & conscious foundation based upon the principle of advancing the holistic potential of cannabis and humanity. It is comprised of individuals striving to uplift the sacred herb, we call GAGE.
2. We conduct genetic research in cannabis to study and test the most effective cannabis medicines. The plant's proven efficacy for increasing human health and reversing terminal disease is phenomenal. We have experienced similar miracles and know the potential of cannabis to heal our bodies and our communities.
3. Gage stands for the expansion of the mind. Our goal is to spread awareness and new perspectives. Please show respect for the herb.
4. All our products undergo strict procedures to ensure quality. We stand behind our product. Some products may spoil if not properly handled.
5. The possession and germination of seeds or cannabis may be restricted in many states and countries. Please check and follow applicable laws.
6. We are not responsible for your actions. Most websites and retailers sell seeds as souvenirs and are sold for preservation not germination. Please be responsible when you purchase seeds online.
